VOLUME 9.

REYNOLDSVILLE, PENNA., WEDNESDAY, JANUARY 9, 1901.

NUMBER 34.

Sandy Valley.

Miss C. M. Solada, of DuBois, is visiting her sister, Mrs. L. Lyle, at present. Miss Mazie Cable, of this place, spent Christmas at New Bethlehem.

Another announcement will be given in next week's paper for an entertainment at the Sandy Valley church.

Quite a number of relatives and friends from Falls Creek and Reynoldsville spent Christmas at the home of Mr. and Mrs. L. M. Beebe.

Mrs. A. T. Beck spent New Year's with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. M. Beebe.

H. S. McFadden, who has been visiting his sisters, Mrs. J. S. Bartle, of West Reynoldsville, and Mrs. L. M. Beebe, of this place, has returned to his home in West Virginia.

Free of Charge.

Any adult suffering from a cold settled on the breast, bronchitis, throat or lung troubles of any nature, who will call at H. Alex. Stoko's will be presented with a sample bottle of Boschee's German Syrup, free of charge. Only one bottle given to one person, and none to children without order from parents.

No throat or lung remedy ever had such a sale as Boschee's German Syrup in all parts of the civilized world. Twenty years ago millions of bottles were given away, and your druggist will tell you its success was marvellous. It is really the only Throat and Lung Remedy generally endorsed by physicians. One 75 cent bottle will cure or prove its value. Sold by dealers in all civilized countries.

Get Green's Prize Almanac.

What is Celery King?
It is a scientific combination of rare roots, herbs, bark and seeds from Nature's laboratory. It cures constipation, nervous disorders, headache, indigestion and liver and kidney diseases. It is a most wonderful medicine, and is recommended by physicians generally. Remember it cures constipation. Celery King is sold in 50c. and 80c. packages by druggists.

Paradise.

Mrs. Allen Cathers visited her sister, Mrs. Fieckinger, in Reynoldsville the past week.

J. M. Shesley attended Literary Society at the Zofall school, near Big Run, on Friday evening.

County Commissioner W. C. Murray, of Brookville, was transacting business in this place a couple of days the past week.

Tena Strouse, who had been visiting her sister, Mrs. Adam Norris, of near Panie, the past week, returned home on Sunday.

Phillip Pifer, of near Big Run, was a caller at C. E. Keller's on Sunday.

We understand that Roy McDonald, teacher of the Jenks school, has resigned his school. He expects to go into other business. Miss Lillie Shields will take the remaining two months of school.

A number of the young people of this community attended a spelling at the Pifer school on Wednesday.

While a skating party was going on at Ludwick's dam one evening last week a young couple were skating along and looking at the stars. They saw a million or more and, in less time than it takes to tell it, they ran into a stump. Then they saw a few more stars they had not observed before.

Albert Strouse, who was employed in the boiler house at Big Soldier, had a very narrow escape from death last Saturday. An air pipe bursted, killing one man instantly and wounding several others. Albert was struck on the head and knocked down, and was unconscious for a few hours. He was brought to his home in this place and a doctor summoned to dress his wounds. At present he is getting along as well as could be expected.

Thousands Sent Into Exile.

Every year a large number of poor sufferers whose lungs are sore and racked with coughs are urged to go to another climate. But this is costly and not always sure. Don't be an exile when Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption will cure you at home. It's the most infallible medicine for coughs, colds and all throat and lung diseases on earth. The first dose brings relief. Astounding cures result from persistent use. Trial bottles free at H. Alex. Stoko's. Price 50c and $1.00. Every bottle guaranteed.

THE SNOW MAN.

One of the principal joys of my childhood was playing in the snow. Above all, I enjoyed building snow men.

I remember once I and some of my playmates worked hard and long at this amusing piece of work. We rolled the snow in a large ball; this was the body. A smaller ball served for the head. The eyes were made of lumps of coal and sticks served for a nose and mouth.

We were greatly pleased with our man when he was finished. He stood this way for several days, until one day the sun came out and smiled warmly upon him and much to our surprise and sorrow, he began to grow smaller until at last he ran away.

MARGARET STOKO, '02.

