

TELL 'EM TO SEE ME, SAYS TOWNS

Every Time I Sit Down to a Juicy Steak Now I Give Thanks to Tanlac, He Declares.

"Every time I sit down to a juicy steak now I give thanks to Tanlac for taking me off that milk and mush diet I had to live on for a year," said Joseph R. Towns, the well-known and popular proprietor of the Sanitary Meat Market, of Marshall, Mich.

"I had stomach trouble of the worst sort and was going down hill so fast I thought I would have to give up my business. I was so nervous and worried I dreaded to see night come, as it meant little for me and then in the morning I was so fagged out I dreaded to go to my market.

"The money I spent for Tanlac was the best investment I ever made. I never dreamed a medicine could do the work it did for me. Three bottles was all I needed to make me as sound as a dollar. I never felt better or more like working in my life than I do right now. I eat anything I want, my stomach is in good shape and I am trimful of energy. I sleep all night without turning over and get up in the morning as happy as a boy.

"Not only has Tanlac made me feel fit and fine, but I have also gained twenty-five pounds in weight. If anybody wants to know more about what I think of Tanlac, let them come to me and I will be glad to tell them. It certainly hasn't an equal."

Tanlac is sold by leading druggists everywhere.—Advertisement.

HOW WOMEN OF MIDDLE AGE

May Escape the Dreaded Sufferings of that Period by Taking Mrs. Block's Advice

Hopkins, Minn.—"During Change of Life I had hot flashes and suffered for two years. I saw Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound advertised in the paper and got good results from taking it. I recommend your medicine to my friends and you may publish this fact as a testimonial."—Mrs. ROBERT BLOCK, Box 542, Hopkins, Minn.

It has been said that not one woman in a thousand passes this perfectly natural change without experiencing a train of very annoying and sometimes painful symptoms. Those dreadful hot flashes, sinking spells, spots before the eyes, dizzy spells, nervousness, are only a few of the symptoms. Every woman at this age should profit by Mrs. Block's experience and try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

If you have the slightest doubt that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will help you, write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass., about your health. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman, and held in strict confidence.

Comforting.
"Will this stuff kill me?" asked the suspicious customer.
"I hope not," said the affable boot-leger, "but if it does there will be no reflection on you or the members of your family."

"How's that?"
"I stand in with the coroner. He'll return a verdict of death from natural causes."

Abundant Occupation.
"Speakin' of unemployment," said Farmer Courttossel "I have my doubts about whether there is near as much of it as has been represented."

"I spose," commented his wife, with a shade of sarcasm, "you know more about it than the people who get up the statistics."

"Statistics are all what I'm restin' my opinion on. Nearly every family in the country now has an automobile, and anybody that ever tried to keep a fiver in running' order knows as well as you an' me that idle moments is mighty scarce."

Daddy's Evening Fairy Tale

MARY GRAHAM BONNER

ZEBRA SWALLOWTAIL.

"I heard that Mr. Tiger Swallowtail was boasting the other day," said Mr. Zebra Swallowtail, "or if he wasn't boasting he was telling some of the habits of the family."

"I'd like to do that, too. I'd like to show that I was like a fine animal and that I had an interesting family name and a still more interesting family look."

"We really do look like zebras. Yes, we really do. Of course, most people know that zebras are something like horses and that they have black and white stripes and long flowing tails."

"The zebras look like that, not the horses. The zebras are simply like the horses in general shape, though they are much smaller than horses."

"Now of course we don't look like horses at all. Not at all."

"But we do look something like zebras, just as Mr. Tiger Swallowtail looks like a tiger in his markings."

"We have green and black stripes and long, long tails. Of course we haven't tails such as animals have, but, if you take a look at us you'll see the kinds of tails we have, and that they're tails all right, even if they don't look like the tails of animals."

"And why should they look like the tails of animals? We aren't animals and so there is no reason why we should have tails as they have."

"But still I did say that we had tails something like the tail of a zebra as far as having a good long tail was concerned."

"Of course, our tails amount to nothing when compared to theirs, but we couldn't go along through life with tails the length of zebras' tails."

"There would be no butterfly left but we'd simply be all tails if we did anything like that."

"And that would never do. It would most certainly never do to have all tails and no butterflies! It would never do at all.

"But it is fine to be striped and to look an interesting animal."

"Gracious, goodness, mercy me, we don't want to let people think that the Tiger Swallowtail is the only butterfly with a fine animal name."

"And we don't want people to think that the Tiger Swallowtail is the only creature with markings like an animal."

"One thing is pleasant though to think about. And that is that no one can mistake us for any other kind of butterfly. Once they know a zebra butterfly, it is easy to know one the next time."

"We are certainly clearly marked, and that is the way we like to be. We don't care for quiet, dull shades of wing dress. We care for bright and distinct costumes."

"And distinct means what one can see clearly."

