One trouble, with our brilliant governor is that he considers himself too smart to be raled by the Almighty, as other people are. He acknowledges no superior, in earth or heaven.

It is being discovered by newspaper men that Captain Asa S. Bushnell is showing a good deal of brain as well as prudence, pluck and pushing qualities, in the management of the campaign.

We wonder whether Dr. Leonard loves his enemies and prays for those who use him despitefully. The least we can say, positively, is that he doesn't turn the other cheek worth a cent, when his smiters hit they are practically allying themselves

Let us not be worried about the fight between the Cincinnati Commercial Gazette and Dr. Leonard. The two parties seem to be pretty evenly matched and to be firing off about the same style of liter

Perhaps Hoadly or Leonard would like to discuss current political questions with John Beatty! Possibly St. John or John Bullhead Finch would like to try him on, as to the southern problem. And then again, perhaps not.

There ought to be prepared and published a well-written, authentic history of Ohio, with a comprehensive sketch of its present condition. Herein is an opening? Will Messrs. Robert Clarke & Co., Cincin nati, accept this suggestion for what it may prove to be worth? Ohio has an honora de history: let it be materialized in print

Gen. John Beatty is making some cam paign speeches on the southern situation that take the bark off. Senator Sherman's ensanguined shirt is a dazzlingly white ascension robe compared with the loody under garment that Gen. Beatty ourishes, as he has a right to according to the laws of logic and fact. There is no nousense about John Beatry.

Newspaper men are asserting that the Princess Beatrice has Scripture texts embroidered on her underclothing. Have they been inspecting the clothes-lines at Windsor Castle? If so how did they know which were the princess' garments and which were the queen's? Or, how did they know they were texts from Scripture? That is to say, the kind of newspaper men who would raid clothes-lines?

The New York Nominations.

They say it is the unexpected that always happens. At any rate, it was the nnexpected which happened at Saratoga, vesterday, when the republican state convention placed Ira B. Davenport in nomination for governor of New York. Gen Carr had all along been supposed to be the strongest of all the multifarious candidates for the nomination, and when the delegates retired Tuesday night, after taking a single ballot, in which Gen. Carr's strength was shown to be numerically nearly twice as large as that of Davenport, who received more votes any of his other opponents, it was with the feeling, with majority of them at least, that Gen. Carr would certainly be nominated on the mor row. The morning, however, brought great alterations in the strength of the respective candidates. Davenport went into the convention, not only with his own support loyal to him but also with the major part of Corneil's strength pledged to him. The result was that he led Carr on the first ballot by over a hundred votes. Drexel's delegates then flocked to him and on the second ballot he was nominated,

Our dispatches this morning say that the nomination is considered, among the delegates at Saratoga, a remarkably strong one. Mr. Davenport is the retiring comptroller of the state of New York. He is regarded all over the state as a friend of labor, and as such will receive a large workingmen's vote.

Perhaps the convention could not have made a better selection. Popular, able, and with a clean record, it would seem that the republicans of New York have a candidate with whom hard work and thorough organization are only necessary to win a sweeping victory.

The rest of the ticket is composed of ma terial the character of which will not serve o weaken the ticket in the slightest de

The Plain Truth.

The Memphis Appeal is a democratic saper, of the bourbon persuasion-and its editor is far enough from Ohio and New York, to think that he may safely risk the telling of the plain truth concerning the Springfield republicans should materi- effect of the partisan prohibition work in alize next Monday. They should make a the states named. It is quite true that the Appeal man can tell no news; that, in fact, he can merely repeat what has been said, often, in the editorial columns of the GLORE-REPREITE and in other Ohio republican journals; still, what he says may and ought to have force with all practice men who have some regard to the inevtable hearing of their conduct. The Appeal declares that "the acceptance by the Hon. Henry Clay Bascom, of the nomina tion for governor from the prohibitionists of New York is as bad for the republicans of that state as the nomination of the Rev. Dr. Leonard by the prohibitionists is fo those of Ohio." Exactly! Bad for the republicans, and bad for the real cause of prohibition, as well. But the Appeal proceeds to add thus > significant and truthful utterance: namely: "Whatever the strength of the prohi bitionists may be, it is just so many votes taken from the republicans, who of late years have had none to spare. Nearly every vote cast for Bascom will be a vote taken from the republicans, and by thus weakening the ranks of the common enemy, democratic victory is more easily assured." Now make a note of the clos ing sentence from the Appeal's article It is plain sailing now for the democrats. Here is the whole thing in a nutsbell Our prohibition opponents are not only serving as a democratic aid society, pure and simple, and gratuitously, for they are doing their own cause (the prohibition of the liquor traffic,) no good but harm, but with the irreconcilable and unreconstructable-and the worst-element of the late southern confederacy, for St. John and John Bull Finch go far and grovel so low in the dirt as to declare that the bourbons are right; that there is a free ballot everywhere in the south, and that the stories of bulldozing and violence are republican falsehoods. That Finch, who is an old and unregenerate democrat and who has never been anything else, should do this, is quite proper, from his standpoint, and he is quite right in his judgment that his best way to promote bourbon democratic success is to push the political prohibition renegade and is not true to his own convictions. Let those who have thought they would vote for Dr. Leonard take notice of the fact that the only possible result of their action is to "take so many votes from the republicans" and to "make plain sailing" for the corrupt, coal oil, bourbon democ

GUSH AND GAMMON.

