IN CASE OF FIRE!

Ordinance No. 15, Fire Alarm Signals, section 1. The steam gong shall be sounded only at 12 M. noon and in case of an alarm of fire. For GENERAL ALARM, the gong will sound ONE LONG BLAST; for fire about TWELFTH STREET BRIDGE one long and one short blast at intervals of ten seconds; for fire BETWEEN 12TH STREET AND 7TH STREET, one long and two short blasts at intervals of ten seconds; for fire BELOW 7TH, one long and three short blasts at intervals of ten seconds; for fire OUTSIDE OF BOROUGH LIMITS three long blasts.

What we need now, is an asylum for the political insane.

C. C. Pratt's home town gave him 120 votes to 10 for his opponent, George W. Klipp.

The statements of the Honesdale banks appear in this issue of the CITIZEN. They show a gratifying increase in deposits, and are an index of the town's prosperity. Manned as they are by careful and conservative men, they are in every way worthy of general patronage and support. YOU WILL EVENTUALLY DO YOUR BANKING IN HONESDALE. START NOW!

It was a landslide alright, alright, and deep enough to turn the National House over to the Democrats. But it was not sweeping enough to overturn the United States Senate. That and the presidency will be Republican for at least two more years. Radical tariff or other disturbing legislation is thus put beyond immediate question. Meantime the smashing career of Mr. Roosevelt has been halted. Let the slackened wheels of industry therefore speed up again. Politics no longer afford any excuse for holding back the march of enterprise.

HARRISBURG LETTER.

Special to The CITIZEN.

November 12.—Among the facts that the student of political history will note for this year will be the following: Six months ago there was no Keystone party. With only a few weeks in which to organize and with a ticket headed by a candidate who had been identified with every political party that has been in existence in Pennsylvania for the past twenty years, except the Republican party, a candidate who was re-judicated and frowned down upon by the Democratic and Prohibition parties, his former colleagues, this Keystone party, with but little money to carry on a campaign, with dissensions within and strong enemies without, made out as interesting a campaign as this state has seen in many a day. It may as well be admitted that it compelled the strong Republican organization to do its best to make a good showing and save its ticket. The state ticket was saved, but the loss of Congressmen, State Senators and Representatives is somewhat unusual, and is partially accounted for by the fierce fight on the state ticket, particularly on Congressman Tener. It is further accounted for by the widespread unrest among the laboring classes and the dissatisfaction existing. The party in power always suffers under such circumstances.

Looking around us, and seeing what happened in New York, New Jersey, Massachusetts, Ohio, Indiana and some other states, the question naturally arises, Would we have fared better or worse with a candidate for Governor other than Mr. Tener? On this point there will be a wide difference of opinion. Here is a fact, however, we won with Tener, we might have lost with some other candidate, when we see how other strong men fared in other states. Tener has a comfortable plurality, though there might have been a different story to tell if the opponents of the Republican ticket had pooled their issues and agreed on a single strong candidate.

Congressman Pratt's many friends regret that in the general drubbing administered to the party, he lost out. The district will lose the services of a faithful and capable official at Washington, and will gain nothing by being represented by a Democrat, even though that party should control the lower House. It is quite evident however, that the defeat of Mr. Pratt was not caused by dissatisfaction with his course in Congress, but was the result of a political upheaval, due once in every so often. No attack was made on Mr. Pratt's record, nor is he charged with a lack of attention to the wants of his constituents.

Wayne has redeemed itself by the election of H. Clark Jackson to the House of Representatives, and his constituents are assured of a watchful and conscientious man to look after legislative matters at the State Capitol. A change in this matter was desirable and there will be no regrets, even though Mr. Fuert's claims for results were more substantial.

MARRIED AT HAMLIN.

Lester A. Lawrence and Vida V. West United in Marriage.

A quiet wedding occurred at the M. E. parsonage at Hamlin on Wednesday evening, Nov. 9th, when Lester A. Lawrence of that place and Vida V. West, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. L. West, likewise of Hamlin, were united in marriage. The event took place at seven o'clock and the ceremony was performed by Rev. J. H. Boyce.

The bride was attired in a gown of Copenhagen blue silk elaborately trimmed with lace and Persian hand trimmings. The parsonage parlor was tastefully decorated for the occasion. The bridal pair were attended by Miss Lorraine McKee, of Philadelphia, and George Lawrence, brother of the groom. The groom's cousin, Miss Cora Alt, presided at the organ and pleasingly rendered the wedding march from Lohengrin. The young couple will make their home with the bride's parents for a short time. Their many friends in this vicinity extend congratulations and heartiest good wishes.

Institute Entertainments.

