Championships revolve about Globe like gladiators about Rome.

A St. Louis paper is running a series of "Letters from Hades." The author is probably simmering in Phoenix.

The reconstruction period in Globe has set in auspiciously, and the improvement is already noticeable. But don't let anyone forget that it has just begun.

A Safford paper says that a bunch of cowboys spent a day "in our midst." We would not give thirty cents Mex. for your "midst" after they broke through.

Many Nevada gold hunters are returning to Arizona to get a square meal and take a look at the color of gold. Some forgot what it looked like while they were away.

Sweeping the muck from places where people sleep and eat is a good beginning. If cleanliness is next to godliness, Globe will have to keep up the good work to be good.

A Phoenix paper is attempting to sell a mine in the Globe district for a paltry three million. It is strange how cheap Phoenix papers are, anyway. People here don't begin to take an interest in a subject until the three-million mark is passed.

The first number of the Globe Mascot, P. J. Bennett, editor and proprietor, made its appearance yesterday. The Mascot is a six-column folio and will be published weekly. Mr. Bennett has had years of experience in the printing business and for a time was an employee of the Silver Belt. He has our best wishes in his latest venture.

THE HOME OF CHAMPIONS

It is with no little pride that the Silver Belt points to the story in today's issue of the victory in drilling won by a Globe team on Sunday. Powerful men, wielding eight-pound hammers, swung Globe into a limelight of eminence as the home of champions of the steel.

A world's record was broken and it was two Globe miners who did it. McIver and Pickins are products of Globe; their skill was finished here and their muscles hardened by Globe rock. They have been employed at the Globe Consolidated mine for some time, and previous to that they worked in other mines in the district. McIver has made Globe his home for the past four years, and, recently married, has brought his bride here.

Tied to Globe's champion belt is the baseball pennant and the world's record for drilling, and all done within a month. We are invincible! We claim nothing that is not justly ours, and what is not ours just now is not worth claiming.

May the muscles of McIver and Pickins never grow soft.

ROOSTING ON A MEMORY

With what is really a temperamental or constitutional incapacity to see or sense the great movements which now and then force humanity to go forward from that which may be well enough to that which is better, that element of mankind, alike under all party designations to which they themselves give the respectable name conservatives and to which the impatient give terms of ridicule, now, in this greater impulse resist and lament and moan and warn. Let well enough alone is their constant plaint. Are we not prosperous? Why risk it? Have these things not been of long life and does that not prove them good? Were not the old ways good? Why take new ones?

They recall an incident related by the late Ignatius Donnelly in illustration of some point he was making in a speech. At one time he caught the fancy poultry craze and bought a dozen hens and a cock of some much lauded breed and built for them a house befitting their quality. One day, while making repairs in it which involved taking down the pole on which they roosted, he was called away and forgot all about his hens until after sundown. Hurrying out to the henhouse, he opened the door and there, directly underneath where their roosting pole had been, squat upon the ground, the cock at their head, sat his flock, roosting on a memory.

So with these standpatters and lag-behinds and their more anxious associates whose comfortable privileges the movement is sure to disturb, who oppose primaries, resist regulation of corporations and oppose tariff reform, they are one and all simply roosting on a memory.

GLOBE

Where the fragrant pines are wavin' 'Mid the mountains of the west, There's a bustling, bustling city— And it's known to be the best; It is famous for the minerals That sleep beneath the hills Where copper, gold and silver Turn into bright, crisp bills. This town lies on the foothills Of the lofty old Pinalas, Where long-lost hoary ancients Tapped the snow banks with canals To flood those fertile valleys And enrich old Nature's robe— On the hills and grand old mountains That surround the town of Globe. —J. WATT HOGUE.

Meet me at Dreamland.

Cool Candy

Chocolates kept cool and fresh in the hottest weather at Van Wagenen Post Office Store. Call and be convinced.

Crowds at the Iris

There was a crowd at the Iris last night and everyone was pleased with the show.

There are some very good moving pictures on the program this week. "Forty Winks" is the title of the leading comedy. It is a big laugh from start to finish. "The Two Sisters" and "The Phantom Ride" make a hit with the audience.

