Let us play cool and cool off against each other and cut down the prices of both.

The democrats of Ohio will certainly be defeated this fall if they do not get a big plaster over their eyes. Allen O. Myers' mouth and that they are not strong and numerous enough to do. Allen's mouth is as voluminous in its operations as Dr. Leonard's.

A Chicago boaster, McFarlane—who has been convicted and was soon to go to the penitentiary—has escaped, and Chicago people believe that he is in Canada. We do not. The sheriff allowed him to take a bath. When you get the dirt off of a boaster you take all there is of him. To say the least, you destroy his identity.

The beautiful village of Fredonia, N. Y., has a census-taker, Tate by name, who does not propose that the barbers and widowers of the country should be attracted to his town by any false pretenses. He therefore publishes the fact that of the 270 widowers of Fredonia, 26 are of the "grass" variety. We undertake to say that of them not a single one is at all green.

We find the following in the Sandusky Register: John W. Bookwalter is out in a long line between the New York Mail and Express on the Ohio democratic platform. Mr. Bookwalter says the democratic party is really for free trade, but that it lacks the courage to say so, and takes refuge, as it did at Cleveland, in vague and ambiguous declarations.

Mr. Bookwalter is an honest free trader and has the courage to announce his convictions; and it is evident that he despises the democrats of Ohio for the cowardice and duplicity they displayed at Cleveland.

Mason Long, a well-known Fort Wayne gambler, who reformed about ten years ago, and entered the temperance and religious field when he had a money enough to "cash ten red tops," and who has held a gospel temperance meeting, respectively, in our Springfield market place, is now stated by the Lima Gazette to be half owner of a costly four-story brick block being erected in that city. He claims that for substantial dividends the Lord's bank is way ahead of its fellow or poker. Honestly is undoubtedly the best policy, as well as the best principle.

The New York Tribune of Monday makes this timely and strong utterance: "Let Ohio's governor and republican standard-bearer."

Governor Foraker is one of the men who are entitled to say what the republican party means. Those who constantly desire to know will not be contented to accept the hearing or living accounts of political adversaries, but will seek in his own words and in the utterances of other representative men of that party, an exposition of its beliefs and aims.

Governor Foraker represents victorious republicanism in a great continental state and is elected over one of the most popular democrats in the country, whose triumph in 1881 prepared the way for President Cleveland's election. Between the east and the west Ohio shares the sympathies and opinions of both, and its representatives, by their courage, frankness and ability, have repeatedly turned the scale in national contests.

AT TOLEDO—GOVERNOR FORAKER, SENATOR SHERMAN AND GENERAL BUSHNELL.

All eyes are turned toward Toledo this week, and all roads lead to that city, with no breaks in connections or change of cars. The influx of intelligent and wide-awake strangers was already large on Monday, and there have been a great many arrivals to-day (Tuesday). The names of the Clark county delegation at the Boddy house will be ready for them when they arrive. Senator Sherman will be the permanent chairman of the convention and his keynote speech will be sent in full to the Associated Press newspapers. Concerning the senator, the Toledo Blade, a strong Blaine paper, said in its Monday evening's issue: "Hon. John Sherman will arrive at the head of the Blaine county delegation to-morrow afternoon over the Pennsylvania railroad. He will be received at the depot in a manner which will be a fitting compliment to his position as the most distinguished republican of Ohio. This is as it should be. Whatever may be the opinion of the Toledo republicans concerning the presidential question, they will be sunk in the courtesy due our city's distinguished guest and Mr. Sherman will be made to feel that he is the city by accepting his hospitality."

Mr. Sherman will arrive at Toledo this (Tuesday) afternoon at 4:30, and he will be escorted from the railway station to his hotel by the local Grand, Logan and Lincoln clubs, headed by a brass band.

A special representative of the Ohio State Journal (and we shouldn't wonder if his name was W. S. Furr) telegraphed on Monday night as follows:

Some of the Toledo papers are devoting considerable space to what they deem to be a contest between Senator Sherman and Governor Foraker for the central committee. There is considerable quiet talk to the effect that Senator Sherman's friends are trying to get control of the central committee, and have been at work at this for some time, but it is certain that the central committee will be republican and work in the interest of the republican party, and this is all that the senator or Governor Foraker desires.

