

VOL. XXXIII—NO. 227.

SPRINGFIELD, O., SATURDAY EVENING, SEPTEMBER 24, 1887.

WEATHER FACTS.

Warmer Sept. 21—Ohio warmer, fair weather; frosts tonight.

SPRINGFIELD, O., Sept. 24, 1887.

AS TO FALL CLOTHING

We don't expect to sell all the Fall Overcoats and Fall Suits that are worn in Ohio this season, nor yet all that are worn in Springfield, but we do expect to sell a very big proportion, and warned by experience we expect that proportion to be bigger than ever before.

As to Fall Hats.

The Puritans who settled in this country were noted for their steeple crown hats. The phrase, "shoot the hat," perhaps, originated among the Indians, who, after they scalped the heads that wore those hats, used them for targets.

THE WHEN, 25 and 27 West Main Street.

WHOLE SPICES FOR PICKLING.

SHOT PEPPER! FANNED ALLSPICE.

Java Cloves, Thin Quill Cinnamon, African Cayenne Pods.

WHITE GING ERROOT

WHITE MUSTARD SEED,

Black Mustard Seed, Coriander Seed, Cassia Buds,

PENANG MACE AND MIXED SPICES.

Pare Old Vasegar, extra strong; will guarantee strength and purity.

J. M. NUFFER, ARCADE GROCER.

REMEMBER THAT

HARTMAN, MORGAN & COMPANY

ARE HANDLING THE BEST

COAL

IN THE MARKET.

OUR LACKAWANA

—AND—

SCRANTON

Is First-class. Call and See Us.

OFFICE: SOUTH LIMESTONE STREET

PHONE 165.

O'BRIEN FOUND GUILTY.

The Irish Editor and Patriot is Sentenced to Three Months' Imprisonment.

He Gives Notice of Appeal from the Judgment of the Court—A Million and a Half of Bonds Offered Up to Noon.

By the Associated Press.

COURT, Sept. 24.—The trial of William O'Brien was concluded today. The accused was found guilty and sentenced to three months' imprisonment. Notice of appeal from the judgment of the court was given.

Some About Cholera.

CHICAGO, Sept. 24.—In speaking of the Asiatic cholera, in quarantine, New York Health Commissioner Dewolf said last night: "This information is very interesting to us if read aright. But we do not need to be alarmed about immediate danger in this country. Great danger is not from such cases. Where I fear trouble is from the following source: The summer clothing, which may be packed in infected districts in Europe, may be sent over to this country in a ship that would have no case of cholera aboard to cause attention to be paid to disinfecting. They are left until spring and then opened. In a short time the whole country is alarmed with new cases of cholera, arising apparently without cause."

Jay Gould Going Abroad.

NEW YORK, Sept. 24.—The Star this morning says: "Strongly of the opinion that Mr. Jay Gould is going to furnish conclusive evidence of his retirement from the stock market by going abroad for the winter."

Offering of Bonds.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 24.—Bonds to the amount of a million and a half dollars have been offered to the treasury up to noon.

A LIVELY CHASE.

The *U. S. W. Office at Ferry's Robbed, and the Robber Captured by a Four of *U. S. W.

A U. S. W. on Friday afternoon a big, burly U. S. W. man entered the ticket office of the U. S. W. and stole what money he could get from the till. Mrs. Broadbeck saw the robbery committed, but did not dare to give the alarm until the negro left the office. The robber started for the woods, but was pursued by a hastily gathered posse of neighbors with guns. They succeeded in surrounding and capturing the thief near the residence of Uncle Peter Leffel. He was held there while one of the posse went to Danneville to get authority to hold him. He was taken to new Carlisle, it is understood, last night. The prisoner's name was reported as Thomas Martin, but that is not correct. He refused to tell what his name was.

RIFLE SHOOTING.

Regular Match of the Springfield Team on Friday Afternoon.