Charles Smith sings a beautiful illustrated song and a ballad without pictures and Mr. Keith sings an illustrated song. All of the songs were well received last night.

The same bill continues tonight and Wednesday night.

The Firt National bank is now located in its new home and cordially invites all to come in and look through.

Attraction Extraordinary at Dreamland Professor Harry Archer, the famous trick and fancy skater, arrived on last night's train and will fill a week's engagement at Dreamland, presenting something novel and hazardous in the way of roller skating.

Professor Archer will introduce for the first time in Globe the "Globe" skate, giving a difficult and novel performance.

Known as the "Human Top," Professor Archer will spin over 100 times, clothed in a myriad of colored lights, and will close his act each evening with a daring, sensational "Slide for Life" down an inclined tiny wire on roller skates.

This is a genuine box office attraction and ought to be seen by every man, woman and child in Globe. Tonight will be his first appearance, at 9 p. m.

Forty Winks

A very funny moving picture at the Iris. Don't miss it.

Summer Activity

There is not indication of summer dullness in the office of the probate judge; in fact the contrary is true in the branch where Cupid's victims are taken care of. Since Judge Robertson left for the coast on June 26, his deputy, H. Q. Robertson, has issued thirteen marriage licenses. Yesterday morning two were issued before the regular office hours began, which opens the week's business rather auspiciously. Those who received licenses to wed were Robert L. Bailey and Helen Odair, John Jackson and Crala Cox, Joseph P. Scott and Willie Maude Delbridge. The latter couple hail from Pleasant Valley in the northern part of the county.

American Cleaning Works, next door to Wells Fargo. All work guaranteed.

Swellest goods in town. Ladies' suits, cloaks, silk dresses and gowns, waists, skirts, hosiery, millinery, new goods, switches, fancy goods, etc. The People's Store, Dolph Baatz, Prop., Globe, Ariz.

Good music, good floor, good show at Dreamland all this week.

Where Cool Breezes Blow

Sunday excursions to the Pinal mountains are popular these warm summer days. Cool breezes and fine mountain water are the attractions and the distance from Globe is not great enough to make the journey a hard one. Among those who went Sunday from Globe was a party consisting of Miss Clark, Miss Kenefick, Miss Keek, Miss McCollum, Mr. F. C. Jacobs, wife and child, Mr. Chamberlain, wife and child, and Dr. R. Williamson.

Another party comprised Mr. and Mrs. Alsdorf, Rollin Jacobs, Mr. Emmons, Mr. and Mrs. Purdham and a number of others. Both parties camped at Limburger Rock on the Pioneer road and enjoyed the day immensely.

Entering a Homestead

James E. Hopkins of Pine was in the city yesterday to make entry before the clerk of the district court of his homestead, which he has lived on for many years. His tract is embraced in Township 12, which was thrown open to entry in May of this year. He has occupied the tract he claims for years and will now be given an opportunity to secure a title to it without waiting the usual time required after making formal entry, as in other cases.

Regular prices of admission at Dreamland tonight, 25 cents to all.

When you are sick go to the Indian Hot Springs for a while 269

A Sunday Wedding

On Sunday evening Justice of the Peace Rawlings united in marriage Charles A. Wyant and Samonia Gallego. The newly married couple will make their home in Globe.

DEVELOPING AN EARNING CAPACITY

A Review of Old Dominion's Magnificent Strides Since 1901 as a Producer—Entered the Class of a Permanent Dividend Payer Recently.

Old Dominion has declared a dividend of $1 a share, the first since the disbursement of 50 cents in June, 1906. The funds for this will be derived from the payment of dividends by its two subsidiary companies, The United Globe Mines and the Old Dominion Company of New Jersey, the former paying $1 per share and the latter $1.25.

This is the first dividend disbursement by the Old Dominion Company of New Jersey, representing the Old Dominion mine proper. The payment of this initial dividend is an important milestone in the company's history, and warrants a short review of its career.

