THE DEAD OF THE REGION

Two More Aged Residents Claimed by Death.

Mrs. Sarah Burns, an Early Settler of Buck Mountain, and David Dodson, of Jeddo, Pass Away.

Mrs. Sarah Burns, who resided with her daughter, Mrs. Nellie O'Donnell, on South Ridge street, died Saturday evening at the age of 89 years. Mrs. Burns was one of the early settlers of old Buck Mountain, where she resided until recent years, when she removed to town. She was the widow of Patrick Burns, who died several years ago at Buck Mountain. In addition to her daughter, Mrs. O'Donnell, the deceased is survived by several grandchildren, including Justice Hugh A. Shovlin.

The funeral will take place tomorrow morning at 9 o'clock. A requiem mass will be read at St. Ann's church, after which the remains will be taken to the Laurytown Catholic cemetery.

David Dodson, a resident of this vicinity for a number of years, died at his home in Jeddo last evening. Mr. Dodson had been ill for the past three weeks. He was aged about 70 years and was a veteran of the Civil war. He had an excellent record as a soldier, having participated in a number of engagements.

The funeral will take place Wednesday afternoon. Services will be conducted at Jeddo Methodist Episcopal church and the remains will be interred at Freeland cemetery.

Maj. C. B. Cox, No. 147, G. A. R., of which the deceased was an active member, will attend the funeral in a body and give their late comrade a military burial.

One of the largest funerals that has left town for some time past that accorded the late William B. O'Donnell, whose sudden death on Thursday morning surprised the community. The remains were followed at 9:30 o'clock this morning from his parents' home on North Ridge street to St. Ann's church by a large number of carriages containing relatives and friends of the family, also by hundreds of persons on foot.

The church was crowded to the doors when the celebration of the solemn high mass was begun by the deceased's brother, Rev. Bernard J. O'Donnell, of Lawrence, Mass.

Rev. O'Donnell was assisted in the mass by Rev. E. M. McErlain, Villanova; Rev. Brady, Beaver Meadow, and Rev. Herron, Staten Island, N. Y. The funeral sermon was preached by Rev. Francis Mack, of St. Ann's church, from the text, "Remember thy Creator in the days of thy youth," during which he paid the deceased a deserved tribute for the manly and Christian life he had lived.

Asked to Leave the Union.

The Lehigh Valley Coal Company has notified all foremen and bosses that their services with the company will be more appreciated if they resign from the Mine Workers' Union. The company officials say that a man who has the interest of his employer at heart cannot serve another and be faithful to both. One operator said: "The interest of the union are in almost an opposite direction. A foreman or a boss holds a confidential position with a coal company, and still he is supposed to do the bidding of the union. It is impossible, hence the request."

Among the miners the belief is general that the big coal companies are getting ready to oppose the demands of the miners for a joint conference and a new scale of wages, and the first step in that direction is to get the foremen and bosses out of the union.

Meetings were held yesterday by the men affected by the order. The blacksmiths, firemen, engineers and other general workmen will refuse to obey the order and fight if necessary, being assured of the support of the unions. The fire bosses, stable bosses and under firemen who belong to the United Mine Workers will probably resign from that organization.

Health Ordinance.

The ordinance recently passed by the borough council defining the duties and powers of the Board of Health is published on the second page of today's issue. This ordinance is one of the most important ever enacted by the local authorities, and notwithstanding its length it deserves careful perusal by every resident and property-owner of Freeland.

The Board of Health has all the preparations made to enforce the new law, therefore it behooves all whom it may affect to acquaint themselves with its several provisions, inasmuch as failure to comply with its requirements will not be excused on the ground of ignorance of the law.

The ordinance creating and defining the duties of the milk inspector for Freeland also appears on the second page today.

With the Sick.

James O'Donnell, a popular young man of town, is ill at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Hugh O'Donnell, Walnut street. For some time past he has been a sufferer from stomach trouble, and his condition at present is very low.

Holla McLaughlin, an aged woman residing on Walnut street, was taken suddenly ill last evening, and for several hours her condition was alarming. She is aged about 85 years and it is feared that she will not be able to withstand the shock given her constitution.

THEATRICAL.

M. W. Hanley & Son, who are also identified with the management of Robert B. Mantell and "A Runaway Match," will present their new star, Willis Granger, the clever young leading man in the powerful romantic play "A Secret Warrant," on Thursday evening. Unlike most managers, the Messrs. Hanley have had the clever business tact to engage an exceedingly competent company of actors besides some elegant stage costumes and scenic effects. Others in the company are Beverly Turner, Percy Cooke, Russell Crawford, George W. Hammond, Clifford Standish, Foster Lardner, Adeline Dunlap, Grace Atwell and a few more. A rare treat is in store for all who attend this performance. Seats will be placed on sale tomorrow, and the local management guarantee it to be one of the best plays that has ever appeared in Freeland.

Coming soon is something of unusual interest and merit in the latest stage-named play, called "Pennsylvania." It is the joint authorship of Daniel L. Hart, whose "Parish Priest" has provided Daniel Sully with his most artistic success, and C. E. Callahan, who has enjoyed fame as a dramatist of prominence since his twenty-year ago production of "Foggy Ferry" down to "Con Hollow" and "Pennsylvania." Brilliant dialogue, original comedy, thrilling dramatic situations and sensational scenic climaxes abound.

"The King of the Opium Ring" which will be produced here, is founded on many incidents connected with one of the most picturesque groupings of dramatic characters ever known on the Pacific coast. The opium ring was a mysterious circle, bound by an oath in a ring of defiance, and for twenty years was a reign of terror to the custom houses; but was finally broken up by the government.

A new drop curtain from the studio of Bottenburg & Co., scenic artists, Cincinnati, O., will be placed in position at the opera house this week. The curtain will be used for the first time during the production of "A Secret Warrant."

Dorothy Lewis, who won favor here in "Hearts of the Blue Ridge," is one of the leading people in "Pennsylvania," which comes to the Grand on Saturday evening.

Judge Scores Poor Directors.

Dr. J. W. Sallade, who was one of those removed from places at the Schuylkill county almshouse when the present poor directors took charge, and who instituted suit for the loss of salary occasioned by his removal, lost his suit, the jury finding for the county.

Judge Marr, in his charge to the jury, denounced the poor directors, characterizing as a corrupt bargain the agreement which the directors are alleged to have made among themselves for the parceling out of offices within their control, and to which they bound themselves on pain of forfeiture of $2,000 by any violator of the agreement. It is said criminal suits will now be brought against the directors.

An Ant For a Pet.

One of the queerest little pets ever seen is the tame ant belonging to a well known scientist. This man keeps tribes of ants in nests which he has made himself and feeds them with honey or sugar through a tube that connects with the nests. One day he saw that one of the ants kept coming into the tube to eat up the honey in the glass bulb at the end. When he took out the cork that closed the bulb, the insect came to look for the food, and he offered it some honey on the point of a needle, says the New York Tribune.

The ant shrank back at first, then drew nearer, feeling about with its antennae, until it reached the needle. Soon it learned to take the honey off its keeper's finger, although ants are among the most timid of living things, and a new odor or the least movement outside their nests usually drives these little insects away.

This ant is now so tame that it quits the bulb as soon as the cork is removed and goes to find the honey on the scientist's finger. When its meal is over, it does not try to hurry away, but waits till its master lifts it on a bristle and carries it back to its nest.