After having enjoyed our mid-winter vacation, we have now entered upon the work of the new year fully prepared to meet the trials and enjoy the pleasures of the next four months. And as this is the first issue of the BULLETIN in the 20th century it, perhaps, would not be amiss to dwell upon the changes that have been wrought during the closing century. As we stand on the threshold of the new year, part the curtain that separates the frail present from the enshrouded past, and gaze in retrospect, we find ourselves astounded at the wonderful changes that have taken place. At the beginning of the 19th century our country, which had just passed through the ravages of a cruel war, was in its infancy and the whole energy of the people was engaged in a struggle for existence. Up to this time their main occupation had been war, and as a consequence of this we find that the fine arts which are now cultivated had not reached any degree of advancement. The log school house served as a place in which to train the youth, and owing to the means of travel, the knowledge of the people in regard to their country was confined to that area upon which the eye could dwell. Locomotives or steamboats were unheard of and it was not until about 1850 that telegraph wires were strung. But during the last half of the past century the seeds of a ripening civilization have been sown and have borne fruit in almost every phase of life. The evidences of a wonderful progress are to be seen everywhere. The log school house has been replaced by modern structures of stone or brick. The stage coach has given way to the locomotive and trolley; the darkness and gloom of night is repelled by the rays cast forth from the arch light, and the government that was then almost unknown has grown stronger year by year until the present time when it is recognized as a mighty and potent factor in the settling of the world's disputes, and as a beacon light to the oppressed of the whole universe.

At the next meeting of the Shakespearean Literary Society the following program will be rendered: Address, Clement Flynn; recitation, Christine Brown; essay, Ira Bowser; guitar solo, Nulu Neale; recitation, Prof. Leavenworth; recitation, Jay McGaw; essay, Lena Black; prophesy, Ethel Winslow; recitation, Dilla Alley; vocal solo, Verdi Dougherty.

The attendance at school on New Year's was very small. There were only ten pupils in the high school in the afternoon.

Miss Grace Meek, who has been ill for several weeks, has returned to school again.

Clement Flynn returned last week from a visit with his brother, Frank M. Flynn, in Philadelphia.

Prof. Leavenworth spent his vacation at his home in Wellsville, Ohio.

Ralph Kirk spent his vacation in Brookville.

The members of the senior class were the guests of Prof. Lenkerd at Hotel Imperial Christmas.

Miss Viola McGaw is on the sick list.

The juniors have completed the beginners latin and have been initiated into Caesar.

The study schedule of the high school will change this week.

Some of the members were at DuBois for a sleighride and when they drew up in front of the Commercial Hotel they were so quiet (?) that some who were standing by turned away saying, "Come on, they are all married."

Girdles the Globe.

The fame of Bucklen's Arnica Salve, as the best in the world, extends round the earth. It's the one perfect healer of cuts, corns, burns, bruises, sores, scalds, boils, ulcers, felonis, aches, pains and all skin eruptions. Only infallible pile cure. 25c a box at H. Alex. Stoko's.

LOOKIN' BACKWARD AN' FOR'WARD

Uncle Joshua Looks Both Ways and then Makes Some Interesting Predictions.

Uncle Joshua, one of those hale, hearty and jolly good-natured old farmers whose smiling face has grown round and red under the influence of many a hearty laugh in his mirth-provoking career, is a man who reads a great deal and gives more or less attention to the various topics of the day, according to the degree of importance they reach in the public mind. Although he is a resident of one of the remote rural districts, he appears to have kept his store of knowledge up-to-date; and in a general way by close observation, and such a selection of literature as is calculated to broaden one's intellect and cultivate good judgment, he has "kept abreast of the times" as the saying goes. It is therefore only natural that his opinion should be sought on matters of such importance as the prospective progress of the new century upon which we have just entered and from which so much is expected. Hence we find him in the midst of a circle of surprised, mystified and wondering "wiscacres" in a corner grocery drawing a most charming picture of the new future for his auditors, as described in the following lines:

"Uncle Josh" said a friendly acquaintance of his,
"As they talked of the century just passed,
"Do you think that inventions 'll progress as much
In the next hundred years as the last?"
"Well I'll tell ye," said Uncle Josh 'ith a smile,
"From what I kin read an' learn,
Liquid air 'n' electricity 'n' flyin' machines
Are about to be given a turn.