An exceptionally strong list of attractions has been secured for the forty-third annual Teachers' Institute of Wayne county at the High school auditorium this week. Below is a complete list of the evening entertainments. Doors open at 7:30. At the Lyric, 8:00. Harpist and Entertainer, Rogers and Griley. Admission 35 and 25c. Tuesday, at the Lyric, 8:00. "A Musical Review." The Dudley Buck Company. Five artists. Admission 50 and 35 cents. Wednesday, 8:00. At the H. S. Auditorium, 8:00. Lecture: "Sour Grapes." Dr. Edward Amherst Ott. The Newburgh (N. Y.) Daily Journal devoted an entire column recently to a flattering notice of the Dudley Buck Concert company which gave the opening concert in Y. W. C. A. "The company 'made good,' it says, 'and at the very outset established cordial relations with their hearers. The vocalists, consisting of a quartet of pretty women and one man, sang their selections with dash and warmth. Miss Henrietta Turrell, soloist, possesses one of the finest contralto voices ever heard in this city.'

NECROLOGY

Darius Proper died at the residence of Lee Smith, of Ariel, November 4, aged 75 years and 4 months. He had made his home with the Smith family for over fifty years. Deceased was a veteran of the Civil war and drew a pension. He enlisted in South Canaan early in August, 1862, in Co. A, 137th Pennsylvania Volunteers, under Capt. J. M. Buckingham; was mustered into the U. S. service Aug. 20, 1862, and discharged June 2, 1862. Rev. F. A. Sciver officiated at the funeral. Deceased was never married and was over 80 years of age.

Michael M. Dunigan died at his home on West street after an illness of about four weeks, Sunday morning at 2 o'clock. Funeral services will be held at the St. John's Catholic church Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock. The deceased was born in Limerick county, Ireland, August 6, 1848. He came to America in 1865, and was one year in New York, coming to Honesdale in 1866. He worked on the dock 34 years. He was a kind husband and father and a good neighbor. He leaves two sons, Patrick and James and one daughter, Kate, wife of Edward Armbruster, and his wife, Mary.

Sarah, widow of Henry Washington McMullen, died at her home in Prompton, this county, Thursday, November 10, and the funeral services were held Sunday afternoon in the Methodist church, Rev. Mr. Burch, officiating. Interment at Prompton. Deceased, a daughter of David Rutan and Lucy Compton, was born in Wayne county December 14, 1834, and was nearly 76 years of age. She is survived by four sons and one daughter, Frank, of Beech Grove; Harry and Charles, of Carbondale; Wallace, of Prompton, and Mrs. Sarah Ella Holden, of Canajoharie, N. Y.; also the following brothers and sisters, Daniel Rutan, of Scranton; J. W. Rutan, of Lehigh, Pa.; Mrs. Martha Hoel, of Brooklyn; Mrs. Susan Hoel, of Clarion.

Hubble Rounds, for many years one of Waymart's most prominent and highly esteemed citizens, died at the residence of Wm. Carpenter, an old friend living in Clinton township, last Saturday evening, where he had gone to attend a social function. He had been a resident of Waymart since early manhood. He was a son of Arba and Sallie Curtis Rounds, and was 79 years and 4 months' old. Mr. Rounds was a faithful employee of the Delaware and Hudson Gravity on the Moosic mountain, above Waymart, from December 20, 1865, to the fall of 1898. His wife died several years ago. He is survived by a daughter, Mrs. L. G. Dismick, of Waymart, and a son, A. J. Rounds, of Dillon, Montana. The funeral services were held yesterday afternoon, Rev. R. C. Birch, of the M. E. church, of Waymart, officiating. Interment in the cemetery of the latter borough.

News of the death of Mrs. Caroline Reid Catterall which occurred at Berwick Saturday morning at 2 o'clock, was received with profound sorrow by the citizens of Hawley generally. She was the wife of Rev. R. C. H. Catterall, the venerable Baptist clergyman so well known in this vicinity, and who during his five years' residence here had supplied the pulpit of the Presbyterian church, and a portion of that time had been the regular pastor of the Baptist church. The aged couple moved to Berwick last spring and were occupying a home of their own. Mrs. Catterall had been ill about a year, but her final malady was apoplexy. She was born in England in 1828. She was a fine old lady who was endeared not only to all who knew her in Hawley but to many friends in the wide circle of her husband's pastorate. Besides her husband she is survived by five sons: J. H. and George H., of Berwick; Prof. R. C. H., Jr., of Cornell University, Ithaca, N. Y.; William H., of Lebanon, and Dr. Alfred H., of Hawley. The funeral was held Monday, the 7th, at Berwick. Interment in the Berwick cemetery.

Joel Schanaee Detrick died at his home on North Orange street, Port Jervis, at five o'clock Thursday morning after an illness of six days of a complication of diseases, aged 59 years.

The deceased was born at Lackawaxen, Pa., on August 16, 1851, and was the son of Jacob Labar Detrick and Margaret Cronk Detrick. He came to this city when he was a young man and secured employment as trainman on the Delaware Division of the Erie which position he held for twelve years.

On September 28, 1872, he was united in marriage to Angelina Shaw, of Monticello. They have since resided in Port Jervis.

