Two boys were standing in front of window and must have leaned up against it too hard. Benjamin Haugh, a Winslow township school director, was standing on Main street Friday afternoon talking to a friend and in blowing his nose he bursted a blood vessel. A doctor had to be called to stop the flow of blood. Millard F. It is better to give a button hole bouquet to a man while he is living than to go to his bier with a wreath of flowers. Mr. Martin and bride are prominent young people of New Bethlehem. The musical and ice cream festival given in Centennial hall Monday evening under the auspices of the Salvation Army was well patronized. The DuBois corps and officers, numbering about 35, were here to assist Captain Urban and Lieutenant Batchelder. Staff Captain March of Oil City, who is a fine singer and good talker, was also present. Frank A. McConnell, proprietor of Frank's Tavern, is building a two-story case brick next to Hotel McConnell billiard room. Mr. McConnell has not fully decided yet what the first floor will be used for, but it is very likely Robt. J. Thomas will move his barber shop into it. The second floor will be fitted up as an annex to Frank's Tavern. William E. Lucas, of Brookville, a plumber of eight years' experience, who has been working for Hall, Barton & Co. for some time, will open a plumbing, gas fitting, &c., shop in this place. He will occupy one of the store rooms that H. Alex. Stoke is now moving on to lot back of gas office. Mr. Lucas ordered his stock with expectation of his room being ready the first of this month, but the room is not ready yet. The annual convention of the Jefferson County Christian Endeavor Union was held in the Presbyterian church at Johnsonburg last Wednesday and Thursday. A large number of delegates were present and the convention was very interesting. The following officers were elected for the ensuing year: President, Rev. C. L. Bradshaw; vice president, I. P. Neff; secretary, Miss Sadie Swift; treasurer, Miss Ella Barnum; corresponding secretary, Miss Belle Arnold. The next session of the convention will be held at Corsica.

Stole a Widow's Apples. One night last week some person stole 20 bushels of maiden blush apples from Mrs. S. M. Rhoads. This Association is composed of Camps of Jefferson, Clearfield and Clarion counties, and a large crowd is expected to be at the reunion to-morrow. Good speakers will be present. Ready for Operation. The Star Glass Company plant and all employees are ready for work, but the plant cannot be operated until the trouble between the L. A. 300 and the Flatteners' Association is adjusted, and no one knows when that will be. It may be soon and it may not, but it is hoped by all interested here that the matter will be adjusted soon. School Opened Monday. The public schools of this borough opened Monday morning and after a two hours' session was dismissed for the day on account of it being Labor Day. Yesterday the pupils took up the work in earnest. There is no reason why this should not be the best term of school ever known in this borough. If the pupils will apply themselves to their studies this will be the best term. Close of Conference Year. Next Sunday Rev. Perry A. Reno, pastor of the M. E. church, will preach his last sermon at this place this conference year and will go to Punxsutawney the following Tuesday to attend the annual conference. Rev. Reno has been very successful during the year's pastorate at Reynoldsville. He and his estimable wife and daughter, Miss Amy, are well liked, not only by members of the M. E. church, but by many outsiders. The official board will send a unanimous request to conference that Rev. Reno be returned to Reynoldsville again. Afternoon Party. Miss Bertha Marshall entertained thirty-two lady friends at her beautiful home on Hill street last Wednesday afternoon from 2.30 to 6.00. The amusement was progressive anagrams. There were two prizes given. Miss Harriet Sandt got first prize and Miss Christine Brown second prize. Elegant refreshments were served at 5.30. It was a jolly bevy of ladies. The out of town guests were: Frances and Laura Brady, Laura Heldrick, Besse Lawson, Harriet Sandt and Harriet Murphy, of Brookville, and Mrs. Elmer Hyatt, of Kusbekua, Pa. The Brookville ladies assisted Miss Bertha in receiving her guests. Rear End Collision. A rear end collision occurred on the Low Grade Division Monday afternoon at Rattlesnake water plug, about half way between Brookville and Summer-ville. Train 70 ran into rear end of train 64. Engine No. 37 and eight cars were badly wrecked. No person injured. The eastbound trains were late Monday evening on account of the collision. The track was not cleared in time for trains 13 and 1 to get through at noon yesterday and the passengers had to be transferred. A special train with mail, Pittsburg papers, baggage and express arrived here about four o'clock yesterday afternoon. The collision occurred in a cut and that is why it took so long to clear the track. Labor Day "Doings." Mazomania Tribe, No. 341, Improved Order of Red Men, had charge of the "doings" in this place on Monday—Labor Day—which consisted of an ox roast, clam bake and dance in Frank's Park. The famous Keystone band and several of the lodge officers went to the 8.38 a. m. train to meet the Red Men from DuBois. Quite a delegation from Falls Creek and other places came into town on this train, while many others drove in, making a good sized crowd of strangers in town. The crowd was not as large at Frank's Park at noon as the Red Men had expected, yet they fed a large number of people. The dance was started early in the afternoon and was kept up until a late hour. The rain meant quite a loss to the Red Men, however, they made some money out of the affair. "Indians" vs. "Cyclone." General Manager George Washington Lane's aggregation of football players was on the warpath Monday afternoon and could not be turned out of the way by even a "Cyclone," which blew in here from DuBois about 3.00 p. m. In the first half neither side scored but in the last half the "Indians" walloped the "wind" out of the "Cyclone" and the score stood 6-0 in favor of Lane's "Indians," the home team. Rain spoiled the game somewhat for spectators but the football players were not annoyed by a little dampness. The Reynoldsville line up was as follows: Center, Jim Howlett; right guard, Bert Burns; left guard, John Doubles; right tackle, George Heckman; left tackle, Arthur Barkley; right end, Ralph Kirk; left end, Fred Foley; quarter back, Fred Bohren, full back, Reynolds Gibson; left half back, Frank Bohren; right half back, Frank Foley.

