THE DAILY BULLETIN.

How to Treat a Frightened Horse. A man who has had much experience in managing horses, says: "Whenever nervous horses notice their horse directing his ear to any point whatever, or indicating the slightest disposition to become afraid, let them, instead of pulling the rein to bring the horse toward the object causing his nervousness, pull it on the other side. This will instantly divert the attention of the horse from the object which is exciting his suspicion, and in ninety-nine cases out of a hundred the horse will pay no more attention to the object, from which he will fly away if forcibly driven to it by pulling on the wrong rein. The practice most persons have of forcing a horse up to the object, frightening is dangerous and useless."

Mr. Findlay Dun, a member of the royal agricultural commission in England, states that throughout the midland and eastern counties and in some of the southern counties the position of the English farmer is critical, and shows little sign of amendment. To foster English farming less protection and more profitable. Mr. Dun recommends greater diversity. Less dependence than heretofore must be placed on arable culture; less wheat must be generally grown; more live-stock must be reared and fed; more dairying, vegetable, and fruit culture must be prosecuted. The old lands of England he considers could not be economically farmed on the rough and ready system successful in this country. They require increasing capital, skill, and resource to make them yield even a fair reward for the labor expended on them. For the advantage of landlords, tenants, the community at large, in fact, Mr. Dun thinks that the old laws of entail and primogeniture should be either abolished or so changed as to suit the requirements of modern times. They were good enough in their day, but their day is gone. The position of the English farmer has become a national question. Shortened farm crops, disease among live stock, and other causes have combined to shrink English farm returns from £10,000,000 to £20,000,000 annually.

Ambiguities of Language.

We may excuse the foreigner if, in speaking our language, he occasionally misapplies an ambiguous word, however odd it may sound. Dr. Chalmers once entertained a distinguished guest from Switzerland, whom he asked if he would be helped to "kippered salmon." The foreign divine asked the meaning of the unorthodox word "kippered," and was told it meant "preserved." Soon after the Switzer made use of this newly-acquired expression in a public prayer, when he offered a petition that a certain divine might long be "kippered to the Free Church of Scotland." Here is another example of a possible misconstruction of language. "I fear," said a country curate to his flock, "when I explained to you in my last charity sermon that philanthropy was the love of our species, you must have understood me to say 'specie' from the smallness of the collection. You will prove, I hope, by your present contribution that you are no longer laboring under the same mistake."

"Give me Raggles."

A well-known lady artist, resident in Rome, relates that standing one day near the statue of the Apollo Belvidere, she suddenly became aware of the presence of a country-woman. The newcomer, a well-to-do looking American woman introduced herself as Mrs. Raggles, of —, Missouri, and then asked: "Is this the Apollo Belvidere?" Miss H. testified to the identity of the work, and the tourist then said: "Considered a great statue?" The interrogated lady replied that it was generally thought to be one of the masterpieces of the world. "Yes," responded the now amazed artist. "It is said to be one of the noblest representations of the human form."

Mad at the Way she was Saved.

"Don't go on that log," screamed the masculine attendant, as one of the damsels walked out on the careening limb of an old dead tree, which lay diagonally with the bank.

Stop That Cough.

If you are suffering with a cough, cold, asthma, bronchitis, hay fever, consumption, loss of voice, tickling in the throat, or any affection of the throat or lungs, use Dr. King's New Discovery for consumption. This is the great remedy that is causing so much excitement by its wonderful cures, curing thousands of hopeless cases. Over one million bottles of Dr. King's New Discovery have been used within the last year, and have given perfect satisfaction in every instance. We can unhesitatingly say that this is really the only cure for throat and lung affections, and can cheerfully recommend it to all. Call and get a trial bottle free of cost, or a regular size for $1. For sale by George E. O'Hara, Druggist, Cairo, Ill.

The Right Application.

Mrs. D. Morrison, Farinhall Center, P. Q. writing about Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil, says: "George Bell used it on his son, and it cured him of rheumatism with only a few applications. The balance of the bottle was used by an old gentleman with asthma, with the best results. It acts like a charm." Sold by PAUL G. SCHUI.

WIT AND HUMOR.]

An exchange calls the watermelon "that luscious capsule of pink moisture." A man may get mad and strike at a flea with a crowbar, but he's always sorry for it afterward. Patrick on the zebra.—"That kind of a baste is that—the male wild his ribs on the outside of his skin entirely." The man who can hum a hymn while jointing stove-pipe is good enough to walk right into full membership in any church, without probation. A celebrated wit was asked why he did not marry a young lady to whom he was much attached. "I know no reason," replied he "except the great regard we have for each other." There is a knock at the front door, and the colored person says to the lady of the house: "Is you de white woman what told a colored gemman you was lookin' for a colored lady to wash your clothes by the munnit?"—[Galveston News.

