

"Power is never conferred, but for the sake of the public good."

THE REGISTER.

Printed and published every SATURDAY... THREE DOLLARS in advance. Subscribers who do not pay in advance, will invariably be charged four dollars.

periodical work ever published in this or any other country. The highest ambition of rival publishers seems thus far to have been to maintain a respectable imitation of the numerous costly and beautiful works of art with which the successive numbers of this journal have been graced.

ican nationality, treating as they do of stirring incidents in the glorious and heroic age of America. With respect to the general literary and moral tone of the Lady's Book, for 1843, it will maintain its usual consistent character of a domestic and fashionable family magazine.

tears into the eyes of the listener, merely by the touching pathos of his voice. A pause ensued. 'Sir minstrel,' she said suddenly you pine for your country—do you not?

strel at her feet, enjoying her smiles and her sympathy, even though denied her love. 'It is vain,' he said, 'I can find no happiness here. Beauty has no charms for me I will go again to Palestine, and never return until I see her.'

in. He then attempted to escape from the window, when a hundred balls entered his body, and he fell a lifeless corpse. His brother Hiram shared the same fate. Richards, a leading Mormon was badly wounded. There our intelligence ends—what took place after this, God only knows.

MAIL ARRANGEMENT. The mail from Memphis arrives on Tuesday and Saturdays, at 12 o'clock M. and departs immediately.

OUR PORTRAIT GALLERY.—One of the new features of the coming volumes will be the introduction of Portraits of the contributors to Graham's Magazine, which of course, will include nearly all the eminent writers of the day.

The admirers of the high toned, moral and domestic Nouvelle, will recognize with pleasure, among our contributors, the name of T. S. Arthur, author of 'Six Nights with the Washingtonians,' &c.

A new light broke in on the minstrel. Could it be that he was beloved? Was this the cause of the kindness with which he had been treated?

"My own Zeonori?" and the knight clasped her to his bosom; for it was the Emir's daughter. "And how did you thread your way through such innumerable dangers?"

Our citizens were aroused this morning by the ringing of bells and a call to arms. Our three independent companies are already in marching order.

MISSISSIPPI COLLEGE AT CLINTON, MISS.

WILL commence the Fall and Winter session of five months on 31st of October next. The faculty consists of Rev. Alexander Campbell, President; Rev. Robert M. Latin, Professor of Mathematics and Natural Philosophy; Edward Mackintosh, M. D., Professor of Chemistry; Rev. C. Parsons, Professor of Ancient Languages; U. W. Mead, Principal of the Preparatory department.

The Editorial Department will continue to embrace notes on current literature etc., and reviews of all new American and foreign works of general interest or value.

Our list of foreign contributors is enriched by the names of J. J. Ballie, Mary Russell Mitford, Mary Howitt, Maria Edgeworth, Hon. Mrs. C. Norton, Mrs. S. C. Hall, recognized in Europe as the elite of British female authors.

No further opportunity to speak with his mistress occurred during the day, and he left her presence during the evening in despair; should he avail himself of her offer to escape? If he were certain of her love, nothing could induce him to fly without her; but did she love him?—This question the captive could not answer.

"I know not. Your God—for him I now serve—protected me. I fled bearing with me a few jewels, determined to seek you out, and be your minstrel as you have mine. I assumed this disguise, and knowing nothing of your language but your name and nation, found my way hither, where for three months I have wandered up and down repeating 'Henri! Limoges.'"

There's no knowing where this dreadful affair will end. Many have expressed fears that our city is in danger because a most of the Warsaw families have taken refuge here—but we believe there is no danger, are too far from the scene of action.

MISSISSIPPI COLLEGE AT CLINTON, MISS.

WILL commence the Fall and Winter session of five months on 31st of October next. The faculty consists of Rev. Alexander Campbell, President; Rev. Robert M. Latin, Professor of Mathematics and Natural Philosophy; Edward Mackintosh, M. D., Professor of Chemistry; Rev. C. Parsons, Professor of Ancient Languages; U. W. Mead, Principal of the Preparatory department.

Graham's Magazine will be published on the first of each month in every quarter of the Union. The most distant subscribers will therefore receive it on that day, as well as those who reside in Philadelphia. The proprietor being more desirous of presenting the best and most beautiful than the cheapest work in the country, and anxious to bring it within the reach of all, offers the following as the lowest terms at which it can be procured.

