HANNIBAL, MO., THURSDAY MORNING, JUNE 16, 1853.

VOL. X--NO. 40.

THURSDAY EVENING, JUNE 9, 1853.

We understand that on Tuesday last the editors of the Quincy Whig and Herald came in collision. The latter fired two pistol shots—the former defending himself with a chair. It was said that the editor of the Whig was slightly wounded.

The compositor perpetrated some bad grammar in the communication in yesterday's paper signed by Dr. Morton and Mayor Selmes.—"Delightful fragrant" should have read, "delightfully fragrant"—as it was written.

We are informed of some further particulars in relation to the difficulty between the editors of the Whig and Herald.

Brooks (editor of the Herald) was passing in front of the Quincy House, when Morton, who was sitting in a chair, got up and struck him in the face, knocking off his hat. Brooks then drew a revolver, and fired at Morton, the ball striking the shoulder-blade, and glancing off without doing much injury. The latter, who was unarmed, then threw a chair at his antagonist, when Brooks attempted to fire a second time, but his pistol missed fire.

A large crowd gathered around, and a determination was expressed to hang Brooks if he did not leave in twenty-four hours. The excitement, however, subsided. The cause of the affair commenced with a publication by the editor of the Whig, in reference to Brooks' management of the Post Office. The latter retaliated by publishing Morton as a "liar," "scoundrel" and "puppy."

The Marriage Question in the General Assembly. The Chicago Tribune says—

It is with much pleasure that we can record the following result of this subject: Namely, that the Committee on Bills and Overtures, countenancing the monstrous idea that a man may properly contract marriage with his own sister's daughter, was rejected by nearly unanimous vote, and that the proposition was condemned as contrary to the teachings of the Scriptures, and incestuous.

In Philadelphia, a few days ago, a woman, while under the influence of mental derangement, attempted to take the life of her four young children, and to kill herself.

In a communication to the Louisville Journal, the captain of the steamer Eclipse denies the charge of "racing" made against his boat in her recent trial of speed from New Orleans. He carried no freight, touched only at the most important landings, and arranged the woodings so as to cause the least possible delay.

The Washington Union of the 6th contained an article on New Mexico. It took the ground that the seizure of the Mesilla valley by Gov. Trias, was an outrage combined with folly; but that considering the weak condition of Mexico, it would hardly be magnanimous in the United States to make any hostile demonstration. But if the act is not disapproved by the Mexican authorities, then the United States cannot hesitate how to act.

Last Monday a German named Renemen Dushmer, who lives in Jefferson county Mo., was run over by a coal wagon and killed.

The interior of Bates' Theatre in St. Louis, is to be torn out and re-constructed upon an improved plan.

The Taunton Gazette states that Miss Nancy Sherman, of Plympton, who died on the 15th ult., starved herself to death. She did this in obedience to a supposed command of spirits. She had been a medium sometime. For three weeks she studiously abstained from partaking of any food, living on water alone, although at times so tortured by the pangs of hunger as to writhe in agony.

The last week was passed in fearful alternations from convulsions to momentary consciousness, with constant relapses, until death put an end to her sufferings.

Wise men say nothing is dangerous men.

About 2000 emigrants passed the quarantine station at St. Louis, during the month of May.

The New Lucy is to make a trial trip from St. Louis, this evening—to go up as far as Aiton.

A man named Honeyman, of respectable family in New Jersey, recently married a lady in that State, also of respectable family. On their bridal trip he lost all his money gambling, and to keep up appearances, stole a buggy and two horses from a man in Springfield, Illinois. For this he was arrested in St. Louis last Sunday, handcuffed, and taken back to Springfield. Table-turning is now the rage in French provinces, and in Germany.

The young Prince of Wales was lately flogged by a play mate, a young nobleman. The Queen ascertaining that her son deserved the thrashing, expressed her satisfaction at the lesson he had learned.

In St. Louis, last Tuesday a man named John Ryan, was killed, by one of the sides of a sewer in which he was working, caving in and crushing him.

