Desert Is Safe for Travelers

Government Issues Guide to Springs and Wells in Salton Sea Region.

PROSPECTOR STARTS MOVE

United States Geological Survey in Co-operation With Engineering Department of California University Makes Survey of Desert.

Washington.—The "great American Desert" was sprawled across a large part of some of the earlier maps of our western and southwestern territory, and though the area of supposed desert land was thus exaggerated, enough real desert remains to justify large studies of methods of utilizing it and special studies of its water resources and watering places in order to make journeys across it safe for travelers.

desert and has recently issued a report, entitled "Routes to Desert Watering Places in the Salton Sea Region, California," by John S. Brown.

Region Covered by Report. The region covered by this guide is in the southwest corner of California and is about one hundred miles in length and breadth, covering about ten thousand square miles. Its northern limit is the thirty-fourth parallel and its southern is the boundary between the United States and Mexico; its eastern border is marked by Colorado river, which separates California and Arizona, and its western by the meridian of 116 degrees 40 minutes. It therefore includes Imperial county and the most arid parts of Riverside and San Diego counties.

In addition to maps showing the roads and the watering places, the guide contains road logs and brief descriptions of the watering places. For the convenience of travelers coming and going, the logs of nearly all the roads are given in two directions. Information and sketch maps are included for certain roads that extend somewhat beyond the northern boundary of the region as defined above, in order to connect the routes in this region with watering places beyond its limits. On the other hand, a considerable area in the western part of the region is high and well-watered and the routes in it are given only for certain irregular westward extensions of the desert.

The report just published, which is listed as water supply paper 400-A, may be obtained free of charge by applying to the United States Geological Survey, Washington, D. C.

Use Film in Surgery

Preparation For and Carrying Out of Operation Shown.

Is Especially Useful for Students as Instructor Can Explain Every Move Made.

New York.—Many prominent physicians and the student body of the New York Homeopathic Medical College attended the unique celebration of National Homeopathic day at the New York Homeopathic Medical College and Flower Hospital, Avenue A, between Sixty-third and Sixty-fourth streets. Interest centered around the exhibition of heriotomy under local anesthesia by Dr. Fred A. Kelly of Detroit, surgeon of the Grace Hospital of that city and President of the Michigan State Homeopathic society. The application of local anesthesia, which means the deadening of the nerve centers in the region of the operation without causing the patient to lose consciousness, to heriotomy, which included operations for hernia and rupture, is something entirely new in medical science. The first demonstration was a four-reel moving picture showing every detail of preparation and actual carrying out of the operation as performed by Doctor Kelly and his assistants in the Grace hospital in Detroit. This moving picture is "specially useful in that one who understands the operation can stand and explain every move made to students and surgeons interested and also in that it has the advantage over the actual operation itself in that the entire operation or any part of it can be reviewed as many times as is desired by the instructor or student.

The picture was followed by a demonstration by Dr. George F. Laidlaw and Dr. Milton J. Raibeck of the electro-cardiograph, an electrical instrument used for the purpose of detecting and diagramming irregularities in the heart. The advantage of this apparatus is that the part attached to the patient may be attached in his bed at home, and by means of connecting wires, the results of the test may be recorded on the machine in the hospital miles away. This does away with the necessity of carrying about the entire apparatus, it being necessary to have on hand only the part attached to the patient's arms and legs.

The final demonstration was the performance in the operating room of the Flower hospital of an actual operation by Doctor Kelly after the manner described in the motion picture shown earlier in the afternoon. The operation was successfully performed upon an inmate of the hospital, who had recently been brought into the hospital suffering from rupture.

Knew What Was in Danger.

A couple of darkies were digging a hole in hard ground under a sidewalk. One down in the half-finished hole, held a small iron pipe upright upon the end of which the other pounded with a large sledge in order to loosen up the dirt. The sledge wielder swung the heavy tool rather recklessly and it looked as though he might miss at any moment and strike his comrade's head, just below. A passing white man muttered: "Better be more careful, Tom, or you'll bring that sledge down on Andy's head."

"All right, boss," replied the sledge swinger. "Ah'll be more careful; dis am de only sledge we got."—New York Post.

Well Remembered.

Hawkins was a greedy, self-seeking fellow, who expected to benefit by his rich uncle's death. The latter had not failed to observe the nephew's character, however, and when on his death-bed he sent for Hawkins. "I haven't forgotten you, George," he said; "got you down in my will." At the funeral Hawkins invested in an expensive wreath and attended to hear the will read. "To my dear nephew George," ran the document, "I leave an illustrated edition of Dickens' 'Great Expectations.'"—Houston Post.

Visit Not Entirely Wasted.

One Sunday afternoon I called at a friend's house, rang the bell, and after waiting a few minutes for an answer a little girl stepped out of the adjoining hall and said: "The lady is out; she went away in an automobile." "Oh," I said, "is that so? Are the rest of them out, too?" She replied: "Well, the man he went out with the boys, but the dog's home."—Chicago Tribune.