J. B. ARNOLD RESIGNED. Will go to Philadelphia Oct. 1st, Where He Has a Good Position. James B. Arnold, a stockholder in the Reynoldsville Woolen Co. and book-keeper for the company, tendered his resignation Monday evening to take effect the latter part of this month, and October 1st he will go to Philadelphia to accept a lucrative position with a wealthy company as manager of their business in the eastern part of this state. For good reasons Mr. Arnold need not care to have name of company published at present. He says the company has an office in New York City and also offices in fifteen other cities. Mr. Arnold, who has resided in this place twenty-six years, has been prominent in business circles during that time as cashier of bank, dry goods merchant and proprietor of woolen mill. The F. K. Arnold & Co. bank, the first bank in Reynoldsville, was opened by James B. twenty-six years ago. "Jim" was then a youthful chap to have charge of the opening of a bank. Some years afterwards he entered the mercantile business and was one of our prominent and successful merchants for a number of years. On account of poor health he sold his dry goods store five years ago and bought an interest in the Reynoldsville Woolen mill. Mr. Arnold and wife have both been active workers in the Presbyterian church and Sunday school for many years, and will be missed by that congregation. Mr. Arnold expects to move to the "City of Brotherly Love" as soon after the first of October as possible. Harold E. Arnold, the only son of Mr. and Mrs. Arnold, has been offered a position on the Philadelphia Saturday Evening Post. Harvest Home Picnic. The Strouse Church Sunday school, of Paradise, held a harvest home picnic in Ludwick's grove last Thursday. It was an ideal day for an outing, the grove is a delightful place for a picnic and the people evidently were out for a day of pleasure. A large platform, with seats enough in front of it to accommodate three or four hundred people, had been built for this special occasion. Lewis Ludwick, superintendent of the Sunday school, was master of ceremonies and before the noon hour he called the assemblage to order and delivered a hearty address of welcome, after which the choir made the forest ring with sacred song. Rev. W. Selner, pastor of the church, offered an earnest prayer, then another selection by choir, followed by an address from Rev. Selner. This was followed by a very important part of the day's "doings," disposing of the good things to eat, of which there was an abundance. The hospitality of the Paradise people is not surpassed in this section of the country. Several prominent speakers were booked for the afternoon program, but they failed to materialize and the hours were spent in a social way by the older folks and a game of ball was amusement for the young people. Congressional Conference. The congressional conference of the twenty-first district, which met in Indiana on Tuesday of last week and remained in session until Thursday, resulted in a deadlock. The candidates for Armstrong and Westmoreland, Major Joseph G. Beale, of Leechburg, and H. F. Seanor, of Greensburg, united their forces to prevent a nomination. Hon. S. M. Jack, of Indiana, conceded the nomination to Jefferson's candidate, Hon. W. O. Smith, and asked Messrs. Seanor and Beale to unite with him in making the nomination. He said that if Indiana could not get a second term, the nomination should go to Jefferson county, as Armstrong and Westmoreland had both had it twice, and Indiana once, since Jefferson. Messrs. Seanor and Beale were not disposed to consider the equity in the case, and persisted in deadlocking the conference. The conference adjourned to meet in Kittanning on Tuesday, September 11th, when, if a nomination is not made, which does not appear probable, the state committee will intervene and settle the matter. The state committee, looking at the matter from an unprejudiced standpoint, cannot do otherwise than concede the nomination to Jefferson. Killed in Big Soldier Mine Yesterday. Carlo Soubretti, an Italian, was so badly injured in Big Soldier mine yesterday afternoon that he died several hours after accident. Four doctors worked hard to save his life. Soubretti was a stranger around the mine, only having worked there two days, and he was coming out on wrong track—rope haulage track—and was run down by a trip of cars. About 30 cars ran over him. His left leg was torn off, three or four ribs broken, head cut and body otherwise mutilated. Carlo was about 38 years old. He had waited several weeks for a job in Big Soldier. Birthday Surprise Party. Members of the Baptist church and friends gave Miss Anna Reynolds a birthday surprise party last evening. Among other presents was a very pretty willow rocking chair. The guests carried well filled baskets with them and before home going time they all partook of the good things that had been prepared. It was an enjoyable event.

