 The edge of a very heavy storm struck Reynoldsville about three o'clock Monday afternoon.  A Winslow township farmer has given the names of a number of people, whom he claims trespassed on his lands while gathering berries, to a Justice of the Peace in this place and the Justice is to collect a certain amount of "coin of the realm" from each person whose name appears on the list.  M. Geisler, the merchant tailor, was on a step ladder near a window doing some work at his home Monday afternoon and he lost his equilibrium and fell off the ladder and ran his right hand into the window. The back of his hand was so badly cut that the doctor had to put five stitches in it when he dressed the hand.

Exasperating Insects.
 Mosquitos, small insects having sharp pointed proboscis, by means of which they puncture the skin and suck the blood of the rich or poor if given an opportunity, need no introduction to the denizens of this town, as they are more numerous here than they have ever been before. As a result there is quite a demand for screens for doors and windows.

Nowell Meeker was the bicyclist from this place and he and his bicycle escaped without damage, notwithstanding the Spirit's statement to the contrary. It was the Punxsutawneyite who was "damaged considerably himself although not seriously."

Death of Mrs. A. C. Hopkins.
 Mrs. Julia Taylor Hopkins, wife of Hon. A. C. Hopkins who owns the large saw mill near Reynoldsville, died at her home in Lock Haven last Wednesday morning after a brief illness. Mrs. Hopkins had a number of warm friends in this place who learned of her death with sadness. The deceased was born at Troy, Pa., Jan. 4th, 1845, and was, therefore, over 51 years old. The Lock Haven Express says: "She was a woman of lovely disposition, and her kindness of heart and pleasing manner endeared her to a large circle of acquaintances, who deeply sympathize with the bereaved relatives."

A Bonanza Strike.
 Newspapers, letters and a telegram received by J. B. Arnold confirms the report that the richest gold mine in the world has been opened up in the Abe Lincoln mine at Cripple Creek, Col. The vein running through the mine assays as high as $200,000 to the ton, and the gold region has not seen such excitement since the days of the great strikes in California in 1849, as now exists at Cripple Creek. Stock can't be bought at any price. The following are among some of the persons at this place who own considerable stock in this mine: F. K. Arnold and wife, J. B. Arnold and wife, W. B. Alexander and wife, F. K. Alexander and Frank P. Alexander.

Double Runaway—Narrow Escapes.
 Yesterday afternoon H. S. Belnap and Amos Strouse were driving from Rathmel to Reynoldsville in a buggy behind a spirited span of horses and just after making the turn on to the pike below Fuller's house, one of the horses kicked and got one leg over the buggy tongue and broke it and then the horses ran off. The stub end of the tongue ran into the ground near the little bridge and upset the buggy, throwing Belnap and Strouse into the run, with the buggy top on top of them. Mr. Belnap was knocked unconscious and Mr. Strouse thinks he would have drowned in a few minutes had he not been there to hold his head out of the mud and water. Mr. Belnap received an ugly cut on the chin and was badly bruised and shaken up. Mr. Strouse escaped with slight bruises, torn clothes and eight dollars short. He had thirteen silver dollars in his pocket and eight of them rolled out and were buried in the mud in the run. Both men looked as if they had been wallowing in the mud. After the two men were thrown out of the buggy the horses continued at a break-neck speed until they caught up to J. H. Bell, superintendent of the mines, who did not hear the runaways approaching until it was too late to get out of the way. Mr. Bell was thrown out of his buggy and his horse ran away and the other team was stopped. Mr. Bell escaped without serious injury and his buggy was not damaged much. The first buggy was considerably damaged.

Buried Yesterday.
 Mrs. Nancy Clawson, aged about sixty-five years, who had been in poor health the past eighteen months, died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Aaron Richards, at New Kensington, Pa., at 12:30 P. M., Sunday, July 26th. Her remains were brought to the home of her son, Holland Clawson, on the 6:57 P. M. train Monday, and at 2:00 P. M. yesterday were taken to the M. E. church in this place where the funeral services were conducted by Rev. John Wellington Crawford, pastor of the church. The mortal remains of Mrs. Clawson were placed beneath the sod in Baulah cemetery. The deceased was a member of the Church of God at Rathmel. Mrs. Clawson, who has been a widow twenty-five years, is survived by six children, the youngest of whom is about twenty-eight years old. The children are as follows: Mrs. Samuel Brison, William Clawson, Rathmel, Holland Clawson, Reynoldsville, Mrs. Aaron Richards, R. E. and Henry Clawson, New Kensington.