With the President, and Vice Versa. [From Morning Edition.] WASHINGTON, Sept. 23 .- The letter to the resident, in which Dorman B. Earon, chairnan of the civil service commission, resigned his position, was tonight given to the public, together with President Cieveland's anwer, which Mr. Eston received today,

Mr. Eston's letter is very voluminous, and goes into the subject of civil service reform at great length,

The writer starts out by saying it was no his original intention to remain a member of the commission longer than a year, but that he was several times dissuaded from resigning by his friends who urged that his resignation would be distorted by the enemies of reform as an admission of the probable fallure of the civil service law. When the administration ecame democratic he had refrained rom tendering his resignation on account of the crisis in civil service reform which the change in the administration created. He had waited until he was certain that the president intended arrying out his well-known ideas in regard to civil service reform. The time had now arrived when he was convinced the president

Pending a decision several battalions of troops have been ordered to concentrate on the Roumelian frontier. The Cabinet or the prospect was discouraging, my remaining a commissioner would avail any-thing, but I wish to leave no doubt of my absolute faith in the continual triumph of a reform policy, and not a friend of reform the was divided on the question of sending a force to Roumelia. Some of the members were in favor of dispatching from clads with least r-ason for thinking I ought to remain in my office. Indeed, the triumph of that politroops to Boorghas, a seaport town of Eastern Roumelia and of burrying forward other dicy is now absolute, and the contest already over in that part of the government to which alone all legitimate authority and responsibility for appointments and removals rest, and in which alone the thorough information the signers of the Berlin treaty should be needed for a correct judgement as to the tility of the new system exists. In other words, were it not for the interference by congressmen and politicians with the con-stitutional functions and the intended liberty they had received no orders from their govof the president and of the other officers naving the appointing power, there would now be no opposition worthy of notice to a merit system of office. Those who oppose it will, with few exceptions, be those only whose participation in appointments and removals is an absolute usurpation and intermeddling, by which the counterpoise of the government has been impaired and its perpetuity is being threatened. To that usurpation, to the selfab aims of those who promote it, to the gathering of the spoils and the distribution of offices which are its a feminine voice asked Mrs. White, the atappointment and the suppression of political seesments are fa'al. P. esident Grant spproved of civil service rules to acrest that intermedling. Presid at Grant decided that issue and his last official declaration to congress on the subject declared it a source of mortification that congress had refused an appropriation he had in a special message requested in aid of the coutinued enforcement of the mirit system, which he declared to have been beneficial. President Arthur, in each anneed message after the passage of the civil service act, restlirmed that judgment of the executive department, a judgment which he declared expressed the view of every memher of his cabinet. In the daily acts of the present administration the same judgment is approved and enforced. It is possible that her husband was a southerner. She had adopted her peculiar style of dress some years number of congressmen and politicians of the dominant party, with a considerable following of office seekers, may, notwithstanding the vastly augmented strength of an enlightened public opinion, repeat the folly of well-matured judgment and the definite policy of their own administration on the re-form i-sue. If in any party I may have any such contest I could far better serve the cause of reform in the exercise of that full liberty which is hardly compatible with the proprieties of my present office. value to the country. The friends of civil service reform and all those who desire good government fully appreciate your devotion for the cause in which you early enlisted. "The success which thus far has attended the work of civil service return is largely due to the fact that its practical riends have proceeded upon the theory that real and healthy progress can only be made as such of the people who cherish pernicious political ideas, long fostered and encouraged by victous partisanship, are persuaded that the change contemplated by the reiorm ofers substantial improvements and benefits

"There should be no surrender of principle or backward step, and all laws fr the enforcement of the retorm should be rigidly executed, but the benefits which its principles promise will not be fully realized unless the acquiescence of the people is added to the stern assertion of the doctrine and the vigorous execution of the laws. It is a source congratulation that there are so many friends of civil service reform marshalled on the practical side of the question, and that the number is not greater of those who profess friendliners for the cause and yet mischieve-ously and with supercilious self-righteousness discredit every effort not in exact accord with their attenuated ideas, decry with their excepting criticism decry with their carping criticism the labor of those actually in the field of reform, and, ignoring the conditions which qualify every struggle for a radical improve-ment in the affairs of government, demand a or Indigestion is the stomach's protest against unsuitable food, the excessive use of alcohol or tobacco, hasty cating and drinking, and all irrational habits of living; and Aver's Sarsaparilla is the stomach's best friend, relieving it of ditress, and aiding its return to healthful action. C. Canterbury, 141 Franklin st., Boston, Mass., a confirmed dyspeptic, was Cured By the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla. He says:

"I suffered severely from Dyspepsia for several years. I consulted five or six physicians, who gave me no relief. At last I was induced to try Ayer's Sarsapa-rilla., and by its use I am entirely cured." O. T. Adams, Spencer, O., says: for years suffered acutely from Dyspepsia. scarcely taking a meal until within the last four months, without enduring the most distressing pains of indigestion Sarsaparilla has restored me to perfect health." Prepared by Dr. J. C. Aver & Co., Lowell, Mass., U. S. A.
