

CORNER FOR MILADI'S READING

To Keep Blouses Clean
The girl who believes in starting Christmas presents early should make a shirtwaist case to protect blouses that cannot be washed.

These are made like a large envelope, with the flap at the end. They should be of white Persian lawn, or striped dimity that is easily laundered.

Cut the material in a long strip, allowing for a deep flap. It should be large enough to hold a waist without crushing, even when the sleeves are stuffed with tissue paper. French seam the sides and finish the end of the flap with a scallop embroidered in white cotton.

The only decoration is put on the flap, which buttons over the case. It may have just a monogram or three initials, or can have an elaborate design in satin stitch and eyelet work.

The Pen-and-Ink Lady
Paris is filled with her. And she is registered on this side. She is the black-and-white poster girl. And she started at Ostend during the tableaux vivants.

At that time she was called the Beardsley girl, because Beardsley's drawing suggested her.

All the fashionable modistes are now devoting their energies to the development of black-and-white costumes.

As may be imagined, however, the proper combinations of black and white requires the strategy of a true artist.

As an adjunct of the pen-and-ink costumes, the winter girl will probably wear black cloaks lined with white and white cloaks lined with black.

Return of Lace Mitts

Lace mitts have come back and will be doubtless with us during the reign of the poke bonnet and Directorie modes. But the lace mit of today is far different from its demure ancestor of fifty years ago. The lace mit of today is, indeed, a saucy and even flirtatious accessory. The best ones are of real lace and are edged around the top with the ruche which has insinuated itself into every other article of present dress.

This is a very attractive idea, and as long as the mitts stay in place it looks very well. But imagine the consternation of the populace if it sees the mitt slipping down, ruffles and all! They would immediately think the ladies dress was coming apart in the most remarkable manner.

The prices of these mitts range from $1.50 to $75 the pair, according to the value of the lace.

POLITICS DO NOT INTERFERE IN CONTEST

MISS MILLIE WILLIAMS GETS ENOUGH VOTES TO PUT HER AHEAD.

Little Miss eVris comes in With New Subscribers—Miss Armstrong's Many Friends Also Do Good Work—Only Three Days More for Fair Trip.

Despite the excitement incident to the general election of yesterday, the candidates in the Silver Belt's popular piano contest were quite active and a heavy vote was polled. Miss Millie Williams, always energetic, polled several hundred votes yesterday and is again in the lead this morning. Miss Dollie Armstrong's friends were in evidence during the day and as a result her figures have been materially increased. Her friends promise a big vote today and will undertake to place her in the lead at the close of the week. Miss Mildred Voris, the child candidate, cast the heaviest vote of the day and scored a goodly number of points on new subscribers. If Miss Voris puts forth a little extraordinary effort there is no good reason why she should not score sufficient points to entitle her to the Phoenix trip. Only three more days remain in the territorial fair controversy and the young ladies should improve every moment from now on.

In a few days the Silver Belt will announce the date of its first musicale, which will be given at Naquin's store, when the beautiful baby grand piano will be heard. Another very important announcement will be made Sunday morning, which will prove of intense interest to all the candidates and will greatly stimulate the pace of the contestants. The Silver Belt has assured the contestants time and again that energy is to be rewarded. That the hint and get to work.

List of Candidates.
The list of candidates, entered at 10 o'clock last night, with their respective vote, is as follows:

NEAT KITCHEN APRON.

TO be well dressed requires gowns that are in keeping with the time and place. By this is not meant an extravagant expenditure of money on an elaborate wardrobe, but such garments that can be made to answer the purpose of two or three should be chosen. This is an easy matter to accomplish if gone about in the right way. First, a tailored suit should be selected of excellent material.

With the tailored suit is needed plain tailored waists for morning wear and those of the more lacy order for afternoon and evening. Satin, satin surfaced silks and net are favored materials for waists, but those of the wash variety will be worn throughout the season. A waist of net worn with the skirt of the tailored suit and trimmed with hands or folds of the skirt material will make an attractive afternoon costume. The directive sash of soft silk to match will add much to the appearance of such a costume.

Comfortable kimonos and dressing gowns with suitable skirts and a good supply of undergarments being provided, one can be appropriately dressed for any occasion. An article that is often overlooked but should be included in every woman's wardrobe, is the kitchen apron. The pattern shown is in four sizes—32, 33, 40 and 44 inches bust measure. It requires 4 1/2 yards of material 27 inches wide or 4 3/4 yards 36 inches wide.

Any reader of this paper who desires to secure this pattern may do so by sending 10 cents to this office. Give the number, 2508, state size desired and write the full address plainly. The pattern will be forwarded promptly by mail.

American hen, who, during the past year, may well have cackled with pride over the production of nearly 1,300,000,000 dozen of eggs! Do you realize that that means? Well, listen: If instead of remaining quietly at home in Iowa, she had chosen to demonstrate her powers to the universe at large, the hen might have laid those eggs, each two inches long, end to end, in a continuous chain reaching 238,318 miles up to the moon, back again, and then more than half way round the world for good measure—a total of 492,424 miles of eggs! Furthermore, if those eggs had been made into one omelet half an inch thick, that omelet would easily have covered Manhattan Island, an area of twenty-two square miles!

