LOCAL LAONICS.

WEEKLY EPITOME OF EVENTS AT AND ADJACENT TO "HOME, SWEET HOME."

Fresh Insect Powder at Paden's.

THE EAGLE, reduced to two dollars a year.

Joe Whiteman started for California Monday.—Register.

Charlie Arthur, of Upper Penasco, arrived in the city last Thursday.

New supply of fine liquors for medical purposes at Paden's Drug Store.

Rev. S. V. Dilley and family were passengers on the outgoing stage yesterday.

The 18 months old boy baby of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Bruton, of Oscura, died last Friday.

Geo. L. Hopping has gone to Los Angeles and other California resorts for a visit of several weeks.

Jones Taliaferro and family left on Monday for their eastern trip, mention of which was made in the EAGLE some weeks since.

The school board has employed Mr. S. M. Wharton, Mrs. M. M. Rodville and Miss Lulu McDonald as teachers for the ensuing school year. The fall term will begin on Monday September 24.

Sergeant Cecil and private Valentine Noid, of Troop A, First U. S. Cavalry, Fort Stanton, passed through Saturday on their return to the Post from Denver where they have been escorting a prisoner who is under sentence of court martial.

Sol. Weiner left Thursday for a twenty days trip east.

Ready Mixed Carriage Black just arrived at Paden's Drug Store.

On Saturday last the quiches leading from Lone Mountain and Kempton's were swollen to torrents from the heavy showers which passed over that watershed. It is said that these streams rose higher than ever known before in the history of the camp. The residence of Dr. A. G. Lane was flooded to the depth of several inches, but little damage was done.

In pursuance of the Eagle's advice the Borrego brothers convicted of the murder of Frank Chavez, at Santa Fe, have been transferred from the county jail to the territorial penitentiary for the better security against escape. The New Mexican, in this connection says:—"It is safe to predict that they will now lead quiet and secluded lives until after the supreme court passes up their appeals next year. Then something will doubtless drop."

BUD MERRITT HURT.

On Tuesday W. R. Merritt was riding in the Carrizozo pasture when his horse fell into an unseen ditch, carrying his rider under him. Mr. M. suffered the fracture of the larger bone of his right forearm while his left foot was badly bruised and sprained. His injuries, while not fatal, are exceedingly painful and will keep Bud housed for some time.

STILL MOVING.

Dr. Shedloski, an erstwhile practicing physician in Eddy, later a druggist at Sever Rivers and McMillan, and later still a doctor at White Oaks, has hung out his shingle to the breeze in Albuquerque. The doc. seems to find with difficulty a location suited to his caliber.—Eddy Current.

Dr. Shedloski, who arrived in the city a few days ago from White Oaks, will leave to-night for Pueblo, Colo., where he will reside in the future.—Abuquerque Citizen.

BASE BALL GAME.

The third game between the Fort Stanton and the White Oaks nines will take place at the grounds of the latter in white Oaks on Saturday the 17th inst. (not Sunday, as reported in the News) with the following arrangement of players:

Table with 3 columns: WHITE OAKS, POSITION, FT STANTON. Lists players like Gumm, Vandervort, Graves, Felts, Ransom, Miller, Stewart, Gumbles, McCourt, J. Gumm, E. L. Ozanne.

The friends of the White Oaks nine claim to have some money to back their faith in this nine winning the game.

An exciting horse race is expected to come off on the same day at 10 a. m., between Lieut. Yates' brown mare and Frank Gibbens' gray gelding, "Buttermilk."

Corrected.

Mr. Emerson Hub (reading newspaper)—The cashier made no bones of talking the whole sum.

Mrs. Hub—How vulgarly put!

Mr. Hub—How would you express it, my dear?

Mrs. Hub—The cashier made no study in catalogue of appropriating the financial assets.—Minneapolis Journal.

Too Much.

Customer—These nails I bought here yesterday are in a terrible condition. Half of them are rusty.

Salesman (indignantly)—Well, what if they are? You don't suppose we can manufacture every pound we send out, do you?—Boston Post.

Taking the Lesser Evil.

Moberly—You look pretty happy for a man who's on his way to the dentist to have two teeth extracted.