PACIFIC EXPEDITION.—The expedition under Commander Ringgold, U. S. Navy, for the exploration and survey of the China and Japan Seas, North Pacific Ocean, sailed from Norfolk on the 30th ult. for its destination. It is supposed that the expedition will proceed with despatch to the East Indies, via Cape Good Hope, touching at the Cape Verde Isles for water, and rendezvous at Batavia, preparatory to a careful reconnaissance of portions of the lower part of the Chinese Seas. This (says the Union) is an important enterprise—one worthy of the government, and from which valuable results may be anticipated. Expeditions of this kind suit the taste and genius of our people, and form good schools for young officers.

THE CHINESE REBELLION.—The intelligence we receive from China, while it adds but little to the information recently laid before the readers of this journal, confirms in all respects the apprehensions we ventured to express concerning this remarkable rebellion. It does not, indeed, seem to be definitely known that Nankin had fallen, as was lately reported, into the hands of the insurgents; but, if this event has not actually occurred, it is in the highest degree probable. No doubt exists respecting the progress of the rebellion, and though many particulars of this revolution are unfortunately obscure, we know for certain that the insurgents have traversed the empire from the southwest to the northwest; that they have hitherto repulsed the Royal troops, that they have either captured, or are on the point of capturing Nankin, that they are menacing Peking with a similar fate, and that according to all computable chances, they will succeed thus far in subverting the Government of China.—[London Times, May 17.]

There are more females who have learned to set type, in various parts of the Union, than may be supposed. The editor of the Mountain Banner, a North Carolina paper, says, that during his absence, his wife had set the type for four columns of his paper, prepared copy, read the proofs, and wrote some editorials. A helpmate, indeed, and she was much better employed than if engaged in making stump speeches at conventions, among "strong minded" women.—[Cincinnati Commercial.]

Pretty well for a Slave State, where, according to a theory, which greatly tickles Northern praters, women do not know anything and cannot do anything.—[St. L. Intel.]

Give Away without Paying the Printer!! We have long since intended to give notice to those of our delinquent subscribers who, appears to us, have left for parts unknown, intentionally forgetting, to pay what they honestly owe us. We will, hereafter, in every instance, where one leaves us, to mourn over labor lost, give him the benefit of our columns, gratis, and thereby notify all other Printers that he has swindled us, and without they watch him closely he will swindle them. We have received letters from Postmasters, time after time, notifying us that our paper is not taken out of the office by Mr. —, "he left this neighborhood some time ago; I don't know where he has gone to; you had better stop it." We cannot, nor will not tolerate it any longer, without some little revenge, at the same time believing we are doing an act of justice to the "scamps" and kindness to the public. So look out all ye that would slip off without paying your subscriptions, justly due, for the Weston Reporter. This notice has been drawn from us by the recent departure of a young man from this city, for California, by the name of THEODORE PURDOM, aged about 22 years, dark complexion, weighs about 160. He owes us four dollars. If the rascal shall, upon the receipt of this notice, send us the money, we will send him an apology.—[Weston Reporter.]

FALL OF CATFISH.—The Norfolk Argus states that a curious phenomenon attended the hail storm in that city on Tuesday night. Quantities of catfish, some measuring a foot in length, fell in different sections of the city, and some of the fields were literally strewn with them. Hundreds were picked up in the morning.

Senator Atchison. This gentleman is in the field, making his appeal to the people of Missouri. We learn that he was to address the people at Platte City on Saturday last; and that on Saturday next he will speak at Weston. The principal topic of his speeches, we are given to understand, will be "Nebraska" and "The Road to India." Public curiosity will be excited to hear what he has to say on these heads.—[St. Louis Republican.]

The substance of the verdict of a recent coroner's jury, on a man who died in a state of intoxication, was: "Death by hanging—round a run-shop."

Arrival of the Daniel Webster. New Orleans, June 6.

The Daniel Webster, connected with the Sierra Nevada, has arrived, making the trip from San Francisco in twenty days and a half.

California news is very meagre. The mining accounts are favorable.

The Sonora Herald records many lucky discoveries of large lumps. New diggings have also been discovered at Umpqua river, where the miners have taken lumps valued at $300 a $600.

