F. A. Sinclair, Miss Edith Sinclair, Fred Sinclair and Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Schannach motored to Odessa last Saturday and spent Sunday with Rev. J. Chas. Evans and family, old North Dakota friends. The outing was a very pleasant one and the return trip was made through Grand Coulee, one of the most interesting geologic wonders of the world, and Moses Coulee, which runs it a close second. The course of the Columbia river during the Glacial period is plainly discernible in Grand Coulee. The river's course, according to geologists, was changed by a mighty upheaval of the earth, which forced it out of the old channel into the new. The north central highway is undergoing extensive repairs between Waterville and Coulee City, and when completed, later on in the summer, will afford a magnificent road all the way to Spokane, over which the motorist may travel as comfortably and as safely as in a chair car.

DYNAMITE SAW MILL.

The portable saw mill of Kookon Bros., north of Dryden, was greatly damaged Tuesday night by being dynamited. It appears that the dynamite had been placed upon the steam boiler and that it was totally demolished. The blast was so great that men in a nearby bunk house were thrown from their beds. It is supposed that the dynamiting was done by persons having a grudge against the Kookon brothers. The matter was reported to the sheriff's office Wednesday morning and is under investigation. The perpetrators of such a sneaking, damnable deed deserve the severest punishment possible under the laws of the land.
