Justice of the Peace Eighty Years Old Arrested For Incendiarism

Hawthorne Profoundly Stirred By the Developments of The Past Week.

THREE MEN LODGED IN JAIL

Intense excitement was caused in Hawthorne and surrounding territory Saturday by the action of the State Constabulary in arresting Justice of the Peace J. A. Timlin, a man almost eighty years of age, on a charge of complicity in incendiarism. At the same time two young men, William Latschaw, Jr., aged 17, and Charles Schrecongost, aged 18, were arrested charged with complicity in the deeds.

Since November the citizens of Hawthorne have been kept in terror by repeated fires of incendiary origin. Five barns and one house were destroyed and no clue could be found to the origin. The State Constabulary was finally called in and through detective work finally secured evidence implicating Latschaw. The young man denied his guilt at first but a process of sweating brought out a full confession, in which Schrecongost was named as his partner in the incendiary acts and Timlin as the instigator. The aged justice refused to talk when arrested. If found guilty as charged, all three will receive penitentiary sentences not exceeding twelve years.

The alleged reason for Squire Timlin's downfall is that he had long desired to purchase a hotel owned by Al. Simpson, but being unable to secure it lawfully, had had the barns burned around it in the hope of the fire reaching and destroying the hotel. Timlin's whole career had been honorable. He is well known in his own county and the news of his alleged complicity in incendiarism created a profound sensation.

Beechwoods Pastor Wins Cash Prize

Sermon Appears in the March Number of The Delineator Magazine.

The March number of The Delineator is of especial interest to Beechwoods and Reynoldsville people. It contains a sermon written by Rev. George H. Hill, pastor of the Beechwoods Presbyterian church, on "The Child Mission." Last summer the Delineator, which is conducting a Child-Rescue Campaign, offered prizes for sermons to be preached on that subject or along the line of the American homes. The sermons were to be preached in the home churches, after which the manuscripts were submitted to the department in the Delineator which selected the prize winners. Mr. Hill's sermon won the second prize $300, and the sermon is published in full in the current number. Mr. Hill chose for his text, "A little child shall lead them," from Isaiah 11:6, and dwelt at length on the prevailing decrease of families. He condemns race suicide in the strongest terms.

Rossiter Man Kills Ten-Year-Old Boy

Murderer Escaped And Has Not Since Been Apprehended By Constabulary.

Infuriated by drink, Lewis Williams, of Rossiter, went to the home of Mrs. Lucy Johnston, a "grass widow" Wednesday night and during an altercation with the woman shot and killed her ten-year-old son, Glen Johnston. Williams had just drawn his pay and became drunk on the surplus of cash that day. When he reached the gate of the Johnston home he had trouble in steering his course between the posts and Glen Johnston came to his assistance. When the house was reached a quarrel commenced during which a poker was used over Williams by the woman or her son and Williams promptly opened fire with a revolver. The woman escaped but the lad fell, a bullet penetrating his body. When Mrs. Johnston returned with assistance Williams had disappeared. The State Constabulary took up the case and traced him to Clearfield. He has not yet been apprehended.

Honey Concern Expanding Business

George H. Rea Will Manage Branch In New Mexico This Summer.

George H. Rea, manager of the Rea Bee and Honey Company of Reynoldsville, returned from Mesilla Park, New Mexico, last week, where he had gone in the interest of his company. While in New Mexico Mr. Rea negotiated the lease of a thousand colonies of honey bees for the Rea Bee and Honey Company and a branch business will be established at that place with Mr. Rea in charge. Mr. Rea will return to New Mexico in a short time and remain there during the summer.

Since the organization of the Rea Bee and Honey Company last fall the business has been so successfully conducted that it is now on a paying basis and the company is justified in expanding its operations.

Beale and Penrose Have Locked Horns

Indiana Postmastership In Dispute in Congress.

Congressman J. G. Beale and Senator Boies Penrose are having a merry tug of war to see who names a new postmaster at Indiana. As representative Mr. Beale apparently should have the privilege but as chairman of the Committee on Postoffices Penrose is using his power to prevent action on Beale's choice, Capt. McLain.

Flag Presentation On Friday Night

Patriotic Program Prepared And Will Be Rendered In Assembly Hall.

As announced in THE STAR last week a large American flag will be presented to the public schools of Reynoldsville through by Washington Camp No. 268, P. O. S. of A. of Reynoldsville Friday evening, February 26th. The presentation exercises will be held in Assembly hall commencing at 8.15 and will be free to all, with an urgent invitation to all interested in the schools to be present. The program is patriotic to the core and will instill into the minds of all who attend deeper reverence for the Stars and Stripes.

THE PROGRAM.
America.....By the School Invocation.....Rev. J. C. McEntire
Columbia.....By the School Presentation.....Harvey S. Deter
Response.....Dr. J. C. Sayers
Overture.....America
By Orchestra.

Address.....Hon. W. I. Swoope
Star Spangled Banner.....By the School
Hon. W. I. Swoope, of Clearfield, who will make the presentation address, is an orator who has appeared before audiences all over the union and has won enthusiastic commendations from such men as Ex Senator Thurston, of Nebraska, Senator Scott, of West Virginia, Dr. George E. Reed, of Dickinson College, and others. Speaking of an address given at Corry, Pa., the Daily Leader said: "Mr. Swoope is a son of the late H. B. Swoope, whose oratory was known far and wide. The son seems to have inherited the elocution and flow of words of his father, and for an hour held the audience spellbound by his arguments, fine delivery and beautiful perorations. He was cheered frequently during his address, and at its conclusion received a lengthened applause—an endeavor to bring him again before the audience."

