

SOCIAL CIRCLES

BY EDNA SURERUS HASSE

Several of the windows along Broad street appeared in new gowns yesterday. The arrangement was quite artistic and caused quite a number of passers-by to stop and gaze a few moments before going on.

One window in particular must have been arranged with a view towards attracting the attention of recent and prospective brides. It was decorated with dainty curtains and soft draperies in delicate and harmonious shades.

With one or two weddings occurring almost every day and still a week left in the month of brides and roses it is small wonder that dealers in house furnishings should hold out special inducements to the newly wedded.

It adds new interest to a walk down street if there is something new to be seen. The human family, and especially the feminine branch of it, is fond of variety and welcomes any change though only in the decorations of shop windows.

Mrs. Geo. Kingdon, wife of the superintendent of the Old Dominion mine, and Mrs. Charles Kenyon and Miss Myrtle Kenyon, of South Broad street, will leave this morning for an extended visit to their former home at Rome, N. Y. They expect to remain about three months.

Mr. Rolla Wightman will return this morning to his ranch near Geronimo after spending a few days here.

Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Coplen returned a few days ago from California where they have been since the latter part of April. They spent several weeks visiting Mr. Coplen's mother and sister at Santa Cruz. On their return journey they stopped at a number of Southern California points, making a three weeks' stay at Los Angeles. Mrs. Coplen's health was much improved by the trip and they expect to remain in Globe for the rest of the summer.

The Odd Fellows held their regular meeting last night, but after the usual business a delightful surprise was in store for them.

The Robekahs had prepared an excellent program and appeared on the scene bringing with them a plentiful supply of good things to eat. The program consisted of music and speaking and was enjoyed fully as much as the refreshments which were served at the close.

Mr. K. W. Sloan of Safford, who was here as a witness on a case of forgery yesterday, will leave this morning.

Miss Ethel Mankins and Mr. James M. Arnold were quietly married on Tuesday evening at the home of Judge P. C. Robertson. The ceremony was performed by Judge P. C. Robertson, at 10 o'clock. Only a very few relatives and intimate friends were present. Both bride and groom are Globe young people and their many friends extend congratulations.

Mrs. Mankins and family will leave this morning for the coast. They expect to remain until fall.

Misses Montoya and Heney, who have been the guests of their aunt, Mrs. Geo. H. Smalley, for the past six weeks, will leave this morning for their home in Tucson. These charming young ladies have won many friends while here and their absence from social circles here will be regretted by many.

On Monday evening a party of about twenty young ladies and gentlemen marched up to Pascoe Hill to a house where a recently married couple had taken rooms and proceeded to chivari them. They were armed with the usual array of tin pans and other kitchen utensils, but hardly had they begun operations when there appeared before them an apparition in a flowing white robe. Upon investigation this proved to be the landlord of the place who did not approve of being roused from his slumbers at so late an hour as 9 p. m. In no very gentle terms he ordered the wielders of spoons and other noise-producing utensils to desist and threaten them with the law.

FASHION NOTES BY A CONFIRMED BACHELOR

Head lines: The huge pompadour that served the purpose of a sunshade a season or two ago has passed. The fashionable girl now wears her hair projecting so far from the back of her head that she has to turn a corner as cautiously as a wagon hauling a telegraph pole.

The handle of the new parasol is extremely long. The purpose is obvious in connection with the new coiffure.

Women's waists, like the stock market, are subject to great fluctuations. Just now they are quoted very high when listed at all.

Metalized toads are the newest in hat pins. We have always heard that toads were of value in vegetable gardens.

The new flesh-colored stockings may not be as cool as they look, but they are becoming quite the rage.

Foot note—The new pumps now have straps to hold them on the feet. No doubt this is necessary because the hair (both real and acquired) now requires all the fashionable woman's attention when walking abroad.

ened dire things for those who did not take their departure at once. Thus was the bridegroom spared the necessity for appearing in person to disperse the friendly musicians.

The little tots who furnished the entertainment at the meeting of the O. E. S. on Tuesday evening did exceptionally well and it was a pleasure indeed to listen to them.

- The program was as follows:
- Instrumental Selection.....
 -Henry Sloan Clark
 - Recitation.....Davie Heron
 - Duet, "My Kitty Has Gone from Her Basket".....
 -Ruth Schlock and Imogene Smith
 - Recitation, "Keeping My Word".....
 -Frank Bosh
 - Instrumental Music.....Fay Heron
 - Recitations by Errol Cook, Fay Heron, Maud Punnett and Arthur Mack.
 - Instrumental Selection.....
 -Henry Sloan Clark

The little folks later demonstrated that not only could they sing and recite but that they could also stow away generous quantities of ice cream and cake.

Mr. Samuel Haugst, a cattleman from the northern part of the county, is in town on court business this week.