The Blaine tonight declares that there is an agreement between Senator Sherman and Governor Foraker by which the former is to control the central committee and the latter to name the executive committee.

The proposed presidential "indorsement" of Senator Sherman is the topic of the hour—as there is the question all about the renomination of Foraker. The Hamilton county delegation is largely for the endorsement, and will probably be unanimous. In an interview, Mr. W. S. Caple, editor of the Maumee News, and chairman of the republican state executive committee, said:

"The republicans of Ohio have always been remarkably strong in good-saying common sense. I doubt if there will be any conspicuous opposition to the endorsement. Senator Sherman is a strong man in the republican party, and the people of Ohio think well of him, and in recognition of the friends of Mr. Blaine will make no opposition to his indorsement, provided that the language of the resolution does not cast any reflection on their favor or other leading republicans who have been mentioned for that place. I am not in the confidence of Blaine's managers, but from what I see and hear I think that a great majority of the situation as to the resolution of indorsement."

It is our opinion that the proposed resolution of indorsement will be presented and that it will go through with a whirl as it ought to be presented at all. Senator Sherman is a man with a remarkable personal and political record. Ohio's greatest living statesman and probably the ablest public man now in political life in America. The question as to whether a resolution approving him as a presidential candidate above all others, next year, should be presented, is one that admits of debate, but if the resolution should be presented, it will, with the holding of the expression would be a bit of rank ingratitude and gratuitous indignity. Neither the convention nor any of its delegates will be guilty of this.

A special to the State Journal from Toledo says:

"Unfortunately it is most of the talk and discussion here is over the resolution, though the name of Governor Foraker is not mentioned without arousing enthusiasm and complimentary expressions. The arrival of a Columbus gentleman with a side-leaving portrait of Governor Foraker, below which is '1883-1887,' 'No rebel flags will be surrendered while I am governor,' created an immense demand for similar badges, which will prove to be the most popular of any. The present and next governor of the state of Ohio will arrive in Toledo on Wednesday morning and will be met at the depot by a delegation of citizens from the reception committee and the famous Toledo cadets, who are enthusiastic admirers of Governor Foraker. There will be a band of music in attendance and the chief executive of the state will be assured in no uncertain way that the people of this city are so pleased with his administration that they will do all in their power to continue it another term at least. Gentlemen from other parts of the state will help to swell the crowd, and Governor Foraker will receive a reception of which any man could be proud."

There is a rather strange and significant silence as to who shall be the candidate for the office of lieutenant governor, which may be explained in part by this special sent from Springfield, Monday night, to the State Journal:

A belief among politicians here is that General A. S. Russell will be the nominee of the Toledo convention for lieutenant governor, whether he will or no. It will be remembered that in the convention which nominated Rose for lieutenant governor on the ticket, four years ago, that gentleman positively stated that he would not accept nomination, but he was so overcome by the nomination was obviously in favor of Rose, and he was wired as to whether he would accept the nomination or not. He wired back that he would not accept, but he would decline if nominated. He did neither. The convention was determined upon nominating him, and he nominated him and he accepted. Politicians here believe that history will repeat itself at the Toledo convention and that General Russell will be forced to accept. General Russell is well known to the state. He was the chairman of the republican central committee the year when Foraker was elected governor, and has since some excellent work for the republican party. He has never yet been elected to an important office in the republican party, and there is a feeling all over the state that all his hard work for the party should not be allowed to go unrewarded. It is true that he has exceedingly numerous business interests, and that he is too good a republican to refuse any office which is tendered him with the unanimous wish of the republican party.

When General Russell said he could not accept a nomination he meant what he said. He is as good a republican as any man, but he is too good a business man and too good a citizen to accept a position the duties of which would interfere with the proper discharge of his obligations to his partners and fellow citizens in a very important emergency.

Whether or not the Hon. Allen O. Myers is paid a good salary to keep away from the Legislature makes but little difference to the general public. Allen is an interesting character, whether in or out of a newspaper office, and his remarks are generally more expressive when he is flourishing a free lance.

