THOMAS B. JOHNSON, Business Manager.

Entered at postoffice at San Antonio, Texas, as second-class matter.

WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 17, 1883.

The Japanese government has concluded a treaty of commerce with Cuba.

SECRETARY TELLER has lost a trunk containing $12,000 worth of jewelry. Nothing is said of any nation.

Some find of the infernal world threw a burning fluid into the face of a young girl in a street car in New Orleans, aged 18, who happily did not lose her sight, nor was otherwise seriously injured.

The Dallas French Opera company, numbering 90 persons, left here Friday, October 12, for New Orleans, via New York. They are expected to arrive in the Queen City about the end of October.

Any now the New Orleans Picayune says: "Tilden is nothing but a scheming politician, and not a statesman at all," and the question is how is Tilden, Presidentially speaking, to survive what the New Orleans Picayune says.

The immaculate Frank James complains of his calculations. They have suppressed the fact that the surrender of that great man to the police authorities was "absolutely conditional." Let us have fair play and highway-men's rights.

We approve of great missions and great missionaries, but when we learn that a few gentlemen have contributed $2,000 to pay the preliminary expenses of a six months' mission of Moody and Sankey at Irvington we wonder how Moody and Sankey get away with so much money.

Wisconsin attempted another cyclone on the 9th instant. It was by no means a failure. Everything, loose went skyward, and it was obvious there was a good deal of lightning flying about, making all sorts of angles, and bent on mischief. But no one was killed. Some barns were lifted out of place, and a few stacks of hay disappeared. It is an impression of our own that Wisconsin will presently excel in cyclones.

A HERD of Cuban patriots about 400 in number, convened on the 12th instant in New York, to do honor to the memory of those brave men who had died in the cause of Cuban liberty. Cuba is a living illustration of the great truth.

That Frenchman's battle once begun, Bonaparte's name loomed in the air. Though often lost, it always won. No heart that throbs with the love of freedom can doubt that the abhorred yoke of the Spanish tyrant will be cast off before long. Cubans are in arms to-day, the cause is, and will remain, a living cause.

It is announced that the President is about to pardon Sergeant Mason. So tardy an act of grace involves more justice to President Arthur than to Mason. It is difficult to comprehend how so many sided a wrong could have failed to accomplish its own cure within so long a time. Wrongfully tried by a tribunal without authority, he was convicted without proof of any crime known to the military law. But putting aside the question of his accountability, or his guilt, the petitions asking for his release were signed by 100,000 persons. We ask, too, for Mason's instant release, but we ask for it in the interest of President Arthur.

A LITTLE girl in New Orleans, named Mary Lord, while dipping water in the Mississippi for her mother, fell in. Poor little Mary! in her brief struggle not unconscious of her fate, now of the parting that awaited her, our that she died for mother, what were the hurried thoughts that ran through her mind and prepared her for the wondrous change of world for world, of light and lovelessness for those accustomed scenes from which the glory had passed away, in that brief moment? Over every mind hovers a consolation that goes
