A CONSTABLE AND AMAZON.

Mrs. Matofski Successfully Fights an Officer and His Assistant.

PERSUASION WON HER OVER

Constable "Tom" Toshi Struggled With His Prisoner While Another Woman Pounds Him on the Back.

Constable Thomas Toshi dropped into a horse's nest yesterday afternoon and had one of the toughest struggles he has experienced since his first election as a Constable. His opponent was a brave Polish woman and she made the pace so hot that more than once Toshi was tempted to send out a general alarm for assistance.

This amazon was Mrs. Kate Matofski. She occupies apartments in the basement of the hat and cap manufacturing company's building on North White street. Miss Lucy Richards is an operator in the factory and she charged Matofski with unprovoked assault and battery. Toshi was deputized by Justice Dengler to execute the warrant, and he started off accordingly to perform his duty. Little did he suspect whether he was drifting, but he soon found out.

When the Constable walked into the house and read the warrant Katie told him she didn't understand English, but consented to allow a Polish female neighbor to interpret the mandate of the law. After the reading was concluded Mrs. Matofski picked up a sauceman full of meat and gray and uttering something in Polish which sounded like "You can't steal me, Charley," she grasped the legs of Toshi's trousers. The Constable saw he had encountered a Tartar and quickly closed in. There was a struggle for about ten minutes, during which time the officer managed to get the woman out of the house, but she was no sooner out than she dashed into the house and grabbed the woman, and at the same time another Polish woman named Mary Koch commenced to pound him on the shoulders and back of the neck, her big fist striking him with the regularity of a tin hammer. But Toshi and the woman prisoner and eventually got her out into the street again.

At this point Mrs. Matofski seemed to weaken and told the Constable she would accompany him without giving further trouble if he would allow her to dress her children. Toshi consented and the woman went into her house, but instead of adhering to her bargain she picked up her two small children, one in each arm, and told the Constable to go up town and chase himself. That made Toshi mad and he entered the house with blood in his eye. Again he got the woman out of the house and Patrick Igo was called upon for assistance, but Mrs. Matofski was too much for both of them.

To make matters worse Polish neighbors gathered about and advised the Amazon to sit down, and she did. Toshi's patience was pretty well run out and he concluded to get a wagon to haul the prisoner away, but hearing a Polish fellow doing considerable talking about arrests he called upon him for assistance and threatened to drop the woman and arrest the man if he didn't respond. The latter he used to realize that he had put his foot in it and to square himself commenced to persuade the Mrs. Matofski. This step was successful and the woman walked to the Justice's office after a struggle which lasted an hour and a half.

Mrs. Matofski is under $500 bail for trial. Constable Toshi's watch chain was broken in three pieces, his neck tie is missing, his neck, shoulders and back ache and are black and blue, and the trousers he wore in the battle are being tried out. To-night Mrs. Koch will be arrested for interfering with an officer in the performance of his duty. In telling his experience with Mrs. Matofski, Toshi winds up with the very truthful remark, "She's a dandy, you bet."

DROWNED IN A BREACH.

An Austrian Attacked by Cramps While Swimming and is Drowned.

Michael Durish and Joseph Peepkar walked from their boarding-house on East Lloyd street along Locust Mountain in the direction of Yatesville yesterday afternoon, and at a point about 160 yards west of the latter place found an old breach full of water.

The day being very hot and the water very tempting Durish concluded to have a swim. It took but a moment for the man to dash himself and leaving his clothing in charge of Peepkar he jumped into the pool saying, "I'm going to stay under water ten minutes, watch me."

Durish kept his word. He remained under water ten minutes and much longer, in fact he did not re-appear after the first jump, and after waiting for some time his frightened friend hurried back to town and told the story. It was about 1 p. m. when Durish first entered the water and the body was not recovered until half past six o'clock in the evening. James Dowling brought the body to the surface with the assistance of James Rosewell and James Donovan after diving for it about fifteen times. It is supposed that Durish was attacked violently by cramps as soon as he entered the water and sank to the bottom without being able to struggle.

Durish was 23 years of age and unmarried. He had resided in this country about six years and up to three weeks ago worked as a laborer at the Maple Hill colliery. He had been idle since that time. Durish had no relatives in this country. His father, mother and brother live in Austria. The deceased was a member of the St. Nicholas Greek Catholic Society, which will take charge of the remains.

Landlordism.