Hatsun (with great joy)—You see, if I didn't go to the dentist's, I'd have to stay at home to my wife's 5 o'clock tea.—Chicago Record.

He Got It.

Mrs. Magun—I come across one of your old letters today, George, where you said that you would rather be in endless torment with me than be in bliss by yourself.

Mr. Magun—Well, my dear, I got my wish.—London Tit-Bits.

An Inference.

"You have saved my daughter, at the risk of your own life, from a watery grave, young man. May I infer from this that you have the means to establish a household of your own?"—Elizabethe Blatter.

Partial Intimacy.

Caller—Are you intimate with Mrs. Firstfloor?

Mrs. Thirdfloor—Well—our servant girls hang our clothes on the same roof.—New York Weekly.

Accommodation.

"Now, Charles, let us make a list of your debts."

"One moment, dear uncle, till I have filled up your inkstand."—Flying-rod Litter.

Uncomfortable.

She—Am I your own? He—Er—um—yes, of course. I wish you wouldn't say so. It sounds too much like only.—Washington Star.

MARRIED.

LRE—WILSON—On Sunday last, Mr. George Lee to Mrs. Cynthia Wilson.

"I see two clouds at morning. Thund' with the rising sun, And in the dawn they parted on, And mingled into one."

NEED OF LARGER VOLUME OF MONEY.

[Literary Digest.]

Nothing is more strenuously denied by the adherents of the gold standard than the proposition that, owing to the excess of the demand for actual money over the supply, gold has steadily advanced in value. It is denied that there has been an appreciation of gold, and also that there is an insufficient supply of money. Gen. Francis A. Walker, one of the leading American economists, has an article in the Quarterly Journal of Economics (July, New York), in which he endeavors to show the invalidity of the grounds upon which these denials are made. The gold monometalists, he says, generally content themselves with showing that the volume of our currency has increased largely from 1860 to 1892, and that prices of commodities have gone on declining in spite of this increased supply of money, ignoring altogether the important factor of the growing demand for money. It is not maintained, he says, that prices rise or fall in proportion as the actual quantity of money in circulation at a given time increases or diminishes; prices only rise when the supply of money increases relatively to the demand, and they fall when the demand for money increases more rapidly than the supply. Since 1860 there has been a per capita increase in our currency of 64.8 per cent., but our population has considerably more than doubled, and hence the amount of currency needed has increased greatly; yet the gold monometalists neither allow for the increase of population nor do they consider the influence of the demand for more money in the determination of prices. As there are, however, some able writers who deny, in a general way, that the demand for actual money is increasing, General Walker turns to them and answers as follows:—"And right here let me take issue bluntly with the writers of the gold monometalists school generally, Mr. Wells, Mr. Horace White, Mr. Atkinson, Professor Sumner, and others, regarding their unverified assumption that it is in the nature of an advancing industrial civilization to require smaller and still smaller amounts of the circulating medium. These writers are never tired of dilating upon the function of the bank and the clearing house in saving the use of money. They decant upon the statistics, partial, fragmentary, and unreliable as they are, which show the comparatively small proportion of cash payments; and they meet every statement or assumption as to the importance of the money supply with reactions that of any practical consequence, as a result of the extension of credit agencies and instruments.

"Now, it is perfectly true that credit agencies and instruments, in any high state of industrial civilization, effect an enormous saving in the use of money. But it is at the same time true that, in spite of all which credit agencies and instruments can do, after the efficiency of banks and clearing houses is exhausted, the whole tendency of modern civilization has been to increase the demand for actual money. At the beginning of the present century the people of the United States enjoyed a minimum of credit agencies and instruments; and yet the volume of currency was, so far as we can make out from the incomplete statistics of circulation, less than one half, per capita, what it was sixty years later, in spite of the fact that, during the interval, banks by the hundreds and clearing houses in a half score of cities had come into existence, transportation had been enormously quickened, the telegraph had been introduced, and in a hundred ways the efficiency of a given body of money had been increased. And to-day, thirty-five years later still, while credit agencies and instruments have been enormously improved and entirely new means of communication, like the telephone, have been introduced, the people of the United States are using far more money than they did in 1830; and yet the sole sign of inflation—namely, rising prices—does not appear. The simple explanation is that the multiplication of commodities due to the increased facilities of production, the marvelous increase of travel, and changes in the habits of our people with respect to carrying and spending money, are continually creating a demand for a larger and still larger volume of actual money, in spite of improved agencies of exchange and rapidly multiplying instruments of credit."