HE KNEW LINCOLN.

An Old Soldier, Formerly of Reynoldsville, Writes Interestingly of War Experience.

Verona, Pa., Feb. 22nd, 1909.

EDITOR THE STAR:

Having read in your paper of the Lincoln birthday commemoration, the reminiscences of some of the veterans bring to my mind recollections of President Lincoln and wife as I saw them during the time I was in the Veteran Reserve Corps in Washington City. Lincoln visited the Soldiers' Home almost every day. She frequently accompanied him. I once saw Mrs. Lincoln thrown from the carriage and painfully though not seriously injured. They passed our encampment in going to the Soldiers' Home.

The night of the assassination we were called out to surround the city to prevent the escape of the assassin, but, as you all know, it was too late, he making good his escape, although we did not lose any time.

I was also one of those detailed to do guard duty in the prison where Harold, Payne, Atzerott and Mrs. Surcatt were confined and knew them quite well by sight. We were not permitted to speak to them or answer them, however. They were not allowed tobacco. Yet once I broke the rule and do not know what the penalty would have been had I been found out. Atzerott said to me: "Guard, for Heaven's sake, give me a chew of tobacco." I turned so that I might move backwards against his cell and gave him a piece of tobacco as I passed.

FIRST WIRELESS TELEGRAPH EXHIBIT IN REYNOLDSVILLE

Planning For Operation of Enamel Plant

Working Capital Of Company Increased to Meet New Operating Expenses.

G. A. Courath, of Indiana, was in Reynoldsville Friday looking after the interest of his company in the recently acquired "steel plant." The company's plans for reorganizing their business on a larger basis after putting the Reynoldsville plant in operation are far reaching and will necessitate a slight issue of treasury stock to provide operating expenses. The selling of this stock, however, is being conducted by representatives of the company or their authorized agents and the purchase of the Reynoldsville plant is in no wise contingent on its flotation. The company's stock is held largely in Indiana county and is on a dividend basis, being to that extent a good investment for any person desiring it. A number of Reynoldsville people have expressed a desire to share in the prosperity of the concern and for their benefit and for others who wish a safe and conservative investment, it is probable that a small block will be given to a Reynoldsville agent. It should be regarded strictly as an investment privilege however and is not connected in any way with the recent work of the Association in negotiating the deal.

Among the prominent stockholders in this company are Ex-Congressman Summers M. Jack, Hon. John S. Fisher, W. A. Guthrie, Hon. T. M. Kurtz and other gentleman well known in Reynoldsville.

REYNOLDSVILLE CHEMICAL CO.

ROBT. Z. PARRISH, MGR.

A Scientific Demonstration of Special Interest in Parlor Of Imperial Hotel.

WITNESSED BY LOCAL PEOPLE

The first demonstration of wireless telegraphy since its discovery was made in Reynoldsville Friday afternoon and evening, February 19th, in the parlor of the Imperial hotel. G. B. Kemp, representing a well known wireless telegraph and telephone company, was in charge of the exhibition and fluently and obligingly explained to all who called the mysteries of the great invention. Mr. Kemp is a former newspaper man, starting his career under Henry Watterson, of the Louisville Courier-Journal and terminating it as Washington correspondent of John R. McLean's Cincinnati Enquirer.

While Mr. Kemp came in the interest of his company, the demonstration in itself was of great educational value and it is to be regretted that so few of our people took advantage of the opportunity to become familiar with an invention that in point of service to humanity will rank in importance with any discovery of the last century.

The model carried by Mr. Kemp is only a miniature, with low power batteries, but sufficient to show the wonderful possibilities of the instruments. On a stand in the center of the parlor was placed the receiving apparatus with its wiry brass aerostaff towering in the air. At another end of the room Mr. Kemp operated the sending machine, equipped with the regular telegraph key and also having its aerostaff vibrating high overhead. Between the machines there was no wire, nor connection of any kind, but at the touch of the operator's hand on the sending key, there was immediate response in the receiver across the room. To better show the nature of the electric connection, Mr. Kemp picked up his sending battery and walked outside the parlor wherein sat the receiving apparatus. The doors were closed and a thick partition placed between the two machines. At the touch of the key outside the subtle electricity found its easy way instantaneously from the aerostaff outside, through the wall, to the aerostaff inside, and the message was ticked off.

This was a demonstration in miniature of the great discovery that in actual use sends an electric message thousands of miles across ocean and mountain, despite storms and climatic differences to a station where there is an instrument accurately tuned to receive it. One may read much of the method of doing it, but until present at the actual transmitting can hardly realize the real importance of the achievement.

Want Damages For Property Destroyed

Aftermath of the Florence Fight Between Constabulary and Italians.

It will be recalled that about two years ago intense excitement was caused in this section through the attempt of the state constabulary to capture an alleged "Black Hand" Italian in a house at Florence, in their efforts finally dynamiting and burning down the house. Last week Senator T. M. Kurtz introduced into the legislature a bill requesting permission to sue the state for property damages sustained through the action of the constabulary. $5,800 is the amount asked by the Italians whose property was burned. The question involved is not the right of the state policemen to destroy property in order to arrest and take into custody criminals, but whether or not the state is liable for damages to property so destroyed and owned by law-abiding citizens not responsible in any way for the offender pursued by the constabulary.
