HAITI IS IN CHAOS

President Nord Alexis, Deserted, Ready to Resign.

TROOPS JOIN INSURGENT ARMY

Unpopular Ruler May Abdicate In Favor of General Gilles or Solon Menos—Many Cabinet Officers Quit.

Port au Prince, Dec. 2.—With a victorious rebel army at its gates and with most of the cabinet ministers abandoning their posts, Port au Prince and the whole of the republic is in a state of chaos.

Deserted by his so-called friends and supporters and in despair at seeing his troops join the rebel forces, the unpopular president, Nord Alexis, is said to be about to abdicate.

The expected battle between the revolutionists and the troops of the government, which are entrenched outside the city, may be deferred for several days.

General Antoine Simon, the commander in chief of the revolutionary forces, has decided to attack Jacmel, which lies thirty miles to the southwest of this city and which is the only town that has remained loyal in the department of the south, before bombarding Port au Prince.

It is believed, however, that the situation so far as the government is concerned is lost. Louis Borno, the minister of state, has handed in his resignation and has taken refuge in the German legation.

There now remain in office only three of the high government officials—General Leconte, minister of the interior; General Laleau, minister of justice and public instruction; and General Marcelin, minister of finance and commerce.

All the other ministers have resigned, with the exception of General Celestin Cyrlique, who after his recent defeat at the hands of the insurgents is believed to have found asylum in one of the foreign consulates.

It was Louis Borno who took up the portfolio of state, relinquished by General Saunon when he sought refuge in the French legation last March after "resigning." He was credited with inducing President Alexis to permit the departure in safety of General Firm and the other revolutionary agitators, who had fled to the legations and consulates at the time of the last uprising.

It is believed that the intention of President Nord Alexis in calling an extraordinary session of the chambers is to have them name his successor. President Alexis favors either of two candidates for the office, General Turanne Jean Gilles and Solon Menos, a distinguished lawyer.

There is doubt that a quorum could be secured because of the absence of the great majority of the deputies and senators.

The three divisions of government troops entrenched at the cross roads outside the city are being depleted by numerous desertions to the insurgent army.

General Simon will enter Port au Prince probably without striking a blow and, it may be, without causing disturbance in the order of things if President Nord Alexis takes his departure from the city before the arrival of the enemy.

The arrival of the American cruiser Des Moines has given added assurance to the foreign residents. The Des Moines and the Tacoma represent the United States here, while the French training ship Duguay Trouin is watching French interests along the coast.

The government gunboat Nord Alexis was at Petit Goave when General Simon entered that town. Her captain was for resisting the advance of the enemy, but the government commander on shore persuaded him that such resistance was futile.

The captain finally decided to let the rebels come in unopposed. The French consular agent at Petit Goave, M. Cheriez, acted as an intermediary.

The Newberrys Of Washington.

MISS CAROL NEWBERRY.

VIEWED from all standpoints, the selection of Truman H. Newberry as the man to step into the shoes of Victor H. Metcalf, whom ill health caused to resign the secretaryship of the navy, is considered to have been a happy choice.

Officially Mr. Newberry is a thoroughly capable man, being rated by some as the best naval expert in the country. Personally the new secretary is popular in Washington and the naval service. Socially the Newberrys move in the highest circles of the Capital City. Mrs. Newberry is a charming hostess and entertains extensively. Secretary Newberry is reputed to be the wealthiest member of Mr. Roosevelt's cabinet.

The latest acquisition to the president's cabinet has seen active service in the department of which he has just become the head. With the opening of the Spanish war he helped organize the Michigan state naval brigade, many members of which were millionaires, and served with it during that historic conflict. He held the position of lieutenant and ordnance officer on the auxiliary cruiser Yosemite.

In 1885, after having graduated from Sheffield Scientific school of Yale university, with the degree of bachelor of philosophy, Mr. Newberry took up work in the offices of the Detroit, Bay City and Alpena railroad and subsequently became general passenger agent and then secretary of the company. After the death of his father Mr. Newberry became president of the Detroit Steel and Spring company.

It was a case of the office seeking the man when in 1905 the new secretary was selected assistant secretary of the navy. The first intimation he had of President Roosevelt's intended appointment was the announcement in a Detroit paper about the probability of his being called to Washington to take the place once held by Mr. Roosevelt himself. Mr. Newberry's selection was attributed to his service in the Spanish war.

