Customs Receipts Increase.

Washington, June 11.—The customs receipts of the Dominican republic are still increasing rapidly under American control, as shown by the fact that for the nine months ended April, 1912, they aggregated $2,083,530, an increase over the corresponding period of last year of $256,258.

Pure Food Law Upheld.

Washington, June 11.—The Iowa pure food law, enacted 1907, was sustained as constitutional by the supreme court of the United States.

GRAND JURY BUSINESS LIGHT

Only One Indictment Presented to June Grand Jury in Session Monday Afternoon—Other Court Business.

On Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock court opened to transact all court business coming before it on the Monday preceding the regular term. The constables returns were called. The grand jury was called, and excuses heard from those not present. G. W. Collins, of Cherry Ridge, was appointed constable and Ross N. Lee, of Preston, was appointed foreman. After the jury had been sworn Judge Searle instructed them in their duty to make known all cases where a violation of law had been made in their respective townships if any. He stated that it was their right and duty to discuss all these matters and to inspect the court house and out buildings and also the jail and make any recommendations that they thought best. As the contract for the repairing of the jail has been let the grand jury contented themselves in merely looking over the ground and making no recommendations. There was only one indictment presented for the jury's consideration by the district attorney. The case of Clarence E. Bond vs. Attorney Peter H. Hoff was presented to them and witnesses were called. The grand jurors were Eugene Babbitt, Honesdale; James Black, Lake; W. B. Brown, Buckingham; Fred Compton, Cherry Ridge; Walter D. Curtis, South Canaan; Fred Ehrhardt, Lebanon; William Flynn, Damascus; John Flanagan, South Canaan; Joseph Miller, Texas; Philip Miller, Texas; Henry McKane, Paupack; H. F. Nicholson, Salem; Chas. Rutledge, Damascus; Wesley J. Rice, Lebanon; Andrew Scott, Scott; R. A. Smith, Sterling.

The jury adjourned on Monday evening and on Tuesday morning they assembled in the court room at ten o'clock where they made their report. A true bill was found against Clarence E. Bond on the count of assault and battery. The count for attempt to kill was ignored by them.

Orphans' Court.

While the grand jury were out Judge Searle held Orphans' court when petitions were presented by the counsel.

In the application for the appraisal of real estate for Julia Quinney, widow of the late J. H. Quinney, of Honesdale, deceased, R. M. Stocker and Charles Dunning were appointed appraisers as prayed for.

F. A. Ehrhardt, of Sterling, was appointed by the court to act as guardian of Georgiana Phillips and Elva J. Phillips, minor grandchildren of W. F. Stevens, late of Sterling, deceased.

W. E. Perham was appointed guardian of Cora S. Peck, minor child of George E. Peck, deceased. Petition of guardian for private sale of real estate to Hoxie H. Wilcox approved.

The executors of Thomas J. Ham, late of Berlin, deceased, petitioned the court to mortgage real estate to pay off the debts. Authorized to mortgage premises for amount of $500 as prayed for in petition.

Edgar Tutthill, of Hawley, was appointed guardian of person and estate of Mrs. Wesley Tutthill, minor child of Thomas J. Ham, late of Berlin, deceased.

Court in Equity.

In the matter in equity of the property of Mrs. Barbara Haggerty, plaintiff, and Mrs. Mary Vogler, et al., defendant, M. E. Simons was appointed master to divide the property.

Miles A. Gibbons, plaintiff, Jas. Gibbons, defendant, in a bill of partition in equity. F. P. Kimble was appointed as master to divide and partition said lands in dispute.

Patrick Purcell was appointed township supervisor of Palmira township, to succeed Frank J. Hornbeck.

Frank Spry was appointed constable of Oregon township to succeed Henry Knorr who has removed from the district.

The constables appointed to wait upon the court beginning Monday, June 17, were: Alexander Crossley, Berlin; B. F. Blake, Bethany, and S. B. Corey, Sterling.

On March 30 a warrant was issued for the arrest of Turner Williams, section foreman of the Erie at Starrucra, by L. C. Mumford, J. P.

The warrant was issued on the oath of G. R. Reiph, of Scranton Erie police. About $14 worth of brass tools, etc., were found in Turner's house. He alleges that he had free use of the tools and other articles belonging to the Erie company and was permitted to take same home and return them whenever they were needed. The manuscript as presented to the district attorney did not name the place where the goods were found, the time or even charge the man with theft. On the motion of District Attorney M. E. Simons the return manuscript was quashed.

CARLEY BROOK.

(Special to The Citizen.)

Carley Brook, June 11. Henry Riefler is making a number of improvements on his place this spring.

The Ladies' Home Missionary Society will meet this week at Mrs. E. D. Penwarden Wednesday, June 12, at 2:30.

