LOCAL NEWS.

—We want you to send us the news. Bring it, write it or phone it. We will print it.

—The Tunkhannock Republican is printing a series of reminiscence articles gleaned from items published in that paper twenty years ago, and the last issue recalls what was at that time regarded as a notable walking match, with Honesdale as the starting point. It says "Judge Sitzer was called home from his pedestrian tour on Saturday by the death of C. P. Miller. The Judge, Charles E. Terry, C. O. Dersheimer and B. W. Lewis had been on a tramp through the Catskills, leaving Honesdale on foot and going over through that section, and swinging around to New York city to close up their tour."

—Three generations of the esteemed Lancaster family of South Sterling, the venerable Hugh A. Lancaster; his son, George H. Lancaster, and the latter's bright little daughter, Helen, paid the Citizen office a welcome visit on Friday last. They came up from Newfoundland in their automobile, and returned by way of Hawley the same afternoon. Little Miss Lancaster is of very tender years, yet she has had an auto experience, including Canada and the west and south, of which much older tourists might well be proud. Her father, who succeeded his father in the business, is very extensively engaged in the manufacture of flag staffs, wood toy hubs, handles, umbrella and parasol sticks, dowels, and American peg tops at South Sterling, and the products of his factories find their way into every State in the Union.

—Charged with a murder which he did not commit and acquitted two weeks ago after his innocence had been proven, Salvatore Alonza, of Wilkes-Barre, who spent five months in jail in constant fear of the scaffold, has finally become violently insane and has been taken to the Danville Asylum. It is not believed that he will recover. Arrested six months ago, accused of the murder of his best friend, Chas. Burazzo, Alonza was placed in jail and there, ignorant of the law, he was in constant dread that each day would be his last. When the trial was called he had no attorneys and the court appointed two, who were quickly able to establish his innocence.

—The Hancock Herald states that Waldron Farley has moved his family from Baltimore to Equinunk for the summer and taken charge of the estate and store of his late father, Hon. H. N. Farley, which will be continued as heretofore. The Herald adds: "In conversation with our friend, Hon. W. M. Nelson, Friday, he stated that he was enjoying better health than for several years past; and his looks did not belie his assertion. Time has dealt gently (physically) with him, and a casual observer would never suspect that he was nearing the eighty-fourth mile post in his journey of life."

—On Wednesday of last week in shifting a lumber car at Tanner Falls, John Riefler had his left hand caught between the car, and the entrance to the shed, and painfully crushed.

—Henry Kiefer, the young son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward A. —In the Luzerne court on Thursday last, Judge Lynch directed a jury to return a verdict against the Royal Arcanum and in favor of the estate of H. Reimensnyder for $3,463.50. Reimensnyder was a resident of Hazleton and committed suicide a few years ago. He was insured in the Royal Arcanum, the officers of which society refused to make payment on the policy, on the ground that Reimensnyder had ended his own life, but the court decided that the estate was entitled to payment of the face of the policy, with interest.

Ford, Carolyn Lee and Betty Huston.

The last named is a cripple, having, as he claimed, lost his leg in a mine accident. When taken back to his cell, however, one of the prisoners declared that he would rot before he would work. Street Commissioner Weidner will have charge of the men and they will be put to work at making another road along Vine street. Burgess Kubbach said that the same sentence will be imposed upon several well-known characters about town, if the officers have occasion to arrest them on similar charges. The authorities intend to rid the town of the visits of these tramps, and will promptly lock up all found about the streets, with a dose of hard work as an alternative if fines are not forthcoming.
