A MOUTHPIECE OF BRASS

Several weeks ago an alleged newspaper was started in Globe, which was purported to be the official organ of the wage workers of this district...

Realizing that the cause for which they are striving was being used for the private gain of individuals, the extent of whose friendship for this same cause is measured in dollars and cents...

In its almost thirty years of existence the Silver Belt has sought to build up Globe and its principal industry. There was never a time in its history when the paper was owned by more than one man...

Level-headed and optimistic the Arizona Gazette says: "Arizona copper producers can stand the present deadlock as long as the consumers can and at its end will have plenty of the red metal to sell at the same old remunerative prices."

A Boston paper is discussing the question: "When should a boy put on trousers?" We should say that the best time for the operation is when he gets up in the morning.

Governor Hughes of New York says that the "vitality of our people has not been sapped by prosperity." But prosperity prices have our pocketbooks and bank accounts strapped.

Tucson is to wipe out the "social club," which means that the quiet of the hayloft will be the only rendezvous of the men who enjoy a little game of draw.

The news that this years plum crop will be a record smasher, isn't calculated, thinks the Arizona Star to interest the man who has no political pull.

The Prospector rejoices over the great forward stride Tombstone is making and tells an interesting story of progress under flash headlines.

If Secretary Taft, as Mr. Bryan says, is the "great postponer" then the Nebraska must be the "great postponed."

Roosevelt is said to be interested in astronomy. But the unfortunates upon whom his big stick descends see most of the stars.

Where do all the rumors come from? Almost as hard to answer as "Where do all the flies go in winter time?"

A thief is never surer in the world of getting time than when he steals a watch.

ALL OVER ARIZONA

Dairymen around Tucson are stocking their farms with Holstein cows obtained in the Salt River valley.

Phoenix boasts of the best schools in the territory.

The Salvation Army of Phoenix says that if the people will give it $200 they will materially reduce taxes in their rescue work by jacking many cases from the city and county courts.

Mahion Elliot, a writer of considerable ability, is dead at Phoenix.

Barton W. Currie of the New York Evening Post is at Winslow preparing a write-up of that section of the territory for the paper he represents.

Douglas is making a strong pull for the convention of Foresters, which will be held somewhere in the southwest during next year.

Tempe wants to eliminate all time but the Southern Pacific and has appealed to the county supervisors for relief.

Federal court will be convened at Phoenix next Thursday, with Judge Kent on the bench.

Nogales is experiencing something of a boom after a long nap.

Bisbee is bracing up her fire-fighting apparatus and will try for lower insurance rates.

Faundo Olea has been arrested in Phoenix for horse stealing. Olea's father and grandfather both served time at Yuma for the same offense, and a brother is now doing time for horse stealing.

Chas. T. Connell, United States immigration inspector at the port of Douglas, will be promoted within a short time to the position of special agent, which will carry with it duties very similar to those he has at present.

Next month promises to be a banner month in the history of the Tucson lodge of the Benevolent Protective Order of Elks for arrangements are now under way for the initiation into the order of a class of at least 100 applicants. The lodge at present has a membership of 170.

Two additional cops have been appointed at Tucson to suppress music in saloons.

A Los Angeles man predicts that Phoenix is soon to become a second Los Angeles.

The government will assist Arizona cattlemen in the treatment of dangerous diseases among livestock.

Governor Kibbey has returned to the territory after a two-weeks visit in California.

George Lutgerding has been elected cashier of the Union Bank & Trust company of Phoenix. He succeeds John H. McDowell.

The Green-Snell electric line will be constructed from Phoenix to Buckeye.

In Jerome the city saloon license has been raised from $40 to $100 a quarter.

A bottling works plant to cost $10,000 is to be erected at Clifton.

There are 37 prisoners in the Santa Cruz county jail, 31 of whom are Chinamen awaiting deportation.

The Arizona Banker's Association will hold its fourth annual meeting in Bisbee, November 16. A large attendance is expected.

A gun club is being organized in Wilcox.

The treasury of Yavapai county contains $94,343.50.

There are 203 inmates in the territorial insane asylum at Phoenix.

Paradise was sixth in the list of Arizona towns with rainfall last year, being credited with 27.57 inches.

Yuma objects to the present location of its red light district on account of its close proximity to the city churches.

CLAIM STAKED BY CYCLONE

How Abe Tucker Got Some of the Best Government Land

Abe Tucker lived with his family and his stock on a Kansas farm, but he was not contented. He wanted to enter the rush for government lands in the Rosebud country in South Dakota, but he couldn't afford the trip, and, even supposing his old horses could have reached a claim before everything was staked out, he couldn't see any way clear to get his family transported.

Well, the morning of the rush started, and Abe hung over his pig sty gate, disconsolate, when of a sudden he noticed that the tails of his pigs had all uncurled and stood out as straight as ramrods.

He knew what that meant well enough—the pigs were getting ready to fly, the way Kansas pigs do in a cyclone, and, looking up into the darkened sky, sure enough, he could see a greenish, funnel-shaped cloud come tearing along out of the south, with a great roar of winds and bearing straight down on them. Then, pop! the feathers all began dropping off the chickens and whirling about in the air.

This is a good place to point out the scientific truth of the episode, for under the center of every cyclone cloud there is a vacuum, and the feather stems, which are full of air, burst under the pressure. The same is true of houses, unless they are open for the air to escape.

The next thing Abe knew he didn't know anything, but after a while he came to himself to find his wife bending over him and all the family and cattle and pigs ranged around, with a maelstrom of frying pans, cradles, threshing machines and other of their household goods strewn over the prairie.

"We've squatted on the best claim in the bunch," joyously explained his wife. "You see, the cyclone dropped us here just in the nick of time."

The way to get rid of a cold, whether it be a "bad cold" or just a little one, is to get it out of your system through the bowels. Nearly all cough cures, especially those that contain opiates, are constipating. Kennedy's Laxative Cough Syrup contains no opiates and acts gently on the bowels. Pleasant to take. Sold by Hanna's Drug Store.

OKLAHOMA'S POPULATION A MILLION AND A HALF

By Associated Press. WASHINGTON, D. C., September 19.—Director North of the census bureau today revised the final figures for the new census of Oklahoma, which shows a total population of 1,414,042. Oklahoma has 721,141 and the Indian Territory 692,901.

FAIRBANKS A PROPHET

Vice President Told Pretty Girl He Hoped She'd Be a Bride

BOSTON, Mass., September 19.—Vice President Fairbanks is a prophet. He made a prophesy when he visited Boston at the time of Old Home Week, and last night Miss Corine F. McDermott of Woburn got married in fulfillment of that prophesy. The groom is Robert Garfield LaPlante of the Boston fire department.

It was on the morning of Wednesday, July 29, that the vice president played the seer. As he was driving past the Henry Siegel store in the big Old Home Week parade two pretty girl clerks of the book department of the store presented him with an address. One of them was Miss Alice Scanlan.

"I am very glad to meet you, young ladies," said the Man from Indiana. "I wish you the best of success. May you be married before the year is out."

Miss Scanlan has not yet been heard from, but Miss McDermott's doom was sealed last night by the Rev. James Woburn. The marriage took place at the parochial residence. The bride was attended by Miss Ethel Mooney of Weldon, Pa., a cousin.