Is it Collectable?
 The supervisors of Winslow township have been charging fifty cents and mileage for serving notices on the land owners of the township to destroy the Canada thistles on their lands. The law is not explicit on this point and it is a question whether a supervisor has a right to collect the fifty cents and mileage from the land owner, if he complies with the notice within five days after it has been served, or whether the township shall pay the supervisors two dollars per day for the time required to serve the notices. If the person or persons notified refuse to cut and destroy the thistles within the five days' notice, then the officer can cut down the thistles and recover compensation at the rate of two dollars and fifty cents per day for himself or other persons so employed, and the officer serving the notices shall likewise be entitled to a fee of fifty cents, together with six cents mileage.

Look for them this Evening.
 The ladies of the W. C. T. U. held a festival in the Rea building last evening. The "Y's" of DuBois were to have come down, but they failed to get here. It is likely that the unfavorable appearance of the weather kept them at home. The ladies will hold a festival this evening in the same building and the DuBois young people are expect to attend.

Do You Contemplate a Vacation?
 At this season of the year most every person who can do so takes a vacation, and it is the proper thing to do, if it is only for a day. Chautauqua is a great summer resort which can be reached at a small expense by the citizens of Reynoldsville over the B. & P. R'y from Falls Creek. The Chautauqua program for this year has been prepared with the usual care by those whose business it is to secure the talent for this world-renowned educational centre. Aside from its educational advantages it is a charming spot. The town is built upon heavily wooded natural terraces which slope gently to the shore of Chautauqua Lake, a lovely sheet of water twenty miles in length. The beautiful undulating country in the vicinity offers many attractive drives. The air is cool and invigorating. The streets and avenues of this city wind gracefully in and out among the trees, or stretch like leafy tunnels through the forest. More than six hundred dwellings are scattered in orderly arrangement through the groves, about the parks and by the lakeside. Chautauqua is not only beautiful, but is safe from fire. The water is pure and abundant. A large reservoir back among the hills is a source of protection against fire. A regularly organized fire company is in service throughout the entire year. The sanitation is excellent. For many years the streets and parks have been lighted by arc electric lamps. Though the annual life of this city is brief, yet it offers attractive opportunities to shoppers. Every morning the Chautauqua citizens consult the Herald or the bulletins posted daily throughout the grove, to see what the "program" offers. They read a list of lectures, concerts and entertainments, decide which to attend and then make their plans accordingly. Thus all have a common interest in what is going on; talk at table and elsewhere deals with topics suggested by lectures and studies, and thus Chautauqua life stimulates social intercourse and good conversation. The very air is laden with a stimulation for a desire to obtain knowledge. Besides, there are ample means of recreation provided. A dozen tennis courts are filled from morning till night, base ball matches are of frequent occurrence, six-oared crews are in constant training. In the twilight while the band plays, scores of boats glide to and fro. The bathing beach is safe and constantly under the eye of a watchful bathing master. Every evening the great amphitheatre is filled with citizens listening to music or dramatic readings, watching stereopticon views thrown upon the screen, admiring beautiful tableaux, or eagerly awaiting the result of a spelling or pronunciation match. Chautauqua life is national, interesting, elevating, truly recreative.

Help a Little.
 Your town paper tells you when to go to church, to county court and when to send your children to school, or anywhere you want to go. It calls attention to public enterprises, advocates good order in town. It tells you who is dead, who is married, and many other things you would like to know. It sets forth the advantages and attractions of your town and invites immigration, and is the first to welcome new-comers. Yet too many people do not even support a home paper to the extent of a subscription, but borrow their neighbor's paper. Death From Typhoid Fever.
 R. W. Clarke, only son of Prothonotary W. D. Clarke, and his assistant in that office, died at his home at 11:30 o'clock this morning. He was confined to his bed for just two weeks, and his disease developed into a malignant case of typhoid fever, which defied all the remedies known to the medical profession. The deceased was aged about twenty years, and a young man of great promise, who made hosts of friends since his residence at the county seat. He was the pride and hope of his parents, who have the sincere sympathy of the community in their great sorrow. —Brookville Republican.
