THE OLD ROMAN ACCEPTS.

DEMOCRATIC POLICY PLAINLY PRESENTED.

The Democrats Seek to Reduce the Taxes on the Necessaries of Life, While the Republicans Seek to Raise Them.

Columbus, O., Oct. 14.—Judge Thurman's letter of acceptance was given to the press this evening. The first draft of the letter was the judge's handwriting, and the typewriter copies showed only a few changes in punctuation from the original. The letter is as follows:

Columbus, O., Oct. 12.—Hon. Patrick A. Collins and others, committee: Gentlemen—In obedience to custom, I send you this formal acceptance of my nomination for the office of vice-president of the United States, made by the national convention of the democratic party at St. Louis. When you did me the honor to call upon me at Columbus and officially notify me of my nomination, I expressed to you my sense of obligation to the convention, and stated that although I had not sought the nomination I did not feel at liberty under the circumstances to decline it. I thought then, as I still think, that whatever I could properly do to promote the re-election of President Cleveland I ought to do. His administration has been marked by such integrity, good sense, manly courage exalted patriotism that just appreciation of these high qualities seem to call for his re-election. I am also strongly impressed with the belief that his re-election would powerfully tend to strengthen that feeling of fraternity among the American people that is so essential to their welfare, peace and happiness, and to the perpetuity of union and of our free institutions.

I approve the platform of the St. Louis convention, and I cannot too strongly express my dissent from the heretical teaching of monopolists that the welfare of the people can be promoted by a system of exorbitant taxation far in excess of wants of government. The idea that the people can be enriched by heavy and unnecessary taxation; that a man's condition can be improved by taxing him on all he wears, on all his wife and children wears, on all his tools and implements of industry, is an obvious absurdity. To fill the vaults of the treasury with an idle surplus, for which the government has no legitimate use and to thereby deprive the people of currency needed for their business and daily wants and to create powerful and dangerous stimulus to extravagance and corruption in the expenditures of the government, seems to me to be a policy at variance with every sound principle of government and of political economy. The necessity of reducing taxation to prevent such an accumulation of surplus revenue and consequent depletion of the circulating medium is so apparent that no party dares to deny it. But when we come to consider the modes by which the reduction may be made, we find wide antagonism between our party and monopolistic leaders of our political opponents.

We seek to reduce taxes upon the necessaries of life, our opponents seek to increase them. We say give to the masses of the people cheap and good, clothing cheap blankets, cheap tools and cheap lumber. The republicans, by their platform and their leaders in the senate, by their prospected bill say, increase the taxes on clothing and blankets and thereby increase their cost, maintain high duty on the tools of the farmer and mechanic and upon the lumber which they need for the construction of their modest dwellings, shops, barns, and thereby prevent their obtaining these necessities at reasonable prices.

Can any sensible man doubt as to where he should stand in this controversy? Can any well informed man man be deceived by the false pretense that a system so unreasonable and unjust is for the benefit of laboring men? Much is said about competition of American laborers with the pauper labor of Europe, but does not every man who looks around him see and know that an immense majority of laborers in America are not engaged in what are called the protected industries, is it not undeniable that the duties proposed by the democratic measure called the Mills bill far exceed the difference between American and European wages, and, therefore, if it were admitted that our working men can be protected by tariffs against cheaper labor, they would be fully protected and more than protected by that bill? Does not every well informed man know that the increase in the price of manufactures, produced by tariff, does not go into the pockets of the laboring men, but only tends to swell the profits of others?

It seems to me that if the policy of the democratic party is plainly present-ted all must understand that we seek to make the cost of living less, and at the same time increase the share of the laboring man in the benefits of national prosperity and growth. I am very respectfully your obedient servant,

ALLEN G. THURMAN

HEBREW SUNDAY SCHOOL. Account of the Opening Exercises Yesterday Evening.

