MOVE.

Unless our people—business men and property holders—exert themselves and organize for the promotion of industrial establishments in town, they will lose several very important opportunities, which they will eventually regret. If outsiders can come into the town, start up enterprises and make them pay, there is no reason why the town people with money should not do as much. There can be no cry that the town people have not been afforded opportunities. Time and again the HERALD has pointed out how the town and people could be benefitted, but its predictions have been looked upon as impossibilities and its advice has been stamped as "wind."

Now that the electric railway is becoming a substantial forerunner of prosperity for the town it is hoped the intelligent and sensible portion of the community will pay less attention to the Biowhards and meet the situation as squarely as it presents itself and give the promotion of home industries renewed attention.

A gentleman whose experience has taught him what he predicts, says: Shenandoah will be made one of the best towns in the region; business in quarters will increase; better dwellings will replace the antique excuses for homes; properties will enhance in value, and permanent improvements will appear on all sides.

There are capitalists watching for opportunities such as now present themselves to our people and if the latter do not act promptly they will find themselves left again.

Let there be a move, an early move, and a move along the whole line.

The "freak" who writes to the Chronicle from Shenandoah is a friend of permanent improvements and has the good of the borough at heart (?). He is one of the Blowhards who are now hunting their holes. He is a well-known crank and needs no introduction to the public. His ears give him away.

A GREAT LEADER DEAD.

The death of Charles Stewart Parnell removes from the scene of Irish political strife one of the most remarkable Irishmen of this or any other time. Descended from men distinguished for their patriotism and valor, he inherited many traits of character that made him noted as a leader in the cause to which he devoted his manhood. No son of Ireland—not even Daniel O'Connell or Robert Emmett—has so endeared himself to the hearts of his countrymen as Charles Stewart Parnell. No Irishman has succeeded more in arousing the fires of patriotism among his countrymen, nor had any Irish leader ever done so well in exciting such a world-wide degree of sympathy for the Irish movement as the late leader of the Irish Parliamentary Party.

Those who admired him in the heyday of his power, will prefer to remember him for his ardent devotion to his country's cause. The fortunate occurrence that blighted his political career and dimmed the rising sun of Irish independence, brought sorrow to the hearts of all lovers of the Irish race.

Now that Parnell has gone before his maker, let charitable hearts draw a veil over the act which precipitated his downfall, and hope that with the death of this celebrated Irishman all factionalism will be wiped out, and that the Irish people will once more present a solid front in their battle for self-government.

A MORE disappointed person than the "freak" who writes to the Chronicle, is hard to find. He is always trying to stir up strife. He is too slow to be in the swim and too lazy to think of what would be of benefit to his town. He ought to emigrate.

The sending of the gunboat Yorktown to Chili shows that our government does not think that everything in that country is exactly as right as it should be, so far as the United States is concerned.

The New York Times concedes McKinley's election in Ohio, and the New York Sun makes an elaborate calculation to prove that Flower has only a fighting chance in New York.

SCHOOL BOARD!

THE DIRECTORS HELD A MEETING LAST NIGHT.

SYNOPSIS OF THE PROCEEDINGS.

The Most Important Business was the Consideration of Salaries of Teachers—Provisions Made for Increases.

The following directors were present at the regular meeting of the School Board last night: Messrs. Boddall, Conry, Hanna, O'Hearn, Baird, Owens, Williams, Davenport, Trezise, Butts, Brennan, Muldoon, Bachman, Gallagher and Gable. Mrs. Griffiths, of Ellingowan, asked that her son be admitted to the schools free of charge, as he is staying in town. It was moved by Hanna and seconded by Butts that any pupil residing in town during the school term be considered a resident of the district and be admitted to the schools without paying tuition fees, but the motion was subsequently withdrawn.

The following report of collections of taxes from Poles and Hungarians was submitted by Tax Collector Schmidt: $1 arrests and payments made on same, $145.50; paid at office, $117; total, $262.50. It was decided that the Wheeler children be admitted to Miss Kolb's school.

In answer to Mr. Butts' request for information concerning evening schools it was decided that the schools be opened on November 2nd and that the term be four months.

Mr. Owens, of the heating and fuel committee, reported that $239.39 had been expended in repairs and improvements. The heating apparatus in the Union street building has been altered so that pea coal can be used.

Mr. O'Hearn reported that a vestibule has been added to the Turkey Run school building.

Thomas Gibbons, Thomas McCormick and Peter Barrett were exonerated from payment of taxes.

On motion of Mr. Hanna, seconded by Mr. Owens, it was decided that all teachers in the fourth grade primary schools receive $45 per month. Mr. Butts voted in the negative and asked to have his vote so recorded.