His whole system of arrangements with respect to Fashion Plates is now developed and perfected. The Lady's Book will therefore continue to maintain that proud pre-eminence in merit and in popularity, which for years of unintermitted attention on the part of the publisher has earned—it will still remain, as heretofore, the FAVORITE OF THE FAIR.

But he could not forget her. Even after arriving at the christian camp, and resuming his round, (for all had thought him dead) his only thought was the Saracen beauty, and long he lingered in Palestine, when his interest should have called him home, hoping to hear of her. But despair at length took possession of him, and he returned sadly to Europe, where the fairest ladies of his own gay province strove in vain to win him, by their smiles.

"You shall be my own BRIDE," and so it was; and never in Languedon was a more beautiful couple than the Count de Limoges and the Emir's DAUGHTER.

At Holabon's yesterday, they had a flag out inscribed JAMES R. POLK.—They don't even know the name of their candidate, so obscure is he in the history of our nation. He is known, however, in Tennessee, where he was beaten last fall by Gov. Jones, after six months, hard stumping.—Phila. Forum.

MISSISSIPPI COLLEGE AT CLINTON, MISS.

WILL commence the Fall and Winter session of five months on 31st of October next. The faculty consists of Rev. Alexander Campbell, President; Rev. Robert M. Latin, Professor of Mathematics and Natural Philosophy; Edward Mackintosh, M. D., Professor of Chemistry; Rev. C. Parsons, Professor of Ancient Languages; U. W. Mead, Principal of the Preparatory department.

Godey's Lady's Book, For 1843. EDITED BY MRS. S. J. HALE & OTHERS. THE LADIES' FASHION AND THE BELLES' LETTERS. FOR THE LADIES OF AMERICA.

TERMS. Godey's Lady's Book, 1 year in advance, $3 do do 2 yrs both in advance 5 Two copies, one year, 5 Five copies, one year, 20 Eleven copies, one year, 30 L. A. GODEY, Publishers' Hall, 101 Chestnut Street, Phila.

THE EMIR'S DAUGHTER. BY MRS. MARY SPENCER. 'Sing again, christian,' said the Emir's daughter to the captive who knelt at her feet.

Death of the Prophet! The following slip from the Quincy Herald we find in the Cincinnati Gazette of July 4th: Joe and Hiram Smith are dead.—The steamboat Boreas just in from Warsaw, brings shocking intelligence from the scene of the Mormon war.—The following slip from the office of the Warsaw Signal explains the dreadful tragedy:—

TYLER'S MARRIAGE.—The Baltimore American, of June the 28th says: President Tyler was married to Miss Gardner, at New York, on Wednesday morning. The President and his bride left New York on the same afternoon, reached this city yesterday at one P. M. in the train from Philadelphia, dined at Barnum's, and at five, P. M., proceeded to Washington in the railroad train.

NATIONAL MAGAZINE OF LITERATURE, ART AND FASHION. Godey's Lady's and Gentleman's Magazine. PROSPECTUS FOR 1843.

EDITORS. J. FENNIMORE COOPER, RICH'D H. DANA, WM. CULLEN BRYANT, H. W. LONGFELLOW, CHARLES F. HOFFMAN, T. C. BRATTAN.

GODEY'S LADY'S BOOK having been for so long a series of years, universally recognized as the exclusive and indisputable guide to the fashion, in matters of taste, fashion, and literature—the only work conducted by distinguished female authors, who have won for themselves high place among the leading spirits of the age.

What he could not forget her. Even after arriving at the christian camp, and resuming his round, (for all had thought him dead) his only thought was the Saracen beauty, and long he lingered in Palestine, when his interest should have called him home, hoping to hear of her. But despair at length took possession of him, and he returned sadly to Europe, where the fairest ladies of his own gay province strove in vain to win him, by their smiles.

Oh! had he known the agony with which the Emir's daughter watched from her tower, his departure—had he been told how, day by day, she sought to glean some intelligence of his arrival at the christian camp, he would have left his broad possessions at once and found his way back to her, through a thousand perils, rather than she should consider him ungrateful.—But little did he imagine the sacrifice she had made. Since the first day she saw the pale but still noble looking captive, she had surrendered to him her heart, and the offer of his freedom sprang from the heroic wish to see him happy, even at the sacrifice of his company. Had he spoken his love then, and she almost wished he would, few words would have induced her to sacrifice her father country, and faith, to follow him but he was silent and she feared her love was despised. Still her noble heart refused to take its revenge by interrupting his escape; but she watched his departure hoping to the last that he would communicate with her; and when she could no more catch the shadowy figure of the receding boat, she flung herself on her cushions and wept as if her heart would break. From that day her attendants noticed that she grew paler and thinner every day, as if some secret malady was eating out her life.—But none suspected the truth.

