stock of serpents, and the number of reptiles is increased. According to the grade of ancient spirits infused, but it has been left for the attendance of a camp meeting near Winston, Maine, to have a little experience in the snake line, in which it is solemnly asserted that the congregation was scattered by an eruption of moccasins, snakes, and rattlesnakes.
It is found impossible to get the people together again. It is feasible that prohibition is the popular belief in Maine, otherwise this snake story would suffer at the hands of the angry and unbelieving scoffers.

The New York Tribune says: "It is announced that all that prevent sitting still from embracing the Christian religion is the romantic and weighty fact that he possesses two wives, to each of whom he is devotedly attached. Given to understand by the good Bishop who is interested in his spiritual condition that he must either abandon one of them or abandon his idea of becoming a minister, by first looking longingly at Christianity and then longingly at his two wives, and then proceeding to his bedroom, he has decided to remain in the great city and turn a deaf ear to the Bishop. It is simply the another case of loving not wisely but too well."

In a recent address before the Tariff club at Columbus, Ohio, Gov. Foster said: "The policy of protection is maintained by every civilized nation. Savage and barbarous nations alike practice free trade. Every nation of Europe adopts protection. England is an example. Her whole history has been full of protective laws, and to three she owes her commercial supremacy. England now levies duties on fifty-three articles, and her duties are higher on manufactured products than on raw materials. This is protection to manufacturers. But on other articles her protection is a delusion and a fraud. Her laws do not discriminate in favor of manufacturers.
In England, no tax is levied on capital or machinery employed in manufacturing.
Here, it is a manufacturer invests $100,000 in machinery and implements, and method for manufacturing, he will pay an average tax of 2 per cent, or $2,000 annually. In England the manufacturer is exempt from this, and thus he secures protection for his manufactures."

DEAN KERRY has gone to New York, and to reply to an interview with a World reporter, said: "I came here in the interests of the workingmen—the wage-workers—I want big wages and short hours. I came here, under the auspices of Dennis Kearney. I intend to appear before the Senate Committee on Education and Labor in a day or two and state my views, and I shall speak at meetings to be held throughout the East. I want the wage-worker to share the profits with the profit-monger and farmer. There are 453 profit-mongers, 4,000,000 farmers and planters, and 12,500,000 wage-workers in this country. I deplore the reduction of the price of the Herald, Tribune and Times. It means just so much money out of the pockets of the reporters and editors. The man who champions big pay and short hours will have 2,000-000 voters to put him in the Presidential chair.
I shall have 2,000,000 voters organized for this object in six months. I am no mannopolist, but I am for big pay and short hours and that is the platform on which I stand."

In an article under the head of "Texas and Mexico," the Houston Post says: "Coming upon the heels of the accidental failure of a meeting between Governor Madero and Governor Ireland at Laredo, the visit of the latter to Saltillo and his warm and cordial reception by the people of Coahuila, form an agreeable fact and one ominous of good results. It is now known that Governor Ireland was prevented from meeting Governor Madero at Laredo by the delay of a telegram, and the honors paid him by the late governor of Texas on their own ground show that so far from any offense having been given, the most kindly sentiments exist. It is fitting that such events should take place, in order that the unpleasant feeling and apprehensions of hostility that the border troubles and the Monterey difficulty had excited, might be swept away. Had Governor Ireland gone to Mexico with an other intent, his action should be esteemed politic and wise. Such interchange of official courtesy and the benefits that flow from personal conference do more to produce good feeling and confidence than a score of treaties or any amount of correspondence at long range."

A Measure of Discipline.
From the Memphis Avalanche.
A Democratic defeat in Ohio will be excellent discipline for the Democracy. They need to know something of the sort to keep the party houses from pulling each other to pieces instead of fighting the common enemy.
