MONSTER DISPLAY OF FIREWORKS TO BE SEEN AT FAIR

Battle of the Aztecs to Be Re-produced in "Montezuma" Spectacle.

One of the biggest sources of entertainment at the 1921 State Fair of Louisiana, which will be held October 27 to November 6, inclusive, will be a series of spectacular fireworks displays, in which will be featured the mammoth pyrotechnic spectacle, "Montezuma."

The magnitude and splendor of this wonderful spectacle marks it as the superior of all attractions of this sort. To present it requires approximately 50,000 square yards of scenery, tons of explosives and many thrilling effects and beautiful pageantry.

In the presentation of this gigantic spectacle there is a reproduction of the Battle of the Aztecs, depicting Cortez's historic conquests of savage tribes of ancient Mexico, with street fighting and the overthrow of the sacred temples. Another great feature of the exhibition is the burning of the historic capital of the Aztecs, the destruction of the last vestige of this early American civilization. And still another marvelous feature shows the mighty Mt. Popocatepetl bursting into volcanic flames and sending a sea of lava over the ruins of the unfortunate city.

The fireworks display, which will be an attraction each evening in front of the grand stand, promises to prove one of the greatest attractions ever seen in Shreveport. Every historical detail will be correctly and magnificently portrayed in presenting "Montezuma," according to the agreement reached between the State Fair management and the Theatre-DuField fireworks people, who are among the best known pyrotechnic artists in the world.

For further information, write to W. R. Hirsch, secretary-manager, Shreveport, La.

REG SWINE SHOW TO BE STAGED AT FAIR

An idea of the increasing interest that is being taken in the live stock industry in Louisiana and other states will be had through exhibits in the Swine Division of the Louisiana State Fair, October 27 to November 6, inclusive. Prof. E. L. Jordan of the Louisiana State University will serve as superintendent, while the judging will be done by Prof. E. A. Troubridge of Columbia University.

It is one to judge by the inquiries that are being received, the swine display will be one of the feature live stock shows at the State Fair. Many herds will be represented in the competition, which is open to the world, including some of the most famous herds in the United States. Louisiana will have many animals in the show to contest for the awards offered in various classes, and these exhibits will reflect splendid progress made in the breeding of fine-blooded hogs in this state. Much of the improved blood of many Louisiana herds have come from hogs sold at the fair, where splendid opportunities are always afforded to buyers and sellers of fine stock.

The premiums this year are more attractive than ever before, due to liberal increase in the premium money. They total nearly $5,000.

For further information write to W. R. Hirsch, secretary-manager, Shreveport, La.

MANY FEATURES ON THE FAIR PROGRAM

There will be many feature attractions at the 1921 Louisiana State Fair. In addition to the mammoth arrays of exhibits. In fact, the management has taken special pains to provide one of the best possible fields of entertainment, and the list already booked indicates that none will be disappointed. Among the features will be the following: Seven days of horse racing; two days of automobile races; seven days of auto polo, a thrilling game played in stripped motor cars; band concerts by Al Sweet's singing aggregation each afternoon and evening; ten hippodrome acts; Gladway amusements furnished by the C. A. Wortham Company, with assurance that all the shows will be clean and interesting; spectacular fireworks, each evening, featuring "Montezuma," in which is depicted the destruction of the Aztecs; annual football game between Louisiana and Arkansas (Universities), and three other football contests; Better Babies Contest to be staged in Schumpert Home, concluding with program in the Coliseum; Old Riders' Contest, to be staged in the Coliseum, free to the public, with aged players competing for prizes; auction sales of cattle and swine; parades of winning live stock, and various other features.

For the convenience of visitors coming to the fair by automobile, special parking accommodations will be provided inside the Fair Grounds, with no extra charge for the privilege of parking. Many visitors are expected to take advantage of this offer, and traveling by auto the fair is expected to be unusually popular, owing to the many miles of model road leading to Shreveport.

The fact that reduced rates have been authorized will help to swell the crowds coming by railroad.

ADDED PREMIUMS ASSURE GREAT POULTRY SHOW

Mammoth Poultry Show Is Assured—Competition Will Be Open to the World.