Warsaw, June 27th 1844. It seems that the circumstances attending killing of the Mormon Prophet and his brother Hiram are as follows: On yesterday Gov. Ford left Carthage with 120 soldiers for the purpose of taking possession of the "Nauvoo Legion" and their arms. They arrived at Nauvoo about noon, and called for the assembling of the Legion.

The West. Six mountain boats arrived at St. Louis on the 21st from Fort Platte, with valuable cargoes of furs, robes, &c. On their way down they were robbed by the Pawnees,—though they repulsed them afterwards without loss of life.—The trade has been fair this season.—The Santa Fe Company will arrive in some ten or twelve days.—Cin. Gaz.

NATIONAL MAGAZINE OF LITERATURE, ART AND FASHION. Godey's Lady's and Gentleman's Magazine. PROSPECTUS FOR 1843.

EDITORS. J. FENNIMORE COOPER, RICH'D H. DANA, WM. CULLEN BRYANT, H. W. LONGFELLOW, CHARLES F. HOFFMAN, T. C. BRATTAN.

It has passed into a custom to assert that dress is a matter of trifling importance, but this every lady knows to be utterly false. Taste in dress is universally felt to be the index of a thousand desirable qualities in a woman, while a deficiency in this respect always injures one in the estimation of strangers, and even of her intimate friends—the beauty of Holon and the wit of Aspetia, would hardly command to general favor an acknowledged poverty in dress. Hence the importance of an accredited guide to the Fashionists.

What he could not forget her. Even after arriving at the christian camp, and resuming his round, (for all had thought him dead) his only thought was the Saracen beauty, and long he lingered in Palestine, when his interest should have called him home, hoping to hear of her. But despair at length took possession of him, and he returned sadly to Europe, where the fairest ladies of his own gay province strove in vain to win him, by their smiles.

Oh! had he known the agony with which the Emir's daughter watched from her tower, his departure—had he been told how, day by day, she sought to glean some intelligence of his arrival at the christian camp, he would have left his broad possessions at once and found his way back to her, through a thousand perils, rather than she should consider him ungrateful.—But little did he imagine the sacrifice she had made. Since the first day she saw the pale but still noble looking captive, she had surrendered to him her heart, and the offer of his freedom sprang from the heroic wish to see him happy, even at the sacrifice of his company. Had he spoken his love then, and she almost wished he would, few words would have induced her to sacrifice her father country, and faith, to follow him but he was silent and she feared her love was despised. Still her noble heart refused to take its revenge by interrupting his escape; but she watched his departure hoping to the last that he would communicate with her; and when she could no more catch the shadowy figure of the receding boat, she flung herself on her cushions and wept as if her heart would break. From that day her attendants noticed that she grew paler and thinner every day, as if some secret malady was eating out her life.—But none suspected the truth.

At about the same time that Governor Ford left Nauvoo, the Prophet and his brother were killed at Carthage, under the following circumstances, as near as we can ascertain them: Joe and Hiram are both confined in the debtor's room of the Carthage jail, awaiting their trial on a charge of treason. The jail was strongly guarded by soldiers and anti-mormons, who had been placed there by the Governor.

The Flood. We have to day dates from St. Louis up to the 23d. Eighteen inches more of water had been added to the mighty mass of water! The Rev. says:—Cin. Gaz. Since Friday night the river has added to its flood eighteen inches. The news from above, however infers the probability of a speedy turn. The clerk of the L. F. Linn informs us of further disastrous consequences of the flood.—The town of Brunswick is almost entirely inundated, the water in the streets being from seven to ten feet deep.—The river had fallen seven inches, however, previous to the departure of the Linn. The towns of Old Franklin and Nashville, it is feared will be entirely destroyed. At Rochester the water was up to the second stories of the dwellings and warehouses; all the inhabitants had removed to the bluffs for safety. The town of Chareton is reported to have suffered severely.—The Linn was detained forty-two hours on her upward trip, in rescuing families and their effects. Boonville, Arrow Rock, and Glasgow, have sustained but little injury.

