TRIBUTE TO FALLEN CHIEF

Freeland Honors Memory of Dead President.

Procession and Memorial Exercises Conducted in a Manner Creditable to the Town and the Occasion.

Freeland yesterday afternoon paid its last tribute to the memory of President McKinley, and the people of town may feel proud of the magnitude of the exercises and the manner in which they were conducted.

At an early hour the town took on a Sunday appearance, and when noontime had arrived business of every description had come to an end for the day. By common consent operations at all the surrounding collieries were suspended, and in response to the wishes of the local committee every industrial establishment and workshop in town was idle. Never before in the history of Freeland was there shown such respect for any person, renowned or unknown. Every business house, great and small, was closed; traffic of all kinds was suspended, and the real and honest emotion felt by all the people was evident on all sides.

The program prepared by the committee was carried out with but slight variation. The procession was by far the most notable of its kind that has ever traversed the streets of the borough. With few exceptions, all the members of the societies of town were in the line, marching, however, as American citizens rather than as members of their respective organizations. A conservative estimate of the adults in the procession places the number at 3,500.

In addition to these, there were 1,750 school children, and from the little tots in the front ranks to the High school pupils in the rear, all seemed to fully realize the significance of the affair.

None of the local churches held services, as the exercises provided for one grand gathering of all denominations and all classes, irrespective of creed or nationality, and the good judgment in doing so was shown by a view of the immense throng which assembled at the Public park, where the procession ended. The services there were carried out to the letter, and were listened to by over 8,000 people, and the several clergymen, musical organizations and others who had been assigned to speak or furnish music performed their duty in a most creditable manner.

Memorial services were held yesterday morning at St. James' P. E. church, Drifton. The services included singing by the choir, prayers, and an appropriate address by Rev. F. Marshall.

MISCELLANEOUS ADVERTISEMENTS.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN THAT BIDS will be received for the opening and construction of a public road in Foster township, Luzerne county, Pennsylvania, leading from a point nearly opposite the farm house of W. H. Bosler on the old and partly vacated road known as "the old White Haven-Laurytown road," running westwardly on the north side of "sandy hill creek" to a point near the stone arch bridge crossing said creek at the intersection of the public road known as "the new White Haven-Laurytown road."

The description and contract required for the road can be seen at the office of the subscriber at Drifton, Pennsylvania. All bids must be sealed and delivered to the subscriber at said office on or before September 28, 1901.

The right is reserved to reject any or all bids. E. A. Oberender, Contractor for the Roads of Foster Township, Drifton, Pa., September 18, 1901.

ROUND THE REGION.

Laycock's hotel, the store of W. R. Notherton, druggist; Edgar's cash store and Shoemaker's hardware store, at Wyoming, were broken into by burglars. They got $90 from the hotel and $75 each from Notherton's and Shoemaker's but nothing from Edgar's.

Daniel Kneer, of Lycoming, who about a week ago killed a bear which dressed 160 pound, beat the record last night by shooting another that dressed 185 pound. Both bears were slain in a corn field where they were feeding.

The efforts of the strikers to settle the strike at the Malby mine of the Lehigh Valley Coal Company, have failed. They offered some concessions from the original demands, but the officials refused these and at a meeting of the strikers it was decided to declare all negotiations for a settlement off.

Andrew Benaski, a miner employed at the Boston colliery of the Delaware and Hudson Railroad at Plymouth, was instantly killed by being buried beneath five tons of rock.

Thirty-three years ago W. J. Hemmel, then a boy, quarreled with his father and went away from home. Nothing was heard of him until last night, when he walked into the home of his brother, Michael Hemmel, of Wilkesbarre. He found his parents dead, but several brothers and sisters living.

Plymouth borough is using a house in the township as a smallpox hospital, although the township authorities have ordered its removal. A man who lives in one side of the pesthouse has defied the authorities to eject him, and a hot fight is on.

Nathaniel Cobb, a 65-year-old hermit, was captured in the mountains near Carbondale yesterday in a half-starved condition. The police had been close on his heels since May 13, when after a dispute over the ownership of a calf, he stabbed two men and then cut the throat of Edward Neary, the officer sent to arrest him.

Because, it is alleged, Lewis Rex, of West Penn, refused to drink with an intoxicated Pole at Tamaqua, the foreigner drew a knife and plunged it into Rex's neck, inflicting a wound that may prove fatal.

Death of William B. O'Donnell.

The news of the death of William B. O'Donnell, at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Patrick O'Donnell, Ridge street, at 9 o'clock yesterday morning, was a shock and surprise to the community. The young man had been ailing for the past year with kidney trouble. During the cold weather last winter he was lying for death, but recovered and was able to move about and apparently was gaining strength. Wednesday evening a change was noticed in his condition, but he arose yesterday morning. Later he returned to his bed and shortly after doing so he passed into the sleep from which there is no awakening. He is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Patrick O'Donnell; two sisters, Mrs. William Purcell and Katie, and four brothers, Rev. B. J. O'Donnell, Lawrence, Mass.; Patrick O'Donnell, Norfolk, Va.; R. J. O'Donnell, Esq., and Peter R., of town.

