SAN FRANCISCO TO RISE AGAIN.

Forty-niner Spirit Invincible.
A week ago we were appalled by the disaster at San Francisco. The entire city was shaken by the worst earthquake in recent years, fire broke out and San Francisco, the most important city on the Pacific Coast, was almost wiped off the map.

Thousands were made homeless and many lives were lost. As one man the people all over the nation are sending aid and the cheering information comes that no one need be hungry in San Francisco. The brotherhood of man without regard to race, religion, or social station has never been more strikingly shown.

Already plans are being made for a new city which shall be far more beautiful than the old. The history of San Francisco is in some ways a history of the Pacific slope. During the gold excitement in '49 it figured as the gateway to the entire west. Many of those who built the city endured hardships and privations unknown today. New the old land marks are gone, many of the fortunes made in those days have vanished in smoke within the last week, but the same spirit that won out then is present today, an indestructible heritage.