BONNETS.—From the Home Journal we take something for the head-ification of the ladies:

Bonnets without fronts we are used to; but the last Parisian novelty is a bonnet without a crown! "These bonnets," says a Paris letter, "have three great qualities—light as a feather, transparent as gauze, and hanging on the head like a Neapolitan plateau. This bonnet is an assemblage of flowers, ribbons and lace; a point of tulle, richly embroidered, serves as a support to a deep black lace, embroidered in large dots with straw, which shades the knot of plaited hair which falls on the nape of the neck. We have said 'bonnets without crowns'; are we sure they have any front? We can scarcely say; if the narrow black lace which edges it, and playfully falls on the forehead and gracefully encircles the face, is the only front—we certainly dare not give this coiffure the name of bonnet. On each side, bunches of flowers, as well as the broad strings, complete the harmony. The designs are embroidered to match the plateau.—This bonnet requires particular attention in the dressing of the hair. The summit of the head must be left free, and the hair arranged quite low. These bonnets are destined to create a sensation in the fashionable world; but only the very pretty and the very young dare adopt this novelty."

On last Wednesday, says the Indianapolis Sentinel, an old man, one of the inmates of the county poor house, while engaged in a scuffle with Henry Hoagland, an idiotic pauper, was bitten by him on the little finger of the left hand. The wound was but slight, but inflammation commenced and the man became delirious, and died on Sunday morning, evidently from the poison communicated to his system by the bite on his finger. This is a most singular case.

A GIRL MURDERED BY HER OWN FATHER.

William Robinson and his wife were both in the habit of getting drunk, when they would fight each other like dogs, and then they would be taken up by the police. Several months since they left here, moving to Mississippi, near Hernando. Since then they have separated—the wife, dividing some negroes among her children, who were to remain with their father. A few weeks since Robinson sold a negro belonging to his eldest daughter, a girl of some fourteen or fifteen years of age, to which she objected, and by some means the old man was arrested and put in jail at Hernando. During the past week he had been liberated from custody, and allowed to return to his children.

On Wednesday last he again sold his daughter's negro, and the purchaser came to take his property away, when she still refused to give the negro up. In a fit of anger he took his gun and fired at her, lodging the contents in her body, inflicting a mortal wound. The girl lived in great bodily pain and suffering until the next morning, when she was relieved from her misery by the hand of death.—[Memphis Whig.]

ARRIVAL OF THE CANADA.—HIGHLY IMPORTANT FROM EUROPE.

PHILADELPHIA, JUNE 6, P. M. The Canada arrived at Halifax at 1-2 past 7 this P. M., with dates from Liverpool to 28th. The news is highly important.

At the earnest request of the Emperor of China, the American, French and English ships of war in the Eastern waters, have undertaken to protect Nankin, Shanghai and the mouth of the canal against the rebels.

RUSSIA. The Emperor of Russia's ultimatum is offered to the Porte, and he waits only till the 20th for a final reply.

FRANCE. The ordering of the French fleet to the Dardanelles has caused great excitement in the French funds. It is believed that Napoleon has threatened war if Russia persists in her Eastern demand.

SWITZERLAND. The diplomatic relations are totally broken off between England and Austria.

FRANCE. A report that the Russian forces had entered Turkey, caused a violent agitation at the Bourse, and it is rumored that Napoleon assures the Russian Minister, that, much as he desired the peace of Europe, he could not hesitate to change his policy if Russia forced measures hostile to France and the East.

HOLLAND. At Rome, the Pope and the Jesuits are experimenting on table moving.

TURKEY. The Porte has refused to accept the Russian ultimatum. Menschikoff embarked at Constantinople on board of a Russian ship of war, for Odessa.

The Ambassador of France had ordered the French fleet to the Dardanelles, to prevent any attempt of Russia to seize or pass the Straits; but on the 20th the French squadron was still at Salamis.

The British fleet was at Malta on the 15th, waiting reinforcements from England. Despatches to the British Admiralty, from Admiral Dundas, state that Menschikoff remained on board a steamer, and had given the Porte eight days longer to reconsider his refusal, stating that if he again resisted, he would withdraw.

Different sounds will travel with different velocity—a call to dinner will run over a ten acre lot in half a moment, while a summons to return to work takes from five to eight minutes. A morning call to a lady person in a second story bed room, will sometimes be an hour in traveling the distance.

