THERE MAY BE TROUBLE.

Miners Thrown out of Work at Ashley May Cause Serious Trouble—Operations at the Maxwell Shaft Suspended—Wages of Railroaders Reduced.

Special to EVENING HERALD.

WILKESBARRE, July 31.—A LITTLE excitement was caused in Ashley when work on the new Maxwell shaft was ordered suspended for an indefinite period and no reasons were given. The shaft, which is one of the largest in the anthracite regions, is nearly finished, and it was expected that the mammoth breaker erected near by would be in full operation in about two months, giving employment to about 400 men and boys. The shaft, when complete, will require as many more to operate it.

Following this notice came another a few hours later which added to the consternation of the workingmen. It was news posted on the blackboards at the Philadelphia and Reading shops stating that all engines in Wyoming Valley known as passenger and coal engines would in future be known as drill engines, and conductors heretofore getting $2.75 per day would be compelled to consent to a reduction of 25 cents, and be compelled further to work on the trains cutting out cars, thus doing away with a flagman on each train. What the men will do is not known, but a number of prominent railroaders said that before they would concede to such a reduction there would be trouble.

Both Divorced from the Same Woman. Presenting, July 31.—Two divorce suits in one day by two men against the same woman was an unheard of thing until now. George G. Thornburg brought a suit for divorce against Mary Clara Disney, and Charles Asche brought a similar suit against Clara Disney. Asche, the plaintiff, was married to Clara Disney on March 4, 1888, to Charles Asche, a member of prominent railroaders said that before they would concede to such a reduction there would be trouble.

A Young Desperado Jailed. LANGASTER, July 31.—Calvin H. Miller, a colored desperado, aged 18 years, was lodged in jail here. Late at night he went to the home of Robert Eise, a farmer near Georgetown, Bart township, and kicked at the front door. Rae went to the window and asked him who he was, whereupon Miller threw a stone through the window, knocking Rae insensible and cutting a terrible gash in his head. The bullet passed through the intestines, and the injured man cannot live. The tragedy took place in the house of George Cranley, where a number of men had congregated and were engaged in drinking beer. He is 38 years of age and has a wife and two children. Chamberlain was arrested and taken before his victim, who identified him as the person who fired the fatal shot.

Placed with a Loaded Revolver. OIL CITY, July 31.—The 4-year-old son of Adam Dunkle, of Wentling's Corners, this county, saw his father clean and load a revolver, which he laid on a bureau. Subsequently the child got the revolver and, in imitation of his father, started to clean it with a rag when the weapon was discharged. The bullet entered the lower part of the bowels, passed upward through the body and came out at his back, a few inches below the shoulder blades, causing death.

Foreigners Need Not Apply. POTTSVILLE, July 31.—George B. Leasing, president of the Hills & Leasing Steel and Iron company, one of the largest industries of this place, gave the superintendents of the various departments the following order to enforce at the resumption of the work this morning: "Employ in your department no Hungarians or other foreigners, only Americans, giving preference to men who have families."

The Building Collapsed. PITTSBURGH, July 31.—A seven-story brick and iron building at the corner of Spring alley and Ninth street, owned by the Second National bank, collapsed and crumbled to the ground. About forty workmen were seated inside of the building eating their dinners. The men all rushed for the street and escaped save two of their number who are supposed to be covered under the many tons of debris.

Jealous of the Boarding Mistress. SCHASTON, July 31.—At Dupont, a mining suburb of Aves, George Rogewick was shot and killed by Simon Rice, a fellow boarder at the same house. Some reports say the shooting was accidental, but another story is that the man, who is Poles, was jealous of each other's attentions to the boarding mistress, and that they quarrelled just before the shooting.

USE DANA'S SALSAPARILLA, IT'S "THE KIND THAT CURES."

I have a handsome line of Beautiful in design and finish.

HE GOT IT.

Here is a Warning That Should be Heeded by Lovers' Lane Poets. An exceedingly amusing scene took place on North Jardin street, between Lloyd and Coal at about half past ten o'clock Saturday night. Four young ladies formed one group and two young fellows walked behind them. When the six got about midway down the square one of the young ladies suddenly grasped one of the young fellows by the arm with one hand and hit him a resounding whack on the back of the neck with the other. The blow sent the young fellow headlong, but a tree saved him from going into the gutter.

After recovering his equilibrium the one who received the blow mumbled, "You're getting too fresh. You had better look out, or you'll get something you won't like." "If you want any more, stop here," rejoined the young lady who had delivered the blow and who is, by the way, a young lady of irreproachable character, as well as pluck; but the masher was vanquished and followed the advice of his companion in picking up his hat and slinking away, although he very bravely (?) remarked as he disappeared that he "couldn't kill a dozent" like her.

The young ladies afterwards explained that the two mashers had insulted them. The fellow who received the punishment is a young man who wears a light moustache and carries his head quite high. He belongs in town and is well known, but it is quite likely that he will be less known, as a masher at least, hereafter.