NATIONAL MAGAZINE OF LITERATURE, ART AND FASHION. Godey's Lady's and Gentleman's Magazine. PROSPECTUS FOR 1843.

EDITORS. J. FENNIMORE COOPER, RICH'D H. DANA, WM. CULLEN BRYANT, H. W. LONGFELLOW, CHARLES F. HOFFMAN, T. C. BRATTAN.

As a farther assurance of thorough excellence in this department, the publisher has secured the services of Miss LESLIE, who will illustrate Fashion Plates, in her usual felicitous and graphic style, uniting a thorough knowledge of the subject, with a clear, graceful and intelligible manner of treating it. Her descriptions are worthy of the productions of her own glowing pencil, which drew the earliest Fashion Plates for the Lady's Book.

What he could not forget her. Even after arriving at the christian camp, and resuming his round, (for all had thought him dead) his only thought was the Saracen beauty, and long he lingered in Palestine, when his interest should have called him home, hoping to hear of her. But despair at length took possession of him, and he returned sadly to Europe, where the fairest ladies of his own gay province strove in vain to win him, by their smiles.

Oh! had he known the agony with which the Emir's daughter watched from her tower, his departure—had he been told how, day by day, she sought to glean some intelligence of his arrival at the christian camp, he would have left his broad possessions at once and found his way back to her, through a thousand perils, rather than she should consider him ungrateful.—But little did he imagine the sacrifice she had made. Since the first day she saw the pale but still noble looking captive, she had surrendered to him her heart, and the offer of his freedom sprang from the heroic wish to see him happy, even at the sacrifice of his company. Had he spoken his love then, and she almost wished he would, few words would have induced her to sacrifice her father country, and faith, to follow him but he was silent and she feared her love was despised. Still her noble heart refused to take its revenge by interrupting his escape; but she watched his departure hoping to the last that he would communicate with her; and when she could no more catch the shadowy figure of the receding boat, she flung herself on her cushions and wept as if her heart would break. From that day her attendants noticed that she grew paler and thinner every day, as if some secret malady was eating out her life.—But none suspected the truth.

At about the same time that Governor Ford left Nauvoo, the Prophet and his brother were killed at Carthage, under the following circumstances, as near as we can ascertain them: Joe and Hiram are both confined in the debtor's room of the Carthage jail, awaiting their trial on a charge of treason. The jail was strongly guarded by soldiers and anti-mormons, who had been placed there by the Governor.

The Flood. We have to day dates from St. Louis up to the 23d. Eighteen inches more of water had been added to the mighty mass of water! The Rev. says:—Cin. Gaz. Since Friday night the river has added to its flood eighteen inches. The news from above, however infers the probability of a speedy turn. The clerk of the L. F. Linn informs us of further disastrous consequences of the flood.—The town of Brunswick is almost entirely inundated, the water in the streets being from seven to ten feet deep.—The river had fallen seven inches, however, previous to the departure of the Linn. The towns of Old Franklin and Nashville, it is feared will be entirely destroyed. At Rochester the water was up to the second stories of the dwellings and warehouses; all the inhabitants had removed to the bluffs for safety. The town of Chareton is reported to have suffered severely.—The Linn was detained forty-two hours on her upward trip, in rescuing families and their effects. Boonville, Arrow Rock, and Glasgow, have sustained but little injury.

NATIONAL MAGAZINE OF LITERATURE, ART AND FASHION. Godey's Lady's and Gentleman's Magazine. PROSPECTUS FOR 1843.

EDITORS. J. FENNIMORE COOPER, RICH'D H. DANA, WM. CULLEN BRYANT, H. W. LONGFELLOW, CHARLES F. HOFFMAN, T. C. BRATTAN.

As a farther assurance of thorough excellence in this department, the publisher has secured the services of Miss LESLIE, who will illustrate Fashion Plates, in her usual felicitous and graphic style, uniting a thorough knowledge of the subject, with a clear, graceful and intelligible manner of treating it. Her descriptions are worthy of the productions of her own glowing pencil, which drew the earliest Fashion Plates for the Lady's Book.

What he could not forget her. Even after arriving at the christian camp, and resuming his round, (for all had thought him dead) his only thought was the Saracen beauty, and long he lingered in Palestine, when his interest should have called him home, hoping to hear of her. But despair at length took possession of him, and he returned sadly to Europe, where the fairest ladies of his own gay province strove in vain to win him, by their smiles.

