HE WANTS ANOTHER SHOW.

Why Lord Dunraven Decided to Keep Valkyrie III Here.

THINKS SHE CAN BEAT DEFENDER!

And Should Mr. Rose's Distant Shore be Unable to Defeat the Speedy Herreshoff Yacht There Will be Two Series of Cup Races Next Year.

NEW YORK, Sept. 27.—When it was announced that Valkyrie III would remain in this country during the winter, and would be laid up in the Erie basin, there was much surprise among the majority of yachtsmen at the sudden change in Lord Dunraven's plans. Among others there was not so much astonishment, as the reason for the move was apparent to them. The statement is made by H. Maitland Kersey, who has been Lord Dunraven's representative in this country, that Lord Dunraven had concluded to leave Valkyrie in this country on the possibility of a race or a series of races with Defender for some of the cups or stakes which had been offered since the last race for the America's cup, or for use as a trial boat for Distant Shore when she came here to prepare for the race next year.

Mr. Kersey further suggested that in case Valkyrie should be used to test the speed of Distant Shore and should demonstrate her superior speed, the cup committee might be induced to accept her as a challenger in the place of the new boat. These reasons answered for the majority of yachtsmen, but those who have been in Newport and have seen more or less of Lord Dunraven know that they were not the real cause of the change.

It is known that Lord Dunraven still believes that Valkyrie is faster than Defender, and that with a clear course he could win in the kind of weather which prevailed on the last two days of this year's race. He wants to race against Defender again, and for the America's cup, and probably will be accommodated. It would be impossible for the New York Yacht club to race against Valkyrie for the cup until the race with Distant Shore has been decided, as Mr. Rose and the Royal Victoria Yacht club have a prior right. But there is no reason why Valkyrie should not sail for the cup after Distant Shore has been disposed of, and this is what has been decided upon, as far as can be done without the sanction of the Royal Yacht Squadron and the New York Yacht club.

The question of the courses has also been satisfactorily arranged. Lord Dunraven is willing to accept the statement of the committee that they will do their best to keep the Sandy Hook course clear, and now believes that they will have little trouble in so doing. The public will be fully informed of the dates for the matches and it is believed that a patrol fleet can be brought together which will keep the course clear.

Defender will be chosen to race against Distant Shore and Valkyrie without doubt, as the owners of the latest creation of Herreshoff are fully convinced that she is the fastest yacht afloat. As Distant Shore will race some time early in August, in all probability Valkyrie III will be able to get her races on at about the same time as this year.

Despite this year's fiasco, next year will probably see two races in one season for the same cup, provided, of course, Mr. Rose's Distant Shore does not save Lord Dunraven the trouble of racing.

SPRUCE IV WINS AGAIN.

The Owner of the Little American Yacht Withdrew His Boat.

OYSTER BAY, L. I., Sept. 27.—The race between the half-rater yachts Spruce IV, owned by Mr. J. Arthur Brand, of the Minima Yacht club, of England, the challenger for the international trophy cup by the Seawanhaka Corinthian Yacht club for small boats, and Ethelwynn, owned by Mr. C. J. Field, of the Indian Harbor Yacht club, which was sailed yesterday on the sound off this place, ended in a very unsatisfactory manner. After sailing one round of six miles Mr. Field decided that he would not continue the journey, because the wind was so strong and the sea so choppy that the conditions were not those in which a half-rater should sail. Nevertheless Spruce IV continued and covered the entire distance, despite wind and sea. When Ethelwynn quit she was eight minutes and fifty-eight seconds behind. The action of Mr. Field in giving up occasioned many uncomplimentary remarks.

The race, which was over a course of three miles to leeward and return and repeat, or twice the distance, was the third of the series, each having won one before. The cup will be given to the yacht which wins best three out of five. There was blowing all day a hard wind for such small craft, its velocity ranging from ten to fifteen knots an hour.

Captain Ball, who sailed the Ethelwynn, was greatly disgusted at the outcome of the race. He says that the crew, which is composed of Mr. Field, who is also owner, was in a state of funk during the first round and in a state of absolute insubordination when it was proposed to sail the second. He would not even act as trailable helmsman, and the only thing to do was to withdraw. Ball wanted to remain in the race, and declares that he would have won, but he was overruled by Mr. Field. After the race Ball declared he would not sail again with Field, and the latter thoroughly said Ball might have his own way, and today's race was started with Ball's brother as the "crew."

Mr. Field says personally that it was no fit place for small boats, and he did not care to risk his precious life for any cup which might thus be won. Captain Brand, on the other hand, sailed the race like a hardy sailor. If the plucky Englishman wins today's race he will take the cup.

BOGUS WORKMEN.

Halked in Their Work at the House of John Berg.

John Berg keeps a saloon in one of the houses on East Centre street owned by Michael Graham. Mrs. Berg was on duty at the place yesterday when two men entered and said the landlord intended putting a new tin roof on the building and they had called to make measurements. One of the men carried a tape measure and the other had a pair of roofer's shears. Mrs. Berg allowed them to enter the dwelling apartments so they could reach the roof.

Shortly after Mrs. Berg thought she would follow and see what progress the men were making. As she passed a bedroom on the second floor she found the visitors searching a trunk. The robbers dashed passed the woman and escaped through the rear part of the house, making their way to the alley.

