Here is a good hint from an exchange: "This section of Pennsylvania is blessed with abundant springs of the clearest and coldest water and one acquainted with the country can find water almost anywhere along the main road. Yet strangers will sometimes pass over a large stretch of road almost famishing for water, because they do not know of the little by-paths, here and there, that lead to splendid fountains. Why could not those living along the highways just put up a sign at such a place and confer a lasting favor on mankind? It would require very little effort and the return would be immense. Think it over."

KILLED BY A TRAIN.

Edward R. Courtney Found Dead on Railroad Track—Buried in Lock Haven.

About eight o'clock Saturday evening Leslie Deemer, who was walking down the P. R. R. track, found the dead body of a man lying along the track about half way between Reynoldsville and Hopkins. He returned to Reynoldsville and reported the matter at Hughes' undertaking rooms. Mr. Deemer said he thought it was the body of Edward Courtney, of Hopkins. After telephoning County Coroner Kyle and receiving instruction from him, "Squire E. Neff, Undertaker J. H. Hughes and several others went after the body, which was brought to Reynoldsville on train 107, due here at 9:50 p. m., and taken to Hughes' undertaking rooms. Mr. Deemer was not mistaken in the identity of the man. It was Edward R. Courtney. It is supposed that he was walking on the railroad track on his way from Reynoldsville to Hopkins and was struck by a fast west bound freight train that had passed shortly before the body was found.

Edward Courtney came from Lock Haven to Hopkins about ten years ago to work on Hopkins' saw mill. After the mill was dismantled Mr. Courtney did odd jobs around Reynoldsville but did not move his family away from Hopkins. He was forty-three years old. He is survived by wife and four children at Hopkins and widowed mother at Lock Haven.

The body was taken from undertaker's rooms to home of family Sunday morning and was taken to Lock Haven on the 12:52 p. m. train Monday and buried in the Lock Haven cemetery Tuesday.

The stockholders of the trolley company subsidiary to the DuBois Traction company, organized for the purpose of extending the DuBois line to Sykesville, held a meeting last evening and authorized the construction of the line to Sykesville at once, and the purchase of all equipment required for the operation of the same.

After a thorough review of the preliminary work already performed by the directors, it was the unanimous opinion of the directors that the line should be constructed and put in operation as early as it can be done yet this year. The exact route will be determined, contracts let for the construction and work will proceed at the earliest date possible.—DuBois Courier Sept. 2.

Keep Good Dogs.

Some man who seems to have had experience and to know what he is talking about contributes the following: If the farmers of the country who own worthless dogs—curs without any breeding—could be induced to destroy them, and substitute one well bred shepherd pup, not more, to each farm, the wealth of every farming community would be vastly increased in many ways. Farmers soon find the collies saving them many a step. Eager and anxious to learn, willing to do anything within his power, the young dog needs only a wise and patient restraint and intelligent direction to become one of the most useful hands on the place.—Ex.

Old Adage Dispelled.

The old adage that there is nothing new under the sun has been dispelled by the management of the Western Pennsylvania Exposition Society of Pittsburg. The vast throngs which filled the expo on the opening night, Wednesday evening, August 30th, to hear Damrosch and his orchestra were astounded by the rejuvenating progress which the big buildings at the Point have undergone since last year. Never in the sixteen years of existence of the exposition have so many new features been crowded into one year and the opinion of every visitor during the opening days has been that it is better than ever.

The fire company responded promptly to fire alarm, but the thoughtfulness and quick action of the milk maid cut the fire loads out of a job.

RE-UNION OF RED MEN WAS WELL ATTENDED.

Parade was the Spectacular Feature of the Day and was Witnessed by Thousands.

The first annual district reunion of the Improved Order of Red Men held at Reynoldsville Labor Day was a complete success. The day was an ideal one for such an occasion and a large number of "Red Men" and friends from neighboring towns were present, some of them coming from quite a distance. Early in the morning visitors began coming into town and by noon there was a big crowd on our streets. The parade in the afternoon was the largest and most attractive parade seen in Reynoldsville for some time. A number of the men in line were dressed in Indian costumes and had on war paint. The parade was headed by mounted police, followed by Burgess L. L. Gourley and Dr. A. J. Meek in carriage and members of town council in carriage. There were four brass bands in parade, Keystone band, of Reynoldsville, Eleanor band, Johnsonburg band and Falls Creek band. Postmaster E. C. Burns was chief marshal. "The Haymakers Association," men in full Indian costumes and the sledge with four or five papposes on it made the parade interesting and attractive. The line of march was up Main street and out through Prescottville, back to iron bridge at foot of Main street and thence to Frank's Park, where Burgess Gourley, who was introduced by D. H. Broakey, gave the members of Improved Order of Red Men a cordial welcome to Reynoldsville. Rev. Dr. A. J. Meek pastor of the Baptist church, delivered an excellent address.

One of the pleasing features of the parade was the Marching Drill in front of Frank's Tavern. The procession was brought to a halt and while the band discoursed music the ladies—Daughters of Poochontas—led in a beautiful drill. They were joined in the exercises by thirty or forty of the Indians. After the drill exercises closed the crowd moved up to the park.

The judges were W. C. Elliott, Amos Strouse and Arthur Haskins, who awarded prizes as follows: $75.00 order flag to Tribe having largest membership in line, Punxsutawney Tribe: $25.00 in cash to Tribe having largest per cent of membership in line was divided between Emorieville and Sykesville Tribes, both Tribes lacking only one member of having entire membership in line; $10.00 in cash to Tribe with best costumes, Johnsonburg Tribe: $10.00 in cash for tug of war between degree teams, DuBois Tribe: $10.00 in cash for best band, Falls Creek; $10.00 in cash to largest membership of Degree of Poochontas in line, Punxsutawney. Charles Woodward won the $5.00 prize in bucket race.

Much credit is due to the committee, Grant Rhoads and Will Howlett, for the success of the reunion.

There were twenty-two Tribes represented at the reunion.

The reunion will be held in Punxsutawney next year.

This paper joins their many friends in wishing them a long and happy life.—Sykesville Post-Dispatch.