The Cleveland Press says: On the morning after the arrival of the Hamilton county delegation at the Boddy house came down the stairs of the Waddell hotel and arranged themselves about the base of the steps. Allen O. Myers was standing prominently near at hand, rubbing his chin and watching the procession.

Finally the last delegation from the south city appeared on the steps. In the person of Adams Charles Baker, with a mighty effort, Myers roused himself and rushed up to Baker. Grasping the latter by both hands and shaking him as if in raptures, Allen said in a loud tone of voice, so that the other Cincinnati delegates could hear him: "Glad to see you, Charlie, I am delighted glad to meet a man in our delegation who is not a nigger."

Commenting on this, a Cincinnati Times-Sun man says:

Allen's gentle reference to "niggers" was because of Hayden, who is on parole from the penitentiary, and Devoe were present. There were other jail birds in the delegation, and these excited Allen's wrath. He is a man who cannot endure dirty rascals. He has been a good deal abused, but he is not as black as he has been painted.

There are a great many worse men than Allen in and about the democratic party.

Hon. James Boyle, Cincinnati police commissioner, and one of the editors of the Commercial Appeal, telegraphed from Toledo as follows:

Up to date the race for lieutenant governor is very uncertain. Probably if Captain Asa Bushnell had allowed his name to be canvassed, he would have a walk-over, but there is information that for lieutenant governor, though in Senators Prince and Conrad he has two able and widely known opponents, either one of whom will prevail against him. Then there is the chance of the nomination being forced upon General Bushnell. There can be no mistake about the fact of the existence of a diffuse and powerful sentiment in favor of the nomination of the popular general. That feeling may take form in the convention and effect the nomination of the general. General Bushnell is a magnetic man, and if his name is proposed to the convention it will doubtless take that by storm.

The Chautauque season is fairly "on." The hotels at Chautauque, Lakewood, Chautauque, Point Chautauque and Mayville, are receiving large numbers of guests but have room for more. The new railroad from Jameson to Mayville on the east side of the lake, has been completed, and regular trains are now running. Prof. Henry Drummond, of Scotland, author of "Natural Law in the Spiritual World," a book which has created a profound impression in both England and America, arrives at Chautauque on the 26th, and will deliver several lectures. One will be on "Tropical Africa," with which respect the professor is personally familiar; one on "Evolution," and two on "Nature and Religion." Superintendent William A. Duncan, of the Chautauque Assembly who visited Springfield not long ago, gives a banquet at the magnificent Hotel Athenaeum, on Monday, August 1st, to the newspaper people of western New York and northwestern Pennsylvania, and the Chautauque Lake railway company gives free transportation.

A Blaine man at Toledo says he has counted 267 delegates opposed to the indorsement of Senator Sherman for the presidency. There will be 725 delegates in the convention.

ANOTHER SUDDEN DEATH.

Hardly a week passes without the mention by the newspapers of sudden death, and of late the alarming frequency of the statement that death was caused by rheumatism of neuralgia of the heart is so general that it has become a proverb. In all probability many deaths attributed to heart disease are caused by these terrible diseases, which are far highly of the medicine than generally considered. Is there any positive cure? The best answer to such a question is given by those who have been cured by the use of Athlophors.

F. A. Curry, son of Mr. J. H. Curry, of New York, Ohio, says: "My mother previous to her use of Athlophors had been a constant sufferer from inflammatory rheumatism of the most acute form. At the time she commenced with this medicine she was in a most helpless condition, her suffering could well be termed torture; she was confined to her bed for many weeks, nothing would do her good but my relief. My father was almost discouraged and disheartened, fearing there never would be any relief for her. Not knowing what to do next he came to town, going to Mr. Richey's drug store, and he had most happily discovered Athlophors at least giving her relief. Mr. Richey spoke of Athlophors and told my father to go and see Josiah White about his use of it. Mr. White spoke highly of the medicine and advised my father to get a bottle and try it, which he did. After taking a few doses my mother began to get relief, after she had used two bottles she was up and around, and in a week time she came down town. How long had she been afflicted with this rheumatism? For sixteen years, of course it would be better and worse at different times. How much did she use all in all? She was asked, 'I think about three bottles.'"
