MAHANOY PLANE.

Newsy Letter From a Reliable Correspondent.

The employees at Lawrence colliery receive their pay Saturday.

Lawyer Minogue, of Ashland, was seen on our streets on Monday.

The concert given by the De Moss family in the M. E. church, on Friday evening last, was very much enjoyed.

Henry Roseworne, who was killed at York Farm colliery last week, was for many years a respected resident of this place, and occupied the position of Chief of Police for some time. He removed, with his family, to Pottsville a short time ago. His many friends in these parts were shocked to hear of his death.

William Murphy, employed at Neiers' tailoring establishment on Water street, met with a peculiar accident on Monday. While pressing some work, a sudden movement brought his hand against a pair of large shears, the point of which entered his wrist just back of the hand, making an ugly gash and severing an artery. He was immediately taken to Dr. Fetzer's drug store, where the flow of blood was stopped and the wound dressed. At last accounts he was none the worse for his involuntary blood-letting.

Arthur Jones, of Shenandoah, who was recently appointed assistant outside foreman at West Bear Ridge, has moved his family and household effects to this place, and will occupy one of Frymire & Harris' handsome dwellings on North Main street.

During the past week the P. & R. company has been making arrangements to temporarily light the plane and yards with electricity, pending the completion of the Frackville Electric Lighting and Power Co.'s plant, now in process of erection. The railroad company will locate a portable plant of 20-light capacity, probably at head of plane. This plant is expected to head and, as the district to be lighted has already been wired and lamps have been placed it is likely that it will be in operation on Monday evening next.

It is about time for our local authorities to make some move towards suppressing the habit indulged in by a certain class of young people of both sexes—of congregating in front of the M. E. church on Sunday nights during the progress of divine service, and annoying the worshippers by all manner of foul language and abuse, quite unfit to be put in print. Our Methodist brethren form the best and most respectable class of citizens we have. They pay their taxes and abide by the laws of the land, and are therefore entitled to protection from unmerited insult and abuse. They also have the right to worship God in their own way.

List of letters remaining uncalled for in the post office at this place, Oct. 8, 1891: Robt. Grafton, Henry W. Warfield, W. C. Lewis, Peter Litch, Patrick Duffy, H. O'Kane, Annie M. Kelley (2), Mrs. A. Hobin, Mrs. Margaret Reynolds (3).

TOWN TALKER!

THOUGHTS ON THIS AND THAT THREADED TOGETHER.

THEMES TERSELY TABULATED

The Tattle of the Tattlers Timely
Taken and Told Typographically
in a Tasteful and Tempting Tone.

People who think the members of the theatrical profession lie upon beds of roses should interview the remnants of the "Asleep and Awake Company" in town. The play was produced at Ferguson's theatre last night before a house amounting to about thirty dollars. The performance and the receipts were of equal standard. After computing his share of the money the manager of the company intimated that he was what is termed in theatrical parlance as "broke."

It is remarkable that Shenandoah is a convenient place for theatrical people to strand in. The town seems to be the objective point of all the weak and bad companies on the road. If a troupe is at the starvation point in St. Louis it manages in some way to scramble here and throw itself upon the generosity of the people.

Last season several companies managed to get here with just enough money to buy a few packages of cigarettes. All actors who smoke cigarettes are supposed to be prosperous and the foot-sore thespians never fail to work the fake on this confiding community.

One thing is certain, the histrionic exponents must disabuse their minds and not indulge in the false belief that they are all Tony Farrells. Tony may come here and be received with open arms, be driven through our picture-shows and over our grand, broad-backed mountains in the baggage of our enthusiastic newspaper men, but the reading public of this section is not rich enough to support a carriage fund for all actors.

Stranding in Shenandoah is becoming chaste and the theatrical people now plodding in this direction are given the hint that one of the greatest blessings of this life is the possession of a railroad ticket for home.

Theatrical patrons are numerous in this community and they are generous, but their generosity is not warranted to withstand all attacks. Some of the "Asleep and Awake" people no doubt realized this to-day. This morning several of them were at the Lehigh Valley depot and the glances they threw at arriving and departing trains spoke volumes. Two of them were fortunate to get away. Just before the conductor gave the signal for the 9:08 train to start for New York the manager and one of the female members of the company hurried out of the ticket office and boarded the train. There was a smile upon the face of the female which seemed to say, "I'm all right, anyway." Three male members stood on the depot platform and, as the train pulled out, they glanced at each other in a "we're-in-it" manner. As the rear platform of the last car disappeared around the curve they turned upon their heels and sorrowfully wended their way up town.