Miss Florence Boyce leaves on Tuesday for Kingston, Pa., where she will attend the commencement exercises. Miss Boyce will be accompanied home by her sister, Miss Marion, who graduates from there on June 12.

HOW ONE STATE CLEANED UP; HONESDALE BOY SCOUTS ATTENTION!

WHAT BOYS HAVE DONE AND WHAT OUR BOYS MAY DO TOWARD FLY EXTERMINATION.

The entire State of Kansas seems to have been engaged in the trapping and swatting of flies contest this past year. It is probable that there has not been an incorporated city in the State but what has had half a dozen or more large fly traps doing business throughout the various parts of the city, and there have been literally hundreds of bushels of flies destroyed in this manner. With what result? Simply this, that there were hundreds of bushels of flies less than there would have been otherwise, and a most stimulating lesson of the necessity for fighting the filth and garbage thrown about the streets and alleys. He pictured the sickness and suffering and death of both infants and adults from decaying vegetable and animal matter carried by flies into houses and onto food. The boys responded loyally, and sixty-six of them, nearly all good and tried scouts, signified their eagerness to help.

The Scouts were divided into five groups, corresponding to five divisions of the city. A leader was appointed for each group, and he was given a squad with gunny-sacks, another with rakes and another with ing flies incultured throughout the entire community. Fly-essay contests were conducted in the schools of the three largest cities in the State. Much interest was aroused and a great deal of literature was distributed previous to the time of writing the essays. I have reason to believe that these contests were instrumental in reducing the number of breeding places for flies. This is particularly true in the city of Topeka, where, from my own personal knowledge, there have been less flies than I have ever known before. It would befall to say, however, that probably the chief reason for the reduction of the number of flies in the city of Topeka is due to our splendid new incinerator and our modern system for the collection of garbage, including manure from the stables, and thus the breeding places for flies were removed and destroyed. However, this has been a voluntary matter so far as the collection of garbage was concerned; but I am in hopes that in another session the city, by ordinance, will compel every householder to remove his garbage and manure. It is my belief that the anti-fly agitation has been instrumental in bringing about a garbage collection system in a number of cities of our State; for as that has been the chief argument for the establishment of such a system, it should thus have the chief credit.

One of the most important lessons learned from this season's anti-fly campaign in Kansas is the value of the utilization of the boys' organizations of the state. The Boy Scout movement was utilized very successfully in a number of the cities of the State, and not only were the cities given a thorough cleaning of all of the city's waste, including bottles, cans, accumulated debris, garbage, manure piles and other trash, but flyswatters were manufactured and distributed free of cost; large traps built or purchased and installed throughout the cities; anti-fly ordinances framed and their passage secured and an organized effort made thereafter to see that they were enforced, which is the most stimulating and hopeful experience that I have thus far had in the anti-fly campaign. If this movement could be extended to the public schools of our State what might we not expect in the matter of civic cleanliness?

Cleaning the Town—What Boy Scouts Did For a Kansas City. From Olathe (Kan.) Register, May 25, 1911.

Olathe has always been a clean town, when compared with other towns in Kansas,—clean morally and physically. But there is an old adage "Nothing is clean that can be made cleaner," and it was certainly possible to make Olathe cleaner at least physically.

The Civic League, with Mrs. T. L. Hogue as president and Mrs. H. C. Hammond as chairman of the committee on sanitation, took charge of the movement for cleanliness. Mayor Gorsuch aided by issuing a proclamation declaring Saturday, May 20, a clean-up day,—and the Boy Scouts did the work.

On Friday Walter Burr, the leader of the Boy Scouts movement, spoke to the boys in the schools of the city, telling them the necessity of getting shovels. The work began at 7:30 Saturday morning, the Scouts assembling at the public square where they met the teams provided by the city, and started for their various sections.

The work was superintended by Mr. Burr, loyally assisted by Rev. W. A. Gardner and C. W. Haley. These men mated about with the boys, and showed their interest in the work by rolling up their sleeves and wielding a shovel whenever opportunity offered.

By the middle of the afternoon the boys had completed the work of raking into piles the empty cans and filth all over town, and the wagons hauled out over thirty loads to the dumping ground north of town. Afterward, all day Monday and Tuesday the city wagon was kept busy hauling out the piles that were left unmoved on Saturday.

From morning till night the day was a grand success, and a prominent citizen who had been at one time unfriendly to the Scout movement expressed the general opinion when he said, "the boys to-day have given a material demonstration of the worth of their organization."