Three things the new secretary of the navy does upon—automobiles, warships and babies. He has the first and the last. The president has seen to it that his wants in the warship line will be taken care of.

Secretary Newberry was born in Detroit Nov. 5, 1864. He comes of old Puritan stock and is a son of John S. Newberry, who was a congressman and throughout his life of much prominence.

When on Feb. 8, 1888, Mr. Newberry married Miss Harriet Barnes of Brooklyn, a popular debutante, daughter of the late Alfred C. Barnes and granddaughter of the celebrated old time publisher, A. S. Barnes, he augmented his own fortune, estimated at $20,000,000, by some $3,000,000, Mrs. Newberry's share of her father's estate.

Mr. and Mrs. Newberry have three children, a daughter, Miss Carol B. Newberry, nineteen years old, and twin sons, aged sixteen.

MINING CONGRESS OPENS.

Delegates Gather in Pittsburgh to Discuss Economic Problems.

Pittsburg, Dec. 2.—Delegates from all parts of the United States convened here today in the opening session of the American mining congress. They were received with addresses of welcome by city officials, who dwell on the importance of the objects of the congress.

The purpose of the congress is the promotion of uniform state legislation relating to the mining industry, the protection of the lives of mine workers, the protection of investors in mine stocks and the prevention of unnecessary waste. During the sessions of the congress addresses on these and related topics will be delivered by prominent men, among whom James J. Hill, Edward H. Harriman and John Hays Hammond are counted upon.

One of the most interesting features of the congress will be the gathering on Friday of governors of states in which mining is an important industry. Governor Stuart has sent invitations to the governors of sixteen states, and many of them have signified their intention of being present. Several United States senators will also take part in the discussion, which is expected to bear fruit in the establishment of mining reforms in the states as well as in the enactment of reformatory federal legislation.

BABY EMPEROR CROWNED.

Pu Yi, Only Three Years Old, Assumes Throne of China Today.

Peking, Dec. 2.—With all the ancient ceremonial that has grown around the throne of China in the course of centuries the little three-year-old ruler of the Middle Kingdom, Pu Yi, was enthroned today.

Mandarin and other officials, resplendent in the particularized jackets that mark their dignities, assembled here from all parts of the empire to give personal testimony to their loyalty to the new regime. It had been understood that the ceremony of enthronement would be postponed until the latter part of January, on the Chinese New Year's day, when the era of the late Emperor Kwang Su would have ended. Owing to the desire of the official class to have its status settled as soon as possible the ceremonies were fixed for today's date.

All of the prominent Chinese whose names are known to foreigners were present at the ceremonies. Among them were Yuan Shi Kai, Prince Chang, Chang Chih Tung and Chen Tung Liang Chang, former minister to the United States.

CONSUL HURT IN RIOT.

Dragged From Street Car in Prague. Resistance to Troops.

Prague, Bohemia, Dec. 2.—The race riots between the Czechs and Germans are assuming the gravest character.

The disturbances are more serious than any of those which have taken place in the last few weeks in bitter and open resistance to armed authority. Twenty gendarmes and several police have been injured by stones, and a great number of the rioters were cut down.

Demonstrations were called out to clear the streets, but the Czechs offered a determined resistance. They tore up paving stones to use as missiles and welded clubs and sticks with serious results to the police and soldiers.

Imperial flags were torn and burned, and finally the troops drew their sabers and rode down the crowds, pursuing the rioters into the houses.

The British consul, Captain A. W. W. Forbes, was dragged from a surface car and badly injured by the rioters.

STRANGE TRIBE DISCOVERED.

Explorer Finds Race That Never Saw a White Man.

New York, Dec. 2.—R. H. Wymans, a lieutenant in the Dutch navy, arrived on the Royal Dutch West India mail steamer Surinam with news of discoveries in hitherto unexplored sections of Dutch Guiana.