EDITOR HERALD:—The following copy of a notice is forwarded to you for publication in order that the public may see what dry facts are related to in some political campaign. To my mind, the notice is nothing short of the unwarlike and unmerciful tactics which characterize landlordism in Ireland, and all well-thinking people will agree with me that it is not in accordance with the principles which underlie the foundation of the American form of government, when I say that Mr. Shields, to whom the notice is addressed, is a delegate for ex-Senator M. C. Watson for that gentleman's nomination for Senator on the Democratic ticket in the 30th district, and the principal whom the subscribing attorney represents is no less than Mr. Watson's opponent for the nomination: "SHENANDOAH, PA., July 30th, 1894.

"DEAR SIR:—Being in possession of a certain message or tenement, with the apartment which are related to in some political campaign, I hereby give you notice that it is my desire to have again and repossess the said message or tenement, &c., and I hereby require you to leave the same upon the expiration of said term.

THE OUTLOOK VERY BRIGHT.

Republicans Hopeful of Carrying Everything in the County.

HARMONY WILL PREVAIL!

The Fight for the Republican Congressional Nomination Takes the Lead in Attracting Notice.

Special Herald Correspondence.

POTTSVILLE, July 31.—News comes to headquarters of unusual activity in the Republican ranks everywhere in the county. Never in the history of the party in this county has there been such earnest hustling, and if it is kept up until the day of election the Republicans will sweep everything before them. The utter demoralization of the Democratic party, a throughout the county causes the Republicans, backed by disgusted Democrats, Mugwumps and Populists, to enter the campaign with a vim that bodes no good, at least to the party that has deceived the people and brought ruin and disaster to the Union.

The Republican county convention will be the largest and most enthusiastic held here for several years. There will be plenty of oratory on tap and some hot exchanges, in may be indulged in, but I believe that when the ticket is nominated all will join hands and make ready for a victory. A popular majority is not what the party intends to work for; it aims at a majority large enough to leave no doubt that the county to-day is a Republican one and has always been such whenever the party was united.

"We will take everything in sight," said one enthusiastic Republican the other day, "and will show the free traders that they have mistaken their calling."

Brumm is everywhere this week. He is making up for lost time and as determined as ever to secure the Congressional nomination. He says the people are with him to a man.

Loach and Shoener are not idle, either this week. They are doing a surprising amount of work in the hot weather.

"Drop a nickel in the slot and find out who is ahead in the Congressional race. I am not in a position to make a prophecy now. According to their respective friends they are all ahead.

The report that Spiess, of Tamaqua, is to be the Democratic nominee for Senator is not relished by the other candidates for that office on the same ticket. They are disposed to kick, but that will not do them any good. The die is cast and they'll have to come in, or stay out in the cold. The Democratic party is full of cuckoos.

The attack on ex-Senator Watson in the Tamaqua Recorder last week proves a boomerang. Eight years ago a similar attack was made upon Mr. Watson after he was nominated, and the attack really elected him. That the ex-Senator cannot be dethroned this time seems to be the opinion of all level-headed Democrats down this way.

By the way, what has become of the Republican Senatorial fight in the upper district? There is little or nothing said or heard of the supposed exciting contest between Coyle and MacHenry. We believe the latter will withdraw and will Frank Knicker be sprung upon the convention at the last minute?

If he has not already done so, the Republican County Chairman will this week send out the names of the people who are to conduct the delegate elections.

Congressional candidate Brumm is not giving all his attention to politics, despite the bustling campaign he is making. Mr. Brumm is one of the most active promoters of the Pottsville, Schuylkill Valley Traction Company which has just been chartered with a capital stock of $100,000. This is the company which seeks extensive franchises in Pottsville in addition to those which were held by the Schuylkill Electric Railway Company, and Mr. Brumm's name is in the list of incorporators.

The applications for the additional franchises are in the hands of a special committee appointed by the Borough Council. It is understood that all the proposed lines except those to run through Mahantongo and West Norwegian streets are favored by the property owners.

The members of the camp were untiring in their efforts to make the evening pleasant for the many patrons, and succeeded admirably.

NOTES ABOUT TOWN.

Facts of Interest Grouped So That They May be Quickly Read.

A skeleton of an old uncoupled building remains upon its foundation on the north side of Coal street, just west of Catherine street, and is in such a condition that it is a death trap. The structure looks as if it would tumble before a light breeze, yet children are allowed to play in and about it at will. Hardly a day passes that some one does not remark the dangerous condition of this building. The borough authorities should take some action in the matter. It has been suggested that it comes within the jurisdiction of the Board of Health.

The town is very dull these days. What people the attractive railway excursions to distant points fail to take out of the place the Sunday school picnics gobble up, and in consequence the gatherings on the street are very scarce.

Many of the streets are in very bad condition and give unmistakable signs of a failure on the part of the street committee to insist upon the people who receive permits to dig trenches in the street to re-fill them and put them in good condition.
