KILLED IN KENTUCKY.

James A. Schuckers closed an adventurous career and rests in an Emersville cemetery.
James A. Schuckers, son of Mr. and Mrs. Levi Schuckers, of Emersville, was instantly killed by a fall of slate in a mine at Lavers, Kentucky, in which he was foreman, at noon Monday, July 18th, 1910.
Thus came to a close a career as adventurous as any recorded of Reynoldsville men.
Born on the old Schuckers homestead in Winslow township May 1, 1871, he remained at the farm until fourteen years of age and then commenced a series of expeditions to various parts of the country that in the last twenty-five years of his life took him into every section of the union and to the gold fields of Alaska during the Klondike excitement of 1897.
Frequently returned for a visit at the old home and was well known in Reynoldsville. In 1901 he built and secured license for a hotel at Arcadia in Indiana county, but remained there only a year and a half. In 1904 he was in Kentucky and married there Miss Tena Shaffer, who survives him. During the last few years he has lived in Kentucky and was employed as a foreman in the mines at time of the fatal accident.