On Friday afternoon the Springfield Rifle team held its regular weekly practice shoot at the club range on Perrin's farm, south of the city. While some of the scores made were good, the average was not so high as usual. This was probably due to the light, which was not good. Following are the scores:

Table with names and scores: Jerry Crut. Jun. 80, J. E. Perrin 79, J. C. Tomer 78, John Hamlin 77, J. C. Smith 76, Dan Ault 75, J. L. Resner 74, A. P. Slack 73, H. C. Bess 72.

Base Ball Yesterday.

The Modocs defeated the Swifts on Buck Creek grounds, yesterday by a score of 17 to 13. The batteries were Shay and McIntock for the Indiana, and Brown and Conron for the Swifts.

After this game the Wittenbergs defeated the Modocs by a score of 16 to 8 in a five inning game. Gotwald and Butt were the pitchers.

Good for $50,000.

In the police court the other afternoon Hon. George Spence appeared in behalf of a prisoner and won his bond for appearance in the sum of $500. Clerk Merrill filed out the bond and both the prisoner and attorney elated it. As they walked away the clerk whispered to Judge Young: "Is Mr. Spence good?" "An indeed, for $50,000," replied the judge.

Something Remarkable.

"Not much done in court today?" was asked of Judge Young yesterday afternoon.

"No, sir, it's a dull day," and as he closed up the docket book he continued: "The docket is clear, not a case remains, I have just dismissed several cases and thereby made the docket clear, something that has not happened for many years in this city."

Attention, Knights of Labor.

The union meeting at Mad River hall tomorrow will be held at 2 o'clock instead of 7:30, as heretofore, in order that all may have an opportunity to attend the lecture of Rev. S. P. Dunlap at the First Congregational church.

JOHN M. HAUER, M. W., D. A., 178.

There is much fun poked at the time a district messenger makes. He is a runner and makes no mistake. A little bet was made yesterday in the REPUBLICAN office and the messenger was timed. It was just one minute and twenty seconds until the little fellow ran into the office, after the call was sent in.

Thought It Was Tea.

Gasper Kemper, a young man better known as "Gee" in and about his home, South Charleston, came to this city yesterday, and walking into the store of the Atlantic and Pacific Tea company, picked up a handful of cocoa shells and asked the manager what kind of tea that was.

Safe at Home.

A telegram received yesterday afternoon announced the safe landing, in New York city, of his honor, Judge Cha. H. White, of the court of common pleas, and George C. Rawlins, esq., after a two months' sojourn in Europe. They will reach Springfield this evening.

Hohl & Lyon have just received a shipment of Baltimore oysters and have them now in can and bulk.

COMING ATTRACTIONS.

Beautiful "Evangeline" at the Grand on Monday Night—Stricken Blind" and "Haverty's Minstrel at Black's."

On Monday evening Rice's "Evangeline" will be presented at the Grand opera house. It is a beautiful piece, and seems more popular today than it was the first season it was produced. It is being given in Columbus this week, and of last night's performance the Journal said: "The Metropolitan was well called again last night and the audience was a unit in pronouncing 'Evangeline' a most beautiful success. Miss Boyd again won the audience by her wonderful fact, and it is not an exaggeration to say that she equals any artist who has ever been seen here in the most dazzling and difficult art of captivating her audience. She possesses this one faculty in a remarkable degree and it overbalances all the defects that may be noticed in her work. Her power is not in her voice or acting, but in the electric vim and thorough assurance of one who is conscious of being able to win, no matter how. The whole company gave a pleasing rendition last evening."

Secure your seats at the Lagoona house cigar store.

"STRIKEN BLIND."

Next Tuesday evening, September 27th, the great melodrama "Stricken Blind" will be presented at Black's opera house. The papers have given both the play and the company glowing notices, as is evidenced by the following from the Brooklyn Times:

It looked last night as if the people who had been shut up all last summer were glad to get back to the Lee Avenue academy. The house was filled with people at a very early hour and the audience was of the happiest and most enthusiastic kind from the moment the rising curtain disclosed to view Gilbert Medland's modest home at Oakdale Station until the disclosure of the villain and the happiness of the virtuous and persecuted Medlands were alike evident to the eyes of the audience.