Mr. Butts then moved that the salary of a teacher who has taught three years be fixed at $87 per month and that the increase extend to the sixth year. Mr. Gallagher seconded the motion and it was carried.

After deciding that all bills and the salaries of the superintendent, teachers and janitors be paid the board adjourned.

To-Night.

At Ferguson's theatre to-night will be produced the latest new operatic comedy "Asleep and Awake" interpreted by a New York company of superior excellence. The cast includes such popular favorites as Cora Van Tassel, Grace Ogden, Jean Voorhees, Horace Randall, Charles Robinson, William Macaulay and a singing and dancing cast unexcelled. 'Tis a very large and expensive organization, nearly all the people have seen distinction in their particular line.

Is This So, Marksmen?

The Hazleton Sentinel says: "Negotiations have for several weeks past been going on for a pigeon shooting match between Cooper, Schmickler and Nicewinter, of Schuylkill, and Williams, Ely and Oliver, of Luzerne. The Schuylkill men seemed to do all the blowing, but when the time came to put up the money they weren't in it. In other words they are afraid to come to time. When any of those men from Schuylkill want to shoot a match Luzerne has a man who will shoot them from $100 up to $1000. Phinnie Cooper preferred."

PARNELL IS DEAD.

THE GREAT IRISH LEADER EXPIRES AT BRIGHTON.

HIS ILLNESS WAS VERY BRIEF.

A Combined Attack of Rheumatism and Congestion of the Lungs—The Whole World Started Over His Death.

LONDON, Oct. 8.—Charles Stewart Parnell is dead at his home in Walsingham Terrace, Brighton.

Death resulted from a chill which attacked him last week. On Friday he was compelled to take to his bed. In the evening of that day his condition became so alarming that Mrs. Parnell and the attending physician deemed it advisable to summon other medical aid, and two physicians were at once called in consultation. Despite their efforts, however, Mr. Parnell grew steadily worse, and it soon became evident that death was only a matter of a short time.

It is stated that Parnell had congestion of the lungs, in addition to acute rheumatism. He became unconscious at 7 o'clock in the evening. The doctors were hastily summoned to his bedside. They found him, later, in an obviously hopeless condition. From 5 o'clock until the time of his death Mrs. Parnell, Miss O'Shea and the doctors watched by the bedside of the sufferer, and alleviated his dying struggles. His senses now and then would be recalled for a short time, and then he would lapse into unconsciousness.

Mrs. Parnell, who has been completely devoted to her husband, refusing to leave his bedside for even an hour's rest, is utterly prostrated by her loss, and her physicians are apprehensive as to her condition. She and the physicians were the only ones present at his death. She believed up to the last moment that he would recover.

It was first reported that Parnell had committed suicide, but it was soon proved beyond doubt that the rumor had no foundation.

It was also reported that he had fought a duel with Sir John Pope-Hennessy, whose death occurred at nearly the same time, but the rumor was speedily discredited.

No arrangements are yet known for the funeral.

CHARLES STEWART PARNELL.

Active Career of the Gifted Grandson of an American Admiral.

Charles Stewart Parnell was born at Avondale, in County Wicklow, Ireland, in 1846. He was a descendant of the poet, Parnell, and his family had been associated with British parliamentary life for upwards of a century. His great grandfather, Sir John Parnell, was Chancellor of the Exchequer in Grattan's parliament, and the most vigorous opponent of the Act of Union, for his denunciation of which he was dismissed from office, he having previously resisted all efforts of the Imperial Government to allure him into acceptance of his proposals.

The family came originally from Congleton, Cheshire, and Sir Henry Parnell, grand-uncle of Mr. Parnell, and a prominent member of the English Parliament in the time of Lord Grey and Lord Melbourne, under whom he held offices of distinction, when raised to the peerage took the title of Lord Congleton.

Mr. Parnell, whose mother is a daughter of Admiral Charles Stewart, a celebrated American naval officer, was educated at Cambridge University, but did not take any degree. After a tour of America, he settled down on his property in Avondale, was High Sheriff of the county in 1874, and held office for the county, but was not allowed to resign the shrievalty. A month later, when Colonel Taylor, on appointment to the Chamberlainship of the Duchy of Lancaster, sought re-election, Mr. Parnell opposed him, but was defeated. On the death of John Morris, in 1875, Mr. Parnell stood for County Wicklow, and was elected.

