ANOTHER CHAPTER OF BROWNSVILLE

We had hoped that nearly the last had been heard of the Brownsville affair, but the interminable controversy has now gained a fresh start that promises acrimonious discussion, if not more muddling of the public mind.

Oh, ho! So some Cuban editors are mad at the president! These days are enough to make Mr. Roosevelt regret that he turned down that attractively trimmed proposition, the second elective term.

It may be, as the Augusta Herald says, that Georgia is, theoretically, a very "dry" state. We infer, nevertheless, that it is a condition and not a theory that interests the colonels thereabout.

Gov. Hughes may have appointed a commission "without warrant of law," as has been charged against him. But it doesn't follow that he did it without warrant of illustrious precedent.

"Secretary Cortelyou is not pleased with the treasury situation," says a news item. 'Thought of the Christmas bills are enough to strike terror to the most intrepid soul.

It may have been merely a coincidence, but Senator Tillman and one Mingo Sander, dawned once more on the senatorial vision almost, if not quite, simultaneously.

A South Carolina paper says, "Nobody fears the next legislature at all." We suppose not; anyway, it's the existing one that generally causes the worry.

Senator Platt is to publish his memoirs, it is said, if he intends being entirely frank in the matter, we suspect a few shudders are due to come from the neighborhood of some statesmen.

It is whispered that Emperor William is suffering from acute melancholia. It is the limit of strenuousness, we suspect, for a man of his restless energy to keep quiet.

Also, Santa Claus' reindeers enjoy prancing around Wonderful Washington at least two dozen times as well as they enjoy racing around the streets of Houston, Texas.

The president says he believes in woman suffrage, but doesn't think it a good thing. That strikes us as a fairly safe platform on which to climb, so far as that matter is concerned.

THAT PANAMA CANAL "SCANDAL"

The so-called Panama "scandal" was a product of sensational journalism. It was exploited in the midst of a political campaign for whatever damage it might do to the reputation of the republican presidential candidate, and was given currency by a number of reputable newspapers whose editors should have known better.

The facts as to the Panama canal purchase are in printed public records, accessible to any private citizen. Probably few government transactions have been better documented. Yet the original scandal story contained a number of statements utterly at variance with the recorded facts, and within the past ten days these false statements have been repeated, with the assertion that President Roosevelt's refutation of them is "full of flagrant untruths, reeking with misstatements challenging line by line the testimony of his associate Cromwell, and the official record."

Mr. Roosevelt in his latest message has taken pains to run down these falsehoods one by one, supplementing his original denial with reference to the printed as well as the unprinted records and supplying some new information relating to the stockholders of the new Panama Canal company, with which this government had all its dealings. Of Mr. Roosevelt's presentation of the affair, it is hardly necessary to say more than that it has reduced the idea of a congressional inquiry to an absurdity. Such an inquiry would be, in effect, an investigation of the acts of a foreign government, and while undoubtedly the information for which certain papers have been shouting could be obtained, what assurance is there that it would be of any use inasmuch as the assumptions upon which it is sought are wholly groundless? We have no notion that a list of 227,000 Frenchmen would be any more illuminating than the list of 6,000 which Mr. Roosevelt has already obtained and sent to congress. Nor have we any idea that congress will seriously think of instituting an inquest into the probable truthfulness of an obvious and clumsy bit of fiction.

An attempted voyage to the moon would be about as sensible. We are not surprised that the president should be highly indignant, and we share with him his detestation and condemnation of the newspapers, happily not many, which engage in misrepresentation and calumny of public men and public acts; but we cannot follow Mr. Roosevelt in his choice of a remedy for the sort of journalism he so roundly obloquiates.

The duty of public officers in respect to falsehoods about their acts is to tell the truth about them, leaving to the people the business of passing judgment upon and punishing the falsifiers. Mr. Roosevelt has performed this duty with his accustomed vigor, and in a most convincing way. We believe the American people will be perfectly satisfied with his explicit and overwhelming confutation of his detractors.

J. WATT HOGUE, President JAMES W. HOGUE, Vice President and Cashier. When it comes down to a cold consideration of investing your money in a profitable investment, one will advise you to do it in a certain way and the other fellow will tell you to do it in some other manner, your judgment will tell you which you prefer, then along comes a big chunk of caution and about "steep hundredths, and by the time all your advisers get through with helping to frame up your judgment, a few ifs, ands, and buts get to working on your caution until "wait awhile" steps in and the result is "there's nothing doing." In after years "hind sight" comes along and tells you what you ought to have invested in, when it is too late. A cool headed emotional thinker will take "hind sight" and existing actualities and sharpen up "fore sight" by an application of reason and common sense and make it pay dividends out of opportunities which are laying around thick. We have got a few opportunities on the market to sell right here in Globe. We have no lots in "Timbuctoo" or in the Mud Flat Valley of My Oh My, but we do have lots and homes here in Globe, the county seat of Gila county, which are dividend payers, not in the sweet by and by, but in the sweet now and now, which is an actuality. When you let the other fellow frame your judgment on your investment he gets his pay out of you; when you let actualities and common sense frame your judgment, you commence paying dividends to yourself. But if you never invest on nothing, you may always expect nothing. We have got some good bargains in lots and homes which are good dividend payers; lots and homes which are growing in value very fast. We have no agents to induce you to buy. Our deals are straight, our bargains good. Buying or selling, see the other fellow, then see the Home Investment Company HOUSES FOR RENT—HOUSES FOR SALE JIM HOGUE, Manager HOGUE, Utility Man.

We didn't know that people needed any extraordinary inducements to die in that town. A Texas newspaper calls the president a "dead volcano." Don't be too sure; don't be too sure! Volcanoes have more lives than cats! A French critic says, "America is lacking in poets." So is it lacking in Boni de Castellanes and Helle de Sagens, thank Heaven! There appears to be nothing wrong with the cranberry and the mistletoe crops. So cheer up. Nice little holiday reminder the Supreme Court handed Mr. E. H. Harri-man, eh? STALLCUP FOR RUBBER TIRES.

Cough Caution Never, positively never poison your lungs. If you cough—even from a simple cold—you should always treat, soothe, and ease the irritated bronchial tubes. Don't blindly suppress it with a stupefying poison. It's strange how many things finally come about. For twenty years Dr. Shoop has been warning people not to take cough mixtures or prescriptions containing Opium, Chloroform, or similar poisons. And now—a little late though—Congress says "Put it on the label. If poisons are in your Cough Mixture." Good! Very good! Hereafter for this very reason mothers, and others, should insist on having Dr. Shoop's Cough Cure. No poison marks on Dr. Shoop's labels—and none in the medicine, else it must by law be on the label. And it's not only safe, but it is said to be by those that know it best, a truly remarkable cough remedy. Take no chance here, particularly with your children. Insist on having Dr. Shoop's Cough Cure. Compare carefully the Dr. Shoop package with others and note the difference. No poison marks there! You can always be on the safe side by demanding what a splendid medicine it is. Dr. Shoop's Cough Cure THE PALACE PHARMACY.
