The attractions of the various points covered in the book are diversified, including mountain, lake and seaside resorts, affording a choice of a summing place of any character which may be desired. In naming fares the book calls attention to that line as a desirable route to reach the places named.
Of course the strongest emphasis is placed on the points reached by the Lehigh itself and the scenic attractions of the route through the Pennsylvania mountains are not understated, but the book is withal a compendium of useful information regarding nearly all of the better class of summing places, wherever situated. ## Snarrows of a Former Resident.

From Monday's M. T. Carmel Item.
About five months ago John Minori, a resident of North Poplar street, moved here from Freeland. This was the beginning of what has proven itself to be a pathetic story.
It was no more than two months after that his wife, Ermina, gave birth to a little daughter. Through the birth of this child, the mother contracted that awful disease, consumption. It soon became apparent that the decease of the mother was inherited by the child. The mother remained bedfast and her life was, by all appearances, fastly ebbing away. The child likewise became worse. On Saturday morning at 1 o'clock the summons came, and the child was called home. At 7 o'clock, just six hours having intervened, the mother died.
This morning the funeral took place, the services being held in the Church of Our Lady. Mother and child were placed in one coffin, the child in the mother's arms. Mr. Minori is now left in town almost without a friend to sympathize with him, most of his relatives living in other localities.

FOURTH OF JULY.

Freeland's Successful Observance of Independence Day.

The Fourth of July was successfully observed in Freeland on Tuesday. Everything combined to make the anniversary of the signing of the Declaration of Independence a day suitable for the celebration which had been planned under the auspices of the Citizens' Hose Company. The day dawned bright and cheerful, and as the sun rose higher the mercury in the thermometer climbed upward and sported itself among the nineties until late in the evening.
Shortly before 2 o'clock the parade of the societies which had accepted invitations from the firemen started over the route. The parade was creditable to all who took part. Besides the firemen, old soldiers and school children, the line was composed of the numerous societies of our foreign-born citizens, and 800 of their members marched in honor of the day, thereby setting an example which others who make more pretensions to upholding the date might follow. An abundance of music enlivened the line march, Eckley Junior, St. Patrick's and St. Ann's bands and the G. A. R. drum corps rendering patriotic airs.
At the Public park the exercises published on Monday were carried out. The opening address was made by Chairman George Hartman, who thanked the people and those who participated in the parade for their assistance in making the demonstration so successful. He was followed by R. J. O'Donnell, Esq., who spoke upon the causes which led up to the signing of the Declaration on July 4, 1776. This was Mr. O'Donnell's maiden effort as an orator and his success won him much applause. D. J. McCarthy addressed the audience on the nature of the day and why the Fourth should be observed. He also spoke in favor of expansion.
The picnic then began and continued until a late hour. Notwithstanding the limited seating accommodations on the grounds a large crowd was present the whole time and everybody appeared to enjoy the affair.
At 6 o'clock an interesting bicycle race took place. There were four contestants, Howard Albert, John Moser, George Sarricks and David Shanno. The course was from the corner of Front and Birkbeck streets to Sandy Run road, a distance of two and one-twentieth miles. It was covered by the winner, Howard Albert, in five and three-fourths minutes, which is considered excellent time over such a course. The prize was $5. During the race Moser and Shanno fell and badly damaged their wheels.
In the morning the Coxes families at Drifton were tendered serenades by St. Patrick's and St. Ann's bands and were also visited by the children of Drifton Sunday schools.
In the evening fireworks were set off at Drifton and Upper Lehigh and were enjoyed by large crowds. In town the racket made by Young America and his parents was one continued bang from Monday evening until Tuesday night. More fireworks were displayed than for some years past.
The order throughout town was very good all day, and the police had little or no work to do.
Balls were held by Slavonian societies in the Cottage hall and Yannes' opera house.

Fires on the Fourth.

At 6 o'clock on Tuesday afternoon fire was discovered in the three-dwelling block of Mrs. Frank Gallagher, Main street. The firemen were called to the scene, but owing to the location of the fire it was deemed inadvisable to use the hose and the blaze was otherwise extinguished. The fire was located in a beam under the front part of Mrs. Gallagher's residence and to get at it was necessary to tear away a portion of the front porch, a quantity of the plaster inside and the weather boards outside. Although it had attained considerable headway the fire was easily extinguished after it was once located.
The origin of the fire is unknown. It is supposed, however, that a fire cracker was thrown under the porch and ignited the decayed wood of the beam. The damage to the property will amount to nearly $100. The building was insured.

Opinion in the Cox Case Has Been Rendered by the Luzerne Court.

