Poindexter Makes Powerful Friends in Seattle

The political sensation of the week was the announcement that C. H. Chilberg, the well known Swedish banker, had announced for Poindexter. He heartily endorsed him and declared that his work for the Bremerton Navy yard, the Alaska railroad bill and his endeavor to have one of the eight million dollar nitrate fertilizer plants located in the State of Washington can not be overlooked by the people of this state.

He was a guest of the Swedish banker at dinner at the Washington hotel last Saturday when in Seattle on his comeback campaign in that city. Former postmaster of Seattle, George H. Rossel, has also come out for Poindexter, as has John F. Hartman, Geo. B. Lamping, former adjutant general, George W. Allen, president of the Rotary club and O. S. Eason, another Swedish banker. It begins to look like a landslide for Poindexter in Seattle, and assures him a majority vote. Mr. Chilberg had previously been a warm supporter of Mr. Humphrey and what caused the break between him and Mr. Humphrey is one of the things talked about but not understood. A number of withdrawals from the Humphrey campaign committee have been announced and others are expected to follow.

Entrance of Rumania Will Shorten War

The declaration of war on Germany and her allies by the Rumanian government last Sunday, with the probability that Greece will also declare war on the central powers within the next ten days, according to the rules of the game, will have the effect, if it has any effect at all, of shortening the duration. Bulgaria is practically in the war of one side of which are Russia and the other Rumania, either of which is stronger in numbers, and there can be but one result. Bulgaria will be crushed. The crushing of Bulgaria will be followed by the cutting of the line of communication between Austria and Turkey, and is equally certain to be followed by the retention of Turkey and the capture of Constantinople by Russia. It becomes every day more apparent that Russia will come out of the great war with the largest amount of wealth and territorial gain.

Questions To Vote on Next Nov.

Every Washington voter received a pamphlet from Secretary of State Howell this week giving a list of the questions to be voted on at the coming election by initiative petition, and measures passed by the legislature and referred by petition to the people for a popular expression and measures proposed by the legislature and referred to the people for popular expression, and also all amendments to the state constitution proposed by the last legislature. Every voter should read the little book so the end that he may vote intelligently at the November election. Each of the ten questions to be voted on is stated in full in the little white booklet of 64 pages, together with arguments for and against each. Seek to understand each and every question clearly so you may be able to vote intelligently.

Reports from the west side of the mountain indicate that Senator Sutton, candidate for Governor, from Cheney, is meeting with considerable encouragement. A considerable number of westsiders have indicated their purpose to support his candidacy. If he gets the bulk of the first choice votes on the east side, which is reasonably probable, he will win out for the nomination.

The fight for Superior court judgship in Chelan county has developed unusual interest and not a little spleen and ill feeling in Wenatchee. Confined, fortunately, to members of the bar. The broadside fired in the Wenatchee World of last Saturday was undignified, to say the least, and not calculated to raise the profession in the estimation of the laity. The Echo will not find it necessary to depart from parliamentary rules in discussing the merits of the respective candidates. The fact, not cut by one of the disputants, that Judge Grimshaw had received in salary in the eight years he held the office the sum of $12,000, was evidently intended to prejudice the voters against Mr. Grimshaw. It will fail of its purpose, because the average voter will take into consideration that the county cannot save anything by making a change and may lose a just judge.

In the language of a judicial wag who once sat on the supreme court bench of Kansas, "These are the days of oily butter and rifled collies." For the past two weeks the thermometer has indicated a temperature between 99 and 100, and if it was not for the following delightfully cool nights in this latitude, which enables one to store up enough energy for the succeeding day's task, we'd stopped publication of The Echo.

Congressman Humphrey passed through Dryden on Monday last on his way to the platform and see and shook hands with a number of his supporters. He made a brief address at Wenatchee when the train stopped here, but as no previous announcement had been made that he would be here, and nothing like a crowd could be assembled, he did not attempt to make a talk to the Leavenworth voters.

FAMILIAR QUOTATIONS

Under this head The Echo will print from time to time what are considered the Gems of Literature.

Hamlet's soliloquy wakes an echo in the heart of every man who reads and thinks as nothing else of which we know in all literature. But then, no one else ever knew the human heart and mind as did Shakespeare. If every book save the bible and Shakespeare were suddenly destroyed the world would not be without literature.

"To be, or not to be, that is the question:
Whether 'tis nobler in the mind to suffer
The slings and arrows of outrageous fortune,
Or to take arms against a sea of troubles,
And by opposing end them? To die—to sleep;
No more; and by a sleep to say we end
The heart-ache and the thousand natural shocks
That flesh is heir to, 'tis a consummation
Devoutly to be wish'd. To die—to sleep;
To sleep, perchance to dream—ay, there's the rub;
For in that sleep of death what dreams may come
When we have shuffled off this mortal coil,
Must give us pause—there's the respect
That makes calamity of so long life;
For who would bear the whips and scorns of time,
The oppressor's wrong, the proud man's contumely,
The pangs of despis'd love, the law's delay,
The insolence of office and the spurns
That patient merit of the unworthy takes,
When he himself might his quietus make
With a bare bodkin? who would fardels bear,
To grunt and sweat under a weary life,
But that the dread of something after death,
The undiscover'd country from whose bourn
No traveler returns, puzzles the will
And makes us rather bear those ills we have
Than fly to others that we know not of?
Thus conscious does make cowards of us all;
And thus the native hue of resolution
Is sicklied o'er with the pale cast of thought,
And enterprises of great pith and moment
With this regard their currents turn awry,
And lose the name of action."