The following letter was received by an undertaker recently from an afflicted widow: "Sir—my wif is ded and wants to be hurried to-morrow at Woner kloek. U nose wair to dig the Hole—by the snuff of my two other wiafs—let it be deep."

There are some scenes almost too pure and sacred to be viewed by the thoughtless world. One of them is a two-hundred-pound woman with a mole on her chin "talking baby" to an ounce-and-a-half canary bird in a brass cage.

A Scotch minister, in one of his parochial visits, met a cow boy, and asked him what o'clock it was. "About twelve, sir," was the reply. "Well," remarked the minister, "I thought it was more." "It's never any more here," said the boy; "it just begins at one again."

Train up a child in the way that he shall go, and it may turn out that way in the long run, but all the precept and example ever promulgated can't save him from the sheepish, awkward feeling sure to seize him when he goes spunking the first time.

When a country editor, who is struggling along trying to rear a large family and build up a town on an income of five hundred a year, discovers that a baseball pitcher hauls in four thousand dollars for the season, it makes him sit down on a roller-box and think.

There is an ingenious theory abroad that the scalpette, as the barbers call it, the foretop as it used to be styled when ladies spoke their mother tongue, is worn by women whose own hair is abundant, simply to preserve it. No man ever accepted that theory, but the girls like to put it forward.

German papers are in a hilarious uproar over the following story: A Hebrew mother rushed to a Hebrew father with, "Abraham, the child has swallowed the silver coin you gave him, and is like to die." The father, true to his racial instincts, sought to confine his better half by saying, "No matter, my dear, it was only a counterfeit."

When you meet a young man who is smoking a cigar it is your duty to stop him, and say, Young man, that cigar contains acetic, formic, butyric, valeric and propionic acids, prussic acid, crocotic, carbonic acid, ammonia, sulphuretted hydrogen, pyridine, virodine, picoline and rubidine, to say nothing of ephedrine and burdockic acid. He may stick to the cigar, but you have done your duty in the premises.

"I want to find out who is the master of this house," said the man with a book under his arm to the vinegary-looking woman with a pointed nose and a very small top-knot who opened the door for him. "Well, stranger," she said with arms akimbo, "you just walk around into the backyard, and ask a little spindle-shanked deacon you'll find thuge fixin' up the grape-arbor, and he'll tell you if I don't boss this ranch he don't know who does. Now what do you want with me?"

A Daughter Resened.

A Frankfort (Ky.) physician writes: Some months ago the daughter of one of our prominent citizens was pronounced a hopeless consumptive. She was very much reduced in flesh; terrible cough, her life gradually wasting away. I recommended her to use "Dr. Swayne's Compound Syrup of Wild Cherry," which she did. In a short time she was free from all cough and other symptoms, and is now rosy and healthy. Price 25 cents and $1 a bottle or 6 bottles $5. The large size is the most economical. Prepared only by Dr. Swayne & Son, Philadelphia. Sold by druggists. An occasional dose of "Swayne's Pills" should be taken to keep the bowels free. They are excellent for torpid liver and bilious complaints. Sold by all the Cairo druggists. (2)

RUPTURE

DR. J. A. SHERMAN—AND THE ONLY DR. SHERMAN known to the public for the past 35 years in fact, may be consulted at his office, St. Louis, Mo., until the 28th of December, after that at his New York office. Office address in the St. Louis city newspapers.

Mr. B. F. George, Attorney-at-Law, Kent, Union Co., Iowa, having been cured by Dr. Sherman at his St. Louis office, writes: "Having used your famous treatment, and having been permanently cured, I have spoken highly of its merits and recommend it to my friends, and to all who are afflicted with Rupture. Dr. Sherman is the discoverer of the only known cure for Rupture by local external treatment. No man is safe who has a Rupture, no matter how insignificant he may consider it, for every man who has a Rupture, it once flatters himself that it was but a trifling ailment; and every man who now suffers from it and the injury of trusses, to such an extent that life has no enjoyment, once regarded an unworthy special attention. It is not a stand-still affliction; it is steadily progressive, even unto death, and he is wise who takes the necessary steps to be effectually relieved of it before the day of suffering and gloom comes upon him. Patients from abroad can receive treatment and leave for home same day. During treatment any kind of active exercise or labor can be performed without interfering with the treatment, and with safety from the dangers of strangulated Rupture. HIS BOOK ON RUPTURE gives the most reliable proofs from distinguished professional gentlemen, clergymen and merchants of his successful practice and popularity throughout this country and the West Indies. The afflicted should read it and inform themselves. It is illustrated with photographic likenesses of extremely bad cases before and after cure, and mailed to those who send 10 cents.