Oh! had he known the agony with which the Emir's daughter watched from her tower, his departure—had he been told how, day by day, she sought to glean some intelligence of his arrival at the christian camp, he would have left his broad possessions at once and found his way back to her, through a thousand perils, rather than she should consider him ungrateful.—But little did he imagine the sacrifice she had made. Since the first day she saw the pale but still noble looking captive, she had surrendered to him her heart, and the offer of his freedom sprang from the heroic wish to see him happy, even at the sacrifice of his company. Had he spoken his love then, and she almost wished he would, few words would have induced her to sacrifice her father country, and faith, to follow him but he was silent and she feared her love was despised. Still her noble heart refused to take its revenge by interrupting his escape; but she watched his departure hoping to the last that he would communicate with her; and when she could no more catch the shadowy figure of the receding boat, she flung herself on her cushions and wept as if her heart would break. From that day her attendants noticed that she grew paler and thinner every day, as if some secret malady was eating out her life.—But none suspected the truth.

At about the same time that Governor Ford left Nauvoo, the Prophet and his brother were killed at Carthage, under the following circumstances, as near as we can ascertain them: Joe and Hiram are both confined in the debtor's room of the Carthage jail, awaiting their trial on a charge of treason. The jail was strongly guarded by soldiers and anti-mormons, who had been placed there by the Governor.

The Flood. We have to day dates from St. Louis up to the 23d. Eighteen inches more of water had been added to the mighty mass of water! The Rev. says:—Cin. Gaz. Since Friday night the river has added to its flood eighteen inches. The news from above, however infers the probability of a speedy turn. The clerk of the L. F. Linn informs us of further disastrous consequences of the flood.—The town of Brunswick is almost entirely inundated, the water in the streets being from seven to ten feet deep.—The river had fallen seven inches, however, previous to the departure of the Linn. The towns of Old Franklin and Nashville, it is feared will be entirely destroyed. At Rochester the water was up to the second stories of the dwellings and warehouses; all the inhabitants had removed to the bluffs for safety. The town of Chareton is reported to have suffered severely.—The Linn was detained forty-two hours on her upward trip, in rescuing families and their effects. Boonville, Arrow Rock, and Glasgow, have sustained but little injury.

NATIONAL MAGAZINE OF LITERATURE, ART AND FASHION. Godey's Lady's and Gentleman's Magazine. PROSPECTUS FOR 1843.

EDITORS. J. FENNIMORE COOPER, RICH'D H. DANA, WM. CULLEN BRYANT, H. W. LONGFELLOW, CHARLES F. HOFFMAN, T. C. BRATTAN.

As a farther assurance of thorough excellence in this department, the publisher has secured the services of Miss LESLIE, who will illustrate Fashion Plates, in her usual felicitous and graphic style, uniting a thorough knowledge of the subject, with a clear, graceful and intelligible manner of treating it. Her descriptions are worthy of the productions of her own glowing pencil, which drew the earliest Fashion Plates for the Lady's Book.

What he could not forget her. Even after arriving at the christian camp, and resuming his round, (for all had thought him dead) his only thought was the Saracen beauty, and long he lingered in Palestine, when his interest should have called him home, hoping to hear of her. But despair at length took possession of him, and he returned sadly to Europe, where the fairest ladies of his own gay province strove in vain to win him, by their smiles.

Oh! had he known the agony with which the Emir's daughter watched from her tower, his departure—had he been told how, day by day, she sought to glean some intelligence of his arrival at the christian camp, he would have left his broad possessions at once and found his way back to her, through a thousand perils, rather than she should consider him ungrateful.—But little did he imagine the sacrifice she had made. Since the first day she saw the pale but still noble looking captive, she had surrendered to him her heart, and the offer of his freedom sprang from the heroic wish to see him happy, even at the sacrifice of his company. Had he spoken his love then, and she almost wished he would, few words would have induced her to sacrifice her father country, and faith, to follow him but he was silent and she feared her love was despised. Still her noble heart refused to take its revenge by interrupting his escape; but she watched his departure hoping to the last that he would communicate with her; and when she could no more catch the shadowy figure of the receding boat, she flung herself on her cushions and wept as if her heart would break. From that day her attendants noticed that she grew paler and thinner every day, as if some secret malady was eating out her life.—But none suspected the truth.