Of late years he followed the occupation of carpenter and was employed in the Erie car shops. Those who survive him are his wife and two children, Mae Belle, wife of George Dunn, and Grace A., wife of Francis Murray, both of Port Jervis; three brothers, William and Jacob Detrick, of Hancock, and John Detrick, of Port Jervis, and one sister, Mrs. Diantha Westcott, of Equinunk, Pa., and six grandchildren of Port Jervis.

The funeral was held at the house at 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon. Rev. Samuel Jones officiated.

A little over two weeks since word was received by S. W. Hobday, of Hawley village, of the serious, and what was likely to prove fatal, illness of his brother Charles, at Tucson, Arizona. The young man had been in the employ of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company as a trainman, his run being from Pittsburg to Altoona. He left the employ of this company about eight years ago to seek his fortune in the west. He had kept up no communication with his friends in the east, but had evidently informed those where he was of the residence of his relatives. His malady was typhoid fever to which he succumbed about a week after his friends here were informed of his illness. The body arrived in Hawley last week Monday, was taken in charge by undertaker Teeter, and later conveyed to the home of an aunt, Mrs. Jacob Beck, from whose residence on Tuesday morning the funeral was held, Rev. B. P. Ripley, of the M. E. church, reading the service. Charles H. Hobday was the youngest child of John and Minnie Hobday, and was born at the Notch, in Blooming Grove township, 27 years ago. He is survived by his parents and one brother and sister—S. W. Hobday, of Hawley, and Mrs. F. Roloson, of the Notch. The young man was a dutiful and industrious son, and seems always to have preserved an upright and blameless character, as a beautiful letter from the secretary of the Lodge of Railroad Trainmen, of Tucson, Arizona, received by the father after the arrival of the body, testifies. It was read by the minister in connection with the burial service at the grave. The body was laid to rest in Walnut Grove cemetery. His prostrated parents and sorrowing relatives generally are followed by sympathetic thoughts of a wide circle of friends.

After more than a year of suffering, Marilla Finch, wife of Enoch Noble Adams, passed away at her home at the West End, Gouldsboro, at 9 o'clock Tuesday evening, Nov. 8th, surrounded by many members of the family. She was born at Blakely, then in Luzerne county, December 18, 1834, and was one of the eight children of the late George Finch, of Covington township, Lackawanna county, a niece of Polly Ding Slocum, one of the Slocums that settled Slocum Hollow, now Scranton, and a granddaughter of Thaddeus Finch, mentioned in the history of Wyoming Massacre as having escaped death by doing a favor to an Indian chief the day before the massacre, the Indian appreciating the kindness of the white boy and in order that he should not be killed painted him and his life was spared.

On April 29, 1855, she was united in marriage to Enoch Noble Adams of Sterling, also a descendant of one of revolutionary fame and for whose scalp the English syndicate had offered a very large reward and who lived to be the first representative of the United States of America to the Court of St. James. The golden wedding anniversary of this happy marriage was celebrated April 29, 1905.

Mrs. Adams was the mother of eleven children, eight of whom are living; thirty-six grandchildren, and one great grandchild. She united with the M. E. church at Madisonville sixty years ago and has always been a faithful Christian, leading a truly Christian life every day in her home and at her daily duties. She was one of the first members of the Ladies' Aid society of the Gouldsboro M. E. church, and the president for many years. In her death the husband has lost a faithful devoted wife, and helpmate; the family a kind and loving mother and friend; the church a faithful worker, and the community one who was always willing to sacrifice her own comfort or pleasure to assist any that might need her.

They moved to Gouldsboro from Wanamie in 1877, purchasing what was then and has since been known as the White House, a large farm west of town. Their home has always been noted for its hospitality and kindly cheer. One son is at Dickson City, the rest settled here and have homes adjoining the homestead. She is survived by her husband and the following children: George Adams, Dickson City; Mrs. S. M. Fairless, Mrs. E. F. Sebring, Mrs. F. E. Bush, Mrs. George Trichter, Enoch Adams, Jr., Ira Adams and Stanley D. Adams, all of Gouldsboro; the following brothers and sisters survive her: John Finch, of Scranton; Mrs. Marie Simpson, who recently went to Washington, D. C.; Miss Jane Finch, Mrs. William Henry and Mrs. Benjamin Henry. The sincere sympathy of all their friends are extended to the family in their great bereavement.

The funeral services were held Friday afternoon at the house at half-past one and at the M. E. church at two o'clock, Rev. P. S. Lehman, the pastor, officiating. Interment was made in Lehigh cemetery.

Mrs. W. D. Orr died at her home in Calkins, Monday morning, November 14, at 9 o'clock, from the effects of a paralytic stroke which she sustained last summer. Mrs. Orr was getting ready to go to church Sunday evening, when she complained of feeling ill. She took to her bed and expired early Monday morning. No arrangements have as yet been made for holding the funeral services. Mrs. Orr enjoyed a wide circle of friends who deplore her early departure, she being only fifty-one years of age. She is survived by her husband, two sons, Horace and Dyson, and a sister, Mrs. Ella Sexton, Topeka, Kansas.
