CHAIRMAN JAMES means to win this year, and is now in the stirrups.

THE campaign in Ohio is fully opened and Major McKinley is busy mopping up the earth with unrepentant Democrats.

HON. S. A. LOSCH has set an example that ought to be followed by all true Republicans. Give and take, is the motto.

THE Republican ought to cry quits and help to elect the Republican ticket in to this year. Be a man, Zerbey.

SUICIDES, railroad wrecks, elopements, embezzlements and murder continue to furnish the metropolitan journals with news to give the horrors to their readers.

now than at any former time. This indicates constant and rapid growth in our already large population.

REPUBLICANS, don't fail to be registered. Thursday, September 3d, is the last day.

REPUBLICAN committee-men and active Republicans generally should look after the registration of voters at once. Not a single Republican name should be omitted.

THE most absurd proposition that has yet been advanced by the third party political freaks, is, that the Farmers' Alliance advocates are responsible for the immense crops throughout the country. It is generally understood among the thinking, practical and intelligent people that it requires something besides harranguing the public to produce corn and potatoes.

THE money market grows brighter and brighter, and the outlook for a busy autumn more promising than for months past. With abundant crops, a big foreign demand for our surplus cereals and a spirit of determination to make things go as usual, there is no room for doubt as to what the outcome will be. Stocks are advancing; capital which, for a considerable time has been lying comparatively dormant, is again becoming active, and a spirit of confident hope in the future has taken general hold of the business community.

THE courts in Baltimore have laid hands on some $30,000 of one of the get-rich-quick orders—money which was to have been paid to 300 members, who had only paid in one-third of the amount to be distributed. The other $20,000 was to have been taken from the money paid in by the other members. It is said that the 300 members who were to be paid were the organizers and their friends, those who first subscribed. The dupes—who were to be fleeced—were those who came in later. The court directed that all the money on hand should be paid back to all the members according to the amounts paid in. In this way the robbery of the late subscribers is prevented.

THE JUDGESHIP!

PHILADELPHIA PAPERS ON THE COURT CANDIDATES.

ALEXANDER M'GLURE SPEAKS

A Lengthy Editorial in the "Times" Commending Judge Green for Absolute Integrity and Fidelity.

From the Philadelphia Times.
When Judges Pershing and Bechtel were candidates for re-election in Schuylkill county, The Times earnestly supported them because they had made exemplary judicial records and were entitled to the confidence of the public without regard to politics. The Pottsville Chronicle then heartily co-operated with The Times in supporting them, not because they were Democrats, but because they were thoroughly competent and faithful Judges. It demanded their re-election on the ground that a competent Judge was entitled to the support of all good citizens, regardless of party, but now that the Republican member of the Schuylkill Court, Judge Green, is a candidate for re-election, the Chronicle falls back into the old party organ rut, and demands that Judge Green shall be defeated because he is not a Democrat, and it heads its criticism of The Times with the expressive title of "Non-Partisan Bosh." It confesses that it has no reason whatever for opposing the re-election of Judge Green excepting that he is a Republican in faith, as the following extract from its leading editorial on the subject clearly shows:

Judge Green was forced upon this county originally as a Republican partisan. He has never been anything else. He is a Republican. There is no murmuring about him. He is a Republican 365 days in the year. We do not mean to infer that he is ever biased in his decisions by the politics of litigants contending before him. We do not think he ever has been in the slightest degree. We do not believe that the master of politics ever intruded itself into the decisions of either Judge Pershing or Bechtel. We say it without fear that politics would not have the slightest influence upon Judge Wadlinger.

The Chronicle confesses that The Times is entirely correct in assuming that Judge Green has administered his judicial office with absolute integrity and fidelity. It distinctly declares that he has never been "biased in his decisions by the politics of litigants contending before him." Apparently to emphasize its confidence in Judge Green's integrity, it adds that he has never been in the "slightest degree" improperly influenced in the discharge of his official duties; but because Mr. Wadlinger, the Democratic candidate, would be equally free from partisan bias if elected to the bench, it insists that politics and politics alone should dominate the election, and that a thoroughly competent and upright Judge, who has given twenty years of excellent service to the cause of justice, should be defeated solely because he ordinarily happens to vote a different ticket. This would simply be making the judicial system in Pennsylvania the merest plaything of petty politics and the prey of mean ambition. It would proclaim that political success must be paramount to the administration of justice, and that no matter how faithful or how well qualified a Judge may be, or how he has devoted his life to the impartial enforcement of law between man and man, he must be weighed and tested solely by his political faith.

The Times begs to remind not only the Chronicle, but all the people of Schuylkill county, that they have great need of a competent and stubbornly-honest judiciary. They have had line upon line and precept upon precept on this important point. Their Judges have been tested as severely as any Judges in Pennsylvania, and it is especially creditable to the Schuylkill bench that they have never faltered in the faithful discharge of their duty, even when it required heroic measures. These Judges are not merely ordinary public officials. They can recognize no political or personal obligation unless at the cost of their official fidelity. They are charged with the single and exceptionally sacred duty of holding the scales of justice impartially between all litigants and between the law and those arraigned for crime. All other public officials may have more or less personal or political obligations and discharge them without injury to the public welfare. It is the common law of our political system that all officials, with the single exception of Judges, may dispense their favors decently in the line of party politics; but a Judge who swerves so much as a hair's breadth in obedience to political obligations, dishonors his high office, disgraces himself and must wound justice in her own sanctuary.