With several hundred dollars added to the premium allowance, the total this year being approximately $3,500, the Poultry Show at the Louisiana State Fair, October 27 to November 6, is going to prove unusually popular with exhibitors, judging by the information reaching the management. Indications point to a "full house," with possibly an overflow of exhibits, for which adequate accommodations will be provided, as it is the policy of the State Fair Association to take care of every entry.

Competition in the poultry division, as heretofore, will be open to the world, and from various farms throughout the country there will be representative entries. Many of the finest chickens, ducks, turkeys, peacocks, and other fowls will be shown. There will also be a pigeon section and a section devoted to rabbits and other pet stock.

In addition to the open-to-the-world contests, there will be a number of contests among Louisiana exhibitors, including the members of the Boys' and Girls' Clubs, who will have a splendid collection on hand competing for the premiums set aside for juvenile exhibitors.

The poultry will be judged by Branch Young of Dayton, Ohio; pigeons by A. T. Modlin of Topeka, Kan., and pet stock by C. S. Gibson of Detroit.

PARISH FAIRS WILL BE LIVELY RIVALS

One of the main features at the 1921 Louisiana State Fair will be the Parish Fair Contest, in which at least two dozen parish fair organizations are expected to be competitors for the substantial premiums offered those winning honors in this contest. The parish making the best showing will receive an award of $300, the amount having been largely increased, and corresponding inducements are offered the other winners.

Practically every product grown in the soil of Louisiana will be represented in the Parish Fair exhibition, and the vast array of displays will give an idea of Louisiana's wonderful agricultural advantages and possibilities. The booths will be uniform in size, and special attention will be given their arrangement, as credit is given for appearance of the booths as well as for quality of products on display.

Individuals furnishing articles for the Parish Fair contest may also compete for individual premiums in general contests at the fair.

SHEEP BREEDERS TO SHOW FINE ANIMALS

That interest in sheep raising is growing in the Southwest, will be evidenced at the Louisiana State Fair, which opens October 27, at Shreveport. Two years ago a Sheep section was added, and it has grown steadily in popularity, with the premiums gradually enlarged. This year they total $1,518.

Following are the breeds to be represented in the competition: Morino, Dorset, Horn, Hampshire, Shropshire, Oxford Down, South Down, Cotswold, Cheviot, and other breeds. In the Hampshire classes the premiums total $208. In each of the others, $164 is offered.

Jack P. Fullilove of Shreveport, a prominent Red River Valley planter and live stock breeder, will serve as superintendent of the Sheep Division.

HUGE CATTLE SHOW ASSURED FOR FAIR

Premiums totaling in excess of $11,000 have been offered for winners in the Cattle Division of the Louisiana State Fair, which will run eleven days, beginning October 27.

In this division the premiums have been divided as follows, both dairy and beef cattle industries being encouraged: Jerseys, $1,425; Holsteins, $927.50; Guernseys, $672; Shorthorns, $2,620; Herefords, $2,620; Polled Herefords, $655; Angus, $906; Red Fells, $500; Polled Durham, $315; Fat Stock, $325.

There will be a Dairy section, with contests staged to stimulate greater interest in dairying, and for this part of the show premiums amounting to $100 have been awarded. Visitors who wish to witness valuable demonstrations in dairy activities will have every opportunity at the State Fair.

Another important feature of the program will be a series of auction sales, which will be conducted in the Live Stock Pavilion, where there are accommodations for large numbers of bidders and spectators. Such sales have heretofore proven very popular, and have resulted in many herds in the southwest being improved, and it is the management's prediction that increased interest will be shown this year.

John C. Curtis of Fort Worth will judge beef cattle and John A. Lee of Shelbyville, Ky., will judge dairy cattle.

The Guernseys have been added to the list open to entries since the last State Fair.

WONDERFUL FREE ACTS OBTAINED FOR STATE FAIR Ten Feature Offerings Booked For Entertainment at 1921 Exposition.