A mistep will often make a cripple for life. A bottle of Henry & Johnson's Arnica and Oil Liniment at hand, will prevent the mistep, but used immediately it will save being a cripple.

EVERYTHING SATISFACTORY.

The Electric Cars Are Running to Cherry Street Again. There was a little difficulty between the street committee of the Borough Council and the Shenandoah Traction Company about the manner in which the alterations and paving of the electric road was being done at the corner of Main and Coal streets. Saturday afternoon all the parties interested got together and the difference was amicably settled. The cars are now running to the terminus at the corner of Main and Cherry streets.

Another Brewery Likely. From the Press and Times.

Since J. J. Franey, M. D. Malone and others have announced the enterprise of building a brewery at Shenandoah the fact seems to have been brought to the attention of other capitalists that the big town on the valley is a capital place to locate an "industry" of the kind. Shenandoah itself consumes a good deal of beer, and it possesses other advantages in the way of shipping facilities, etc., that make it attractive for the brewers. It is now said that a company of out-of-town capitalists have secured an option on a piece of property on East Coal street, between the Lehigh Valley and P. & E. railroads, and that they will make beer on the premises and put it on the market before the first of April.

If you are troubled with a "hacking cough" Down's Elixir will give you relief at once. Warranted as recommended or money refunded.

A Roadway. John F. Bradley, the East Centre street butcher, had a narrow escape from being killed on Saturday afternoon. As he was driving down the mountain from Turkey Run his horse ran away. Bradley held on to the reins and guided the wagon pretty well until one of the hind wheels broke, all the spokes breaking off at the hub. He was then partly thrown from the vehicle and dragged about twenty yards, when the horse broke away and left Bradley and the wagon upon the road. The horse was caught by men and driven to town after being hitched to the wagon again. Bradley was assisted home by Chief Burgess Buras. His face was badly cut and bruised, but he was not injured much otherwise.

Will Meet at Chester. The P. O. S. of A. State convention will be held at Chester, commencing August 23rd, and promises to be the largest in the history of the Order in the State. From the reports already in it is estimated that the Order has passed the 50,000 membership mark during the past year, and State President Mast has been highly complimented upon his successful administration, which will show an increase of over 2,000 members during the year. During the convention an evening parade will be held. State Treasurer Smith and State Secretary Wood will be candidates for re-election. Rev. Robert O. Boyle, S. W. Yost, and B. F. Parrott, of Camp 112, and C. T. Strang and Thomas Snyder, of Camp 503, will attend the state camp as representatives from this town.

Political Points. Justice Monaghan and George Folmer, one of the Democratic candidates for County Treasurer, had a very heated argument in the First ward Friday night. It is about time the proper authorities revise the list of polling places. Many of the houses mentioned in the Democratic primary announcements last week have not been used for several years.

The First ward was the scene of the hottest conflict on Saturday.

Important Notice. There will be a joint meeting of the School Directors and school teachers of the Shenandoah district in room 6 of the Centre street school building, on Wednesday evening, August 2, 1893, at 6:30 o'clock. The regular monthly meeting of the Board will be held at the same place after the adjournment of the joint meeting. By order of

WADLINGER ISN'T IN IT

He Withdraws From the Judicial Contest.

PARTY BADLY DISRUPTED

The Outraged Democracy From All Parts of the County Made the Streets of Pottsville Ring With Their War Whoop—The Party Organization in Bad Shape.

Special to EVENING HERALD.

POTTSVILLE, July 31, 4:30 p. m. HE SCENE here to-day is beyond all description. Never before were the streets and hotel corridors, as well as the respective headquarters of the hundred and more candidates, the scene of such intense excitement. The county seat has been the battle-ground of many heated political contests, and the "uninterrified" Democracy have indulged in many warm battles, but none that can compare with the present one in its intensity of bitter feeling.

The withdrawal of George J. Wadlinger leaves Judge Weidman with a clear field in the Judgeship contest. This action on the part of Wadlinger is in accordance with the prediction of the Weidman followers, who have contended all along that his name would not go before the convention.

It was rumored yesterday that Mr. Wadlinger was out of the fight, but nothing definite in the matter could be ascertained. This morning, however, he gave out the following statement:

"I am out of the fight. The only purpose for which I allowed the use of my name, in connection with the judicial nomination having been accomplished, there is no further reason why I should remain a candidate.

"The disrupted and disorganized condition of the party is such, however, that a nomination would mean a personal canvass for the election, and as my law practice affords me an income in excess of a Judge's salary, and requires my active personal attention, I have neither the time nor inclination to enter into a personal struggle for political preferment.

"I intend, however, to remain in politics, and will be heard from in the future. In this connection I may say it is the duty of every Democrat to condemn and denounce the system of politics which permits a Congressman to deal out the Federal and state patronage for the sole purpose of paying off past political debts, and to build up a dynasty of power for selfish ends to the great injury and destruction of the Democratic party and against the express wish and sentiment of the voters of that party.

