A story to the effect that Leavenworth is to have another meat market and a new bank leads to the door of Mr. Paul Weigand, but as the gentleman is out of town when these lines are written we cannot confirm the tale.

Jay Adams came up from Wenatchee last Saturday evening and spent Sunday with his mother and sister. Mr. Adams, the father, spent all of last week in Okanogan county and did not get back home until the middle of this week.

Mr. Wm. Titus drove to Wenatchee Monday and was accompanied as far as Cashmere by his wife. He is getting ready to gather the apples off his young orchard west of town and expects to have between eight and ten hundred boxes.

Mrs. Clara Morrison, from Magoun, Illinois, left here Tuesday afternoon for Southern California, where she expects to visit for some time before returning to her home. While here she was the guest of Mr. H. A. Howard and his sister, of whom she is an old Illinois friend.

If you need a fountain pen, come and see the new self filling pen we are selling for $1.50. It is the equal of any $3.00 pen we have ever sold. Get one on trial and if after using it you don't like it, you may exchange it or get your money. Koerner's Drug Store. 39*

The housewives of this town can do the creamery a good turn by always specifying Leavenworth Creamery butter when placing an order with their grocer. The creamery is a home institution and deserves the patronage of all the home consumers. The quality of the output is equal to that made anywhere and is always fresh.

Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Blacker arrived from Everett Sunday and are spending this week on the fruit ranch. Mr. Blacker's was one of the orchards that escaped the ravages of the wind storm two weeks ago. Mr. B. says he is here to superintend the picking and packing of his entire crop, which will approximately amount to 1500 boxes.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. A. Nelson passed thru here Wednesday on their way to the Sound where they will spend the winter. Mr. Nelson is one of the pioneer residents of the White river country above Wenatchee lake, where he owns a valuable homestead. He said he wanted to put in one winter where he would not have to eternally contend with snow and would spend the winter in Seattle. He started on his trip to the west side in his Hupmobile.

Mr. and Mrs. G. Alsbury arrived here last Friday from Walla Walla, where they have made their home since removing from here six years ago. They are on a week's visit to Mrs. Alsbury's brother, Mr. P. E. Galloway. Mr. Alsbury says they like Walla Walla and intend to make that their permanent home. Their son, Homer, who will be remembered by the young people of Leavenworth, is now employed in the city treasurer's office as a deputy.

Lumber shipments over the Great Northern for the past few weeks are simply enormous. From one hundred to two hundred cars per day is quite common. The lumber shipment has not been so heavy for years.

Anyone who has to carry a lunch will appreciate a vacuum bottle, or one of those lunch boxes equipped with a bottle that will keep the coffee hot 24 hours, and two aluminum trays. We sell them at $2.75 at Koerner's Drug Store. 39*

Mr. John Lampe, now head of a large mercantile business at Paulson, Mont., but one time associated with Messrs. John McIntosh and J. A. Hearst in the general mercantile line at Nome, Alaska, stopped off here the first of this week to visit with his old associates. He was on his way to Seattle on a bit of a vacation.

A. W. Heidrich shipt a car of wind-fall apples to Seattle last Saturday. His father is in the retail grocery business on a large scale and will, he says, have no trouble in disposing of the car. Mr. Heidrich also says he will have between six and eight car loads of apples and is now picking and packing. His is the oldest and largest orchard in the Cascade orchards.

Mrs. Chas. H. Mason left at this office a few days ago a branch of a pea vine the seed of which was sent her from Texas by some nephews. She planted the seed, known in their native state by the name of Baloon pea, and the planted rather late many of the seeds matured. She tells us the peas are edible and have a peculiarly delicious flavor.

Mrs. C. W. Ellinger and her son Ellwood left Wednesday night for California. She will join Mr. Ellinger in San Francisco and go from there to Calaveras county, where Mrs. Ellinger's parents reside, and where she expects to meet a brother and sister from Iowa who will go to California to be present at a family reunion some time this winter. In the spring the family will go to Pomona to make their permanent home.

Mr. C. N. Edmiston, Tacoma, representing the Standard Insurance Co. arrived here Wednesday morning to adjust a thousand dollar policy held by W. H. Studebaker, killed in the railroad accident last week. Mr. Studebaker had carried a policy in the Standard for a long time and some three months ago allowed it to lapse. On the 14th of Sept. last he renewed the policy. In addition to the Standard policy Mr. Studebaker also carried a thousand dollar policy in the Modern Woodmen.

Geo. B. Green, who will be recalled as one of our fruit ranchers and owner of a fine place in the Chumstick valley, who left here five years ago for Seattle, where he has since made his home, came back one day this week, just to see how his old friends were getting on. He says he is now engaged in managing several of the large shipping docks on the Seattle water front, and by the way has in his employment Francis Peake, another old time Leavenworth boy who left here several years ago. Mr. Green has spent the past two months traveling over eastern Washington and finds the country prosperous, especially in the wheat sections. He left for Seattle yesterday by way of the Blewett and Snoqualmie pass.

AN APPLE PRINCESS FOR THE WENATCHEE VALLEY

This paper is inclined to humor the fiction of selecting some young lady from the Wenatchee valley to represent in her person the apple industry of the Wenatchee Valley, famous for, not only enormous apple production, but what is really of vastly more importance, the finest apples grown in this country. At the great national apple show to be held in Spokane in the month of November, every apple growing section of the Northwest will be represented by its best product. Every section will vie in a friendly, yet strenuous way, with every other apple growing section in the Northwest to convince the public that their particular section is entitled to the distinction of producing the best fruit. Each section, according to the custom, will be represented in the person of some attractive and gracious maiden at all the different functions to be pulled off during apple week. Who the fortunate and honored maiden from the Wenatchee valley is to be will be left to a vote of the people of the Wenatchee valley, Leavenworth is located in the upper Wenatchee valley, and her people have long claimed that "The Higher up the Valley you go, the Bigger and Better the Apples Grow," and this paper asserts what is true of the apples is equally true of the girls in the upper valley. Now if our readers agree with us they will get busy and nominate some young lady from this section for the honor of Wenatchee Valley Apple Princess. She will be dined, not wined, but feted and honored and chaperoned by the good people of Spokane, whose guest she will be during apple week. All her expenses will be paid, including railroad fare, and think of the honor it will be if a young lady from this section should be so fortunate as to win the distinction. The selection will be made by vote and will be conducted by the Wenatchee World. The Echo is ready to announce the nominee.

Now when the evenings are getting long, you will want to read, play cards smoke or indulge in some diversion. We have a good assortment of reading matter, playing cards, good cigars etc. Koerner's Drug Store. 39*