SCHOOL OF MINES.

A New Departure by the "Colliery Engineer."

The "Colliery Engineer" Company, of Scranton, has decided to open a school of mines with the object of supplying a thorough mining education which will be comprehensive and complete at a small cost to the student.

The "Colliery Engineer" Company has entered into an arrangement with Mr. Alexander Dick, an efficient and experienced mining engineer and colliery manager, whereby he agrees to become Director of the Colliery Engineer School of Mines.

The objects of the school are (1) by a systematic course of tuition by correspondence to thoroughly prepare candidates for the annual mine foremen's examinations; (2) to enable mine foremen who have already obtained their certificates to review their knowledge by methodical self-examination and to add to that knowledge and keep themselves abreast of the times; (3) to enable every one connected with mining, even if they do not wish to secure a certificate, to broaden their experience, and by a system of catechetical study to thoroughly inform themselves in the theory and practice of mining.

The method of instruction will be by text books; a judicious course of reading; by papers of instruction compiled in terse and simple language; by an elaborate system of question and answer accompanying each instruction paper, so that during the entire course each student will be undergoing a periodical examination upon what he has previously learned.

In addition to the correspondence course it is proposed to conduct classes for the active practice of surveying and drawing, so that each pupil may, without any extra charge, attend at the school in Scranton, to take a special course in the use of the transit, level, etc., and in the traversing and plotting of surveys. For this purpose all the necessary instruments will be at the disposal of students under the care of the teacher, also a complete reference library of mining literature.

At the end of the course the student will undergo an examination covering the branches studied and on passing satisfactorily will be granted the "Colliery Engineer" School of Mines certificate. While this certificate will not entitle the holder to act in official capacity at collieries in states where the mining laws require a government certificate, yet the course will be so complete and the examinations so thorough that the fact of holding one of the certificates will in itself be a guarantee of the ability of the possessor. Any person taking this course of instruction who passes the examination and is awarded "The Colliery Engineer" School of Mines certificate will have no difficulty in passing any of the government examinations.

The charge for a scholarship is $25, payable in advance. The scholarship entitles the holder to instruction until he passes the examination and is awarded the "Colliery Engineer" School of Mines certificate. The student may be able to take the course in six months, or perhaps his studies may be interrupted and he may not be able to complete it for a number of years. Nevertheless the scholarship will entitle him to instruction and participation in the classes until he can pass the examination and does receive the certificate. The certificate also entitles the holder thereof (without additional expense, excepting the cost of railroad fare and board,) to come to Scranton, and take advantage of the classes for instruction in the practical use of Surveying Instruments and in Drawing.

The plan of correspondence lessons in mining is no experiment, but is an elaboration of a system which has worked with great success in Europe for the past ten years. In the United States similar plans are now being conducted with complete success in almost every study with the exception of mining. If in England, with its compact population, such a method is necessary, and beneficial, how much more useful will it be here, where scattered and isolated districts preclude the possibility of separate teachers obtaining a sufficiently large class to warrant them devoting their time to teaching.

No one need fear entering on the course from want of sufficient education, as every subject will be taken from the rudiments, and all that is required is that each student shall have a few hours every week to devote to the work, with a purpose in view, and a firm determination to succeed.

To intending candidates for mine foremen's certificates, the school will henceforth be a necessity, and to those who may have already obtained that magic piece of paper the course is recommended as a well organized means of keeping the theory of their profession fresh upon them, and maintaining their knowledge on a level with the times.

HIS DYING WORDS.

"MY LOVE TO MY COLLEAGUES AND THE IRISH PEOPLE."

FUNERAL OF THE DEAD LEADER

He Will be Buried in Glasnevin Cemetery, Dublin, on Sunday.
No Autopsy Held Upon the Body, as Intended.