"Stricken Blind" is a melodrama with many strong features which will commend it to audiences everywhere. Its scenic features are fine and so cleverly contrived as not to draw the attention of the eye, and it has a plot, consistent and strong and full of interest.

Secure your seats at C. H. Pierce's.

HAVERTY'S MINSTRELS.

At Black's opera house, on next Thursday, our citizens will have the opportunity to see the latest of minstrelsy at the hands of Jack Haverty's company. Many new features have been introduced, and an evening of rare enjoyment may be confidently looked for.

MANUEL'S COMPANY.

That charming and popular comedienne, Miss Kate Castleton, will appear at the Grand opera house next Wednesday evening, September 28th, in that great success "Crazy Patch." The Minneapolis Tribune says:

"The most amusing as well as most thoroughly entertaining of the musical absurdities given here this season was presented at the Grand opera house last night under the title of 'Crazy Patch.' Paroxysms of laughter were followed by such continuous outbursts of applause that there was no use trying to evade the encore. Miss Kate Castleton is the bright, particular star around which the others circle with scarcely less brilliancy. She has the constitution of a champion, and is as capriciously shy and sings as sweetly as when 'For Goodness Sake Don't Say I Told You' was in the heyday of its popularity."

Seats on sale at Harris's.

THE FRESHMEN AT WITTENBERG COLLEGE Adopt a Constitution and Elect Officers.

The Freshmen class, of Wittenberg college, held its second regular meeting yesterday afternoon at 4 o'clock, in Professor B. F. Prince's recitation room, for the purpose of adopting a constitution and electing officers for the ensuing year.

Mr. H. M. Leach acted as temporary chairman, and Miss L. Decker as secretary.

The minutes of the former meeting having been read, a report from the committee on constitution unfolded to the eyes of the members of their labor. Mr. Frank Boroff acting as chairman. The constitution was adopted section by section, as it was read by Mr. Boroff, very few amendments being made.

The constitution having been adopted, nominations for the several offices were in order. The election of all the officers was made by one ballot, with the exception of historian and secretary, these being on first ballot. For historian, J. V. Tomer, Jr., Frank Boroff, Jr. for secretary, Miss P. Decker, Mr. H. Weaver, S. Miss Grace Prince.

At the close of the second ballot the officers were held as follows: President, Mr. H. M. Leach; vice-president, Miss Hanna; archdeacon, secretary, Miss L. Decker; treasurer, Miss C. Decker; historian, Mr. J. V. Tomer.

The above officers are held one year with the exception of historian, which is held throughout the college course.

The committee on class colors and class motto will report at the next meeting.

A Pleasant Surprise.

Mr. Rodney Albin was pleasantly surprised at his residence, No. 339 west Southern avenue, in honor of his 27th birthday. The evening was spent in dancing and social games. Among the guests present were:

Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Scott, Misses Grace Harbush, Mrs. Shulte, Mrs. Reid, Eva Champagne, Hattie Keller, Iora Nollis, Mary Jordan, Kate Jordan, Ada Bookdisher, Mary Bookdisher, Anna Martin, Mollie Rendos, Lottie Albin, Glenn Albin, Maggie Lott, Messrs. John Moore, J. Moore, A. Nollis, Charlie Fanning, Thomas Connors, J. Kay, Ed Hill, Bert Pence, James Jordan, E. Crisbin, T. Garrett, C. McAliffe, J. P. Liddle. A beautiful supper was served about 12 o'clock, and a little later the company bade one another good night.

Killing Fish With Dynamite.

Game and Fish Warden Wilson today got a state warrant in Squire Stout's court for the arrest of seven prominent German sportsmen, for killing fish out near Snyder's dam yesterday by exploding submerged dynamite cartridges. The fish, big and little, good and bad, were killed in terrible numbers. Three persons saw the act.