The sabbath school of the congregation Rodef Sholem was solemnly opened Sunday morning. Mr. B. Haber the president of the congregation introduced the Rev. S. Rosenberg the new rabbi and superintendent of the Sabbath school, to the children. Rev. Rosenberg then addressed the children assembled in a few appropriate words, as follows: "come children hearken unto me, the fear of the Lord is a hall teach thee, Psalms chap 91th V. 7th.

My dear children! Our holy season is passed, the festival of New Year, the Day of Atonement, and the Feast of Tabernacles, our holiest and most important festivals of the year are gone. Our main attention is now given to the schools of religious instruction. Permit me to welcome you here after your long vacation from this Sabbath school conducted heretofore under the noble leadership and superintendence of my worthy predecessor and colleague Rev. Dr. A. R. Levy. My dear children! complaints have been made to me by some parties that the discipline of the Dr. Levy as a Sabbath school teacher during the time of his administration here amongst you, proved to be inadequate to command the respect of his pupils, and that in consequence thereof, the classes under his tuition could not receive the real benefit of his instruction. However my experience as a Sabbath-school teacher tells me, that the true fault does not always rest with the teachers, that the actual failures of the majority of Sabbath-schools, comes quite from other quarters. There are always to be found among the classes, a great number of children, who will try their utmost to annoy and aggravate the teachers by their annoying child-play during the teaching, and some of them would constantly disobey and even abuse the good admonitions of their instructors, so you can see my dear children that in such cases the teachers cannot be made responsible for the failure of their schools. Let me remind you that you cannot for a moment venture to compare a Sabbath school to a daily public school, for the simple reason that that while the latter is visited by the classes five times in the week, so that what may be lost in one of the five days through misconduct, etc., can be easily gained throughout the balance of the week, the former receives its classes but once a week, and cannot be replaced by the balance of the week. I could therefore say let the past be forgotten, and let us hope that by the aid of God you will endeavor to particularly lend your ear to the counsels and instructive words of your teachers, the ear which is the most important member of the human body, the best vehicle, the most convenient entrance by which the lessons imparted find their way to the mind and to the heart. That you will try to carry them into practice, to the pleasure of your teachers and parents, to your own honor and to the grace of God. In conclusion I recommend to your special attention, Psalm XIV, a psalm which strictly carried out by daily practice, will ever put you right with God and man:

"Oh Lord, who shall reside in thy tabernacle? Who shall dwell in thy holy hill? He that walketh uprightly and doeth righteousness, and speaketh truth in his heart, and does not slander with his tongue, and does not do evil to his friend, and brings no false report against his neighbor. He who does not enter into companionship with the wicked, but honors those who fear and revere God! He who does these things shall live forever. Amen.

A Plucky Girl.

Indianapolis, Ind., Oct. 14.—Jesse Mason, a farmer 80 years old, residing near Stillsville, Hendricks county, yesterday sold some of the products of his farm, for which he received $90. Logan York, a young man of evil reputation, witnessed the transfer of money and in the evening, in company with an unknown man, knocked at Mason's door and asked for matches. Mason turned to obtain the matches, when he was fired upon by one or both of the men, but, fortunately, was not hit. His daughter, a young woman, seized a chair and assaulted York, who closed in with her, taking one her fingers in his teeth and biting savagely. While York and the girl were fighting her brother, Oran Mason, appeared on the scene with a loaded shotgun, which he discharged, almost blowing York's head from his body and instantly killing him. The other man escaped in the darkness.

Oklahoma Movement.

St. Louis, Mo., Oct. 15.—A special from Topeka, Kan., says: "Capt. J. M. Sutterthwaite is in the city in the interest of the movement to Oklahoma in the Indian territory. He is authority for the statement that a big colony is being organized for that purpose. Already the force are beginning to gather, and as soon after the election as possible arrangements will be made for a colony to enter the territory. A boom has been agitated privately, but from now on will become more public in its character. Six hundred men are already pledged to enter the territory and endeavor to make a settlement, and it is the idea to increase the number at least 1400 more, and with 2000 make a stand and stay until force is used by the United States. Able attorneys will be retained, and a legal fight carried to the highest courts.
