Steps to bring about better conditions in the school houses in the rural districts and better buildings, where necessary, will be taken by the new State Board of Education's officers early in the coming year.

Dr. Nathan C. Schaeffer, the State Superintendent of Public Instruction, in his recent report called attention to the need of making improvements to the country schools and data that will enable the board to deal with the problem and perhaps to make some recommendations for State aid along that line when the Legislature meets will be collected.

This investigation of conditions in the rural schools will be among the first matters to be taken up by the new secretary of the board, Professor J. George Becht, when he arrives at Harrisburg next week. Dr. Schaeffer in his report and in recent addresses has declared that something must be done to better conditions in the country if the standard of education is to be maintained and the health of the pupils preserved.

Hiller and is an exemplary young man. He leaves Monday for Green Ridge. His many Honesdale friends wish him unbounded success in his new field of labor.

The name "Mason and Dixon's Line" has been popularly applied to the whole disjunctive line between free and slave soil, but properly it belongs only to the south boundary of Pennsylvania, surveyed by Charles Mason and Jeremiah Dixon, 1763-67. For over 100 years this line was a "bone of contention," and England finally sent Mason and Dixon to the colonies to make an official survey which was to be final. At the end of every fifth mile of this line a stone, brought from England, was placed, engraved on one side with the coat of arms of Lord Baltimore, and on the other with those of the Penns; while the intermediate miles were marked by smaller stones, 16 inches square and 18 inches high, bearing a large letter M on one side and P on the other. The line is 280 miles long.

Death of Dever Bennett.

Dever Bennett died at his home at Honesdale, Jan. 9, 1912. He had been a sufferer from heart trouble for many years but had been confined to bed only a few days before his death. Deceased was born April 2, 1855, in Pleasant Mount township where he spent most of his life with the exception of a few years in the south and the last six years at Honesdale. On Nov. 27, 1883, he was united in marriage to Harriet A. Peck by whom he is survived; also by the following children: Mrs. Jacob A. Reif, of Honesdale, Miss Mary Bennett, teacher of Hampton, N. J., Grace, Pearl, Robert and Wilhelmina at home. Deceased is survived by his mother, Mrs. Catherine R. Bennett, one brother, Arnett Bennett of Scranton, and one sister, Mrs. M. T. Yarus of Maple Grove. The funeral services were conducted at his late home Thursday afternoon by Rev. James Rainey of Aldenville. Interment in Glen Dyberry. The pallbearers were J. J. Perham, W. J. Ferber, Frank Shilling, George Blake and William H. Karslake.

Death of Rachel Saunders.

Rachael Saunders, widow of the late James W. Hayward, of Honesdale, died suddenly Wednesday evening of paralysis, after two hours' illness. Mrs. Hayward, who is in her 92d year, was in her usual state of health during the day until 9 o'clock in the evening when she was stricken. Death relieved her sufferings at 11:10 the same night.

Mrs. Hayward had made her home Hill, since the death of her husband, eighteen years ago. The death of William Hill, the hero of Monterey, Cal., last Friday, was a severe shock to Mrs. Hayward and resulted in her death.

The deceased was born at Lackawaxen, Pike county, June 2, 1820, and with her husband, the late J. W. Hayward, lived in different places in New York and Pennsylvania. She was the mother of the following children by whom she is survived: Mrs. William Hill, Honesdale; Mrs. W. C. MacElroy, Arlington, N. J.; Mrs. C. W. Hobbs, Middletown, N. Y.; John, of Stanhope, N. J., and Edward, of Hackensack, N. J.

Mrs. Hayward was a member of the Honesdale Central Methodist Episcopal church. The funeral will be held Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock from her late home at Blandin, Rev. W. H. Hiller officiating. Interment in Glen Dyberry cemetery.