Want to be Amused.

Deputy County Clerk Daniel Cushing has returned from his vacation trip to the lakes and Canada, much refreshed and rejuvenated. Mr. Cushing says that of the many intelligent people to whom he talked on the subject, all of them, while expressing loyalty to Great Britain, warmly favored annexation to the United States as a business measure.

Buy your Hocking coal from Chapman Coal Company, Kelly's Arcade; quality not excelled by any.

LAST SCENE OF ALL.

Funeral of Oros S. Grisso this Afternoon With Military Honors—The Floral Tributes.

The last act in the tragedy which cost Oros S. Grisso, of Battery E, his life at Gettysburg, was performed this (Saturday) afternoon. His funeral was attended by an immense concourse of people. The battery, the Champion City Guard, Moneroffe and Red Star lodges, K. of P., and the Leonard Guards took charge of the body at the residence on west North street and escorted it to the Congressional church, where a vast throng awaited. The central part of the hearse was reserved for the attending officers. The services were conducted by Rev. S. P. Dunlap, assisted by Rev. Henry Frantz, the Dunkard minister. They were of the most beautiful, solemn and touching character. The floral decorations were exquisite. The battery's tribute was a lovely design 18 by 36 inches square, representing an American flag in red, white and blue interwoven on the edges, worked in white, interlarded against a purple background, was "flattery E." On top rested a miniature cannon made of white chenille. The design by the K. of P. was a "Fidelity" shield, composed of white, yellow, blue and red. The C. C. G. and Leonard Guards also had appropriate designs, and there was a box of beautiful flowers sent on by the citizens of Gettysburg, with the resolutions printed on the sides. The floral tributes, two beautiful designs representing a wreath and a sickle. Never at a funeral were more lovely flowers seen.

A detachment from the Fourteenth regiment arrived at 11 o'clock, Colonel G. D. Freeman telegraphing ahead that they were coming. The detachment consisted of Adjutant General Axline, Assistant Adjutant General Wickham, and H. M. W. Moore, H. B. H. E. M. W. Moore, C. H. Thurston, J. G. Sheppard, H. A. Jams, C. A. Brake, M. C. Hull, N. H. Caldwell and C. L. Taylor.

A part of the service consisted of the reading of the following, showing the action taken at a public meeting at Gettysburg. The paper was received this morning, and was as follows:

A meeting of the citizens of Gettysburg was held in the court house, on Wednesday evening, Sept. 21, for the purpose of taking proper action in regard to the death of Oros Grisso, whose fatal injuries sustained a gloom over the entire community.

Mr. Wm. T. Tipton called the session to order and stated its object. He nominated S. M. Stroppe, esq., for chairman, and Dr. J. C. Felty, secretary.

Mr. Stroppe, on taking the chair, said that he was eminently glad that some action should be taken and resolutions drawn up and sent to the afflicted family, showing how deeply and heartily we sympathize with them in their great loss and affliction.

John M. Knuth, esq., then submitted the following resolutions, which were to be read along with the minutes of the meeting, to the family of the deceased, which were unanimously adopted:

This community, one familiar with the heartrending scenes of the war, and where almost every home can tell of dead and wounded soldiers of the grand army of the union, was this day profoundly shocked to hear of the death of Oros Grisso, of Springfield, O., a member of the 15th Ohio light artillery. Only a few short days ago he came to us, full of youthful life and spirit, on a patriotic pilgrimage to honor and commemorate the services of the fallen heroes of our own beloved state who fell for their country on this great battle-field; whilst drug a salute in memory of the honored dead, he was terribly wounded, and although his injuries were most serious and distressing, yet until yesterday, we had confidently hoped that he would recover, under the careful and intelligent treatment he was receiving from his relatives, his physicians and his friends. We deeply and tenderly deplore and deplore his sad and early death, and the loss of a useful life, and extend to the mother and family of the deceased, the kindest sympathies of the citizens of Gettysburg in their deep and inconsolable bereavement.

