COLD, DAMP AND MUD.

COLD, DAMP AND MUD.

The Citizens linestry and Grombing Londly at the Streets.

Everything in the city to-day is gloomy, cold and damp prevails. The roads in all directions are in an awale condition and the streets described by those who are not obliged to be about in the pursuit of their business. The office and street doors are closed, said must business men are congregated around the stime, seemingly radiatyoned to business. There is a general dearth of news and the cutward of their business. There is a general dearth of news and the newspaper man is depressed in his search for liesus, and if they were not Christians they might raties their feeling in forcible but impressive language. There is a small attendance at the public schools. In the County Commissioners court and the police office the fire-seems to be the attractive place, and groups were found around them, iding the time sway. On the attents und is everywhere, and the system of street making in first Antonin is shown up in all iteridicalounters. Everyone grunhless at the state of the streets, but if it only leads the citizens to vote for their sensible improvement the had weather will be of great service to the city.