The Old Dominion mine has been producing copper in considerable amounts for twelve years. Previous to 1895 the property was controlled by the Baltimore Smelting company, who extracted only the highest grade ore and did more to injure the mine than to develop it. From 1895 to 1902 the property was controlled by the Bigelow interests, and though they did a good deal in the way of development, and attained an output of 10,000,000 pounds annually, this period was, on the whole, one of disappointment.

Since 1902 the property has been under the control of Phelps Dodge & Co. and under their very able management not only has the output been very greatly increased, but there has been developed a mine of tremendous potentialities and an equipment has been built to match it. This equipment includes a smelter, the most efficient of its size in the west, containing five blast furnaces, with a sixth ordered, and a seventh in contemplation.

The output of recent years, in pounds of copper has been as follows:

Table with 2 columns: Year, Pounds of copper. 1901: 10,094,787; 1902: 7,992,550; 1903 (about): 7,600,000; 1904: 15,368,147; 1905 (about): 28,000,000; 1906 (about): 37,500,000

This is the output of the smelter. The production of the mines, from which alone the company makes any profit, is now about 75 per cent of the total—the balance coming from foreign sulphide ores which the company is obliged to import to obtain the proper flux.

The question of developing sufficient supplies of sulphide ore to make the company independent is now the most serious problem confronting the management. As is well known, there has recently been developed in the lower levels of the mine one of the most remarkable copper veins that has been encountered in the west. The first indications of this were on the 12th level. By the time that the 13th level was reached the vein had attained considerable size, while on the 14th level they have proved it for a length of 400 feet and have shown it to have a width of forty to eighty feet, with average values of 10 per cent. Unfortunately, the ratio of the sulphur contents of the ore to the copper was not increased, so that although the mine is in a position to furnish a larger volume of rich ore, and thereby reduce its cost of production, it has yet some distance to go before becoming an independent smelting proposition.

Today Old Dominion is producing from its own mines, at the rate of about 40,000,000 pounds annually, at an estimated cost of 1 1/2 cents a pound, so that on 20-cent copper it could earn over $8 a share.

It is the expectation of the management that within a year's time sufficient sulphide ore will be developed to make the company an independent proposition and that at the same time the cost will be reduced to 11 cents a pound. If this goal is actually attained, the company will develop a tremendous earning power.

Under these conditions it would earn on 15-cent copper $6.50 per share; on 18-cent copper, $12, and on 20-cent copper, $15. We do not wish to give the impression that Old Dominion is on the verge of such earnings, but it does occur to us that these figures are quite possible of attainment.

At any rate, the payment of this dividend will place the stock on a much better footing, as no one believes that the Phelps Dodge management would begin the payment of dividends unless they were reasonably sure that they would be able to continue them at regular intervals. Heretofore, the stock has had a very erratic career, as might have been expected of a security which promised a good deal, but performed little. The placing of the stock on a dividend basis will make shareholders more reluctant to let go of it in a weak market, and this should give it the stability that it has heretofore lacked.

IRRIGATION BULLETIN IS READY

National Irrigation Congress Bulletin Number One, Showing the Progress Being Made by the Association Throughout the Southwest.

At the last session of the National Irrigation Congress a committee was appointed for the purpose of disseminating reliable information concerning the proper use of water in irrigation and the advantages of irrigated agriculture.

Notice. This committee was subsequently organized by the appointment of S. Fortier of Berkeley, Cal., as chairman, and L. G. Sinaard of San Francisco as secretary.

In planning the work to be undertaken by the committee it was decided to issue two sets of pamphlets and to trust to the co-operation of the press to give them wide publicity. The first series was to consist of reliable information concerning lands in particular districts of the arid region for which water supplies have been provided, and the second series was to contain practical hints as to the best methods of using water.

Bulletin No. 1 of the first series is now ready for distribution and copies may be had by applying to the secretary, L. G. Sinaard, room 246, Flood building, San Francisco. This bulletin deals with a portion of the Sacramento valley, California, and contains brief descriptions of the water supply, lands to be irrigated, products, markets, transportation facilities, climate, land values, cost of living and social life. The main purpose kept in view in preparing the bulletin was to condense within a few pages as much information as was possible of a kind that the intending settler would wish to obtain. The bulletin also contains a map of the locality described and a large number of full-page illustrations.