Resolved, That the secretary of this meeting be requested to send a copy of these minutes to the family of the deceased. It was also resolved by the meeting that a suitable floral tribute be forwarded by the citizens of Gettysburg to the mother of the deceased.

J. C. FELTY, Sec'y.

At the grave, the Knights of Pythias burial service was observed, and "taps" sounded in deference to the military nature of the funeral.

DEATH OF A PROMINENT MINISTER.

Funeral Services of Rev. M. W. Taylor, D. D., of the M. E. Church.

Rev. Marshall W. Taylor, D. D., one of the most prominent and intelligent ministers of the M. E. church, who was at one time presiding elder of Wiley chapel, this city, and editor of the Southern Christian Advocate, published at New Orleans, La., was buried from the residence of his brother, Mr. George Taylor, at Louisville, Ky., last week. Rev. Taylor was well known to the citizens of Springfield, and his loss will no doubt be deeply felt throughout the connection. From his brother's residence the procession proceeded to Jackson Street church, where the services were conducted by Rev. G. W. Thomas pastor. A biographic sketch of the life of Rev. M. W. Taylor was impressively read by Rev. Joseph Courtney, of Covington, Ky. Eulogies were given.

Rev. A. A. Price read the psalm. Rev. James Courtney read the 15th chapter of Corinthians. Prayer was offered by Rev. L. M. Haygood, of Cincinnati. Rev. E. W. S. Hammonds paid a high tribute of respect to the memory of the deceased. Rev. Squire Stout has been appointed administrator of the estate of the deceased.

But the Coroner Cannot Tell Whether or Not It Was Suicide.

Attire Coroner Stout last night rendered the following verdict in the case of Mrs. Nellie LaMar, who was found dead in bed Wednesday morning:

"After having heard the evidence and examined the body of the deceased, I have concluded to her death from inhaling too great a quantity of a mixture of chloroform and spirits of camphor; but by whom and with what intent administered, I am unable to determine, though, as the same had been during her sickness constantly used to allay intense suffering, I am of the opinion that her death was the result of accident and not by violence from herself or any other person or persons."

DEATH FROM CHLOROFORM.

But the Coroner Cannot Tell Whether or Not It Was Suicide.

Attire Coroner Stout last night rendered the following verdict in the case of Mrs. Nellie LaMar, who was found dead in bed Wednesday morning:

"After having heard the evidence and examined the body of the deceased, I have concluded to her death from inhaling too great a quantity of a mixture of chloroform and spirits of camphor; but by whom and with what intent administered, I am unable to determine, though, as the same had been during her sickness constantly used to allay intense suffering, I am of the opinion that her death was the result of accident and not by violence from herself or any other person or persons."

DEATH FROM CHLOROFORM.

But the Coroner Cannot Tell Whether or Not It Was Suicide.

Attire Coroner Stout last night rendered the following verdict in the case of Mrs. Nellie LaMar, who was found dead in bed Wednesday morning:

"After having heard the evidence and examined the body of the deceased, I have concluded to her death from inhaling too great a quantity of a mixture of chloroform and spirits of camphor; but by whom and with what intent administered, I am unable to determine, though, as the same had been during her sickness constantly used to allay intense suffering, I am of the opinion that her death was the result of accident and not by violence from herself or any other person or persons."

DEATH FROM CHLOROFORM.

But the Coroner Cannot Tell Whether or Not It Was Suicide.

Attire Coroner Stout last night rendered the following verdict in the case of Mrs. Nellie LaMar, who was found dead in bed Wednesday morning:

THE FIRST GUN.

Hon. Ben Butterworth Opens the Republican Campaign—Large and Enthusiastic Demonstration.

The Wigwag Packed with Joyous Republicans—Brihanst speech by Major Butterworth, listened to by a vast audience.

The republican campaign in Clark county was opened on Friday night with a bang. Hon. Ben Butterworth, of Cincinnati, fired the first gun, and his echoes will be reverberating through the campaign, and will not die away until the polls close on the 8th of next November.