An old Mohammedan legend tells that King Solomon used to travel through the air with all his armies on a wonderful flying carpet, protected from the rays of the sun by the wings of a host of birds. Now, according to the poultry census, there are in the United States about 280,000,000 chickens, guinea fowls, turkeys, geese, and ducks of the poultry voting age, which is three months or over. If required to furnish a moving canopy like that of King Solomon, the barn-yard fowls of the country, allowing only a foot of spread to each could easily shadow a space of ten square miles.

Hypnotism in Shopland

It is new. It's an excuse. It serves the light-fingered.

A woman steals a bracelet, for instance.

Does she admit that it was an ordinary theft?

Ney! She declares it was kleptomaniac, resulting from the hypnotic power of the salesperson.

Foxy excuse, that. Who ever before dreamed of accusing salespeople with hypnotizing one into an uncontrollable desire to possess the wares they offer.

Wear Satin This Winter

"Indeed, it is to be a satin season," says Grace Margaret Gould in October Woman's Home Companion. "Not the satin of our grandmothers, so stiff and heavy, but a light, supple, soft material, with a wonderful luster of its own, which adorns itself marvelously to the new clinging type of gown."

"Paris is wild with enthusiasm over the new satin gilet. A gilet, you know, is a little vest. One of the smartest of these imported small garments, and one which American women are sure to like, is made of black satin bands shaded to the figure and each finished to a point. This gilet is single-breasted and buttons in the front. Combined with the satin is a band of Persian embroidery forming the top. This is a peculiarly French touch, and is sure to be much the vogue. The contrast of the beautiful Persian colors with the shining black satin is most effective, and one of those little things which the French make so important. Such a vest as this will prove most serviceable to the woman with a limited wardrobe. It will give a new look to last year's suit, and an attractive look, too."

"A vest of this sort is generally worn with a cutaway coat, but I suggest that it be made so that it can take the place of an overblouse and be worn with a glimpse of filet net."

being enrolled in the different Sunday school classes.

Sidney Mashbir, who has received an appointment as alternate for West Point, is studying for the entrance examinations under Miss Perdam, principal of the Safford schools.

Mr. French's new residence in the western part of town is completed. He has spared no expense in its erection, and it stands a credit both to Mr. French and those who built it.

Jack Sneden and Harry and Will Dial returned late Saturday evening from a hunting trip in the Nantack mountains. They were out about a week, bringing back a big buck. They state that although the country has been overrun, since the game season opened, by cowboys and hunters, yet there is left sufficient game to make hunting interesting.

Work on that magnificent structure which is to be the home of the Thatcher Academy students is being rapidly pushed forward. The walls of the second story are nearly completed. This building when completed, will rival any yet undertaken in the Gila valley.

Roundup work on the ranges south of here has ceased until after election. Cowboys from the valley, dusty, and with two weeks' old beards, are riding in every hour. They say that a few days more will finish the work. They report that the feed is good and that the cattle are in fine condition.

Since Miss Williams' trip through the valley, readers of the Silver Belt are watching with no little interest the part that she is playing in the prize contest.

Hallowe'en was duly celebrated here and in Thatcher last Saturday night. Several parties of girls, white robed and carrying Jack-o'-Lanterns appeared on the streets of Safford for a few moments. An unknown party of boys entered the school grounds, penetrating no little damage to public property. In Thatcher, piano boxes, out houses and the rolling stock of farms were moved, exchanged and placed in conspicuous places.

Safford, Nov. 3.—Frank Cruze, a Mexican of this town was shot on Saturday night while on the Thatcher road. The bullet struck him on the right temple glancing around the side of his head. The wound was very painful but he was able to be around on the following morning. He had previously engaged in a controversy with a fellow countryman and it is supposed that the shot was fired by this man. Two suspects were in jail Sunday morning.

Deals in Safford real estate are being transacted with increasing frequency. Each transaction shows an advance in price which would not indicate a boom but rather a steady advance in real value. Within the past day or so, M. E. O'Brien has purchased two and a half lots just north of his residence, of Houston Roach. Miss Annie Smith bought of Mrs. N. O. Todd two lots on the northeast corner of the Shafer block and a deal is about to be made for the three and a half corner lots just east of the Wilbur Ijams block. Stan Crandall, Geo. Taylor and Louis Nelson were hosts at a Hallowe'en dance in Todd's hall Saturday evening. The attendance was smaller than expected but the function was a social success.

Safford is undergoing a small religious revival. The old Methodist congregation South Methodists. Those of the South are holding their meetings in the Wonderland theater under the Rev. Crutchfield. The North Methodists remain in the old building under the Rev. Anderson for whom a neat little parsonage has been provided in the church yard. The Baptist church under the Rev. C. W. Wardlaw also shows signs of increasing prosperity. New pupils are