It has been learned that the men went to Mahanoy City on a trolley car. They broke open three trunks in the house, but secured nothing of any value. Mrs. Berg says one of the men was short and thick set and had a red mustache and red hair. The other was tall and thin, his face was clean shaven and his hair was also red.

MR. BREWER TELLS HIS SIDE

Another Hearing in the Brewing Company's Injunction Suit.

A DISTINGUISHED GATHERING!

Cross Fires Between Counsel and a Witness Before the Commissioner—Mr. Brewer Says Ex-Senator Watson's Complaint is Groundless.

A breach of promise case with thousands of dollars at stake between leading residents of the town, or some other litigation of a like snappy, sensational character, could hardly arouse more general public interest than is evinced over the injunction suit of ex-Senator M. C. Watson against the Columbia Brewing Company. The case is not a new one, having been instituted last spring, and a few weeks ago attracted renewed attention when the plaintiff and his witnesses assembled in the offices of M. M. Burke, Esq., to tell their side of the case to Commissioner Moore, who very deftly transposed their statements into stenographic hieroglyphics, and a score or more of spectators listened to the testimony with an interest that seemed remarkable on the part of people who had no interest in the litigation.

But the prominence of the parties concerned in the suit seems to have aroused a curiosity that would not manifest itself in connection with a suit bearing upon the same state of facts and circumstances, but pending between people of another or more ordinary sphere, and yesterday when the defendant company, through its president, William M. Brewer, and witnesses, attended at the same place to give its testimony, the audience was even greater and the interest manifested more intense than on the previous occasion.

The offices which, for the occasion, were transformed into a court room, were crowded to their fullest capacity. In one were seated Ex-Congressman James B. Kelly and J. R. Coyle, Esqs., of counsel for the Brewing Company; John F. Whalen and Charles A. Snyder, Esqs., of Pottsville, and M. M. Burke, Esq., of town, counsel for the plaintiff, Hon. M. C. Watson, who occupied a seat close to his lawyers. John Wamamaker France was also in attendance. Mr. Brewer occupied a seat close to Commissioner Moore. M. D. Malone, the traveling representative of the brewery, sat in the adjoining room, smoking cigars that cost him $4 each. This may appear as an exaggeration but can be proven by accompanying him on the road some day when he is drumming up business. William H. Lewis, superintendent of the Wm. Penn colliery; Mine Inspector Stein, Dr. William N. Stein, ex-Congressman A. B. Lamb and Chief Burgess Burns were also in attendance as witnesses and spectators.

Mr. Brewer was on the witness stand most of the afternoon. He makes an excellent witness of the scrapping kind. Fighting blood courses thickly through his veins when he is under cross-examination and nothing seems to please him as well as when he sees an opportunity to indulge in and partake of a sharp exchange with the opposing counsel.

The suit, by the way, is brought by Mr. Watson to procure an injunction to prohibit the operation of the machinery in the brewery in such a manner as to destroy the health, comfort and common happiness of himself and family.

Mr. Brewer testified that he has been engaged in the brewing business as manager and interested party for twenty-five years, and that he is well acquainted with all the operations in that line. He stated that the capital invested in the plant affected by the suit ranges from $100,000 to $200,000, and the plant is equipped with all the latest improved machinery used in the business. The ice plant, he said, is especially well equipped and the power is furnished by a 125-horse power Corliss engine. Such an engine, Mr. Brewer said, could be operated in a dwelling without causing much, if any, vibration if it is properly made and erected and kept in good condition, as the engine referred to, and he could not discover any vibration caused by it in the brewery, therefore he could not see how any vibration could be felt in the house adjoining, occupied by Mr. Watson. As to the claim that ashes from the smoke stack fell upon the washing hung out by neighbors, Mr. Brewer said that was an impossibility, owing to the construction of the boilers, etc., but he acknowledged that on one occasion an engineer turned a hose into the base of the stack and caused ashes to ascend to the top and out upon the surrounding territory, but a henry to the engineer prevented a repetition of the offense. Mr. Brewer also stated that a piece of the machinery did make a noise for a while, but he had that stopped after investing $400 in a piece of mechanism and procuring the attendance of an expert from Milwaukee, Wis., twice. He testified repeatedly during his testimony that he always exerted every endeavor to avoid any inconvenience to Mr. Watson, or any one else. His testimony also went to show that in early times he and Mr. Watson were on intimate terms of friendship, but during the recent past they don't drink from the same canteen. Mrs. T. M. Scanlan, ex-Senator Watson's daughter, at one time complained to Mr. Brewer about the noise in the brewery. Mr. Whalen tried to get Mr. Brewer to state just what Mrs. Scanlan said, but was obliged to be content with the reply, "You can hardly repeat all a woman says when she is making a complaint," which caused a smile that went all around the room and forced itself upon the countenance of a witness whose temper was up to blood heat because he could not be examined and allowed to depart.

The case will occupy considerable more time of both the Commissioner and the court.

Joe Mataluski and Andrew Schofsky, a Polish miner and laborer, were imprisoned in a breast of the Ellangowan colliery last evening by a large fall of coal. They were caught in a part of the mine known as West Seven Foot. Its location is so peculiar that it was difficult to reach the unfortunate men.

A large force worked hard for over two hours before they reached the imprisoned men and they were delighted to find them alive, and neither dangerously injured. Mataluski was considerably cut and bruised and one of Schofsky's legs was broken. The men were removed to their homes on East Centre street in an ambulance and later in the evening Schofsky was removed to the Miners' Hospital.