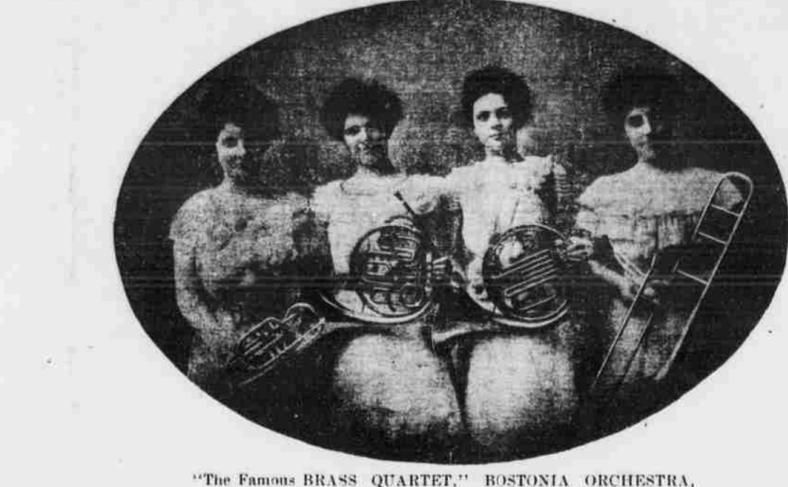

"On the Corantys river, a boundary between British Guiana and Dutch Guiana," he said, "we encountered a strange tribe of negroes. They spoke a language of their own, although study showed it to be a mixture of Dutch and Portuguese.

"These negroes appeared never before to have seen white men. They were probably descendants of negroes who had escaped from their white holders on the coast a few centuries ago. They were very black, but not of the thick lipped type."

Lieutenant Wymans said there is much gold in the wild country, but that wild animals and other obstacles are many.

The Decline of Oratory.

"Bliggins says there are no great orators nowadays."
"No," answered Senator Sorghum. "When a man has anything to say he puts it into the newspapers so quick that it's a back number by the time it comes out on the stump."—Washington Star.

KEEFE IN SARGENT'S PLACE.

Labor Federation Official Made Commissioner of Immigration.

Washington, Dec. 2.—President Roosevelt appointed Daniel J. Keefe of Detroit commissioner general of immigration to fill the place made vacant by the death of Frank P. Sargent.

Mr. Keefe is president of the International Association of Longshoremen and vice president of the American Federation of Labor. During the recent campaign Mr. Keefe announced his support of Judge Taft in defiance of the policy of President Gompers of the Federation of Labor. He was one of the most loyal Taft workers in labor circles.

76 WIDOWS BANQUETED.

Physician Eighty-four Years Old Entertains Them at His Guests.

Portland, Ore., Dec. 2.—Dr. W. C. Brown entertained seventy-six widows at a banquet here. The number included all the widows in his town and the immediate vicinity.

Dr. Brown is a widower and is looking for a wife. He is eighty-four years old and celebrated his birthday with the widows' banquet. The oldest of his guests was ninety-one and the youngest twenty-five. He presided at the banquet and called upon many of the guests for toasts.

Negro Collector to Be Reappointed.

Washington, Dec. 2.—President Roosevelt has decided to reappoint W. D. Crum, the negro collector of the port at Charleston, S. C., whose term expires this month. Booker Washington requested the retention of Crum.

Army officers are wondering if President Taft is going to walk off a chunk of his 300 pounds and ring them in as "pacers."

Tariff revision must come, but as it is a sort of tit for tat process people should expect to give as well as take.

That twenty-six pound turkey was a good fit at the White House Thanksgiving for a "corking good time."

LAWN TENNIS.

The Ranking Committee of the United States Association—Only Three Members—Edwin F. Torrey, Jr., One of the Number.

The November number of American Lawn Tennis, a handsome magazine published in New York city, as the official organ of the United States Lawn Tennis Association, contains an interesting article on the Ranking Committee of the U. S. N. L. T. A., which opens with the assertion that "Ranking Committees leave their impress upon tennis history as no other set of men can possibly do. They come and go, and, passing from sight and memory as they do, their handiwork endures for all time."

In the lawn tennis world the work of the Ranking Committee is of supreme importance. The honor list—the sacred First Ten—takes its place with the List of Champions, and the verdict once pronounced must be accepted as final, no matter how opinions may differ or exceptions be taken to it. Hence the importance of making a good selection when choosing the three men who usually comprise the committee, and of their bringing to their task intelligence, knowledge and the faculty of reaching a sound conclusion, and of holding to it once it has been reached.

The present Ranking Committee of the United States National Lawn Tennis Association, appointed to pass upon the standing of players who took part in tournaments sanctioned by the association, is as follows: Chairman, Dr. P. B. Hawk, Urbana, Ill.; E. F. Torrey, Jr., Clinton, N. Y., and C. F. Watson, Jr., Orange, N. J.