He was aged 27 years and 7 months. The funeral will take place at 9:30 Monday morning, followed by a requiem mass at St. Ann's church. Interment will be made in St. Ann's cemetery.

Where He Drew the Line.

"You don't like walking very much, do you?" inquired the farmer's horse, who was grazing near the canal.

"Oh, I don't mind it under certain conditions," replied the canalboat mule.

"You don't appear to like your exercise on the towpath?"

"No. That's where I draw the line."—Philadelphia Press.

Handy With His Tongue Too.

The following was a speech by a successful competitor for the prize of a foot race: "Gentlemen, I have won this cup by the use of my legs. I trust I may never lose the use of my legs by the use of this cup."—Evening Wisconsin.

THEATRICAL.

Willis Granger, the romantic young actor, will assume the leading role in a "Secret Warrant." France under the Bourbons, were victimized by many corrupt practices; one of the most dreaded instruments was the Lettre de Cachet, which might easily be obtained by a court favorite. In many cases the Secret Warrant would be issued in blank. A courtesan in favor with the king might fill in a name and secure the arrest of a most worthy person, who would be forthwith incarcerated in the Bastille, and in many cases never heard of again. From this circumstance W. A. Tremayne has evolved a powerful romance. The above is a brief description of the play. At the Grand opera house, September 26.

The Chinese-American play, "The King of the Opium Ring," which demonstrated that it had several meritorious features by drawing crowds nightly for six weeks to the Academy of Music, New York, will be the attraction at Grand opera house in the near future.

"Pennsylvania" is a new play whose incidents occur in the neighborhood of Wilkesbarre and are said to have a foundation of fact. It is to have a handsome scenic production at the Grand opera house shortly. The play has been written jointly by Daniel L. Hart, of Wilkesbarre, and C. E. Callahan. Though touching on the labor question incidentally, and having a very thrilling strike scene it is not a "labor" play. The story turns upon a law peculiar to this state, and is dramatic and true to nature. There is a mine scene in which real coal cars are used, and a remarkably realistic explosion. In the company presenting "Pennsylvania" are included Willis Marble, Jr., Geo. K. Henry, Clyde Hess, Dorothy Lewis, other clever artists, and the Black Diamond Quartette.

At the opera house last night Prof. Svingali continued to amuse his patrons, and at the closing of the performance placed one of his subjects in a hypnotic trance. The sleeper was removed to the window of the Press office, where he will lie until the time selected to remove him to the opera house to be awakened tonight.

Doings in Court.

The jury in the case against Peter McShane and Thomas Lutaneck returned a verdict of guilty Wednesday morning. The men were called to the bar and each was sentenced to pay a fine of $200 and the costs and two years each in the Eastern penitentiary. The prisoners were convicted of having cut down the trolley wire of the Lehigh Traction Company to the value of $150, and with having sold the same to a junk dealer. John Brown, who was arrested on the same charge, and who pleaded guilty and testified against his confederates, was also called to the bar and fined $50 and the costs and sentenced to four months in the county jail.

The jury in the case against Frank Cherilla, a young boy, charged with stealing $58 from the house of Joseph DeLuze, of Hazleton, returned a verdict of not guilty Wednesday morning.

A SENSIBLE SUNDAY NEWSPAPER.

So Promises the Sunday North American, the First Number of Which Will Be Out September 29.

The North American announces that on September 29 it will begin the publication of a Sunday edition. Prevailing conditions demand of each metropolitan paper an issue every day in the year, and the North American is sensibly obeying that demand. Rumors of this innovation have already been heard and speculation as to what it will be like is keen. Does American when it does anything, does it better than any one else, and in the matter of a Sunday paper the same rule is expected to apply.

For one thing, the North American promises that its Sunday edition will be "different." The standard of text and illustration will be as high as that of any monthly magazine. It will not be "cheap" in any sense. The North American's motto is, "A sensible Sunday newspaper." It will strive, of course, to be interesting and entertaining. The special writers and artists are of the first rank and the magnificent mechanical equipment of the North American insures perfect printing.

As to the details of the paper itself this must be known. There will be four colored supplements in addition to the news sections and sheet music. There will be a supplement of eight pages in colors, devoted exclusively to women's interests, a comic section of four pages in colors, a magazine section of twelve pages in colors, a sixteen-page supplement in colors explaining the involved and varied processes of making a newspaper. The first Sunday North American will probably consist of seventy-six pages, of which thirty-two will be used for news.