RECEPTION FOR PROF. LENKERD. Recitations, Songs, Banquet, Toasts—Youth and Beauty Conspicuous. Prof. G. W. Lenkerd, principal of our schools, returned Friday afternoon from a six weeks' trip in Europe and his sisters, Misses Lillie and Ella Lenkerd, gave a reception for him at Hotel Imperial Friday evening. About fifty guests, mostly young people, were invited to the reception, which was certainly a very enjoyable event. Dr. John H. Murray, who had charge of the program for the evening, extended a hearty welcome to Prof. Lenkerd in behalf of the company assembled in the hotel parlor, and then announced the first thing on the program, a solo by Mrs. H. Alex. Stoke, "Tell Me." Miss Lydia Mellinger recited "Fairy Tales," the Quartette, Dr. Harry King, F. H. Beck, Frank P. Alexander and Will Herpel, gave a selection and then the guests were invited to the dining room to partake of the banquet spread. After the cuisine department had been highly complimented, Toastmaster Murray called for toasts, which were responded to by the following persons: Rev. Perry A. Reno; "Footlights," Miss Minnie Whitmore; "Our Work," James G. Pentz; "Our Younger Generation," Raymond Brown; "Improved Opportunities," Harry Herpel. Harry referred, poetically, to some of the industries of our town, the result of "improved opportunities," as follows: Goal to warm the poor man's feet. Goal to run the Nation's fleet. Leather to make the shoes for man. And bark to make the leather tan; Silks and satins for new made gowns. And glass to sell in other towns; Woollens are made at the woolen mill. And all this comes from Reynoldsville. After a short talk from Prof. Lenkerd the jolly crowd returned to the parlor. Prof. H. C. Leavenworth, assistant principal of our schools, who is a good impersonator and elocutionist, gave a very amusing medley. As the town clock struck the midnight hour the guests departed for their respective homes feeling very grateful to Misses Lillie and Ella Lenkerd for the pleasure of the evening and wishing Prof. Lenkerd success for the future. Minutes of Educational Meeting. Prof. Teitrick opened the meeting with singing. Reading the Scriptures and prayer by Dr. Waller was followed by music. Miss Thompkins was introduced to talk on "First Year Work in School." She talked particularly of Reading. "The greatest error in teaching Reading is that the pupil is allowed to rest in the form and fails to get the spirit or that back of the form. The child reads rightly before he starts to school, reads in the larger sense, that is interprets what he sees about him. Follow nature in teaching Reading. The child learns to talk by trying to express a want, or give expression to a thought. Put him in a place where he is in stress for the printed or written word, and he will struggle to get it." Dr. Waller next talked on "The Recitation, Aims, General and Specific." The general ends of a recitation are for a test of progress, to measure the progress of the individuals, for the directing of effort, and to clarify their ideas. Oral expression clarifies ideas. Another end of the recitation is to deepen interest. The special end of the recitation is determined by the subject, grade and time of term. After a short intermission Dr. Davis talked on "The First Day of School." "Visiting the schoolroom prior to the opening day. Study your grade-book. Know your plans, and make your plans fit the school. Have your plans so definitely arranged that you can very soon assign each pupil some work." Meeting adjourned to meet at 1.30. Afternoon session opened by singing. Miss Thompkins read a story written by her class last year, which called forth many questions. "Composition is just the opposite of Reading. The child must live with the thought, be happy in it and he will want to express his idea of it. Give him the form for his own thought and he will remember it. He will be proud of his own production and will read it gladly." The story read was on "The Moth." The facts were accurate, but the children were allowed to make it fanciful. Miss Thompkins conducted a Reading class. Showed by questions how to find the ideal truth meant to be conveyed in the selection. She advised using literary selections for Reading, because the pupil has so many opportunities for didactics. Dr. Davis, in his talk on the "Co-operation of Parents," advised getting acquainted with the parents, and keeping in touch with the pupils' home life. Dr. Waller's next subject was "Method in Recitation." "Do not have a regular order of putting questions. Have reviews systematically and habitually. Assign lessons definitely." Prof. Teitrick in his closing address urged the teachers to stay away from the school grounds cleaned up, and to decorate the rooms with good pictures. He commended the teachers for the establishing of the school libraries, and asked them to go on with the good work of putting good books in these public school libraries. TACY DEMPSEY, Sec.