Mr. Parnell first took an active part in parliamentary affairs in the session of 1876, when in association with Mr. Burgess, he introduced what was known by the various names of the "obstructive" and the "active" policy. He opposed with great persistence the bill for amending the Transvaal the Haggling clause in the Mining Act and the Prisons bill; and there were many scenes of violence and excitement, and several all-night sittings of the House. He finally succeeded in getting some modifications in the treatment of political prisoners introduced into the Prisons bill, and being joined by Mr. Chamberlain and other leading Liberals, he led to the abolition of Haggling in the army.

He joined in the foundation of the Land League, and in October, 1879, was elected its first president. He went to America in December, 1879, raised the sum of 70,000 pounds in aid of the disaffected then widespread in Ireland, for the Land League movement. At the general election of 1880, he was elected for County Wicklow, County Mayo, and the City of Cork; and elected to sit for the last mentioned place.

He was elected in May, 1880, leader of the new party by twenty-three to eighteen votes for Mr. Shaw. He took an active part in the Land League agitation outside Parliament, and in the debates in the House.

After the Land Act was passed Mr. Parnell returned to October, 1891, on a charge of intimidation and obstructing the working of that Act. He was released on parole in April 1882, and finally in May.

At the general election of 1885 he was re-elected for Cork.

Mr. Parnell's name has been prominently before the public in connection with the Home Rule proposals of Mr. Gladstone. His trouble with the London "Times" is too well known to need repeating here.

On November 17, Mr. Parnell was condemned in costs as co-respondent in the case of O'Shea vs. O'Shea and Parnell, and later married the divorced woman. Since then Mr. Parnell's life has been a matter of daily record by the press of Great Britain, Ireland, and the United States.

PARNELL'S MOTHER.

How She Received the News of Her Distinguished Son's Death.

BORNETOWNS, N. J., Oct. 8.—When Mrs. Della T. S. Parnell was informed of the death of her son Charles Stewart Parnell, she fell from her chair to the floor shrieking and groaning.

"Oh, my son, my Charles, they have killed you," she moaned.

She became hysterical, and it was some time before she was sufficiently composed to receive the particulars of her son's death.

Mrs. Parnell is 76 years old, and quite feeble. She declared that Charles had offered to add her, but she had assured him she was comfortable.

She spoke bitterly of her half brother, Edward Stewart, who, she said, had tried to deprive her of her home and had kept her away from her son. She also excitedly declared that her son had been killed by the persecution of Davitt, the "Irish World," and the politicians. She mourned because these "vipers" had prevented her from being with her son in his last years.

SIR JOHN POPE HENNESSY DEAD.

The Man Who Led North Kilkenny's Anti-Parnell Fight.

LONDON, Oct. 8.—Sir John Pope Hennessy, K. C. M. G., and Member of Parliament for the northern division of Kilkenny, is dead.

Brief Sketch of His Career.

Sir John Pope Hennessy was born in Cork in 1833. He was educated at Queen's College Cork and was called to the bar in 1851. He was a member of Parliament for Kilkenny county from 1859 to 1878, voting as a National Conservative and a member of the Irish Independent party.

Sir John acted with the Irish party on Irish questions, but supported Mr. Disraeli on imperial questions.

Sir John was Governor of Lebanon, 1867, of the West African settlement, 1872; of the Bahamas, 1878; of Barbadoes and the Windward Islands, 1875; of Hong Kong, 1877; and of the Mauritius, 1882 to 1883, when he resigned. He was made K. C. M. G. in 1880.

On December 22, 1890, Sir John was elected Member of Parliament to fill the seat for North Kilkenny, vacated by the death of Martin. As the result of a most exciting election Sir John, as the candidate of the anti-Parnellites, received 3,227 votes as against 1,333 votes cast for his opponent, Mr. Vincent Scully.

ELECTRIC SPARKS.

Promoters of the M. C. S., G. & A. S. R. on the Hustle.

J. R. Coyle, Esq., representing the Mahanoy City, Shenandoah, Girardville and Ashland Street Railway Company, appeared before the Ashland borough council last night to ask that modifications be made in the ordinance granting the right of way to the company. As the promoters of the Ashland and Centralia electric railway were applicants for an ordinance it was decided to hold a special meeting to hear both applications.

Application for a modification of the Girardville right of way ordinance will be made at the next meeting of the borough council of that town.

Application for a right of way through Mahanoy City was made to the borough council of that place and the matter was referred to a committee.

This morning four members of the local committee on roads and highways, Messrs. P. D. Holman, Daniel Coakley, F. H. Hopkins, and J. K. P. Scheidly, left for Bethlehem to meet officials of the M. C. S., G. & A. electric railway and go to Scranton and Wilkes-Barre for the purpose of inspecting the electric railways in operation at the latter places.
