A SAD ACCIDENT.

A Little Prattler Meets Death in a Water Closet.

John Braund, a coal miner, was called home from his work last Thursday afternoon to hear the sad news that his darling little girl, merely a babe, had met a horrible death in the water closet vault. Mary Ann was the little child's name and she was about eighteen months old. While the mother was making preparations to attend the M. E. Sunday school picnic to be held at DuBois on Friday, Mary had gone to the closet and fallen through the hole into the vault. Mrs. Braund missed her daughter and could not find her. It was announced to the neighbors that the child was lost and a thorough search was made. The lifeless body was found in the vault. In place of attending the picnic on Friday the sorrow-stricken parents followed the remains of their darling little girl to Beulah, the silent city of the dead. The funeral services were held at the residence of the parents at three o'clock Friday afternoon, conducted by Rev. E. T. Derr. Thus in the very morning of life, in the bloom of health, a little flower from an earthly home was transplanted into the Beulah-land of eternal joy and happiness. When the parents least expected the messenger of death visited their home.

Will Expend $5,000.00.

The directors of the Reynoldsville water company met in 'Squire Davis' office last Thursday evening and transacted business of importance. They decided to lay about two mile more of water main. The pipe will be extended to Cold Spring Hollow, up Worth street to the borough limit and across Sandy Lick to West Reynoldsville. The work will be done before snow flies. A new sixty horse power boiler will be put in at the pump house and a larger main will be laid from the pumps to the reservoir. The company expect to build a brick boiler house and smoke stack. Between five and six thousand dollars will be expended by the company. The water works are a great credit to the town. Reynoldsville is rather tardy in making improvements, but when we do get out of the lethargic atmosphere things are done about right. People were timid about the water works being one of the town's improvements and now they would not think of doing without the excellent supply of water of which we can boast.

The Timid Man.

The man that goes around all the time on tip-toe, timid and fearful, anxious to avoid trouble and all the time talking about it, hushing this one lest something may happen and encouraging timidity and repression in another when a storm is coming, running away from duty when "trouble" threatens, a padlock on his lips, is the very one to see a stormy ocean and help make it. Out upon such babyhood! Go ahead, and do your duty. Don't think of trouble, nor expect it. Treat people generously—confiding in them, and not stealthily opening closet doors to hunt up skeletons. When "trouble" comes don't be afraid of it, but meet it squarely, dealing with it in a conciliatory but brave and open spirit, and in a manly way.

Want $1.75 and Nine Hours.

[PUNXSUTAWNEY NEWS.] The laborers employed in the construction of the street railway struck for higher wages and shorter days on Monday. They held a consultation shortly after dinner and concluded to quit work. No one interfered and the work stopped except what the foreman did after the men had quit. We presume that the difficulty will be adjusted in some way in a short time.

Are Thankful.

The official board of the M. E. Sunday school acknowledge their appreciation and thanks to Hon. S. B. Elliott and Mr. Geo. Mellinger for their kindness in furnishing the school with free transportation to Falls Creek and return, and also to Mr. C. E. Bostwick for use of his Electric Park and for his personal efforts to make it pleasant for the picknickers. COMMITTEE.

Big Coal Shipment.

We clipped the following article out of the Clearfield Public Spirit of last week, which explains itself: Reynoldsville ships more coal from their town daily than the entire Houtzdale region does weekly. That is the way Tom Reynolds put it at Honesdale on the editorial jaunt several days ago when asked as to the output of Reynoldsville. Tom's answer was, "About 3,200 cars daily."

A $1,207.46 Pension.

Through the untiring efforts of E. Neff, Mrs. Mary J. Ferrier, relict of John Ferrier, received a pension last week that will go a long way in providing for her wants while sojourning on this mundane sphere. Her back pension amounted to $1,207.46. She will hereafter receive $12.00 per month for herself and $2.00 per month for her son until September, 1893.

Mrs. Isaac Cochran, on Main street, has finished a quilt that contains 7,232 patches. Any person having sufficient curiosity to see the quilt can do so by calling at the lady's residence.

Iron King shoes for men at Robinson's at $2.50 and $2.75.

THREE NEW ORDINANCES.

Canvassers and Transients will Pay into the Borough Coffer.

The Councilmen met at Thos. H. Scott's office on Monday evening and disposed of the business that came before them. Three ordinances were presented and become a law. One was for canvassers or those who solicit orders for almost all salable articles. Three dollars per day will be the amount asked by the borough for such privilege. Ordinance No. 2 provides for transient business. The party or parties who come here to do business for a short time will be required to pay not less than twenty-five dollars per month. Ordinance No. 3 is the fire limit law, which embraces Main street to Cole alley, at the Baptist church. All persons who hereafter erect wooden buildings within the fire limit will have to pay the borough three hundred dollars.

The three new ordinances are good ones and the council deserve credit for passing them. Men soliciting orders for various articles have become entirely too numerous in Reynoldsville. The people are most generally swindled, and then the men who are in business here and who help support the town and its institutions heretofore have had no protection from such intruders. Hereafter the "installment plan" gentlemen and all other agents will pay their three dollars per day or not play. The fire limit is one that should have been born years ago for the beauty of the town and good of all concerned.

A petition was presented to the "Borough dads" requesting them to take some action in having Main street graded and paved from Russ to Tenth street.

Bills to the amount of $218.98 were presented to the council and ordered to be paid.

Badly Frightened.