FAMILY CIRCLE BROKEN. Work of the Grim Reaper—Promising Career Quickly Ended. Last week we published a notice of the death of J. Clarence Henry with a promise of a short sketch of his life this week. The deceased was a son of John A. and Elizabeth Henry, of Perryville, Pa. He was born at the above named place April 13th, 1862, making him 28 years old last April. He died at the home of his brother-in-law, Dr. P. P. Horner, at Cool Spring, this county, Sunday morning, August 26th. The mortal remains of him who a few months before was a strong, robust young man with prospects of long life, was taken to the home of the bereaved family at Perryville Sunday and the following Tuesday at 10.00 a. m., funeral services were held in the Perryville M. E. church, conducted by Rev. Perry A. Reno, of Reynoldsville. A quartette from Reynoldsville, Frank P. Alexander, Dr. Harry B. King, Will Herpel and Wells Clary, sang two hymns that Clarence had selected shortly before the silken thread of life was broken and his spirit took its flight to that "bourn from whence no traveler e'er returns." The hymns were, "Where He Leads I'll Follow," and "We'll Never Say Good-bye in Heaven." Clarence was held in high esteem at the place where he was born and where he spent his boyhood days, consequently a large crowd attended the funeral to pay their last tribute of respect to the departed. Clarence Henry was born on a farm and during the early part of his life he labored on the farm. In the fall of 1889 he engaged as clerk in a grocery store at Punxsutawney for M. H. Smith, his brother-in-law, where he remained for nearly three years. He quit the store business and became a pedagogue and taught school at the following places: Bell township, 1893-4; North Mahoning township, 1894-5; Reynoldsville, 1895-6; Perryville, 1896-7. The summer of 1897 he spent in Reynoldsville awaiting the erection of the brick block in which he was to engage in the grocery business with his brother, Sherman Henry. In March, 1898, these two brothers opened their store under the firm name of J. C. & S. C. Henry and were soon doing a nice business. Clarence was a kind hearted young man and was thus able to win many friends. He was a member of a family of eleven children, six boys and five girls and his death has made the first break in the family family circle. He was an active member of the Epworth League at this place and the resolutions passed by the League and published in THE STAR last week show that he was a noble young man. On account of his sweet disposition and love for home he will be greatly missed in the family circle. Vulcanizer Exploded. Dr. Harbison, formerly a Reynoldsville dentist, now of Shelocta, Indiana county, Pa., was injured last week by the explosion of a vulcanizer, the particulars of which we clip from the Indiana Progress: "Dr. R. E. Harbison, a well-known dentist, of Armstrong township, was seriously injured on Friday afternoon. While making a set of teeth the vulcanizer exploded, and flying pieces of metal tore a frightful gash in the heart of his right hand. The flesh was torn open until the bones of the hand were exposed. Another piece of metal struck him on the knee and his sister, Martha, who was in the same room, was struck on the head by a piece of metal. "The vulcanizer was blown into many pieces and the stove on which it stood was completely wrecked. Red hot coals were scattered throughout the room, and had it not been for the prompt work of the family the house would have been seriously damaged by fire." Dr. Stevenson Married. Dr. Charles Stevenson and Miss Edna Farrow, of Punxsutawney, were married at the residence of L. C. McGaw, in Punxsy, at 10.00 a. m., yesterday by Rev. W. Frank Rober, pastor of the Reynoldsville Presbyterian church. A wedding dinner was served at Mr. McGaw's. Doctor and bride left on an afternoon train on a wedding trip to eastern cities. Dr. Stevenson is a son of Robert Stevenson of Beechwoods. Miss Farrow was a trained nurse in Adrian Hospital and it was while Doctor was an assistant in hospital that this couple formed the friendship that resulted in a wedding. Why Grinding?