The following conundrum won a prize of a silver cup on Tuesday night at La Belle Oceana's benefit in St. Louis.

Why does La Belle Oceana represent the Agriculturist, the Manufacturer, the Merchant, the Artist, and the Politician?

Because she cultivates hops, raises and spins her tow (too,) fash her figures, and strikes a balance nightly, paints a beautiful face, and can draw good houses, and twists and turns to get a portion of the People's money.

A mad dog was killed in St. Louis day before yesterday. The tendency to Hydrophobia in the northern and central parts of Illinois, seems to have run that disease into an epidemic.

Yesterday a dog took a flying leap to the pavement from the third story of Marienthal & Block's clothing store. His dogship had gone out on the strip of wood supporting the sign, when, finding himself in a dilemma in reference to the means of getting back again, he formed the bold resolution of jumping down. He alighted without injury and ran off at full speed.

Thereupon the city brought in penalties, and obtained a judgment before the City Recorder, from which the defendant appealed to the Court of Common Pleas.

The offence charged, being admitted, the fees before the Court were the law of the case.

The defendant by his counsel, Messrs. Moad & Harrison, denying the constitutionality of that provision of the City Charter conferring the power "to regulate, restrain or prohibit the sale of ardent spirits within the city," claiming the authority of the license from County Court as protection, the same not especially repealed—sustaining their position with great eloquence and ingenuity.

On the other hand, Messrs. Green & Perkins affirmed the constitutionality of the act, and the validity of the license, and, in advancing the ministry is declining.

The Hannibal Court of Common Pleas was opened yesterday by Hon. John B. Helm, who was elected Judge on the 23d ult.

The "Friend of China" says that in the presidency of Madras, "upwards of 20,000 have been reduced to such utter wretchedness of condition and abjectness of feeling, that it would be difficult to find a parallel in any other country." According to one of the government engineers, 250,000 perish miserably by famine in another presidency, through the neglect of government.

The Court of Appeals of New York have decided that checks made payable at a different day from that on which they are dated, are to be treated as bills of exchange, and as such they are entitled to three days' grace. To avoid protest for non-acceptance, and to insure payment on the day, they should be drawn with the words, "without grace, acceptance named."

The New York Times of Monday says: "The many attractions now in progress all tend to beautify our city. In a few years Broadway will be an avenue of palaces, and, unlike any other palaces we know of, devoted to the grandees of commerce, rather than of indolence, with our streets all laid with the Russ pavement, the fronts of the houses veneered with marble, and the windows resplendent with plate glass, the effect will be alike imposing and graceful."

SCISSORS.—The New York Day Book understands upon reliable authority that the editorial fraternity of the Eastern States are about erecting a monument at Skowhegan, in memory of the invention of scissors. It is to be 100 feet in height same size at the summit as at the base; on one side a base relief figure will be placed, emblematic of an editor's life, surrounded by a wreath of horse pistols, bowie knives, wash bills, and complimentary theatre tickets. At the feet of the figure will be a representation of scissors conquering talent under difficulties; the whole encircled by allegorical designs upon tailors, printers, and the public generally.

RAILROAD ACCIDENT AND LOSS OF LIFE IN SOUTH CAROLINA.—Charleston, May 31.—The night express train on the South Carolina Railroad got off the track on Monday, fifty-five miles from this city, in consequence of a bar of flange iron being maliciously placed on the rails. Isaac Winters, of Penn., the engineer, and Samuel Willis, fireman, were killed; W. F. Smead, fireman, dangerously scalded and his life is despaired of. Four freight cars were smashed.

Transportation companies who advertise and sell tickets in the Atlantic cities for San Francisco, are legally bound to take passengers through, no matter what accident may occur. A passenger recently in the Vanderbilt line who was detained at San Juan for three months, because of the destruction of the connection steamer on the Pacific side, has recovered in the New York courts the sum of $772 as damage for delay.