Short Term.

"She says she has an ideal husband." "How long have they been married?" "Three weeks." "Shucks; all husbands are ideal for the first three weeks."—Life.

Awful.

Recognizing Them.

Her parents had started with nothing; had succeeded in amassing a fortune; had given her a splendid education, and had sent her abroad to study music. She was cultured, but her parents were still as ingenious as the day when they were married. They went to see "The Passing Show." When a pair of acrobats did their turn the mother became excited, and said, so that everybody could hear her, "Sadie, Sadie! Do you remember what I said about them two fellows I saw in the Hippodrome in Cleveland?" "Well, then there are 'em."—Indianapolis News.

Still Useful.

Mrs. A— had just finished cutting her five-year-old daughter's hair and was preparing to throw away the clippings when the youngster asked: "Mother, what are you going to do with the hair you cut off my head?" "Why, throw it away, of course," answered Mrs. A—, a trifle impatiently. "Why, what made you ask?" "Oh, I thought maybe you would save it to patch father's with," returned the youngster. "It needs it had enough."—Indianapolis News.

Mother Stops Locomotive Saves Children in Auto

Danville, Pa.—Running up the tracks, wildly waving her arms, Mrs. Ralph Shannon succeeded in bringing a fast Pennsylvania freight to a stop just as it was about to crash into the automobile in which her children were stalled on the tracks. Mr. Shannon did not have time to carry the little ones to safety before the train would have been upon her. Members of the train crew pushed the machine from the tracks.

HE'S FOOTBALL FOR A "JINX"

California Man Thrice Robbed, Thrown Out of Hotel and Finally Jailed.
Los Angeles.—At just noon pickpockets relieved L. P. Schuster, a salesman of 811 East Fifth street, of his purse and $25.
One hour later thieves stole his grip while he was riding on a Hollywood street car.
Half an hour after the loss of his grip he discovered that his room on East Fifth street had been entered by burglars and most of his remaining property stolen.
Five minutes later he was thrown out of the hotel after accusing the elevator operator of being the burglar.
At central police station ten minutes after having been thrown out of his hotel and just after he had drawn a loaded revolver from his pocket to explain to Detective Sergeant Lyons that he was ready to defend the remaining portion of his property, he landed behind the bars on a charge of carrying a concealed weapon.

Indian Sells Land for Plane; Heaps Big Chief

Hiawatha, Kan.—Chief Harrison Connell, an Indian, bought an airplane in Kansas City several months ago to give exhibition flights. He brought the plane to his home here, where scores of redskins assembled to see their chief fly. Chief Connell had sold his last eighty acres of Indian land and was preparing to fly high when the plane came down with a sickening thud. Chief Connell had $2,700 invested in the machine, but sold it for $100 to an oil man from Texas.

HARE FEARED BY IGNORANT

Harmless Little Animal Feared Largely in the Superstitions Which Are Considered of the Past.

Among old superstitions none was more prevalent than that relating to the hare's foot, which was carried for luck.

Pegys notes in his diary that his hare's foot lacked a joint, and that he would obtain a proper one. It was usual for fishwives on the east coast of England to carry a hare's foot in their creel, but they were very angry when the children shouted: "Ye've a hare's bit in yer creel."

"To kiss the hare's foot" means to go without dinner. If a hare ran along a village street, the people said there would be a fire. If a hare crossed a fisherman's path when going to sea, he turned back. Seeing a hare was said to be the cause of that unhappy deformity, harelip. It was thought that a witch could turn herself into a hare, and that a hare could only be shot with a silver bullet.

Dieting.

Recently a dispensary patient was placed on a strict and scant diet, on which she did not improve as was expected. The doctor sent a social worker out to investigate.

The patient admitted that she was much worse but protested, almost tearfully, that she had eaten everything as the doctor had ordered.
"What else did you eat?" asked the inspired social worker.
"Nothing except my regular meals," said the truthful patient.

WRONG IDEA OF THE BLIND

Statesman, Afflicted With Loss of Sight, Tells God Story Bearing on the Subject.

Representative Schull, member of the house of representatives from Minnesota, is blind, and has been for ten years. During this time he says that he has discovered that the seeing world has strange ideas as to the limitations of the blind; that it seems to think because a man can't see he can neither hear nor feel, and is a strange, detached piece of human mechanism that is not to be reckoned with directly, but through the guiding hand.

Not long ago Mr. Schull was returning from his home in Minneapolis to Washington, accompanied only by his small son Douglas. The first morning they appeared in the diner the waiter assigned to their table inquired of young Douglas: "Son, what does your father want?"

"Why, ask him," quickly replied the child. "He knows what he wants. As for me, bring me pancakes and sausage and chocolate!"

"So you are to graduate from school this year, Ethel?" "Yes, auntie." "And do you think you will get through the exercises all right, dear?" "I'm not sure, auntie. My new shoes are awfully tight!"—Yonkers Statesman.