Got It Mixed. He had been riding on the rear platform of a Grand River avenue car for a mile or more and seemed to be studying the conductor's face all the time. At length he plucked up the courage to say:—"I don't know nothing 'bout electric cars, and so an' you ask. What does it mean when the boys say, 'Shoot that hat!'" "I never heard of it in connection with an electric car," replied the conductor. "Haven't, eh? Did you ever hear of a car talkin' through the top of its hat?" "Never."

MINING & MILLING.

Silver $.663 Lead 3.374

Comrey and Green have their mill in the Jicarillas running in good shape.

The repairs on the North boiler have been completed and the mill started up again yesterday.

The music of PARSONS & PRYOR'S (Glass) mill revives old times to the residents of the eastern part of town. It is running night and day.

It has been reported on the street that a large body of rich ore had been encountered on the 9th level of the South Homestake. This report we have, as yet, been unable to run down to a reliable source, but as it is always a probability in that mine we are not disposed to discredit what is said about it.

NEW COAL FIELD.

Last week the EAGLE mentioned the discovery of coal in the vicinity of Three Rivers. Mr. T. Harris, who is interested in the discovery, was in town on Saturday and informed the representative of this paper that further development discloses a vein of ten feet thick of clean, and bright coal. Where the resources of this country will reach a limit we can't say and have no desire to ascertain, but that they are vast and almost limitless goes without saying among those who have given the subject investigation.

JICARILLA NEW MILL.

Last Saturday afternoon the Comrey & Co. new mill was started. Mrs. A. B. Allen turned on the steam that set the machinery in motion, Miss Marjory McCourt and Miss Minnie Lebron fed the crusher in starting. There were quite a number of the citizens of the camp present to witness the starting of the first mill in this thriving locality. The supply of water seems to be sufficient to keep the mill constantly running. They commenced to haul ore from the Elizabeth mine last Monday for the new mill. When this test run is completed the Prospect will furnish ore.

"Don't they ever tell a 'lectric car to cheese the racket?"

"Good lands, no!"

"Are there any files on a 'lectric car?" persisted the questioner.

"There may be, but I doubt it. I guess you've got things pretty badly mixed up."

"Yes, maybe I have," replied the stranger with a long drawn sigh, "and I guess the best way will be to shape a conductor off duty and git on to his shape and give him a powwow. Much obliged for your kindness. I'll catch my car and dry up."—Detroit Free Press.

MORTGAGE SALE.

Whereas on the 17th day of April 1895, one Theodore W. Heman, executed his certain Mortgage to the undersigned William G. Lea, conveying thereby the following described lot or parcel of land and real estate situated in White Oaks, Lincoln County, New Mexico, to wit:

Lot one (1) Block forty one (41) as shown on the plat of said town which mortgage was duly recorded in Book "D" of the records of Real Estate Mortgages, at pages 134-135 of said Lincoln County New Mexico, on the 18th day of April 1895, at 1 o'clock p. m., and was given to secure the payment of Eighty seven dollars and fifty cents, three months after the date of said mortgage with interest on said sum at twelve per cent per annum from the maturity of said mortgage until paid for value received.

And whereas said sum of money in said mortgage mentioned is due and payable and the said Theodore W. Heman, his heirs and assigns have failed to pay the same as provided in said mortgage and the same remains unpaid and in default.

Now therefore by virtue of the power of sale contained in said mortgage, I William G. Lea, the mortgagee named there in do hereby give notice that I will on the 6th day of September 1895, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon of said day at the front door of the Post Office, in White Oaks in the County of Lincoln, and Territory of New Mexico, expose at public auction and sell to the highest bidder for cash the said granted premises and real estate or so much thereof as may be necessary to satisfy said indebtedness and costs of such sale; and will execute and deliver to the purchaser or purchasers thereof good and sufficient deed or deeds therefor.

The amount due on said mortgage on the day of sale is $87.95 and cost of advertising and sale. W. G. Lea Mortgagee.