Rev John L. Waller, of Louisville, Kentucky, an eminent minister of the Baptist church, has been in this place during the past few days, and delivered a number of discourses on the subject of a revision of the present version of the English Scriptures. His lectures were all attended, and he failed not to convince many of the necessity of a revision, while others who heard him are much opposed to the scheme. It is decidedly a strong man, and gave many powerful arguments in favor of revision. We have not learned what success attended his efforts here in the way of obtaining "material aid" to the enterprise, but have reason to believe the amount raised to be quite liberal.—Paris Mer.

Engineer's Report.

ENGINEER'S OFFICE, } BLOOMINGTON, Mo., Jan. 10, '53. }

To the President and Directors of the Hannibal and St. Joseph R. R. Company: GENTLEMEN: Immediately after the completion of the necessary surveys at Hannibal, the eastern terminus, the results of which were reported to the Board in November, 1851, I proceeded to St. Joseph, in compliance with your instructions, and prepared to execute the surveys of the western terminus of this road.

A corps of Engineers was accordingly organized, and on the 10th December the surveys were commenced and continued through the winter. During this time all the ostensible routes extending for twenty miles east of St. Joseph, were examined. First, the "Northern Route," by the way of "Black-Snake Creek," crossing "One Hundred and Two River," Platte River, "Muddy Creek," the Third Fork of Platte, and ascending by the way of "Evans Branch," to the "Castile Divide." Next, the "Middle Route," by the way of "Paties Branch," crossing Platte River below the mouth of "One Hundred and Two," and uniting with the "Northern Route" at the Third Fork of Platte. On the above described routes, the principal obstacles presenting themselves, are the number of streams crossing the experimental lines, their proximity to each other, and the height of the intervening ridges. These difficulties I then endeavored to obviate, as far as practicable, by seeking a more southern location.

This route leaves the Valley of the Missouri by the way of "Whitehead's Branch," crossing Platte River nearly opposite the termination of the ridge intervening between that stream and its tributary, the Third Fork— and ascending "James Branch," to the summit of the "Castile Divide," between the head waters of "Jordan" and "Malden" Creeks. The objects expected to be attained by this examination, were effected as fully as could have been anticipated. This will be shown by reference to the accompanying maps and profiles, and to the table of comparisons, marked A. All the above described routes, in resuming the preliminary surveys, as directed by you on the 25th July last, were taken up and extended across "Castile Creek" to a distance of twenty-five miles east of St. Joseph, forming the first division. In presenting the surveys of the whole route, the original field force, consisting of the Western Corps, under charge of Mr. Bullitt, (to which was afterwards added the Eastern Corps,) was small, considering the amount of field work required to be performed; yet, with this force, had there been no derangement of the plan of operation, and the time properly economized, all the necessary examinations might have been completed at an earlier day; but under the circumstances, it became necessary to organize an additional corps. This corps was placed under the charge of Mr. Frederick Hawn; both parties being under the supervision of Mr. B. H. Mathews, Principal Assistant, to whose reports you are respectfully referred for a description of the operation of both the Western Corps, in the surveys of the "Northern Route," Utica Divide and "Shoal Creek" routes, and their continuation through the "Elk Knobs" to a junction with the Northern experimental line, ran from Hannibal to Bloomington by Mr. Bayly, whose reports are herewith submitted.

SCIENTIFIC.

We find the following statement in the National Intelligencer, from its London correspondent:

"Mr. Faraday, in a late lecture before the Royal Institution, upon the "magnetic forces," made the following important announcement.

"A German astronomer has for many years been watching the spots on the sun, and daily recording the result. From year to year the groups of spots vary. They are sometimes very numerous, sometimes they are few. After a while it became evident that the variation in number followed a descending scale through five years, and then an ascending scale through five subsequent years, so that the periodicity of the variations became a visible fact.

"While our German friend was busy with his groups of sun spots, an Englishman was busy with the variations of the magnetic needle. He, too, was a patient recorder of patient observations. On comparing his tabular results with those of the German astronomer, he found that the variations of the magnetic needle corresponded with the variations of the sun spots; that the years when the groups were at their maximum, the variations of the needle were at their maximum, and so on through their series. The relation may be coincident merely, or derivative; if the latter then do we connect astral and terrestrial magnetism; and new reaches of science are open to us."
