Twelfth Annual Session of the General Assembly at Indianapolis.

Indianapolis, Nov. 13.—About 125 delegates were present at the twelfth annual session of the knights of labor assembly opened at 10 o'clock this morning. The total number of persons connected officially with it is about 150. The morning session lasted until 12:30 and was lively, but the work was all completed when recess was taken for dinner. The report of the committee on credentials was at once taken up and considered.

The cases which demanded attention were more in the nature of protests than contests, some persons protesting against what they consider illegality in the appointment of delegates. Schilling, of Chicago, was admitted, no case being made against him. In the case of district assembly No. 49 five delegates headed by James E. Quinn were admitted, it being thought at this time not proper to go behind the returns.

It was announced to the press representatives that Barry was probably somewhere about the hall, but that caused no trouble. Mr. Barry was in the hall when the session opened and endeavored to speak, but Grand Master Workman Powderly told him that having been expelled he had no right there and must go. Having no serious cases on hand and being thus early organized for work, this general assembly is ahead of all recent ones. "It is three days ahead of Minneapolis and five days ahead of Richmond, and as all the warring elements are on the outside, smooth sailing is expected from now on to the end of the session," said Mr. Powderly.

Only one delegation besides the contestants from district assembly No. 49, from New York, did not take seats in the general assembly to-day. That was the delegation from the Michigan state assembly, and consisted of Henry Allen, of Schoolcraft, and James H. Morrow, of Adrian. Their assembly was entitled to but one delegate but they sent two.

The case of T. B. Barry is one on appeal from the authority of Powderly, and it will be considered in due time by the proper committee. Mr. Barry claims to be entitled to his seat and expresses confidence in his ultimate success.

The afternoon session was devoted to the completion of the organization and by the appointment of committees. These are a legislative committee of committees on law, on the finances of the order, on secret work, on appeals and grievances and a press committee. It is the duty of this committee to consider the legislation which it is desired to have brought before congress and it is intended for it to act in an advisory capacity with the regular standing committee at Washington.

A telegram was received from the chief officer of the brotherhood of locomotive firemen, expressing good will and hope for the success of the order and promising co-operation with it. A similar message was received from the trades assembly of Indianapolis. The reports of the general officers and committee of the general executive board will be heard to-morrow and Thursday.

Instantly Killed.

Longview, November 13.—Last night at Gladewater, twelve miles west of here, George Rodan instantly killed Nathan Owens who was jealous of his wife. Last night Owens accused his wife of loving Rodan and received unsatisfactory replies. Owens took his razor and went about town to find Rodan, swearing he would kill him on sight. Going to Rodan's sleeping room he entered and proceeded to cut Rodan, who awoke just in time to ward off the murderous razor and fly to the back yard, followed by Owens. Rodan was soon cornered and begged for his life. Owens still pressed on when Rodan stepped on an ax. He snatched it up and warned Owens to come no closer. Owens made another attempt to cut Rodan, who with one blow chopped Owens' head off. Rodan surrendered.

Hotel Burned.

Chattanooga, Nov. 13.—Three bodies were recovered from the ruins this morning of the Bryant's European hotel, which was destroyed by fire last night. They have been identified as Eula Jones, white, chambermaid; Major Bigger, of Atlanta, Georgia, and Thomas Moore, of Bloomington, Illinois. The latter two were guests. The young woman who was burned was caught by falling timber near the center of the building. Bigger had escaped and went back to recover his valise, but was caught on the stairs and slowly roasted to death. His clenched hands were filed with hair which he had torn from his head in the agonies of his frightful death. Moore's body was charred to a crisp. Search is in progress for other bodies, but it is thought no others will be found.

On her trial trip the Reina Regente, the new Spanish warship, which has just left the hands of her English builders, developed a speed of twenty-one knots.

Out in India it is "the man or the tiger," but the man got ahead of the tiger last year. Hunters killed 1,400 tigers, and tigers killed only 1,000 men.

The Parisians are so dissatisfied with the weight of the English high hat that their hatters have invented a silk hat weighing little more than an ounce and a half.

During the first three months of this year 5,000 more immigrants arrived at New York than in the same time last year. There were 28,045 arrivals in March.

It is said that the best paid colored woman in Georgia is the one who cooks for the Capital City club of Atlanta. She gets $1,500 a year and has a $1,000 assistant.

A sugar refining company, with $5,000,000 capital, has been started to use Mr. Henry Friend's new method of refining by electricity. The cost will be about seventy-five cents a ton.

There is such a demand for Maine spruce gum that there are fears expressed that the trees are giving out. A correspondent suggests that they may be coaxed to give more if treated as the gum trees of the east are. The natives hack the bark with their hatchets, and in due time the tree weeps gum.

During a heavy thunder storm at Milledgeville, Ga., the other day, a tremendously big frog came down with the rain and struck the sidewalk with a thud. He lay motionless for a moment, then flopped over on his feet, and then, with mighty bounds, jumped into a store and upon the show cases, greatly frightening several women there.

A small brass statue was discovered recently near the Acropolis museum, Athens. It is in a perfect state of preservation, and the figure bears a close resemblance to the Apollo of Canchos in the British museum. This statue is the best specimen of workmanship in brass that has yet come to light in the course of the excavations at the Acropolis.

A Boston cheese dealer says that adulterated cheese when fresh and well made, cannot be distinguished from a good skin milk cheese. It is made largely in western factories, and is composed of stearine, oleo oil, cottonseed oil and skin milk. The cream is first extracted from the milk, and then it is sought to return fats of a cheaper quality. A considerable quantity of rancid butter is also used.

Irish Savings Banks.

The statistics of deposits in Irish savings banks, given in the registrar general's recent report, prove that ever since 1881 the deposits have been increasing continuously, the total increasing amounting to nearly a million and a quarter sterling. The precise figures are: On Dec. 31, 1881, £3,765,000, and on Dec. 31, 1887, £4,975,000. The money in these banks represents small savings, and comes almost entirely from the agricultural population, which, be it observed, has diminished during the period. The startling statement may therefore be made with confidence that the tenant farmers of Ireland, as a class, are considerably richer than they were six years ago, and it may be asserted with equal confidence that the same could not be said of any other class of the community in the United Kingdom.—London World.

The Hooper Poet's Fate.

The publisher of The Century magazine is beginning to appreciate the value of James Whitcomb Riley's contributions. Last winter Riley sent a poem to the magazine; it appeared subsequently under the title of "Jim," and it narrated in pathetic dialect the unspoken love of a simple old man for his boy who went to and was killed in the war. For this poem Riley received a check for $50. Some weeks after the publication of the verses Riley participated in an authors' reading in New York city, and it was universally conceded that he made the hit of the occasion; in fact, he was the only participant in the programme who created any enthusiasm, and he was respectively honored. His recitation of "Jim" (the poem he had printed in The Century) was received with special favor, and The Century people, who were present in force, were impressed accordingly. So Rowell Smith, president of The Century company, gave Riley a little informal supper to which a few other congenial fellows were invited. Upon turning his plate Riley found a note from The Century begging him to accept the increased as further recognition of the value of his poem to the magazine. "The enclosed" was a check for $100.—Chicago News.

The Fatal Number.

"Amaranthus, in accepting me you have made me immeasurably happy."
"I am glad to know it, Arthur. You are not in the least superstitious, are you?"
"No, darling. Why do you ask?"
"Because you are the thirteenth man to propose to me this summer."—Life.
