Only 17 days to Christmas. Do not wait until the last minute to order your Christmas Greeting Cards. The Echo has a fine line reasonably priced.

D. E. Caldwell, one of the operators at Cashmere, but who resides here, has been on the sick list since Thanksgiving, but has been gaining the last few days.

James Mahoney, the Seattle wife-killer, was hanged last Friday morning at Walla Walla. Before going to the gallows he is alleged to have confessed the whole plot and crime.

Wednesday evening 17 inches of snow was on the ground here and some two or three inches more fell during the night. Yesterday the sun was seen again, the first time since Dec. 1.

Dr. Allen, the veterinarian, was here Monday and Tuesday and started testing cows for tuberculosis. He will be here today and tomorrow to determine the reaction and make known the results of the tests.

Mr. and Mrs. Louis DeBlois arrived Thanksgiving from Portland to visit at the home of Mr. DeBlois parents. Mr. and Mrs. J. B. DeBlois. They left on Saturday for Pt. Angeles where they will now make their home.

Mrs. C. F. Johnson and daughter came over from Hillyard last week to visit Mrs. James Thompson and Mr. Johnson joined them Wednesday. Mrs. Fred Davies also came over on Wednesday and Mr. Davies on Thursday, leaving again Friday.

You will want to send some of your Christmas Greeting cards to friends and relatives at a distance. They should be ordered today. At The Echo office we will be glad to show you the finest line of cards ever shown in Leavenworth. Engraved, embossed, or printed. Reasonably priced.

Theo. Paine was out Wednesday afternoon with a Ford tractor and the snowplow rigged up last winter and plowed out the south road from Leavenworth to the Peshastin bridge, doing a very good job, we understand. The north road may also be plowed out, and it might be found profitable to plow out some of the other roads.

John Byron, who had been on his ranch out in the Cascade orchards during the summer, went to Seattle Tuesday to spend a few weeks with his son and other relatives. Mr. Byron reports that he did quite well on his ranch and expects to improve it during the coming years. At one time he thought of selling, but now he seems to have found that it is more valuable than he believed and he will no doubt make it one of real value. He, like all the others who are living on their Cascade Orchard properties, has found that they have real garden spots if they just give them the proper attention. One thing which is not lacking out there is water, they having perhaps the best system in this section of the state.

B. C. Rutherford was at Wenatchee Tuesday.

Deryl Motteler was at home for the Thanksgiving vacation.

The Rev. Wm. Lueckel went to Tacoma Monday to attend a conference.

Roy Larson, soil expert, has resigned, his resignation to take effect Dec. 31.

Brakeman V. W. Franklin has moved to Wenatchee as he works out of that point.

One of the greatest screen romances, "The Prisoner of Zenda," at the gymnasium December 19.

Mr. and Mrs. Peter Freuchtnicht left Monday afternoon on No. 1 to visit a few days in Seattle.

Tom Pipkin was at Wenatchee last Saturday attending to business matters, driving down in his Buick.

Mrs. Basil Lang and son came down from Tye Monday afternoon. She and Mr. Lang are now on a visit to Seattle.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Geerds and children drove to Wenatchee last Saturday on a little outing, though snow was falling.

The chicken-pie supper given Wednesday evening by the M. E. Ladies' Aid was well attended and very successful in every way.

J. C. Davis is now foreman at the Skykomish shops of the Great Northern Railway Co., and the position he held here is now filled by R. L. Smith.

Miss Pearl Sears, who had been here with the Chas. Wallace family for several months, went to Wenatchee Monday where she will spend the winter.

M. J. Dalton, formerly of Hillyard, has ordered his copy of the Echo sent to Sumas, Wash., having gone to work on his new run, mention of which was made some weeks ago.

Counterfeiters have put on the "market" a blue 1919 war saving stamp, which postmasters are warned to look out for. The counterfeit stamp is said to be almost perfect.

R. L. Smith, Christ Smith and a couple others went down in the Jack-rabbit country for a Thanksgiving hunt. It is reported that there were lots of ducks but that they were flying high. Great numbers of rabbits were killed.

Mr. G. A. Hamilton informs us that his daughter, Marian, is traveling with the "Little Kangaroo," an Oliver Morosco production, playing two-night stands in Connecticut. Mrs. Hamilton is with her and they are getting on nicely.

Mrs. H. F. Sheldon, of Everett, died Monday. Mr. Sheldon is the roadmaster for this (the Cascade) division and until recently they resided at Skykomish. The funeral was held Wednesday at 2 p. m. Besides her husband she is survived by several children.

County Agent Meikle has tendered his resignation to take effect Dec. 31. He will devote his time to his own personal affairs. Mr. Meikle is credited with having accomplished considerable good for the agricultural interests of the county during his five years' service.

P. M. Cowbrough, formerly with the Great Northern Lumber Co. here, writes from Williams, Arizona, to have the Echo sent to him, sending greetings to all old friends. A large circle here will remember "Pete" and be glad to know of him. He is with the Saginaw & Manistee Lumber Co. at Williams.

The three-piece orchestra which furnished music for the Thanksgiving dance and also the dance last Saturday evening has been receiving considerable commendation and we understand already has been engaged for several other parties. It was composed of Miss Myrtle Clemens, pianist; Mrs. Kathy Gregory, violinist; and Mr. Cox, drums. The latter has gone to Seattle for the winter and Fritz Nelson will hereafter play the drums.

The committee of ladies in charge of the Armistice Day dinner wish through the columns of the Echo to extend belated, though none the less hearty, thanks to the business men and community generally for the donations and support. Dinner was served to about four hundred. Receipts were $280, expenses $25, netting the ladies $255. This money has been turned over to the hospital committee, Mrs. Durand, chairman; Herman Howe, secretary; O. S. Sampson, treasurer. It will be used to buy necessary staples and comforts for hospital patients. Numerous pie tins were left at the K. P. Hall after the Armistice Day dinner. These tins are now at the Community hospital and owners are asked to call for them there.

Nick Kincherf, who was laid up with rheumatism, has been able to be out at times this week.

J. M. McKinley was up from the terminal this week arranging to move his family to Wenatchee.

Chas. Dahlgren, who has been suffering from rheumatism since early last spring, had another bad spell a week ago, but this week was reported to be better again.

See "The Prisoner of Zenda," at the gymnasium December 19.

The city of Everett is to have "gas" busses to replace the trolley system.

George Van Brocklin returned home last Wednesday from Port Angeles.

Waldo Robert, one of the call-boys at the terminal, was up Tuesday to renew acquaintances.

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Hathaway were up from Wenatchee to spend Thanksgiving with relatives and friends.

Mr. and Mrs. D. H. Cameron and children spent most of last week visiting at Spokane and Farmington.

The Loyal Stars had a good crowd at the dance last Saturday evening at the Firemen's hall and a most enjoyable time is reported.

Pete McConnell, who had been working down the valley since last summer, came up last Friday and went out north for the winter. His cabin at Little Giant, it will be remembered, burned some weeks ago, but Pete will not have to look long for a home.