"Yes, every time one sees a Zebra Butterfly and knows that there is such a butterfly as a Zebra Butterfly one knows a Zebra Butterfly the next time one sees a Zebra Butterfly."

"And Mr. Tiger Swallowtail mustn't think he is the only creature with a name like an animal. I don't believe he does really think so, but he mustn't be the only one allowed to tell his story, for I want to tell the story of the Zebra Butterfly who looks like the Zebra."

"We have scent organs with which to protect ourselves when we are younger than we are now."

"These scent organs give forth scent which is not pleasant. So Mr. Skunk needn't feel that he is the only creature with that kind of way of protecting himself. The caterpillars have this way too, yes, indeed, most of them have!"

"We each look like the ground and the surrounding country in color when we are in our chrysalis state as we want to be safe then, too."

"You see we're pretty wise as well as so fine as to our family name."

"Yes, the Zebra Butterfly is a pretty wise butterfly and knows quite a lot about getting on in the world."

"But I must be off now or I'll be late for a party to which I am invited."

Pirates Again Sweeping Seas

Theory Put Forward as Explanation of Disappearance of American Vessels.

PIRACY FOLLOWS GREAT WARS

Island-Dotted Areas of the Oceans Offer Lurking Places for Sea Rovers—Piracy Has Flourished Since Early Days of History.

Washington, D. C.—The theory that pirates are again infesting Atlantic waters has been put forward in connection with the grounding of the Carroll Deering and the mysterious disappearance of three other American steamships.

"An epidemic of piracy has followed in the wake of nearly all of the great wars. Even as recently as 1815 restless souls who had smelled the blood of battle and felt the intoxication of danger became loath to settle down into the peaceful ways of men and commerce, and chose the wide seas as an asylum because they refused to live under the law," says a bulletin of the National Geographic society from its Washington, D. C., headquarters.

Some Famous Pirate Bases.
"Beside the broad oceans which offered infinite chance for escape there have always been the island-dotted areas which furnish excellent lurking places from which these exponents of absolute freedom might take their quarry for examination and long division among them. The Greek Archipelago, the Barbary coast, the East Indies, the China shores and the Spanish Main, within the shadow of our own doors, have been pirate bases for centuries and given to the world a wealth of stories of breathless interest.

"In ancient times these sea robbers off the coast of Greece, Italy, and Asia Minor with their thousands of light, swift vessels, or 'sea mice' as they were called, 'taxed' merchant shipping so heavily that they lightly and rightly termed their base of operations the 'Golden Gulf.' They flaunted their black flag in the face of mighty Rome, which remained impotent against them until Pompey with almost unlimited resources at his command curbed their operations."

Pandora's Box of Piracy.
"Ferdinand and Isabella unwittingly, in their decision to drive the Moors from Spanish soil, let loose upon the world and particularly upon Spanish shipping, a fearful horde of daring and unscrupulous avengers.

"In the early days of Moslem power one of the caliphs wrote to his general and asked him what the sea was like. The general answered, 'The sea is a huge beast which sly folk ride like worms on logs.' Consequently the caliph gave orders that no Moslem should voyage upon it, but they soon learned that they must conquer it if they were to hold their own among other peoples, and they subsequently furnished some of the most audacious and picturesque of the pirate figures."

The James Brothers of the Seas.
"Two of the most daring and ingenious of these were the Barbarossa brothers. 'Red Beard' terrorized the Mediterranean world from Constantinople to the Pillars of Hercules. The excellent harbors and the island hiding places made it possible for him to defy the fleets of England, Italy, Spain and Holland, to levy tribute on all the vessels that passed over the highway, to capture the richly laden Papal galleys bound for Rome in Moslem defiance of Christendom and chain the Christians to their oars. In 1510, at that time notorious and immensely wealthy, he changed the base of his operations to the island of Jerba, off the coast of Tunis, where the Fates ceased to smile so kindly upon him. After many hard-fought battles and vicissitudes of fortune he fell before the forces of Charles V of Spain near Tremizan on African soil. He had actually escaped, but upon learning that his faithful followers were close pressed he returned to die with them. The career of his brother Kheyr-ed-din is scarcely less romantic."

Piracy on the American Coast.
"Piracy on the American coast among the French and Spanish navigators began before the days of the English colonists. Queen Elizabeth is said to have covertly countenanced as well as helped expeditions by buccaniers, and in the West Indies the trade restrictions placed by the various mother countries led to acceptance by many island governors of wares brought by navigators whom they knew to be free-booters and whose methods they could not afford to question.

