LOCAL NEWS.

From Morning Edition. The grand jury is still in session. "Lost" at the Grand tonight. G. and W. H. Lyon, of Richmond, was in the city yesterday. Rev. Yockey, of Xenia, was in the city yesterday. A. A. Winters came up from Dayton yesterday on business. Prof. Henderson, of Antioch College, was in the city yesterday. William N. Whiteley has been granted a patent on a cast wheel. Miss Mollie Woodward, of Wilmington, Del., is visiting friends in this city. A marriage license was issued yesterday to Cornelius Sullivan and Nellie Mason. County Auditor O. F. Serviss visited Columbus yesterday on business. W. C. Jewell, representing the Cincinnati Times-Star, is in the city on business. Frank Turner, a prominent railroad official, came up from St. Louis yesterday. Quail are reported as very plentiful in Montgomery and Greene counties. Here, too, be sure to see Barney McAuley as "Uncle Dan" at Black's this evening. A rare treat. Steve Pearson, of Xenia, came up yesterday for a brief visit among friends in Springfield. Mrs. John Rankin, prominent banker, and daughter, of South Charleston, were in the city yesterday. There are seventy-eight children in the Children's Home. The health of the institution is excellent. Daniel D. Gardner and family left yesterday for Ft. Meade, Florida, where Mr. Gardner will engage in orange culture. J. M. Houston, of Indianapolis, has returned home after spending a few days with his uncle, J. C. Baxter, of 161 Fair street. Contributions of sales and hearings on motions have so far been the principal business of this term of the common pleas court, which began on Monday. If you are seeking information concerning a railroad accident, never inquire of a railroad. He is prohibited by the rules of the company from disclosing what he knows. A company of South Charleston prominent society people, Miss Mary Shinn, Miss Jennie Pugsley, Mrs. John Panacke and daughter, Miss Mollie, were the guests of the Arcade yesterday. The probabilities are that nothing further will be done in the matter of organizing a permanent republican club here. It is understood the project will be quietly abandoned, as the enterprise is the same character which preceded it, were. Daniel Hunter, of Springfield, was badly bruised, Tuesday morning, by jumping from a C. C. & A. L. train at the Wayne street crossing. He was compelled to seek both a physician and a tailor after the occurrence. [Dayton Journal.] The Thirty-fourth O. V. I. will hold their twenty-first reunion at Ripley, O., on Wednesday, Oct. 21, 1885. Any member or friend of the regiment who desires to attend will receive all necessary information by calling upon or addressing T. M. Gugenheim, this city. Mrs. D. H. Brelsford and daughter, Miss Minnie, of Lake Worth, Florida, arrived in the city last evening. They will spend a few weeks with Mr. and Mrs. John A. Dawidoff, South Market, and Mrs. H. Brelsford, South Factory, previous to their return to Florida for the winter. County bonds to the amount of $3,700 will be sold on Monday, at 11 o'clock, at the commissioner's office. Of this amount $2,500 is for the purpose of refunding assessments for the construction of free turn-pike roads, and $1,200 for building a laundry at the Children's Home. The delivery wagon of Peter G. Frederick, steam bakery, was somewhat damaged at the South Limestone railroad crossing, yesterday afternoon. The horse became frightened and breaking from the wagon dashed up the street, but was caught by A. Ball, the barber, and no great damage was done. Contractor Bartholomew has begun work on the foundation for the laundry at the Children's Home. The building is to be of brick and will be located east of the home. It will be 25x40 feet in size, and one story high, with a basement. The boilers, now in the home, will be located in the laundry. The coming of the cold weather seems to be somewhat thinning the ranks of the Salvation army, in their outdoor demonstrations, at least. Last night the number of the faithful who knelt around the captain, on the cold ground, in the market square, was limited to twelve, four of whom were young women.

Accident to a Sorghum Mill Employee.

William Minnich, aged eighty, employed at Louis Hartman's sorghum mill, about four miles from the city, on the St. Paris pike, met with a distressing accident yesterday afternoon. While working about the mill he stumbled and fell between a couple of revolving cog wheels. The machinery was at once stopped by the other employes of the mill, and Minnich extricated from his predicament. It was discovered, upon examination, that two ugly gashes had been cut in his left breast by the cog. The cuts were parallel. The upper one, which was about three inches wide, was the most severe, the flesh having been literally torn out. The other was about an inch and a half in length and was simply a gash. The young man was removed to the residence of his father, Andrew Minnich, who lives in the vicinity, and Dr. Reynolds, of this city, summoned. The surgeon sewed up the wounds, putting five stitches in the upper wound and four in the other. The wounds are considered by no means dangerous, and with proper attention, will rapidly heal.

A Gorgeous Spectacular Play.

Kiraly Bros' great company will arrive per special train tomorrow noon, and although seven carpenters and property men, advance scenery will reach here this evening. The following is from the Boston Globe, of a recent date: The attraction which served to draw together so large an audience on so warm a night as to fill every seat and occupy all the standing room, was no less than the Kiraly Bros' "Around the World in Eighty Days." In placing this jagged on the stage, the Kiraly has spared no pains or expense to make it grand and gorgeous. In the famous suite scene in the first act, a monster elephant is brought on the stage to lead pomp and grandeur to the already grand scene, which is the royal necropolis, a new scene which is rarely equalled and perhaps never excelled on any stage. The Burroo palace scene and the grand palace of porcelain are the grandest of the grand, and pen is inadequate to do them justice. They must be seen, and when the beauty strikes the eye of the beholder he will exclaim, like the Queen of Sheba, "The half has not been told."

Hartney McAuley This Evening.

This evening the renowned Hartney McAuley appears at Black's Opera House with a fine company in Uncle Dan's, a Messenger from Jarvis section, concerning which the Brooklyn Eagle says: "The Messenger from Jarvis Section is a homely play of the kind that goes straight to the hearts of the people. Its construction is ingenious; its story is at once humorous and pathetic, and it is crowded with dramatic surprises. Mr. McAuley is a consummate actor, his faculty for play-acting is remarkable, and he provokes mirth or compels tears at will. Both the play and his impersonation of the principal character were last seen here. As a character study Uncle Dan's stands as a model of high artistic value. The company supporting Mr. McAuley is above the average of traveling combinations, and the presentation of the play calls for the warmest commendation."

Retected a Permanent Organization.

The Springfield Forker Club, the first colored Forker club organized in the city and the first Forker club in the state, met last night in their club room and decided upon a permanent organization. The officers of the campaign club, who were elected for a term of six months, it was agreed, should continue as officers of the permanent club until the terms for which they were elected expire. It was decided to retain the name Springfield 14 Forker Club. Meetings will be held weekly, on Wednesday evenings. The club now numbers 114 members. It is desired to make the membership still greater, and to that end colored men who are not already members are cordially invited to join. Organized in March last, several months before the republican convention was held, the club made a gallant and successful fight for Judge Foraker's nomination, and after his selection an equally gallant and successful fight for his election. Permanently organized, it proposes to do what it can in the interest of a second term for the governor.