In the matter of free attractions, the program mapped out for the 1921 State Fair of Louisiana, October 27 to November 6, will be fully up to the standard. A large sum has been budgeted for the free entertainment, and the management has booked the attractions so as to offer something that will please every visitor. All the free acts on the schedule are regarded as high class, and real entertainment is assured. All told, there are ten acts on the program of free amusements. The list includes the following: The Alaska Duo, who present thrilling stunts as ice skaters, their feats being performed with such ease as if dancing in a ball room. Howard's Animal Spectacle, an exhibition of human patience and animal intelligence. This is a picturesque act featuring trained ponies and dogs in comedy. The Fisher Sisters, two daring and graceful girls, presenting a wonderful aerial exhibition, with many startling acts on their program. The Flying Valentines, in a dazzling display of aerial acrobatics. The Flying Millers, a trio presenting high flying, casting and return acts, with double and triple somersaults in mid-air. "Le Fleur and Fortia, described as "the latest furore in Europe." Smith's Comedy Bear Circus, in which mirth-provoking tricks are performed by trained bears, dogs, and monkeys. Covene Troupe, four girls and two men, inventors of new exploits on double tight wire, who put on a marvelous dancing wire act as well as other startling performances on tight wires. The Les Wharton Troupe, four men and a woman, considered Europe's greatest springboard flyers, presenting double and triple somersaults in mid-air and ground acrobatics, including balancing of rare variety. Auto polo, in which Ray Lampkin and Ray Claypool, holders of international honors, will be among the competitors in this sensational game. These various acts, with the bills changed at intervals, will be presented in the Hippodrome fronting the grand stand, afternoon and evening. For further information write to W. R. Hirsch, secretary-manager, Shreveport, La.

BIG GLADWAY PROGRAM HAS BEEN PROMISED

Wortham Company Engaged to Entertain Visitors at Louisiana State Fair.

The privilege of enjoying a splendid variety of Gladway attractions will be given visitors to the Louisiana State Fair, October 27 to November 6, inclusive. This part of the State Fair program will be furnished by the C. A. Wortham Shows, which form one of the leading carnival aggregations in the United States.

The Wortham aggregation comprises about twenty-five shows, all of which are declared to be free from objectionable features which are sometimes permitted to creep into carnival attractions. Official assurance is given that the shows will be clean and wholesome, and every patron may feel perfectly safe in attending any or all of them.

This same concern—Wortham—furnished the Gladway amusement at the Louisiana State Fair last year, and the patrons were so thoroughly pleased that the management decided to book for a return engagement this year. However, there will be a complete change of bill, and the visitors will have something entirely different to see at this year's Gladway visit.

A great variety of entertainment will be provided, including a number of thrilling "rides," unique "tricks," novel exhibitions, educational demonstrations, and many others. Every man, woman and child is assured his or her money's worth of pleasure on the Gladway. The Wortham slogan is to try to please every patron, and it will be worked overtime at the Louisiana Fair, according to the assurances received. For further information, apply to W. R. Hirsch, secretary-manager, Shreveport, La.

FOUR FOOTBALL GAMES AT THE STATE FAIR

Persons who enjoy the great American game of football will be royally entertained at the 1921 Louisiana State Fair, October 27 to November 6, for at least four football contests will be staged, at the Fair Grounds in front of the grand stand. One of them will be the annual meet between the Universities of Arkansas and Louisiana. It will be played on the second Saturday afternoon, November 6, and will, as usual, be one of the feature outdoor attractions. The Arkansas Razorbacks and the Louisiana Tigers have been keen rivals for gridiron honors for many years. Their annual struggle at the Louisiana State Fair has never failed to draw a monster crowd of school and college students and former students and many others who enjoy the gridiron sport. The game is always worth more than the price of admission, for the teams fight to the utmost.

Two other colleges will stage a football game during the Fair, arrangements for which have not yet been completed, and negotiations are also under way for a morning game, probably between high school teams, each Saturday of the Fair. For further information write to W. R. Hirsch, secretary-manager, Shreveport, La.

TRESPASS NOTICE. Public notice is hereby given, That the "MOUND" place, "OSCEOLA" place and "BUCKHORN" place, in Tennessee parish, properties of undersigned, are posted against HUNTING and GENERAL TRESPASSING. Violators will be prosecuted. L. R. SAFFER.