Some time ago an interesting opinion was delivered in the orphan's court of this county by Judge Darto on an appeal from the appraisement of the Cox estate by Stanley W. Davenport for the assessment of the collateral inheritance tax. The court makes the following findings of fact:
Eckley B. Cox died testate at Drifton, Luzerne county, on May 13, 1895.
That he appointed Alexander B. Cox and Henry K. Cox his executors, to whom letters testamentary were issued on May 23, 1895.
That he devised his entire estate to said executors in trust to pay the net income thereof to his wife, Sophia G. Cox, during her life, and after her death in trust for his nephews and nieces living at his death, children of his brothers, as set forth in said will, and the lawful issue, living at his death, of any nephew or niece who shall then be dead, leaving such issue.
That at the time of decedent's death none of his nephews or nieces, children of his said brothers, had died leaving issue.
That none of the said nephews or nieces, or the issue of any such, ever filed with the register of wills any return of the amount of their estate, taken under the will of said decedent.
That the personal estate of decedent which came to the knowledge of the appraiser, Stanley W. Davenport, was valued by him at $1,446,320.33; that after deducting the value of the life interest of the widow, one-third, there remained the sum of $964,212.56, upon which he assessed a collateral inheritance tax at the rate of five dollars upon every hundred dollars, amounting to $48,210.62, and interest from May 13, 1896, at 12 per cent per annum.
The findings of law are as follows:
That said owners having failed to make a full return of said personal estate to the register of wills of said county within one year from the death of decedent, to wit, on or before May 13, 1896, or within that time to enter into security to pay the collateral inheritance tax thereon to the satisfaction of said register, the said tax has become immediately payable and collectible, amounting to $48,210.62, with interest thereon at the rate of 12 per centum per annum from May 13, 1896.

BASE BALL DOTS.

Sunday's game ought to be a contest of unusual merit. Mauch Chunk team, which contains several local players, will do its best to defeat the Atlantic league club of Wilkesbarre, and the professionals from the county seat are anxious to trounce the amateurs. Under the circumstances some fine playing may be looked for. The game begins at 3 p. m.
John Boner, of Drifton, went to Scranton last week and after learning that the players of the ball club were not regularly paid he refused to sign with the team. That his judgment was good is shown by the announcement made yesterday that the club has disbanded. Boner has rejoined Mauch Chunk club.
As a result of the disbandment of Scranton league team the game scheduled to be played here on the 16th inst. between it and Wilkesbarre has been cancelled.
Joe Ferry, of Ridge street, pitched for Mahanoy City on the Fourth and won his game against St. Nicholas club by a score of 16 to 13.
Bernard McFadden, of town, is doing some fine work on Atlantic City ball team. He is developing into a strong and sure batter.

The following nominations will be made: One candidate for judge; one for county treasurer; one for register of wills, and two for county commissioners. State central committee and delegates to the state convention will also be elected. There will be new features introduced in the county convention—recitation by Professor G. Manning Elsbree, of Athens; music by Wilkesbarre L. T. L.; addresses by Mrs. Annabel M. Holvey, of West Pittston, and others.
In the evening there will be a mass meeting. The principal address will be delivered by Rev. W. H. Hiller.

Headless Body in a Bag.

Three boys who were in swimming found the headless body of a man tied in a bag in the Susquehanna river, opposite Plymouth, Tuesday afternoon. The lads were so scared at the sight that they ran away. Coroner McKee was notified and he ripped open the bag. He found the body that of a finely developed man, about 200 pounds in weight, and whose height had been five feet eight inches. The corpse had been in the water about three days.
The head had been neatly severed from the body, as though by a surgeon. The legs and arms were tied together by strips of sheeting. Coroner McKee is of the opinion that a horrible murder has been committed.

Killed by Son's Train.

A collision between coal trains on the Catawissa branch of the Reading Railway, at Quakake, on Monday, resulted in the death of Mrs. Mary Schmeck, the destruction of seven cars and the wrecking of a locomotive. Both trains were south-bound. One was at a standstill when the other crashed into it from the rear.
Mrs. Schmeck was standing beside the track when the crash came and was buried under the seven cars, on top of which the locomotive was piled. It was not until the afternoon that her mangled remains were recovered. A son of the unfortunate woman was a flagman on the moving train, and she had gone there in order to see him.
Two Thousand Miners Quit Work.
The biggest strike in the Wyoming region in years is now on at seven collieries of the Lehigh Valley Coal Company. Over 2,000 men and boys are idle. The trouble arose over the new Wolfe safety mine lamp. The miners object to it on the ground that it is too heavy to carry around, weighing seven pounds, and also that it does not show enough light to work with.
The striking miners are employed at the Dorrance, Prospect, Oakwood, Midvale and Wyoming slopes and shafts.