The "Lawn Tennis" article is embellished with fine illustrations of Dr. P. B. Hawk, and one former townsman, E. F. Torrey, Jr., one of the three members of the standing committee. Of Mr. Torrey the magazine says: "Edwin F. Torrey, Jr., the youngest member of the committee, is a resident of Clinton, a beautiful suburb of New York. Clinton is a college town, and is the home of Secretary of State Elihu Root. Mr. Torrey is very closely allied with the Yahnundasis Golf Club of Utica, taking a very active part in its management, being a member of its Board of Governors, chairman of the Tennis Committee, and a member of the House Committee. He is also closely affiliated and has a most desirable acquaintance with all the New York up-State country clubs, as well as a large circle of friends among the metropolitan clubs and others throughout the country.

"Mr. Torrey is a real veteran, and has played lawn tennis for practically twenty-five years, and has always made a study of the game in all its details. Having long been occupied with his business, in which he has been exceptionally successful, he has never gone in for tournament play to the extent that many men do at the present day, but has been content to each year take in a few of the more important events, and study and get a line on the various styles of play. Notwithstanding this he plays a good game, and is capable of putting up a strong argument against any player he meets.

"He has for a number of years past represented the Yahnundasis Club at the annual meeting of the U. S. N. L. T. A., as well as many of the up-State clubs, with full power.

"Mr. Torrey has spent many of his winters for the past years in the South, and has been a conspicuous figure not only in the tennis but the social life of Palm Beach, having won the All Comers event there a number of times."

STOCK HINTS.

Oats, wheat, bran, linseed meal, clover hay and roots are the best foods for breeding ewes.

It is better not to breed any sheep less than two years old. Then you get better lambs and your ewes are apt to grow to a much better size.

Sheep are dainty feeders. They will not eat hay that other creatures have mused over. They refuse grain taken from a ratty crib.

As the pigs grow they will need a constantly increasing amount of food.

They should be fed all they will eat up clean three times a day.

The best way to sell your corn is through the gristmill of the hog.

The right heat for scalding hogs is 180 degrees. If the water is heated to a higher temperature the hair does not come off so freely.

Lousy cattle may safely be sprinkled with wood ashes, rubbed with wood sulphur ointment or whale-oil, or with petroleum emulsion.

Do not let the heifer form the habit of drying up as soon as cold weather begins. Give her plenty of good food, keep her warm and comfortable, and she will develop into a profitable cow.

Do not neglect the colts and calves. An ill-kept yearling is bound to deteriorate into a stunted beast.

A long halter strap in the stable is a source of danger. It enables the horse to back out of the stall far enough to kick its stable mate.—Farm Journal.

Careless Hunters.

Nearly all of our exchanges since the hunting season opened are more or less filled with accounts of maiming or death from the accidental or careless discharge of guns in the woods. For the most part the casualties may perhaps be regarded as purely accidental, but when men or boys are mistaken for game—game ranging in size from a squirrel to a deer—and filled full of shot or dropped by a rifle ball, it is difficult to put so charitable a construction on the tragical act. It is a penal offense at any time, even in play, to point a firearm—loaded or unloaded—at a human being, and yet parties trudge through the woods, often creep through the underbrush and climb over fences and walls, with their fully charged guns aimed directly at companions in front or rear, when a twig "accidentally" catching the trigger, or a slight tap on the hammer would be almost sure to result in maiming or death. Every case of this kind should be thoroughly investigated, and, whenever gross carelessness is proven, the offender should be punished, instead, as is generally the case, of receiving the commiseration and sympathy of his friends over the great misfortune assumed to have befallen him in crippling or snuffing out the life of a friend.

Womanly Wisdom.

There's never a trouble that comes to stay; There's never a grievance but fades away; Forget the heart-ache and bravely lend A helping hand to some sadder friend.

ANXIETY is the worst feeling in the world; yet men who stay late in town, or who loaf long in saloons, never know the worry of the watching, waiting wife or mother.

If you can't get turkey for Christmas try chicken; and be thankful that you are living to eat it.

WORK up all old fence rails, useless boards, dead trees and limbs out of the orchard into stove wood. This will keep the farm free of litter and help solve the fuel question.