"My prophesy may seem a little far-fetched,
Unless ye consider the speed
We're makin' to-day as compared 'ith the past—
Ye can't tell where inventors 'll lead,
We may visit our nabors in flyin' machines
"N' go travellin' in "newmatic" tubes,
We kin make so much 'ith city folks then
That no longer they'll count us as Rubes.

"We'll have 'petrified' roads like the city folks then,
"N' wireless telegraphy, too,
"N' kin talk to Chicago or anywhere else
"N' the 'phone rent 'll never come due.
We kin hear great musicians 'n' singers 'n' such
In all parts of 'the world by machine,
"N' the eloquent sermons from preachers of note
Reproduced by the fonegraf scheme.

"An' as darkness comes on at the close of each day,
The luminous paint on our walls
Will glow with a brilliancy, scientists say,
Far grander than fairyland halls.
In our parlors we'll watch movin' pictures o' scenes,
From those lands 'round our southern seas,
"N' the aroma of fruit in the orange groves
"N' the soft in on a southern breeze.
"Even rain 'll be furnished, 'n' sunshine 'n' wind,
By men o' vast knowledge 'n' means;
By electrical fixtures the cows 'll be milked,
"N' our eggs laid by cacklin' machines.

I'll tell ye a farm 'll be a rich claim,
New inventions 'll so increase crops;
We can even get rich on the low swampy ground.

"For we'll plant it in frogs and sell 'chops,"

"Horseless carriages, plows, 'n' mowin' machines,
"N' 'll be common things then on a farm;
On a single rail track all the trains 'll be run,
Like a bike, without causing alarm.
A bicycle railroad from here to Japan,
"N' a bridge from Alaska, perhaps,
"N' enable our women folk to buy silks
"N' porcelain ware from the Japs.

"We may start from New York after breakfast at nine,
An' call on the President soon,
Then be in Chicago an hour after that
"N' reach 'Frisco that day about noon.
Then I'd go to Hawaii by flyin' machine
Where I'd dine at the 'Gee' nor's right,
"N' 'tend a dance in Manila that evenin' an' then
Go to bed in Japan for the night.

"I'd Hung Chang I would greet the next morn,
An' perhaps I would call on the Czar,
As I went scowlin' across the continent
In a vestibuled bicycle car.
I would bathe in the River o' Jordan,
"N' visit Damascus an' the Dead Sea,
"N' 'tend my an' 'n' die Jerusalem,
"N' see such places of interest to me.

"I'd take a stroll in the streets o' Cairo,
Go by trolly to see old "Chee-ops,"
"N' after seein' the ruins o' Thebes,
Set out for the French fashion shops.
On my way I would go through old Athens,
That city of culture an' fame,
An' then on through the land o' garlic,
"N' where Vesuvius belches flame.

"And might the ruins of the old Coliseum,
The glory of former days,
I would think of that story of Nero
An' the city of Rome an' also,
Then after seein' a bit o' gay Paris,
I'd call on Queen Vic as I'd pass,
"N' take a flyin' machine from old London
"N' get home about five or half-past."

Steve Tancas and Julia Dudas, both of Eleanora.

Luigi Sacco and Antonia Sirianni, both of Anita.

Evans J. Thomas, of Anita, and Carrie Emerick, of Curwensville.

John Stabnicki, of DeLancy, and Mary Zajanz, of Ponsutawney.

A Deep Mystery.

It is a mystery why women endure backache, headache, nervousness, sleeplessness, melancholy, fainting and dizzy spells when thousands have proved that Electric Bitters will quickly cure such troubles. "I suffered for years with kidney trouble," writes Mrs. Phoebe Cherley, of Peterson, Ia., "and a lame back pained me so I could not dress myself, but Electric Bitters wholly cured me, and, although 73 years old, I now am able to do all my household." It overcomes Constipation, improves appetite, gives perfect health. Only 50c at H. Alex. Stoko's drug store.