LONDON, Oct. 9.—The announcement that there was to be a post-mortem on the body of Mr. Parnell created some misgivings as to the cause of death. Dr. Gowers, in response to a telegram of inquiry, said that the post-mortem had not been ordered by any public authority, but was to be held by the wish of the attending physicians, with the consent of friends of Mr. Parnell.

He stated that the death was as plain a case as he had ever attended. Parnell died of rheumatic fever.

The doctors, after examining the body of Mr. Parnell, concluded that it was not necessary to perform an autopsy, and therefore refrained from doing so. Dr. Gowers and two other physicians made the examination. The remains had undergone a rapid change, and it was found advisable to close the shell.

As far as known, Mr. Parnell did not leave a will or a political declaration. He had no perception of the gravity of his illness or any consciousness of the approach of death.

During his delirium, shortly before he died, Mr. Parnell talked about Ireland, and what he would do for her if he lived. Almost his last words were: "Let my love be conveyed to my colleagues and the Irish people."

The Messrs. Redmond & Mahony are arranging for the funeral. The body will arrive in Dublin on Sunday morning, and be taken in state to the City Hall, from which the funeral will proceed to Glasnevin cemetery, the place of interment. Extensive preparations are being made for the obsequies.

There will be no religious ceremony at Brighton. The body will be conveyed to London on Saturday in time to catch the Irish night mail.

CAPTAIN O'SHEA TALKS.

His Estimate of the Dead Leader—No Union Likely.

LONDON, Oct. 9.—In an interview at Brighton Captain O'Shea said that ultimately it would be seen that the death of Parnell would not result in a reunion of the Irish Home Rule party.

"In the last conversation, but one, that I had with Parnell he assented with obvious pleasure to my suggestion that among his political friends the most false was John Dillon, the lowest Tim Henly and T. P. O'Connor, and the most contemptible Justin McCarthy. I have nothing now to say about Parnell."

"It was in April, 1886, that I found him out for what he was. Politically he was never a man of ideas. He was not an original mind. But he was the most skillful assimilator of the ideas of others that I ever knew."

Comments on the Continent.

LONDON, Oct. 9.—The views of the Continental press and public opinion as to the effect of Parnell's death are largely colored by local political interests. The general impression on the Continent is that Parnell's death will strengthen the Liberal party, and therefore have an indirectly unfavorable influence upon the foreign policy of Lord Salisbury. Hence in Germany the news is received with regret, while in France and St. Petersburg, where the return of Mr. Gladstone to power is desired, there is a disposition rather to exult over the death of the man who stood in his way.

Parnell's Last Speech.

LONDON, Oct. 9.—The last public utterance of Mr. Parnell was at Grogan, County Galway, Ireland, on Sept. 27, when he addressed a meeting of three or four thousand people. He was at that time far from well, and said, as he began his speech, that his physicians had ordered him not to leave his room, but he would not disappoint men of Galway, else the secuders would say he was beaten.

Oldest College Graduate in America.

FREWILLIAM, N. H., Oct. 9.—A. A. Parker celebrated his 100th birthday yesterday. He graduated from the University of Vermont in 1813, and is said to be the oldest living college graduate in America. He was intimate with Daniel Webster. As a colonel in the Governor's staff in 1820, he acted as escort to Gen. Lafayette.

Hon. Charles H. Allen Seriously Ill.

BOSTON, Oct. 9.—The Hon. Charles H. Allen, the Republican candidate for Governor, is sick at his home with acute tonsillitis. He has notified the Republican State Committee to cancel his dates for the present week, but hopes to be able to take the stump again by next Tuesday.

Favorable Sentiment.

The Mahanoy City, Shenandoah, Ashland and Girardville Electric Railway begins to assume tangible shape. It made its bow to the people of Mahanoy City on Tuesday evening last in the form of a petition to lay tracks upon Centre and Main streets. The attorney of the company, J. R. Coyle, Esq., of Shenandoah, would have been present in person at the meeting of Borough Council, but urgent business demanded his attention elsewhere. A committee was appointed to meet the representative of railway company to have them submit in detail the privileges they desire the borough to grant. The committee consists of Messrs. Lewis, West and Lewis. The sentiment of Council was in favor of granting the request, with suitable provisions to protect the interests of the borough and guarantee the proper care of the streets.—Tri-Weekly Record