But the Scouts say that their work has only begun—that they will not rest until garbage cans are placed on the streets with arrangements for emptying them regularly—nor until fly traps are placed bearing the legend "Will you step into my parlor?"—nor until fly-swatters are placed in every house in town—nor until certain forgetful citizens are notified to clean up manure and garbage piles which could not be reached from the streets or alleys on clean-up day. And they even have ambitions toward getting the state legislature to enact a law setting aside some day about the middle of May as a legal holiday for "Cleanings."

WILLIAM J. GAYNOR.

New York Mayor, Mentioned For Presidential Nomination.

New York, June 11.—The possibility of Mayor Gaynor for the Democratic presidential nominee was foreshadowed in an interview with National Chairman Norman E. Mack in this city.

Mr. Mack stopped over on his way to the Baltimore convention to confer with local leaders of the party.

The national chairman at first said it was too early to speculate as to who would be New York's candidate.

"However," he added, "while I cannot as national chairman discuss candidates, I can say that I find Gaynor very strong in my home city of Buffalo."

"How about the Gaynor sentiment in the rest of the state?" Mr. Mack was asked.

"I find Gaynor strong in every part of the state—in fact, I find him strong all over the country."

WAITERS' RIOT SHORT LIVED.

Police Prevent Demonstration at Dinner to German Fleet.

New York, June 11.—A demonstration by the striking waiters, who gathered in front of the Waldorf-Astoria while the dinner to the officers of the German fleet was in progress, was put down with ease by Lieutenant Becker and a strong arm squad of sixteen. The patrol automobile was kept in constant motion between the hotel and the police station.

There were six general engagements between the strong arm men and the waiters, which resulted in the arrest of strikers in groups ranging from ten to forty-two. Adding to these the stragglers who were arrested in twos and threes throughout the evening the total was close to 100.

Because of the danger of serious embarrassment to the city, if the strikers should interfere with the dinner to the guests from the German fleet, Commissioner of Police Waldo ordered a strong guard to be maintained at the Waldorf-Astoria. Forty uniformed police and thirty plain clothes men under Captain McElroy patrolled the hotel.

It looked as if these precautions were more than justified. The striking waiters marched by hundreds past the hotel.

THE CHESTNUT BLIGHT.

(Special to The Citizen.)

Philadelphia, June 10.—The chestnut tree bark disease has fully confirmed the unfavorable opinion regarding its destructiveness created at the beginning of its appearance in Pennsylvania, by reason of its gradual but certain spread over a large section of the Keystone State.

It is said that there are counties in South Eastern Pennsylvania in which fully 75 per cent. of the native chestnut is infected. Approaching the central and western counties, the percentage dwindles to a very small figure, and it is in that section where the most successful work towards its control and eradication can be done. It is at points where the infected trees are but very few in number and far apart that special efforts should be made to locate and wipe out the diseased trees.

By working in the territory where the infection is only slight, the blight can be checked and its further spread effectually halted, if there is no relaxation of the vigilance of the State authorities and continued co-operation of timber owners for a year or two. While there may be a diversity of opinion upon many points relating to the treatment of the menacing situation, it is generally conceded that at this time the best course to pursue is to have the field agents of the Pennsylvania Chestnut Tree Blight Commission scout all portions of the State to locate the points of the infection, and report the results to the owners and urge prompt and vigorous action wherever the blight may be found, in destroying the diseased trees. When infected trees are felled and the bark burnt and the adjacent timber is kept under close surveillance, according to instructions, the remaining timber will probably be saved.

New York and New Jersey experiences indicate very forcibly that indifference or delay will certainly occasion disastrous losses.

The field agents now traveling through the various counties of the Commonwealth in search of the blight have been trained for the special work, and it will be mutually advantageous for all persons interested to cooperate in the task of controlling the disease.

The spread and nature of the disease has been the live theme of forestry experts since its appearance in New York State in 1904, and Pennsylvania friends of Forestry conservation are determined to do all that lies within their means to check its further advance westward. The Commission has largely augmented its field force and earnestly requests the help and hearty co-operation which the important economic problem so fully deserves.

It is especially important that the District and Field Agents of the commission should be promptly informed as to all suspected cases of blight. If there are any doubts, whatever, regarding its identification or if the representatives of the commission cannot be located without delay, the commission should be addressed at 1112 Morris Building, Philadelphia, in order that the investigation can be expedited, and the proper remedial agency applied. This is the season when the blight will spread rapidly, if unchecked, and there is no class of persons who do not have a vital interest in forestry protection; consequently an awakening to the seriousness of the dilemma is of the greatest value and will result in much public good.

The commission has extended grateful acknowledgments to the press for the invaluable service it has rendered in calling the attention of the public to the chestnut blight, and recognizes that it is an almost indispensable factor in the campaign against this new, but terribly destructive fungous disease that threatens to exterminate all of our beautiful and valuable chestnut trees. It is a matter of serious importance, and the public generally should combine with the state authorities in combating the disease.