The meeting was in every sense a grand and enthusiastic gathering of the representative republicans of the city and county, and was one of the largest political meetings that has been held in Springfield since the last presidential campaign. It was a boomer, and republicans lined the streets. Shortly after 7 o'clock the republicans began to gather in at the Buckeye Club room, and the room was soon filled to overflowing. Under the direction of Chief Marshal Blakeney, the parade was formed and at 7:30 started on the line of march published on the Journal.

When the procession arrived at the Arcade, the boys formed in double ranks, facing in, and waited to see the speaker to the wigwag. Three roosting cheers were given for the speaker.

Major Butterworth, accompanied by General Bushnell, General Keifer and Mayor Kelly, marched between the ranks of the procession to the north entrance of the Arcade, where they took a carriage. The procession continued on to the Big Six band and the vice-presidents of the meeting.

The audience was a magnificent one. Every seat was up stairs and down in the huge building was filled, and many persons were compelled to stand.

During the speech, which was a brilliant effort, Major Butterworth was frequently interrupted by the most enthusiastic applause. The very fact that he held the vast crowd for two hours is a sufficient proof that the speech was thoroughly enjoyed. Mr. R. F. Hayward, as chairman of the republican central committee, introduced General A. S. Hayden, the chairman of the meeting. The general was greeted most heartily, and in assuming the chair spoke as follows:

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN—It is not only an honor, but a pleasure, to be chairman of such a grand meeting as this, with many of the best people of the country here, and most of them republicans. It is a pleasant duty and honor to introduce to you one of the most honorable and distinguished gentlemen—one who stands high in the republican ranks—who is here to tell you of the great achievements of the republican party. For this reason it is not necessary for me to say much about the Hoody coalition party that is desired to get into power in this state. We have a large number of able gentlemen in the republican party who can express the principles of all good republicans better than I. All of us desire a pure, republican, business administration, such as we are receiving and will receive under our brilliant leader, Governor Foraker. I will not attempt to make a speech at this time, but will defer that to some future occasion. I will therefore introduce to you the distinguished soldier and statesman, the Hon. Benjamin Butterworth, from the Queen City of the West.

As Major Butterworth rose from his seat and advanced to the platform, there was given such a welcome as might well make any man feel proud. The vast audience, with all that spontaneity, heartiness and enthusiasm which are characteristic of republican assemblages, broke into loud and prolonged cheers that made the old wigwag fairly ring for more than a minute. Major Butterworth stood bowing and smiling to the great crowd and waiting until the pent-up enthusiasm subsided a moment. When he had been restored he began as follows:

Mr. Chairman, Ladies, Gentlemen, Fellow Citizens.

I am very grateful to the distinguished chairman for the many kind things he said about me in his introduction, and I am grateful to the people here assembled for the high compliment you have paid me, and in so far as that compliment pertains to myself, I am more than grateful. I know that your labors and your enthusiasm are for the great cause which I here represent tonight.

I asked General Bushnell what was tabling the republican issue here, and there was any need for me to come here at all. He replied that you were not in any trouble here; that while there were some troubles in Israel—good men, too—wanted to control our appetites by legislative enactment, he feared they were almost too far gone to reclaim; and that I was wanted here to inspire confidence and arouse hope that you might be enabled to do better work in the future.

On the 8th day of next November, you will be called upon to exercise the highest right of citizenship, and to determine whether the republican party shall be retained in power in Ohio, or whether that which we know as modern democracy shall be returned to power. That determination will be reached with the ballot. There is no duty that we have to perform which carries with it such weighty responsibilities as the simple casting of one ballot. The policy of peace or war has been decided in this country by a single vote. Our war with Mexico was determined upon by a single ballot in Indiana, and important measures, state and national interest often hinge on the casting of a single vote.