What might have been a serious accident occurred in front of the Majestic theater on Tuesday evening. Little Miss Parmay Crawford, whose home is at the corner of Oak and Hill streets, was out riding, when her horse started to go so fast that she became frightened. As she passed her home she called to her mother who did not hear her at once. The little girl had let go of the reins and when opposite the theater fell from the horse. One foot was caught in the stirrup, but some men who had been attracted by the cries stopped the horse and rescued her from her dangerous position. She sustained quite a severe bruise on the side of her head but was otherwise uninjured. By this time Mrs. Crawford had reached the scene and took the young lady home where she soon recovered from her fright.

Globe Woman Wins Prize For Big Fish String

Mr. and Mrs. John J. Cramer, who are back this season at their old tent, 715 1/2 Main street, have had many experiences since they left Tent City last year. They have traveled extensively over the United States, and in May found themselves in Washington, D. C. Both Mr. and Mrs. Cramer are inveterate fishers and had intended staying on the Atlantic coast to indulge in that sport, but the call of Coronado proved too strong. They wired from Washington for their old quarters to be prepared, and were back in Tent City three weeks before the opening. While in Washington Mr. and Mrs. Cramer met the president. Through personal friends, Senator Crane, of Massachusetts, and Representative Cameron of Arizona, they were supplied with special cards of admission to boxes in both houses. Mr. Cramer says that the discussion of the tariff question in the senate would have made the Burns-Johnson fight look like children at play. Mr. and Mrs. Cramer are glad to be back to the best climate and best fishing in America, and Mrs. Cramer is trying hard to break her record of 800 fish for last season.

The foregoing, taken from the Tent City News, will be of interest to the Globe friends of Mr. and Mrs. Cramer, who were for many years residents of this city. As indicated in the above extract, Mrs. Cramer last season won the fishing championship of Coronado Beach, and her friends confidently expect her to repeat the performance this year.

George Crosby's paper, successor to the Journal, goes to press tomorrow for the last time in Safford, as it will be moved Saturday to its new home in Thatcher. Mr. Crosby claims that Safford will not be the loser, as he intends to make the news general, not local.

Camps Arcadia and Inception give promise of being the popular mountain resorts for the valley people this summer. Cabins are being taken rapidly and soon many will be wending their way to the cooler climes near home where the usual summer widowers and left-behind sweethearts can join them at the week's end. And where an abundance of pure ice cold water flows from springs fed by the snow banks on top of Mt. Graham. The resorts have telephone communications with the valley towns and the mail teams carry daily the mail and provisions necessary for camp life. Among those going to Arcadia will be Mr. and Mrs. Robert Patterson and little son and sister Miss Willa Robinson; Mrs. Kate Jennings and daughter Miss Edith; Mr. and Mrs.

New Judge wants Etiquette in Court

If Old Sol has any of the milk of kindness going to waste, he ought to dispense some of it and cut down the temperature of the courthouse during the present term of court.

If he does not, some of the jurymen who have been in the habit of going coatless during the summer season will be very hot and correspondingly uncomfortable as they hold down a seat in the jury box.

For shirt sleeves are frowned upon in court. Very much so in fact.

While Judge Lewis is not a stickler for formality, he holds, and justly so, that one who takes part in the proceedings of the district court should be properly dressed. Spectators outside the railing may appear in negligee attire, but not inside the enclosure containing the jury box, the bench, the bar and the like.

Monday morning, one of the grand jurors who had been rather hurriedly summoned to fill a vacancy on the grand jury, appeared in court without a coat.

"Mr. Blank"—Blank was not the juror's name, but it will do—"will you step forward and show cause why you should not be held in contempt of court for appearing as a juror without your coat?" commanded the court.

Blank made his excuse. He was not fined, but he was despatched to get his coat. Others will probably take notice in the future and save themselves the annoyance of having to duplicate Mr. Blank's performance.

Surprising, What Kodol Will Do

For you, when you need it. But the longer you neglect indigestion, the more you will suffer before Kodol can restore Good Digestion.

And, of course, indigestion if neglected long enough, brings on serious diseases in which Kodol cannot benefit you. Some of these there is no help for at all.

There are, in fact, very few ailments which cannot be traced directly to impure blood. And impure blood is always due to a disordered stomach.

Use Kodol and prevent Nervous Dyspepsia. Kodol will effectually assist Nature to secure a complete restoration of good digestion. It does this by at once digesting all food in the stomach and keeping it digested, until the stomach is rested and can resume its own work. Kodol removes the cause—and the effect quickly removes itself.

When it is recalled that Apoplexy, Heart Disease, Cancer—and even Consumption—are due to poor digestion and poisons thus transmitted to the blood, and throughout the system—the importance of maintaining good digestion is at once realized.

We knew what Kodol would do before ever the first bottle was sold. If we did not know just what it will do, we would not guarantee it the way we do.

It is easy for you to prove Kodol—the next (or the first) time you have an attack of indigestion. And you will certainly be surprised at the results. It is perfectly harmless.

There can be no harm in trying something that may do you a great deal of good—when it costs you nothing if it doesn't.