"Nearly every appointment made in this congressional district has been made against the wishes of the people of their respective districts. The only safety for the ticket to be nominated to-morrow lies in the fact that so few appointments have yet been made."

Chairman Litch, assisted by his clerk, John A. Sullivan, was busy from sunrise to the hour fixed for the meeting of the convention, getting matters in shape. The headquarters were besieged all this morning by delegates friendly to the combine and heeler, seeking the "necessaries of life." It was an easy task to pick out the ones who had been "fed" by their beaming countenances as they left the presence of the gentleman who is directing the Democratic host. Some, however, departed in anything but a pleasant frame of mind.

As the hour appointed for the delegates to assemble in Union Hall drew nigh the excitement increased correspondingly. Many threats were made by the delegates as to what would be the result if their favorite were not nominated. Charges and counter-charges were as numerous as flies around a molasses barrel on a summer day. Out of all this, when the scenes of to-day have passed into history, there will be very little harmony within the ranks of the Democracy. No matter who the successful ones are, there will be left political scars that will not heal between now and November.

THE CONVENTION. At 10:45 o'clock this morning County Chairman Litch, of Mahanoy City, called the Democratic County Convention to order in Union Hall.

The chairman said that as he expected it would be late in the night before the delegates would finish their work, he would forego making extended remarks and proceeded to announce the following appointments: John A. Sullivan and E. L. Calk, secretaries; W. H. Kibb, H. J. Jaeger and George J. McIntyre, tellers.

At the conclusion of the roll call of delegates M. P. Powers, of East Mahanoy township, nominated T. O'Connor, of Mahanoy

THE CUBANS HIT HARD.

They Defeated the Home Team Yesterday.

SETLEY'S ARM WEAKENED

A Decision by Umpire Whalen Broke the Pitcher's Heart and His Arm Sympathized With It—Good Support Given All Around by the Home Boys.

Special to EVENING HERALD.

HE CUBAN Giants and Shenandoah base ball clubs crossed bats at the trotting park yesterday afternoon before the largest gathering of the season. The grand stand and surrounding ground were crowded by people, and base ball cranks from Pottsville, Tamaqua, Mahanoy City, Girardville and Ashland were present in large numbers.

The game was an excellent one throughout and everybody felt well rewarded for the trip to the park. As the home team had been unable to secure a regular pitcher Setley was brought on from Bloomsburg, and he worked like a Trojan up to the sixth inning, pitching good ball and putting up a good game generally until the strain on his arm and a close decision by the umpire broke him up, and he went to pieces rapidly.

The Giants were full of capers when they went upon the diamond and their precise was as good as any farce comedy ever seen upon a stage. The great crowd alternately indulged in roars of laughter and storms of applause and the Cubans seemed to enjoy themselves. When the home team went to bat in the first inning Fulmer, Martin and Heckman were retired so quickly that many of the spectators hardly had time to realize that the game had started.

The Cubans remained longer at the bat, but were neatly retired before they could score. A Jackson got his base on balls, but was thrown out by Messitt when he tried to steal second. White went out on a fly and O. Jackson was left on second by C. Williams going out on Henry's throw to first.

No runs were scored until the third inning, when Fulmer started the ball with a three-bagger. Martin got his base while the Giants prevented the Tamaqua man from scoring. Heckman went out at first by Grant's throw and Shafer got to the first bag on A. Jackson's error. Setley then went to the plate and banged the ball away out to left field, sending in Fulmer, Martin and Shafer. Setley reached third base when the ball was being fielded in and tried to make a home run, but was caught in making a dive and when his hand was just a few inches from the scoring pit. Shenandoah got two more runs in before Henry was thrown out at first. They had two three baggers, a single and a base on ball in this inning and a total of five runs.

In the sixth inning the real sport developed and therein lies the tale of the home team's woe. The score at the beginning was 5 to 0 against the visitors. Heckman went out on a fly to right field and Shafer reached first on A. Jackson's error. Setley went to the plate and after patiently waiting for a good ball, sent it with terrific force to the left field. Shafer had called "foul." The pitcher went back to the plate and struck out, and the manner in which he threw the bat aside showed that he was in bad humor. Shafer reached home before the inning closed and made the 5 to 0.

The Giants had a picnic now. Setley's arm, according to his own story, was "out." Two singles, three two baggers and two bases on balls made a total of six runs and tied the score. In the seventh inning the Giants scored three more runs on four singles and a base on balls and the hopes of the home team admirers dropped to zero. Heckman took Setley's place in the box in the eighth inning, but the change was made too late, and the retiring of the home team in the ninth sealed their doom. Many looked upon Setley's work in the sixth and seventh inning with suspicion, but he protested after the game that his arm had actually weakened.