The Times does not consider Judge Green or Mr. Wadlinger as individuals. It has no reason to criticize the want of character or fitness of the Democratic candidate for Judge in Schuylkill county, for the reason that it has no knowledge that he is wanting in any of the attributes essential to an excellent Judge, but we do know that Judge Green has been conspicuously honest, in diligent and faithful in the discharge of his judicial duties, and we simply raise our voice in protest against the election of Judges on partisan grounds, as we have ever done since the foundation of this journal. We have, in every instance, urged the re-election of admittedly honest, able and available Judges, and we have done so without inquiring whether it pleased or offended the politicians in the community.

It is gratifying to know that the people of every section of Pennsylvania, including the people of Schuylkill county, have generally recognized the importance of re-electing faithful Judges, and of electing the best candidates without regard to their political associations. Philadelphia, the Gibraltar of Republicanism, has many times elected Democratic Judges and with the support of leading Republican newspapers of the city. In like manner nearly every strong Republican and Democratic county of the state has reversed its party majority in the selection of Judges. It has been done for the common welfare of the whole people; it has been done in the interest of even handed justice; it has been done to protect our judiciary from partisan contamination and it has been done to maintain the sanctity of the law in the temples of justice.

These are the reasons why The Times urges the re-election of Judge Green, the Republican in Schuylkill county and the re-election of Judge Bucher, the Democrat in the Union district, and there is little doubt that the people of both districts will prove their appreciation of an honest and non-partisan judiciary by the re-election of both of these eminently capable and upright Judges.

POLITICAL POT-POURRI.

Pithy, Pungent, Pleasing Points Pointedly Paraphrased.

Now for work.
Got registered.
Chairman James is a hustler.
The Republican Executive Committee is a unit.

Strange, but nevertheless true, there are no disappointed office seekers in the Republican ranks this year.

"There is no boss in this party to dictate a ticket."—Chronicle. Bosh! Tell that to the marines. Is Harry dead?

Funny, isn't it, that the Democrats have no bosses. Harry and King must have resigned and taken a vacation.

Whatever the outcome of the fight for the presidency of the State League, the Republicans will attend to the business of electing their whole ticket.

The Democratic clerks in the State Department have to hustle just now to catch up to the different county conventions. Pattison's interests must be looked after.

A BIG STRIKE ON.

WINDOW GLASS WORKERS AND BOSSES FAIL TO AGREE.

FULLY 10,000 PEOPLE AFFECTED.

The Trouble Sure to Continue Seven Weeks, Possibly Longer. New Jersey Green Bottle Blowers Relocating.

PITTSBURG, Pa., Sep. 2.—A strike of the window glass workers, which will throw fully 10,000 people out of employment, has just been officially declared. It will continue at least seven weeks, and if neither side makes concessions will continue longer.

A meeting of the sub-committees appointed to settle the wage differences was held last evening. The manufacturers withdrew their demand for a reduction, while the workers declined to recede from their demand for an advance.

At the meeting last week the manufacturers, in a spirit of harmony, withdrew their demand for a 10 per cent. reduction and agreed to pay last year's wages, the workers having agreed to recommend some changes in some of the rules.

At last evening's meeting the workers' committee refused to withdraw their demand for an increase in gatherer's wages, and recalled their consent to the change of some of the rules.

No settlement can now be had for seven weeks, as that time must elapse before the association can consider the matter.

GLASS BLOWERS REJOICE.
Resumption of Work By All of the New Jersey Factories.

TRUSTON, N. J., Sep. 2.—The agreement reached between the green glass manufacturers and the workers' association, by which all the furnaces in this State have been started after the long shut down, is the cause of great rejoicing among the workmen and storekeepers.

The manufacturers have agreed to the price list and rules adopted by the workers' convention in St. Louis last July, with two exceptions, in which a compromise was effected, viz., the demand for advance in the prices of flasks is withdrawn, and they will remain the same as last year. On minerals, however, all the rise asked for by the workers has been granted, while the apprenticeship question remains in statu quo.

The green glass blowers have cut loose from the Knights of Labor and have concluded an arrangement with the officers of the American Flint Glass Workers' Union, by which, during the coming year, the workmen of neither organization shall make war that is made by the other. This is an important alliance, and another plan is on foot to make the traveling and working cards of the two organizations interchangeable so that green blowers may work in flat factories and vice versa.

First to Start After the Shut Down.

WILMINGTON, Del., Sep. 2.—The Christiana Glass Company lighted their furnaces to-day, and claim to be the first window glass factory in the United States to go into operation after the summer shut down. The men have been granted an eight per cent. increase of wages.

A Big Glass Maker to Assign.

PITTSBURG, Sep. 2.—J. Scott Ferguson, attorney for J. A. Chambers, the well-known glass manufacturer, who is associated with Mr. McKee in the Tank Glass Works at Jennette, and who is now in financial straits, stated this morning that his client would make an assignment for the benefit of his creditors to-morrow. Mr. Ferguson stated that all of Mr. Chambers' creditors except one were willing to grant an extension. That one, who is a creditor to the amount of $200,000, absolutely refused to join in granting the desired extension.
