ROYAL ARCANUM ANNUAL PICNIC

Beautiful Day—Large Crowd—Visitors Well Pleased—Amusements Given as Advertised.

According to program the picnic of the District Association of the Royal Arcanum was ushered in with music by the Keystone band of Reynoldsville. The day was all the most ardent picnicers could desire—clear, bright, and a soft balmy breeze. There were over 3,500 visitors in the park and on the streets during the day.

On the arrival of trains full of visitors they were met by the committees and band and escorted to Frank's park to be greeted by their friends and acquaintances of other reunions. After a call to order and a few introductory words from M. J. Farrell, president of the picnic association, prayer was offered by Rev. W. F. Reber to the Great Supreme Ruler of all for the many royal favors bestowed on his people and the Royal Arcanum particularly.

The next speaker was the Rev. D. W. Ebberts, Grand Chaplain of the order in Pennsylvania. Dr. Ebberts spoke in part as follows: Stating he came to present the greetings of the Grand Officers of Keystone state, and express approbation of the zeal and fraternal spirit of this Central District Association of the Royal Arcanum. In this state there are nearly twenty-three thousand members. The entire membership of the order is nearly two hundred thousand. He described the two systems of insurance, fraternal and legal reserve. Fraternal furnish sound insurance at less cost than legal reserve people do because their expenses are at a minimum. The Royal Arcanum has in force $500,000,000 of insurance and the total expense is $780,000. This maintains subordinate, grand and supreme councils. Transfer this to a legal reserve company and the expense would amount to $3,999,356. Prov. L. and I. to $6,198,696. Mutual Life N. Y. At once we see the Arcanum as sound at a much less cost to the members pro rata than legal reserve. The Royal Arcanum has paid to its beneficiaries in 22 years the sum of $52,000,000, in Reynolds alone $18,000. With economical management continued with a rapidly increasing emergency fund, the future of the Royal Arcanum is insured. Of nearly 800 legal reserve companies chartered within the last fifty years, but 56 are now doing business. The balance have ceased and their policyholders are about the streets deploring their loss, while not one order of the fraternal union has failed. For nearly eight centuries fraternal societies have been in existence, and never more successful than now. This foretells an abiding through the centuries yet to come. The magnificent history of the Royal Arcanum, with its splendid membership, bonded by the mystic chain of true brotherhood, behooves us to work for the spread of the grand principles of Virtue, Mercy and Charity. That thousands more may enjoy the noble benefits of our most wonderful order.

Music of the Keystone band made the call for dinner, bringing the guests with their children from the chair swings and other amusements. The jolly, laughing crowds were soon comfortably seated at the tables. Tables were arranged for the visiting councils of Curwensville, Clearfield, Phillipsburg, Ridgway, Tyrone and Punxsutawney and their guests. The tables and stands were ample for over 2,000 people and were filled with all manner of substantial and delicacies for the inner man. Every seat was taken up and the hotels of the town crowded to their utmost capacity, while the supply stand of the Ladies' Relief Corps had good attendance, running short in ice cream and other luxuries before closing hour.

Promptly at 1.35 p. m. the visitors with their attendants moved to the silk mill. We regret to learn that they were stopped by irresponsible parties and a tribute demanded of them, where our court never declared a toll to be levied. For this outrage the Royal Arcanum is in no manner connected or to be censured. At the silk mill and all were conducted through the works by the kindness of Mr. Greenbaum and his assistants.

Dancing began on the arrival of Prof. Roscoe's orchestra at 1.40 p. m. and continued throughout the afternoon until 7.00 o'clock.

The bicycle parade moved out from park at 2.00 p. m., up to Seventh street and down Main to A. V. station, back to Seventh street and thence to park. The judges were at Frank's Tavern with the visiting bands. The contestants carried numbers. The first prize, the Cycle Poco camera, was awarded to Roman E. Koehler, foreman of THE STAR office, for most artistically decorated wheel. His wheel was decorated to represent a sailing vessel, the hull being a light frame and covered with roses and laurel flowers. The three masts and other rigging, together with sails were pure white. A flag of the Royal Arcanum colors floated from the foremast, one bearing the number, "4," from the main mast, and the American flag from the rear. The rider, dressed in a white suit, sat in the center of the floral craft to propel it. The prize for most comical appearance, an acetylene gas lamp, was awarded to Wallace Mitchell. His bicycle was a fine piece of workmanship a dozen years ago, being one of the first safeties sold in this section. A lantern, an alarm clock, &c., tied to the frame gave it a striking appearance. A large number of other bicycles with their riders were gotten up in a splendid manner, showing taste and art and really should have had prizes for their beauty and design.

Base ball began at 3.00 p. m., visitors being escorted to grounds by Keystone band of Reynoldsville.

Cake walk took place at 3.15 p. m. The winner was a visitor from Curwensville, name not at hand.

The girls' whistling contest began at 4.00 p. m., eight girls participating. All were equally good and the decision was by letter test, guessing first letter on first page of an unopened book. The prize, a lady's gold chatelaine watch, was awarded to Miss Nellie Goheen, a visitor from New Bethlehem, Pa.

Boys' double foot race began at 4.30 p. m. The first prize, a boy's silver watch, was won by Glenn Burns, a boy ten years old. The second race, boys of eight years, prize was a pearl handle, four bladed pocket knife, won by an Italian boy who was too much elated to stop and give his name.

While the bands were playing the delegates held a meeting to decide place and officers for next year's picnic, 1900. The place voted on was Curwensville; the president, W. R. Sweeney; secretary, George Ketteberger.

After the meeting came supper and refreshments, which continued to 6.30 p. m. Before the leaving of guests it was proposed by members of different councils, in case the Curwensville council was satisfied, to pro rate among all councils to raise funds for next year's picnic and turn all over to Reynoldsville council for picnic next year, at same time, same place and same management. This was certainly a high endorsement of the fifth annual picnic, whose success was largely due to kindness of F. A. McConnell and the generous well wishing people of Reynoldsville who so willingly entered into the spirit of the occasion, and to whom the officers and members of Century 789 tender their most sincere thanks.

At 8.00 p. m. all trains had departed and our home council remained at the park to clear up the grounds and chat over the pleasures of the day, all anxious for a return of Royal Arcanum picnics and their attending happiness.

Our citizens concede that this was the finest arranged, best conducted and most enjoyable picnic ever held in Reynoldsville, and that the order should feel proud of the fact.

Thankful words written by Mrs. Ada E. Hart, of Groton, S. D. "Was taken with a bad cold which settled on my lungs; cough set in and finally terminated in Consumption.