I shall tonight address myself particularly to young men—especially to those who are on the 8th of November, will for the first time exercise their right to vote. These young men are to determine whether the democracy of Ohio shall be returned to power, and perhaps whether the democratic national administration shall be endorsed in 1888. Since by the ballot is the country maintained in all its relations, how important it is that this sacred trust should be kept pure, and guarded against all corrupting influences. It is the purity of the ballot and the uprightness of the people, together with the welfare of the country. Politics is the science of government. The fashion has, however, grown up to pursue politics as a game, but the time may come when it will be pursued too far, as a game for the best interests—the very liberty—of the country.

Now, my young friends, do not make the mistake of thinking that modern democracy is the same as democracy was two generations ago. Modern democracy is co-extensive with the republican party. Whether it should be returned to power depends on the fitness of its representatives, on its line of policy and on its past work, which must be taken as a measure of its future action. With democrats as individuals I have no controversy, because I recognize that our interests as individual citizens are practically the same—that we desire to attain the same end in citizenship. With the modern democracy party, however, I have a vehement and never-ending controversy. No organization has ever done less

FOR HONOR, NOT MORE TO DEGRADE AND TO DEBASE THE GOVERNMENT TO WHICH IT BELONGS.

What is the history of modern democracy? As early as 1850 the tariff had ceased to be a bone of contention on the battle-fields of this country. Slavery stalked to the front, and demanded a political party for its champion. It had realized that it must dominate the country, or be driven from beneath the flag under which it then flourished. The whig and democratic parties were the two great political organizations of that time. The whig party declined to champion slavery, or to take any decided stand against it, and the party, therefore, soon passed into "innocuous desuetude." A demand arose for an organization that should resist the encroachments of slavery, and all along the line sprang up live and energetic, country-loving, God-fearing men who enrolled themselves from the ranks of both the old parties into the republican party. After locally and freely won their election, the flower of the two old parties, the residuum was formed into the modern democratic party. This residuum did the bidding of the oligarchy, and championed, advocated and defended the only blot on American civilization.

Major Butterworth then drew a vivid and eloquent word picture of the banners under which republicans and modern democrats stand arrayed in this election, and the banners from the works of the two parties.

"Did not many democrats fight for the cause of the Union and against slavery? I fear somebody has been misled, and all honor be to them for so doing, but when they opposed slavery they stepped from beneath that banner of modern democracy and enrolled themselves, for the time, at least, in republican ranks."

Addressing himself more especially to the young men among his auditors, Major Butterworth gave twenty-six reasons why they ought not to identify themselves with the modern democratic party. He said these reasons from manly, patriotic and were bright, epigrammatic and effective. He was frequently interrupted by prolonged applause. Among the reasons he gave were the following:

Because it glorifies the pure ballot while it stultifies the ballot-box, and cries out for purity at our elections while it switches tickets at the polls.

Because it resolves in favor of civil service reform, and then spends its time doing the president, because he affects to believe in it.

Because as an organization it resolves in favor of ways that are virtuous and then is afraid to practice what it preaches lest it disband the party.

Because it resolves deserved pensions to the widows and orphans of union soldiers and then turns to these widows and orphans and remarks, patronizingly: "We are your champions." As a critic it stands before a beautiful cottage which it has had no part in constructing, criticizes the architect who designed it, the carpenter who built it and the painter who adorned it, and then skips around to the back door and threatens the housewife with violence unless she gives it all the cold victuals in the house.

Concerning the bloody shirt, which is continually being raised by the modern democracy, Major Butterworth said: "Ignorance and prejudice are strong, and wherever they abound there you will be sure to hear the cry of 'bloody shirt' at any reference that may be made to the late war. Show me a man who hasn't bathed this summer, who spends his time loading, who will go home drunk tonight, and who will lie in bed tomorrow morning while his poor wife goes to a neighbor's to do the washing to get food for him and the children, and I'll show you a man who shouts 'bloody shirt' longer, louder and more vehemently than any other man in your city."

In what way, young man, can modern democracy serve you better