THOUGHT FOR TODAY.

Other things may be seized by might or purchased with money, but knowledge is to be gained only by study.—Johnson.

We refer the Independent to its files about two years ago and there, in black and white, see how much boom-matter it contained concerning Honesdale.

OUR GURNEY EDITION SCORED A HIT.

That the Board of Trade, reading public, out-of-town newspapers, and people in general appreciated The Citizen's special write-up concerning the Gurney Electric Elevator company's proposed new establishment, which appeared in last Friday's issue, is evinced by the many complimentary and flattering remarks we have since heard.

The Citizen was the first Honesdale paper to present this exceedingly glad and good news to the public. Shortly after the paper had gone to press a bulletin containing the full details of this new acquisition for Honesdale, was placed at the entrance of the Citizen office on Main street.

PRESIDENTIAL ELECTORS.

In view of certain suggestions that have recently been made concerning the duties and privileges of presidential electors, it may be of interest to consider briefly their prerogatives under the federal constitution. This constitution was adopted in 1787 and the section relating to presidential electors was amended in 1804.

carried out in all presidential elections up to and including the election of 1796. The electors felt free to use their own judgment as to whom they should vote for, and there were many scattering votes in the electoral colleges. But in the fourth presidential election the line between the two great parties, Federalist and Republican, was closely drawn, each party put its candidate in the field, and electors were chosen, morally if not actually, pledged to vote for the candidate of the party that had appointed them.

It is hardly supposable therefore that any Republican presidential elector now nominated and to be chosen at the polls in November, will break away from the moral precedent established more than a century ago, and observed without a break to the present time.

BETHANY.

The Bethany choir went to Prompton Wednesday evening and gave the "Pink Rose" to a good sized audience. They were nicely treated by the Ladies' Aid at the ice cream social.

Miss Helen Manning returned from New York Wednesday to spend a few weeks at her home here. Clarence Portnam, of Tyler Hill, was a caller in town recently. Mrs. Henry Hoagland returned Thursday to her home here after spending a year with her daughter in Illinois.

WHITE MILLS.

White Mills, June 18. Mrs. Wm. H. Yahn, who has been spending a few days with Mr. and Mrs. E. Austin, returned to her home in New York City on Thursday.

Louis Wagner, Geo. Kimble, Rudolph Lobbs, John Williams and Joseph Stephens had a fishing party at Long Ridge pond on Saturday. After they had fished for some time and caught several pickerel they returned to shore where Frank Rombusk was engaged as chef to prepare a fine supper of fish soup.

Catarrh of Stomach

If you went to thirty doctors and paid each his fee for a prescription for indigestion or stomach misery it is ten chances to one you wouldn't get such a good prescription as the one from which MI-O-NA stomach tablets are made.

BOARD OF TRADE BULLETIN

No. 1. HONESDALE, PA., JUNE 19, 1912. Vol. 1.

[Published in the interest of Honesdale and vicinity.]

F. W. Kretzner, President. R. J. Murray, 1st Vice-President. S. T. Ham, 2nd Vice-President. Edward Deltzer, Treasurer. E. B. Callaway, Secretary.

E. B. Callaway, Editor.

It is your duty to become a member of the Greater Honesdale Board of Trade.

Brighten up your store fronts with a little paint, repair your sidewalks. Honesdale is entering into a new era.

If you want to see Honesdale grow, make it grow by becoming a member of the Board of Trade. Don't be a shirker.

If you are public-spirited and have the interest of your town at heart you need not wait to be approached to join the Board of Trade. Volunteer your services.

Honesdale has secured a new industry that will give employment to 300 men. That's the kind of enterprise that makes a town grow.—Scranton Tribune-Republican.

Now that the Greater Honesdale Board of Trade has engineered the proposition of the Gurney Electric Elevator company, making possible for this proposed large establishment to begin work at once, the Board begs to announce that in all probability the paving of Main street with brick will commence this fall.

It will be remembered that the Street and Highway committee of the Board of Trade presented a petition to the town council recommending the paving of Main street with brick. Another feather in the Board of Trade's cap.

Board of Trade More Than Name. The Pittston Gazette of last Friday, editorially, paid the following complimentary tribute to Honesdale and its progressive Board of Trade:

"The Greater Honesdale Board of Trade is more than a name. This is shown by the announcement that, after many months of negotiating and planning, it has succeeded in inducing the Gurney Electric Elevator Co., which does a business of a million and a half dollars a year, to locate its new manufacturing establishment in that town. The Honesdale Citizen devotes a large portion of its issue to-day to the interesting and instructive story of how the important transaction was accomplished. To show the magnitude of the task undertaken by a small town, it is only necessary to say that in order to secure the industry, it was necessary to raise $200,000, the money to be furnished as a loan to the elevator company, secured by five per cent. first mortgage bonds. Honesdale's banks got together and reached an agreement to take $170,000 of the issue, and members of the Board of Trade pledged the remaining $30,000. The site selected for the new industry comprises about five acres. Honesdale is naturally expecting to reap a large profit on this investment, not only in direct financial dividends, but also in employment provided for hundreds of skilled workmen who will make their home in the town and expend their earnings among Honesdale business men. The Greater Honesdale Board of Trade is certainly to be congratulated on its progressiveness and the success that has attended its latest effort to boost the industrial importance of the town."

That the little borough of Honesdale should be able to go out and get a big elevator plant which means the erection of a $200,000 building and employment of four hundred men is a big thing, and when it is realized that it expects to do a business close to $2,000,000 a year it impresses one emphatically.

Honesdale is one of the most delightful towns in this section of the state to live in. It is essentially an agricultural community. It has not the railroads that Scranton is blessed with, nor has it the fuel at the back door as has Scranton, but what it lacks in this it makes up in energy and enterprise and none will dare but say that it is entitled to the new industry. That it has a live board of trade is indicated by its success after a year's efforts to get the plant. What a fine thing it would be could Scranton get an industry of such magnitude, particularly since the Allied-Chalmers company closed shop. The big empty building that this company left is hard to pass by without feeling the loss it represented when the company quit here. Its windows are still boarded and its doors fastened. It is waiting for a tenant. Maybe the board of trade will get one.

That so big a building should stand idle in the heart of the city and with such facilities as are to be had is not creditable nor encouraging to the industries that remain. Surely somewhere in this country there is an industry to take its place. Honesdale got an elevator plant. Mayhap Scranton can not get one, but how about that automobile plant we heard of from time to time in the last year? The board of trade is devoting itself to getting a thousand members, and is meeting with reasonable success. It ought not to be forgotten, however, that a big membership is not always necessary to get an industry. Sometimes three men can do more than a hundred. The Scranton Board of Trade has good material in it and we do not doubt that properly directed energy will result in new industries to fill the gaps. As an example, Honesdale furnishes a lesson that is interesting and hopeful.
