When over the fame of friend or foe
The shadow of the grave shall fall;
Instead
Of words of blame or proof of thus and so,
Let something good be said.

Forget not that no fellow-being yet
May fall so low but love may lift his head;
Even the cheek of shame with tears is wet,
If something good be said.

No generous heart may vainly turn aside
In ways of sympathy; no soul is dead
But may awaken strong and glorified
If something good be said.

And so I charge thee, try the thorny
crown,
And by the cross on which the Savior
bled,
And by your own soul's hope of fair renewal,
Let something good be said.

—James Whitcomb Riley.

Stern Employer—Come here, boy,
How many grandmothers have you got?
Surprised Office Boy—Two, sir, just like other folks.