Piracy Road to High Office.
"Perhaps the most unscrupulous and vile of the perverted sea kings was Henry Morgan of the Caribbees. He was a magnate, an indomitable ruler, a crafty strategist, and a commander of genius as well as a pirate par excellence. In fact he flirted with one danger after the other always to come out on top. He marched into Puerto Principe in the heart of Cuba and took it despite every resistance. He outwitted with uncanny cunning the officers at Porto Bello in Panama, one of the strongest cities near the Caribbean shores and the storehouse for the riches which had been brought by Spanish galleons and mule packs from the interior. He escaped with an inestimable amount of gold and jewels, ingeniously employing a fire-ship against the Spanish to accomplish his escape when he was bottled up in Maracaibo lake. Finally he took and sacked the city of Panama. Then leaving his companions in the lurch, he slipped away at night with all the booty to Jamaica, ingratiating himself with the governor, and was clever enough to get himself into the graces of the English king who knighted him and made him lieutenant-governor of Jamaica for his 'long experience of that colony.'

"In our boyhood, stories of Captain Kid were frequent. The subject of the narratives was really a respectable sailor in the merchant service with a wife and family in New York when he was commissioned by the English

"Dips" Robbed of Haven When Art Center Moves

London.—Burlington House, the present home of the Royal Academy exhibition, does not seem to afford such a fine harvest for pickpockets as the great room at Somerset House, where exhibitions were held until 1837, remarks the London Morning Post. A wooden dado ran round the room, and when after the academy resigned possession, this was removed in the course of renovations, the narrow space between it and the brickwork was found to be stuffed with innumerable purses, ancient and modern—an eloquent testimony to successful pocket-picking and cleverness in disposing of recognizable property.

LOST 36 HOURS IN WOODS

Young Girl Turns Up at New Jersey Farm After Night in Woods.

Lakewood, N. J.—Elsie Wolke, eighteen years old, daughter of Karl Wolke, occupant of a small bungalow on the edge of the dense woods here, was returned to her parents after she had stayed for 36 hours in the woods. Searching parties of farmers and police, aided by ten dogs, scoured the woods for the girl, but were unable to find her.

Some time later she entered the home of Morris Kapaloff, a farmer, two miles from here on the road to Tom's River. Her clothes were torn and her face and arms scratched from brambles. She was unable to tell her name, but said the family letter box was 87 on the rural free-delivery route.

Kapaloff learned from the girl that she had slept during the night in a cemetery in the woods, where two parties of searchers had converged during the hunt. She was taken to her home.

Fisherman Lands Woodchuck

Winsted, Conn.—Harry Dewey, while trout fishing, stopped long enough to eat his luncheon and afterwards when he picked up his fish basket on the bank of a brook he found a baby woodchuck inside. He quickly closed the cover of the basket, imprisoning the little animal, which now has a home.

DODSON WARNS CALOMEL USERS

You Cannot Gripe, Sicken, or Salivate Yourself if You Take "Dodson's Liver Tone" Instead

Calomel salivates! It's mercury. Calomel acts like dynamite on a sluggish liver. When calomel comes into contact with sour bile it crashes into it, causing cramping and nausea.

If you feel bilious, headachy, constipated and all knocked out, just go to your druggist and get a bottle of Dodson's Liver Tone for a few cents, which is harmless vegetable substitute for dangerous calomel. Take a spoonful and if it doesn't start your liver and straighten you up better and quicker than nasty calomel and without making you sick, you just go back and get your money.

If you take calomel today you'll be sick and nauseated tomorrow; besides, it may salivate you, while if you take Dodson's Liver Tone you will wake up feeling great, full of ambition, and ready for work or play. It's harmless, pleasant and safe to give to children; they like it.

HAVE NEED OF MUCH FOOD

Foracious Appetites of Growing Boys Are Natural and Not to Be Wondered At.

Dr. E. F. Du Bois made extensive studies a few years ago on the food requirements of growing boys, and found that they needed about 25 per cent more than grown men, weight for weight. Now Drs. F. G. Benedict and Mary F. Hendry have made similar studies on girls between twelve and seventeen years of age. These correspond in their results with those made by Dr. Du Bois.

The Journal of the American Medical Association comments that, considered in connection with the usually lively muscular activities of children, which call for liberal expenditure of energy, the facts ascertained explain and justify the large appetites of growing boys.

A Professional Duty.
Axel, a Swede in an outfit at Fort Jay, woke up one morning with a desire to loaf. He got put on sick call, thinking it was worth trying, anyway. At the dispensary the doc looked him over, felt his pulse and took his temperature. Then he said:

No answer.
"See here, what's wrong with you, anyway?"
"Doc," replied Axel. "That bane your job."—American Legion Weekly.

Found Profit in Twins.

Sometimes it is just a little hard for the father with the three other children to feel joyful when a set of twins arrive. But the janitor of the apartment house on the West side who received two small pickaninies, duplicates in appearance, was tickled to death.

"I calls 'em Peter an' Paul," he said, with a wide grin. "When I takes 'em out ridin' in the perambulator nearly all the ladies exclaim about how cute they is. An every day someone gives 'em a quarter or half a dollar. These here boys pay for their board, and then some."

Frances was distressingly frank in explanation. "So," she returned, "you won't eat so much of the turkey as you did the last time."—Exchange.