An individual who is visiting friends in town imbibed freely of "tangle-foot" last Friday and late in the evening got into John Beck's residence on Grant street and gave Mrs. Beck quite a fright. She was up stairs putting her children to bed when the drunken man entered the house, left his coat in the front room, took off his shoes and socks in the kitchen, went up stairs quietly and was just ready to get into bed when Mrs. Beck heard a slight noise in the room adjoining the one in which she and the children were in. She said, "Is that you John?" and the answer she received was emphasized with an oath, "I am going to bed." Mrs. Beck, though badly frightened, ordered the man to dress himself and get out of the house immediately, in the mean time she was not long in getting down stairs. The fellow reluctantly re-dressed, but not very rapidly, as he had turned his pants on inside out when taking them off, and—"hic"—he couldn't—"hic"—get in them again without considerable difficulty. The old gentleman had better be more careful in entering houses for he may either get a warm reception or be put to bed at hotel de Hays.

Better Roads.

The Clarion Republican expresses itself as follows on the road question: "The subject of roads is getting to be an important one; a much discussed one. And well it might. It is not the cities simply which should have good thoroughfares, but the country towns. Good roads means less power to pull a load. By good roads the farmer can get his product to market at one-third less cost. Is not this a great gain? The merchant may not drive a fast horse, but he is interested in having good roads for his suburban customers to drive over. If good roads mean less power, less wear and tear on vehicles, and less time to get to and from market, then why is not a reasonable outlay economy?"

September Court.

[Brookville Republican.] By order of Judge Clark there will be two weeks of court at the September term. The first week, commencing September 5th, and Monday and Tuesday of the second week, has been set apart for the trial of criminal cases. But twelve Common Pleas cases have been placed on the trial list, Wednesday, December 14th, being designated as the time for taking up the civil list.

ELECTRIC LIGHT.

Good Prospects for a Street Car Line and a Park.

There is no secret in the fact that Reynoldsville is coming to the front rapidly and the growth is not a "Jonas' gourd" affair, but a substantial one. The citizens are rather slow about grasping the fact that this town has a bright future, yet they are commencing to see the glimmering on the horizon and will soon be more willing to put their shoulders to the wheel and help along anything that will be for the town's best interest. We were informed on Saturday by a gentleman who has money to invest and who is becoming interested in the project, that the prospects are very good for an electric plant in Reynoldsville and a street car line. The same gentleman says there is a piece of land near the suburbs that will make an excellent park. There are no reasons under the sun why we should not have our town illuminated with electric lights; and a street car line would certainly be a paying investment.

Now when this thing is agitated let all the old croakers in town get up in line and hold up their hands in horror and exclaim loudly, it will be a failure! Will sink money! the town cannot afford it! &c., &c., then pack their grips and seek some quiet nook in the rural district out of the din of a live town that will not be circumscribed. The great trouble with Reynoldsville has always been a fear held by her citizens of investing money in anything that had the least taint of a financial venture. It is right that a man make wise investments with that for which he has labored, but when there is little or no risk at all, then cold water should not be thrown upon any efforts that others might suggest. The town will be just what the citizens make it. If we get a street car line within a year after it is running the citizens will think they were foolish for not having such transportation long ago.

Sunday School Picnic.

The M. E. Sunday school held their annual picnic in the Electric Park at DuBois last Friday. Five cars were chartered and the tickets were sold at the nominal sum of five and ten cents, and were sold only to the members of the church. The school is so large that outsiders could not be included in the excursion. The railroad company were unable to furnish more than four cars going to the picnic, but five were used coming home. Five hundred people were packed into four coaches. Everything passed off pleasantly until after the little chaps had enjoyed the good things provided to satisfy a juvenile picnicers appetite and the officers and teachers of the school were eating dinner when a heavy storm came up and caused a great commotion in the large pavilion, where the tables had been set. The rain, wind, lightning and thunder joined together to make the storm a furious one, while babies cried, boys and girls screamed and women got extremely nervous, others stood around with both hands full of eatables munching away. The sight was indeed an amusing one, and some who are usually nervous during heavy storms could not help but laugh at the scene. After dinner the picnic ground was entirely deserted and the afternoon was spent in various ways until five o'clock when the homeward trip was made.

The Electric Park is an excellent place to hold a picnic and Mr. E. C. Bostwick, superintendent of the street car lines, who is a very pleasant and accommodating gentleman, personally looks after the comforts of the picnicers at their park.

Dashed into Coal Cars.

Engine 3, the iron horse with which John Murphy has hauled passengers over the Low Grade for many years, was stripped of its power at Oak Ridge last Wednesday morning by dashing into some coal cars that had been pushed too close to the main track by the Oak Ridge company's engine. The switch is on a sharp curve and the engineer did not see the danger until within about 75 feet of it, but he did not desert the engine he loves next to his wife and family. The air brakes were applied, but the train had been speeding along at a two minute rate and could not be stopped until the engine, baggage car and smoker were ready for repairs. Barring a good shaking up, no one was much the worse for the accident, yet two or three of the trainmen had narrow escapes. Engine 3 was immediately sent to the shops at Verona as a "dead engine." The east bound mail was three hours late at this place on account of the wreck. Railroad accidents, especially to passenger trains, are an uncommon occurrence on this road. It was on this same curve that the disastrous collision between a passenger and freight train occurred early in the history of the road.

West Clearfield had a sixteen thousand dollar fire last Friday morning. The firemen were unable to successfully combat the fire fiend on account of a scarcity of water.

The school board of Winslow township ask for sealed proposals for building three new school houses. See their notice in another column of this issue.