At about the same time that Governor Ford left Nauvoo, the Prophet and his brother were killed at Carthage, under the following circumstances, as near as we can ascertain them: Joe and Hiram are both confined in the debtor's room of the Carthage jail, awaiting their trial on a charge of treason. The jail was strongly guarded by soldiers and anti-mormons, who had been placed there by the Governor.

The Flood. We have to day dates from St. Louis up to the 23d. Eighteen inches more of water had been added to the mighty mass of water! The Rev. says:—Cin. Gaz. Since Friday night the river has added to its flood eighteen inches. The news from above, however infers the probability of a speedy turn. The clerk of the L. F. Linn informs us of further disastrous consequences of the flood.—The town of Brunswick is almost entirely inundated, the water in the streets being from seven to ten feet deep.—The river had fallen seven inches, however, previous to the departure of the Linn. The towns of Old Franklin and Nashville, it is feared will be entirely destroyed. At Rochester the water was up to the second stories of the dwellings and warehouses; all the inhabitants had removed to the bluffs for safety. The town of Chareton is reported to have suffered severely.—The Linn was detained forty-two hours on her upward trip, in rescuing families and their effects. Boonville, Arrow Rock, and Glasgow, have sustained but little injury.

NATIONAL MAGAZINE OF LITERATURE, ART AND FASHION. Godey's Lady's and Gentleman's Magazine. PROSPECTUS FOR 1843.

EDITORS. J. FENNIMORE COOPER, RICH'D H. DANA, WM. CULLEN BRYANT, H. W. LONGFELLOW, CHARLES F. HOFFMAN, T. C. BRATTAN.

As a farther assurance of thorough excellence in this department, the publisher has secured the services of Miss LESLIE, who will illustrate Fashion Plates, in her usual felicitous and graphic style, uniting a thorough knowledge of the subject, with a clear, graceful and intelligible manner of treating it. Her descriptions are worthy of the productions of her own glowing pencil, which drew the earliest Fashion Plates for the Lady's Book.

What he could not forget her. Even after arriving at the christian camp, and resuming his round, (for all had thought him dead) his only thought was the Saracen beauty, and long he lingered in Palestine, when his interest should have called him home, hoping to hear of her. But despair at length took possession of him, and he returned sadly to Europe, where the fairest ladies of his own gay province strove in vain to win him, by their smiles.

Oh! had he known the agony with which the Emir's daughter watched from her tower, his departure—had he been told how, day by day, she sought to glean some intelligence of his arrival at the christian camp, he would have left his broad possessions at once and found his way back to her, through a thousand perils, rather than she should consider him ungrateful.—But little did he imagine the sacrifice she had made. Since the first day she saw the pale but still noble looking captive, she had surrendered to him her heart, and the offer of his freedom sprang from the heroic wish to see him happy, even at the sacrifice of his company. Had he spoken his love then, and she almost wished he would, few words would have induced her to sacrifice her father country, and faith, to follow him but he was silent and she feared her love was despised. Still her noble heart refused to take its revenge by interrupting his escape; but she watched his departure hoping to the last that he would communicate with her; and when she could no more catch the shadowy figure of the receding boat, she flung herself on her cushions and wept as if her heart would break. From that day her attendants noticed that she grew paler and thinner every day, as if some secret malady was eating out her life.—But none suspected the truth.

At about the same time that Governor Ford left Nauvoo, the Prophet and his brother were killed at Carthage, under the following circumstances, as near as we can ascertain them: Joe and Hiram are both confined in the debtor's room of the Carthage jail, awaiting their trial on a charge of treason. The jail was strongly guarded by soldiers and anti-mormons, who had been placed there by the Governor.

The Flood. We have to day dates from St. Louis up to the 23d. Eighteen inches more of water had been added to the mighty mass of water! The Rev. says:—Cin. Gaz. Since Friday night the river has added to its flood eighteen inches. The news from above, however infers the probability of a speedy turn. The clerk of the L. F. Linn informs us of further disastrous consequences of the flood.—The town of Brunswick is almost entirely inundated, the water in the streets being from seven to ten feet deep.—The river had fallen seven inches, however, previous to the departure of the Linn. The towns of Old Franklin and Nashville, it is feared will be entirely destroyed. At Rochester the water was up to the second stories of the dwellings and warehouses; all the inhabitants had removed to the bluffs for safety. The town of Chareton is reported to have suffered severely.—The Linn was detained forty-two hours on her upward trip, in rescuing families and their effects. Boonville, Arrow Rock, and Glasgow, have sustained but little injury.